The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is accepting nominations for County Committee elections for Pennington, East Marshall and Northwest Beltrami Counties. This notice is issued to inform eligible voters of the right to nominate candidates by petition. Copies of the petition and instructions on its completion can be obtained from your local FmHA office.

Persons nominated should be currently engaged in the operation of a farm, have their principal farming operation within the County or area in which activities of the County or area Committee are carried out, derive the principal part of their income from farming (that is more than 50 per cent of their gross income must come from agricultural production), be a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, not have an FmHA insured or guaranteed loan, and be well qualified for committee work. Nominations must be received in Thief River Falls or Grygla County offices no later than 6-10-87. FmHA committee elections are open to all eligible voters without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age political affiliation, martial status, sex and/or handicap.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Lovly and Michael Lovly attended services at the Zion Lutheran church at Warroad Sunday. Their grandson, Corwin Saurdiff, was one of the confirmands. Later Mr. and Mrs. Lovly and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Saurdiff and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saurdiff all of Grygla, Mr. and Mrs. Olson of Warroad and a group of Corwin's friends were dinner guests at the Richard and Diane Saurdiff home at Warroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Stephenson visited and were lunch guests at the Palmer Lovly home Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Palmer Lovly was a coffee guest at the Edythe Solberg home Sunday evening.

Sincere sympathy to the family of Tony Horachek.

We wish Donnie Horachek a speedy recovery after his recent surgery at the St. Lukes hospital at Fargo.

PLUMMER . . .

Plummer Saddle Club
Fawn Willett, Secretary

The Plummer Saddle club met Sunday, May 10 at the arena with 29 members present. The club will purchase an American flag from the Plummer Legion. Barb will purchase a flag pole through the mail for the arena. The Plummer Saddle club flag will be ready by June 14 for the play day. Diane Grinde reported on gate material and prices. She has been in contact with Russell Gustafson on the wood sign for the gate. She will give him our order this week. Bonnie Wichterman reported on the Red Lake county fair show in Oklee. It will be on Tuesday, July 14 at 1 p.m. All who are interested in going to the Thief River Falls Play Day on May 17 should meet uptown to leave at 8:15 p.m. Barb will attend the city council meeting Monday night to see about electricity and putting in a culvert in the northwest corner of the arena grounds. Jodi Madden and the Jim Taggert family were approved as guests to participate on the play day. The next Saddle club meeting will be Sunday, June 21 at 1:30 p.m. at the arena.

Baby Shower

A baby shower for John Sorenson, son of Karl and Rita Sorenson, was held at the home of Corlan Magnell last Saturday afternoon. Guests were Cheryl Magnell, Penney Magnell, Avis Froiland, Rebecca Willett, Sheila Gerardy and Wavell Sorenson. Sending gifts were Virginia Sorenson of LaCrosse, WI and Marie Sorenson of Plummer.

Dep't. Of Revenue Lists Additions To Sales Tax Law

Minnesotans who buy non-prescription health products, visit tanning salons or call their friends in another state, will soon be paying six per cent sales tax on the cost of these items, the Minnesota department of revenue said today.

These are just a few of the many new items that will be subject to Minnesota's sales tax June 1, just two weeks after the 1987 legislature adjourned. Other items and services become taxable later this year.

By extending the six per cent sales tax to items not previously covered, the new sales tax law broadens the sales tax base, simplifies the sales tax system and makes the tax more fair, the department said. Most groceries, clothing and prescription drugs will continue to be exempt from the sales tax.

The revenue department said retailers should begin charging the sales tax on the appropriate effective dates even if they do not have sales tax permits. Sales tax permits should be obtained from the state revenue department as soon as possible. In the meantime, retailers who do not have permits should keep recocords of taxable sales and the amount of sales tax collected, the department said. To order applications for sales tax permits, retailers may call (612) 296-6181 or 1-800-652-9747 (ask for "sales tax"), or come to Room G-90 of the Centennial Office Building, 658 Cedar St., St. Paul. There is no charge for a permit.

The revenue department is notifying all current sales tax permit holders of the changes in the sales tax law.

Following are the items that will be taxable under the new law:

Effective June 1:

— Non-prescription health products: Pain relievers, aspirin, antacids, baby needs, burn remedies, contraceptives, cough and cold items, dental products, diet aids, emollients, eye preparations, first-aid products, foot products, laxatives and vitamins. (Still exempt are feminine hygiene products, insulin, hypodermic syringes and needles, medical-surgical rubber goods such as catheters and rubber gloves, miscellaneous medical goods such as hearing aid batteries and elastic bandages; braces, crutches and other orthopedic devices; and diagnostic agents such as fever thermometers and Clinitest tables.)

— Admissions to public recreation areas,

— Admissions to tanning facilities, reducing salons, steam baths, turkish baths and massage parlors (Admissions to health clubs and pas are already taxable);

— Meals and drinks served at hospitals, sanatoriums, nursing homes or senior citizens homes, to anyone other than patients or residents;

— Meals provided to employees at less than fair market value; and — Long-distance telephone calls (interstate toll service) made from and charged to a telephone in Minnesota (Long-distance calls within Minnesota are already taxable).

Also effective June 1:

— Tax rate on dealer-installed farm machinery is reduced from six per cent to two per cent, including barn cleaners, milking systems, grain dryers and automatic feeding systems.

— Sales to state government units are subject to the six per cent sales tax.

— Purchases of motor vehicles by non-profit and governmental entities, except for the federal government and its agencies, are subject to the six per cent motor vehicle excise tax.

— Railroad cars and engines used primarily in Minnesota by a railroad licensed as a common carrier.

— Petroleum products when the petroleum tax has been refunded because the fuel is for non-highway use.

— The leasing of aircraft to shareholders of a flying club or association.

— Any federal taxes included in an item will be included in the base price upon which the sales tax in computed. The exception is that federal excise taxes on motor vehicles will not be included in the tax base for either the retailer or the consumer.

Effective July 1:

— Car washing and cleaning, including coin-operated services, rustproofing, undercoating and towing;

— Parking services, except parking meters;

— Pet grooming services.

Effective August 1:

— Sales of horses born and bred in Minnesota.

Effective October 1:

— Cleaning and maintenance services, including disinfecting and exterminating, for both residential and commercial buildings;

— Laundry and dry cleaning services (except coin-operated), including repairing, altering and storing; linen services and supply, hat blocking and cleaning, carpet, drapery and upholstery cleaning and industrial cleaning;

— Lawn care, fertilizing, mowing and spraying services; garden planting and maintenance services; arborist services; tree planting, tree care and trimming services;

— Security agencies, detective agencies and burglar, fire alarm and armored car services.

The new law exempts services performed by an employee for his or her employers. Also, a business that provides services to a parent corporation does not have to charge sales tax as long as the parent corporation owns at least 80 per cent of the business.

Senator Plans Federal Ground Water Protection

"Afir some piecemeal experiences, I became an advocate for a comprehensive federal ground water protection law with a scope and force similar to the Clean Water and Clean Air programs," Sen. Dave Durenberger said in a recent speech.

Citing an Environmental Protection agency report called "Unfinished Business," Durenberger said the EPA will very likely use this "deeply flawed" report in setting the national environmental agenda if the Congress doesn't set the agenda first.

"Human health problems which received a very high priority among the agency's professionals are principally problems associated with high exposure — lots of people — even though the risks to any one individual may be small," he said.

"For instance," he said, "Ozone depletion ranked high because 235 million Americans are 'exposed', even though the risks to any one American are currently relatively low.

"EPA's findings with respect to ground water contamination are just the reverse. Few people are exposed to ground water pollution, so even though some people are drinking water that's been poisoned, such as at some Superfund sites, the EPA professionals will choose to ignore any potential environmental threat from ground water contamination."

Durenberger said his comprehensive ground water bill, to be introduced later this month, will blend elements of prevention, detection and correction, starting with a goal of non-degradation.

"Non-degradation doesn't mean zero discharge, nor does it mean banning septic tanks and fertilizer applications. But it does mean preventing contamination of our ground water resources wherever we reasonably can," he said. The next step in his bill, Durenberger said, is to focus on the sources of contamination.

"Other bills may focus on the chemical contaminants and their health effects," he said. "But I believe the only way to do it is to change the technologies and practices which are the souces of the contaminants."

In focusing on the sources, Durenberger said, his list has 18 categories (listed in priority order): pesticides, surface impoundments, landfills, septic tanks, underground storage tanks, injection wells, municipal wastewater systems, oil and gas operations, mining, fertilizer applications, pipelines, land treatment of wastes, overdrafting, irrigation, bulk storage, abandoned wells, animal feedlots, and geothermal wells.

"My comprehensive bill will have the EPA providing help for state programs to establish standards for design, construction, and correction action at facilities that are potential sources of ground water contamination. I prefer federal guidance for states rather than federal regulation," the senator concluded.

Drug Treatment For Hydrocephalus Being Studied

A March of Dimes grantee at Johns Hopkins University has pioneered a drug treatment for hydrocephalus that lessens the chances of brain damage and repeated surgery.

Hydrocephalus, also known as "water on the brain," affects some 2,500 babies annually and is characterized by fluid buildup within the brain's cavities. Often affecting babies born with spina bifida, it can cause cerebral palsy and mental retardation.

Traditional treatment includes surgical implantation of a shunt, a tube to drain the brain's fluid into another part of the body where it can be absorbed. While shunts have improved the outlook for hydrocephalic babies in the past 30 years, the devices frequently become blocked or infected. This may contribute to further brain damage and often requires repeated surgery.

Now Dr. John Freeman, associate professor in Johns Hopkins' Department of Neurology, and his colleagues report successful treatment using the combined medications acetazolamide (Diamox) and furosemide (Lasix). His success rate was better than 50 per cent for babies who otherwise would have needed shunts.

Acetazolamide and furosemide have long been prescirbed for congestive heart failure and other conditions characterized by abnormal fluid rentention.

In Dr. Freeman's study, none of the 22 babies successfully treated with drugs needed to be rehospitalized for reasons related to hydrocephalus for up to six years after treatment. By contrast, 14 of 25 babies with shunts were readmitted a total of 50 times during the same period.

Unlike shunts, which have a potential for causing problems in later life, successful drug treatment seems to be necessary for only six to 10 months. After that, Dr. Freeman reports in the July 1985 Journal of Pediatrics, the baby's developing skull appears to force brain fluid to find its own oulet into the body.

THE Thief River Falls TIMES

Volume 76, Number 43 Monday, June 1, 1987 324 Main Avenue North; Thief River Falls, MN 56701 Twenty-Five Cents

Dave Kragness Of MCC Is Principal Of Year

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

In his role as principal of Marshall County Central high school at Newfolden, David Kragness believes in accentuating the positive. In doing so he points out that each student is entitled to be treated as an individual, that the staff is the best public relations tool a school has and that extra-curricular activities are "the other half of education."

This year Kragness has been selected as "Principal of the Year" for the northern division of the Minnesota Association of Secondary School principals. He received a plaque from the division and will receive additional recognition from the state organization when he is among nine division principals honored at Kragun's Resort June 16-19 when the state principal of the year will be selected. The state winner will be entered in national competition in 1988.

Kragness is more a person given to doing the job of principal then describing it, for many of the decisions made are instantaneous and sometimes under considerable stress or duress. But when pressed for some of the goals which he believes should be applied under his principalship, he listed the following:

"I believe it is my role to help teachers to bring each student from his or her present level of education to achieve the most that student is capable of achieving."

"I think that one of our goals in education must be to teach students to think, to reason, to make logical decisions and to use common sense. Whatever they can accumulate in other knowledge has little use unless it is applied reasonably and logically."

"And it is my belief that we are obligated to use all the available resources in our school district to help students learn in a creative and caring environment."

Some students and some parents may not agree with the ideas of their implementation at all times, but the basic premise of the goals and objectives can surely stand the test of comparison with results. Weekly faculty meetings are held to discuss dealing with students. Kragness tries to make classroom observation whenever he can and to make himself available if staff members have questions or concerns. He is usually supportive of teachers in their recommendation of need for materials and he gives a report for the high school at every meeting of the board of education.

Recently the school has required parents to come to the high school with their sixth graders prior to the class becoming seventh graders at MCC. Teachers are present to explain materials, tell the parents and student what is expected of them in supplies and daily work schedule (including homework), and the student handbook is reviewed and questions answered. Tours of the school are also given.

Kragness also tries to send notes to parents about student accomplishments, and sometimes make a personal phone call as well. "You can usually hear silence on the end of the line when I say, "This is principal Dave Kragness calling from Marshall County Central," he smiles. "Then when I explain that I wanted them to know their son or daughter

MN Chamber Reps To Give Reports Here On June 10

"You've heard Governor Perpich and some legislators praise the 1987 legislative session. We're going to challenge that analysis in Thief River Falls with some straight talk of our own," said Win Borden, president, Minnesota Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"It's time for business people to talk about how the new laws will affect our ability to compete and create jobs and we're going on the road to facilitate this discussion," he continued.

Four teams of Minnesota chamber staff members will be in 35 communities over the next couple of weeks, including Thief River Falls. Greg DeWitt, senior vice president and Nancy Christensen, director of labor and management relations for the Minnesota chamber, will update business people from this area on the outcome of the 1987 legislative session on Wednesday, June 10 at the Thief River Falls chamber office.

The meeting will be held from 8 to 9 a.m. and will include coffee and rolls, compliments of the Minnesota Chamber. Reservations are encouraged. Contact the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce (218) 681-3720 or Mary Bethke at the Minnesota chamber (612) 292-4650.

Newland Receives $1,000 Per Year MSU Scholarship

Daniel Newland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newland of Newfolden and a 1987 graduate of Marshall County Central high school, is one of three National Merit scholars who have receive scholarships from the Moorhead State university foundation. The award is $1,000 per year for four years.

The awards are the largest offered through the MSU foundation's scholarship program. The other two recipients are from Fargo schools.

Lundell Operates Future Fuel; Plan For Lawsuit Made

Future Fuel, Inc., Thief River Falls, is under the temporary operation of Lundell manufacturing, Cherokee, IA, which manufactured most of the equipment in the fiber fuel plant.

Lundell manufacturing is operating the fiber fuel plant for a period of 30 days which began May 21. The temporary period of operation by Lundell is designed to test equipment and make repairs to equipment.

Vernon Lundell of Lundell manufacturing has been at the plant personally and has guaranteed his full and complete cooperation in making repairs to the machinery and bringing Future Fuel back on line.

Lundell manufacturing entered into the agreement with Future Fuel because of equipment problems at the plant and a warranty on equipment which is set to expire. Lundell manufacturing has agreed to cover all operating expenses for the 30-day period to demonstrate that the equipment does work properly.

The agreement was announced at a Pennington county commissioner meeting last Tuesday in which Rick Nordhagen of Future Fuel also presented a letter to the commissioners which stated an intent to pursue legal action against the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA).

Nordhagen contends in the letter that Future Fuel was led to believe that it would have the full cooperation and assurances necessary to market the fuel pellet which Future Fuel manufactures. Since that time, according to the letter, the MPCA has adopted procedures which have required so much testing that the market for the pellet has been substantially reduced.

Nordhagen's letter lists two possible large ticket sales which were abandoned by the potential customer because too many tests were required by the MPCA.

Nordhagen's letter does not question the authority of the MPCA, but it does say two attorneys for Future Fuel are looking into the legal issues involved.

The Pennington county commissioners did not take action to join the lawsuit, but passed a resolution to arrange a meeting between county board members, Representative Wally Sparby, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Future Fuel, Governor Rudy Perpich and Tom Kalitowski, director of the Minnesota Pollution Control agency.

Indian Culture Topic Of Meeting Series At NCC

"Living In Two Cultures" will be the theme for three programs on successive evenings at Northland community college beginning June 8 at 6:30 p.m.

This program will focus on the Indian culture, examining the folk lore, traditions, beliefs and challenges of lving in a contemporary society while adhering to the beliefs of yesteryear. The instructor, John "Pete" Humphrey, traces his ancestry to the tribes of Canada. Last year he experienced the famous "Sundance" ceremony, an individual ritual to test endurance and the spiritual tranquility of man.

Humphrey is a resident of Brainerd and a former faculty member of Brainerd community college. He received his master's degree from St. Cloud state university and has previously been recognized as Brainerd's "Citizen of the Year."

Registration fee, which includes participation for the evenings of June 8, 9 and 10 will be $12. Senior citizens' fee is $6. Pre-register for "Living in Two Cultures" by calling 681-2181. Registrations will also be taken the first night of class.

Summer Hours At Ag Info Center

Area agricultural information center at the Thief River Falls AVTI building will be open Monday through Thursday and closed on Fridays during the summer months, according to Lana Anderson, coordinator.

NWRDC Elects Citizen Members To Commission

At its annual meeting the Northwest Regional Development Commission elects citizens as members of the commission for one-year terms representing public interest in the areas of agriculture, business, financial institutions, industry, labor, low income, minorities, districts and women.

The commission encourages groups with expertise or special interest in any of these categories to nominate a representative for positions.

Nominations should include a letter of explanation of involvement or interest and a biographical sketch of the nominee. Commission members are not paid a salary, but do receive a "Per diem" payment, as well as travel expenses, for days on which they attend commission meetings.

Send nominations to the NWRDC, P.O. Box E, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, no later than July 10. The annual meeting is to be held on July 28 in Thief River Falls.

Three Warroad Men Killed In Traffic Accident

Three Warroad men were killed in an accident near Warroad early Friday morning.

Minnesota state highway patrol received a report of an accident at 3:20 a.m. Friday morning. Dead at the scene were Kelly Kakaygeesick, 23, Warroad, Kenneth Kakaygeesick, 24, Warroad, and William Prelvitz, 25, Warroad.

Highway patrol officials said a 1973 two-door Chevrolet driven by Kelly Kakaygeesick, and a 1986 Ford pickup driven by Daryl Mickelson, 23, route two, Salem, collided head-on eight miles from Warroad on highway 11. The patrol said the cause of the accident is still under investigation.

Daryl Mickelson, who was traveling west at the time of the accident was reported in stable condition at Roseau hospital. Another passenger in the Kakaygeesick vehicle, Craig Hamilton, 22, Warroad, was transported to Fargo by Air ambulance where he is reported in critical condition.

YES, IT'S SIGNED. Graduation ceremonies for 193 Northland community college students were held Friday in the school's gymnasium. Students, friends, faculty, and family members watched as the largest Northland community college class ever received its diplomas. It was a noteworthy event also because it was the first time in approximately 15 years that students and faculty were dressed in formal gowns. Pictured peeking at their diplomas are from left: Deborah Beckstrand of Bemidji, Kristin Gordon of Island View, and Robbie Goodwin of Bemidji. All three students received honor pendants for high academic achievement. It was the first year these awards have been made.

Radioactive Waste Discussion In TRF Draws Small Group

Fewer than 30 people heard what a panel of experts had to say about the advantages and disadvantages of hosting a low level radioactive waste site during an informational meeting Thursday night in Thief River Falls.

A crowd, equally composed of local and area representatives and interested members of the public, listened to information presented on low level radioactive waste and responsibilities of states belonging to a Midwest States compact.

The panel of speakers included Dagmar Romano of the Minnesota pollution control agency, John Klos of Northern States Power, Dick Anderson of the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group, and Harry Rosefeldt, Minnesota department of energy and economic development.

The radioactive waste to be stored at the proposed site includes waste generated from states belonging to the Midwest Interstate low-level radioactive waste compact. Those states include Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Ohio and Wisconsin.

It is not certain that a site will be located in Minnesota. In fact, Dagmar Romano of the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA), said there has not been enough interest in Minnesota, not enough time to set standards and complete the proper studies, not enough public support and no active support from legislators in the last session. In all, she said, it is highly unlikely that Minnesota will volunteer to be a host state.

Of the states belonging to the Midwest Interstate low-level radioactive waste compact, one must volunteer to be a host state. Of the seven states in the compact, four have been selected as possible host states. Those states include Minnesota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Romano said so far no state in the compact has made steps towards volunteering to host the waste site. If none of the states step forward as a volunteer, selection of a host state will begin in July. Selection of a host state will be made on the basis of volume of waste produced in the state, level of radioactive material, safety of transporting the material and distance the material would have to be shipped. According to those guidelines, Minnesota is considered third.

According to Romano, 16 communities have discussed low level radioactive waste and one county has expressed interest in getting more information. Crookston is the only community to sign a non-binding resolution of intent to host the site. At least 10 more communities are waiting for information.

To meet obligations of safe disposal created by the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Act in 1980 and amendments to the act in 1985, each state or group of states forming a compact must find and create a site for disposal of low level radioactive waste.

For the purpose of this site, low-level radio-active waste is defined by what it is not. It is not: (1) spent nuclear reactor fuel; (2) high level waste from the reprocessing of spent nuclear reactor fuel or nuclear weapons production reactor fuel; (3) transuranic waste (nuclear weapons production by-products with atomic numbers greater than that of uranium); or (4) uranium mining and milling residues.

Low level radioactive waste is not as dangerous as high-level and transuranic wastes and requires less rigorous isolation from the environment for a shorter period of time.

According to information provided by the Midwest Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste commission, low-level radioactive waste comes in such diverse forms as contaminated lab equipment, luminous dials, sealed radiation sources, wiping rags, protective clothing, hand tools, vials, needles, test tubes, animal carcasses, filter and liquid resins and reactor internal components. It generally contains relatively small, but potentially harmful, amounts of radioactivity.

Radioactive materials are generated many different ways. They are generated in the production of nuclear power, research in hospitals, universities and laboratories, diagnosis and treatment of disease and various industrial processes.

Approximately 2.7 million cubic feet of commercial low-level waste is disposed of annually in the United States. About seven per cent of the national total volume and two per cent of the national total radioactivity comes from the Midwest region.

According to a fact sheet presented Thursday night by the MPCA, there are approximately 200 users of radioactive material in Minnesota. These users are primarily located in academic, medical, industrial and nuclear power facilities and do not include consumers who use radioactive materials in such things as smoke detectors, luminous dial watches, ceramic gas mantles and items containing naturally occurring radioactive materials.

The principal generators of low-level radioactive waste in Minnesota are NSP, Honeywell, the University of Minnesota, 3M and the Mayo clinic in Rochester.

Siting a low-level radioactive waste facility is a very lengthy process. The deadlines being looked at are: February 1987 -- selection of four potential host states; May 1987 — host state and at least one successor chosen from among the four potential host states chosen in February — whether a volunteer steps forward or not; January 1988 — final selection of host state according to federal deadline; January 1990 — federal deadline for submission of license application to the Nuclear regulatory commission; January 1993 — federal deadline for operating the site and assumption of title to all waste or incur financial penalties; January 1996 - final federal deadline for operating the site and assumption of title by the commission to the waste.

Cook's Choice

Summer time is salad time and here are two low-calorie dressings to top them off:

GREEN GODDESS SALAD DRESSING

1 cucumber
2 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped
1 scallion, cut in 1 inch lengths
2 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 clove garlic
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce to taste
½ cup plain lowfat yogurt

Peel the cucumber and slice in half lengthwise; scrape out seeds and cut into chuinks. Place all ingredients except yogurt in blender or food processor. Puree until smooth. Add yogurt and blend on low speed just until mixed, about 10 seconds. Cover and refrigerate if not ready to serve.

This recipe will yield about 1¼ cups of dressing, with each tablespoon of dressing containing one gram of fat and 17 calories. The dressing will store, refrigerated, for up to one week.

ZESTY SALAD DRESSING

½ cups tomato juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon onion, finely chopped
1 teaspoon parsley, finely chopped

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Ingredients may also be combined in blender and quickly pureed. Regrigerate to allow flavors to blend.

This recipe will yield about ¾ cup of dressing, with each tablespoon containing three calories and no fat.

And, since we're thinking low calorie, here is an interesting low fat potato salad from the American Institute for Cancer Research, who also originated the two recipes above:

LOWFAT POTATO SALAD

4 medium boiling potatoes
3 scallions
1½ teaspoon dried parsley
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 tablespoons plain lowfat yogurt
1 to 1½ teaspoons Dijon mustard dash of salt
½ to 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Boil unpeeled potatoes until just tender but firm, about 15 to 20 minutes. Meanwhile, stir together in a small bowl, parsley, mayonnaise, yogurt, mustard, salt and lemon juice.

When potatoes are done, cool under cold water, peel, and cut into bite-sized chunks. Stir together with scallions and dressing while still warm. Cool until serving time.

This recipe will produce about 4 servings of one cup. Each will contain about 125 calories and six grams of fat.

Information On Miss TRF Pageant Available Tomorrow

Informational meeting for girls interested in participating in the Miss Thief River Falls pageant scheduled for August 1 will be conducted Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Crossroads Center, located in the basement of the former Carnegie Public library at the corner of First street and Main avenue in Thief River Falls.

Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls of 1986, will be present to give comments and answer questions and a videotape of the 1986 pageant will be shown. Pepsi-Cola company will provide refreshments and all girls interested in the scholarship pageant are invited to attend.

Contestants in the Miss Thief River Falls pageant have an opportunity to win a $750 scholarship locally and advance to the Miss Minnesota pageant in 1988 where a number of other scholarships will be awarded. The event is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Women of Today which is interested in seeing the tradition of local scholarship pageants continue.

"We have seen the positive changes in participants who have gained self-confidence, poise and stage personality even if they were not winners of the title," stated Arlene Novak, pageant chairman. "We believe the experience should continue to be available to young women from the community."

Eligible to participate are girls between the ages of 17 and 25 (inclusive) who have never been married and are U.S. citizens. "We need not only the interest of area girls but the support and encouragement of parents, friends, family members, sponsors and others to produce an entertaining and enjoyable pageant," Novak said.

Persons with questions about the event may contact her at 964-5346, Betty Srnsky at 681-1648 or Jennifer Clow at 681-7462.

"We have contacted a number of girls in the area who we believe may be interested in participating," Novak added, "but the informational meeting is open to all and we strongly encourage any interested girl to feel welcome to attend. Someone will win that $750 scholarship and the other prizes and personal development which will come with the title of Miss Thief River Falls 1987."

The INSIDE SCOOP

From Lincoln High

by GAYLE BORCHERT

By the time this column comes out in print, I'll be an official alumnus of Lincoln high school. Since graduation is the time to reminisce and this is my final column for the year, now seems to be the appropriate time to reflect on the events of the past year.

When this column started last fall, I don't think I knew what I was getting into. I don't think either of the people who help me with my column, Mr. Soine or Mr. Dryud, knew either. I certainly never thought I'd walk down the halls of Lincoln and answer to "Scoop." This certainly didn't turn out to be the breeze I intended. I figured that I'd write two or three columns in advance and then just rest. Somehow between swimming, Knowledge Bowl, golf and other things, I never even got one column ahead. It is a good thing no one at "The Times" gets too nervous.

Let me give you a brief description of what happens to my column before you see it. It all starts Monday or Tuesday (depending on how organized I am) when I finish the rough draft and give it to Mr. Dyrud for proofing. Mr. Dyrud has been happy with most of my columns; however, I still don't think he believes me when I say I left that sentence fragment in there on purpose! After getting the proofed column bak I type it up and turn it in to Mr. Soine who then O.K.'s it. It then goes to "The Times."

Keeping the column interesting has been a challenge. Some of the more memorable and fun columns have been the Official Inside Scoop Pop Quiz and the April Fool's Day column which shocked everyone with our list of problems at Lincoln.

Enough of the reminiscing since this is the last column we have to tie up all loose ends dealing with Lincoln.

The seniors graduated last Friday, May 29, and are not required to be in school June 1, 2 or 3. The rest of the high school will hold classes until 1 p.m. Wednesday. Seniors will have to return, however, to collect their diplomas. The official diploma is held until the caps and gowns are returned. Diplomas can also be held for a variety of reasons: overdue library books, (lunch money), unpaid shop fees or detention time. This is the standard policy at Lincoln, so most of us know after four years to get our "stuff" turned in.

Well, the year has gone by fast and I would like to thank John Mattson and Marv Lundin for giving me the excellent opportunity to write this column. It has been especially nice to hear from all those people who enjoyed reading it. Thank you for all your support.

Radioactive Waste Site Discussion Draws Small Group

Commercially generated low-level radioactive waste is now disposed at sites in Hanford, WA, Barnwell, SC, and Beatty, NV. These sites may refuse to accept waste after Dec. 31, 1992. Burial sites in West Valley, NY, Sheffield, IL, and Maxey Flats, KY, have been closed; contamination of water supplies and soil has been discovered.

Harry Roasfeldt of the Minnesota department of energy and economic development said DEED is not supporting a decision for or against, but was present at the meeting to provide information at the request of Pennington county. Rosefeldt said from the standpoint of an agency which deals with small communities, many of which are struggling economically, the benefit package looks very good.

The facility will have positive direct and secondary economic benefits. It will have an annual payroll of about $400,000, and the local purchase of goods and services will be encouraged. The facility will probably be operated by a private waste service company which will pay sales and business taxes. Payroll and taxes will spread through the area and add another estimated $800,000 annually for the host community. These economic benefits add up to about $2 million annually for the 20-year life of the project.

Dick Anderson of the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group, called into question some of those benefits and found many disadvantages to low-level radioactive waste sites. Anderson pointed out the continuing decline in volume of low level waste which is due to advances in technology. Since the taxes (estimated at $800,000) are based on volume, it would seem that the actual figure could be much less.

Klos and Romano, however, said the amount though based on volume, is a set amount and only based on volume so that the businesses paying the tax will know how much it is costing them.

Anderson said there are many other disadvantages. Obvious disadvantages include mutation of cells and chromosomes from radiation which is accumulative.

Anderson said he believed the increased use of radiation in society is proportional to the increases seen in cancer and illnesses related to the mutation of cells and chromosomes. Anderson said there is no safe level of exposure to radiation.

Anderson also read two letters from individuals interested in seeing that there are no low-level radioactive sites in Minnesota. These letters raised several questions which dealt primarily with the serious impact to the economy of a community which might accept a low-level radioactive waste site.

Those questions included questions such as whether businesses will want to move into a community with a low-level radioactive site nearby; whether tourists will come to the community or surrounding area to visit and camp; whether produce grown near the site should be sold on the market; whether warnings supposedly guaranteed at the plants will be given in time of danger and whether they will be adequate; and whether we as a society wish to leave this kind of legacy to children yet unborn?

John Klos of Northern States Power, disagreed with statements made by Anderson. Klos began by explaining that everyone is exposed to radiation every day in many different ways and from things commonly found in homes. He added that in his 16 years of research, which included working many years on a nuclear powered submarine next to the reactor, his accumulated exposure to radiation did not exceed that of an x-ray he received because of a back injury.

At the end of information presented by the panel the floor was yielded to questions from the audience. Several individuals asked questions. Among those making statements and asking questions was Pennington county commissioner Don Grabanski. Grabanski, directing his comments to the Minnesota pollution control agency, said that he wants standards set and a sufficient written explanation of who has responsibility in case of an accident. Granbanski said that before the MPCA even began considering volunteers, standards should have been written.

Granbanski said he was in favor of having a site somewhere, because the entire United States is responsible for its radioactive waste. "There has to be someplace to store that radioactive waste, and all of us should take some responsibility for it," he said.

In concluding the information session, Solid Waste Officer Wayne Olson said the public is invited to contact the county commissioners with comments if they were not at the meeting and or did not want to speak publicly at the meeting.

Steve Anderson To Direct Northland Jazz Ensemble

Northland community college jazz ensemble for 1987-88 will be under the direction of Steve Anderson. Anderson holds a B.S. in instrumental music from North Dakota State University in Fargo and has done graduate work at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley.

He performed with a variety of jazz groups in the Fargo-Moorhead area during his college career and taught at the high school level for four years. For the last 12 years, Anderson has been a full-time professional musician and entertainer working in North Dakota and Minnesota.

In addition to the traditional jazz ensemble instruction, Anderson will focus on elements of the music and entertainment business relating to the problems and opportunities of a career in music performance.

Private Industry Council To Meet

Ag Commissioner Urges Support Of Dairy Month

Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Nichols today encouraged all Minnesotans to drink a tall glass of milk, eat a big scoop of ice cream or enjoy some other favorite dairy product this June in celebration of Dairy Month.

"Our dairy industry is very important to us," Nichols said. "It's our largest agricultural industry and should be supported by all Minnesotans."

With an estimated 21,000 dairy farms and 891,000 dairy cattle in Minnesota during 1986, the dairy industry accounted for 20 per cent of total cash farm receipts. During 1986, Minnesota dairy farmers combined with farmers in four other states, California, New York, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, to produce over one-half of the nation's milk supply.

In addition, Minnesota ranked second in cheese production, third in butter production and seventh in ice cream production during 1986. There are approximately 24 butter plants, 22 cheese plants and 14 ice cream plants in Minnesota.

Nichols said that dairy foods fit in very well with today's life-styles. "They are convenient, nutritional and a good buy."

Nichols said he would like to extend a special invitation to the Minnesota dairy industry to celebrate Agri-Pride 87, June 19 and 20 at Minneapolis. A number of events are scheduled including the Twins vs. White Sox games both nights at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome. Tickets for Minnesota residents can be ordered by calling 1-800-752-8140. Non-residents can call 1-800-328-4888.

Deaths And Funerals

Charles Emanuel, 73

Thief River Falls—Charles Emanuel died Friday morning at his home in Thief River Falls at the age of 73. Funeral services for Charles Emanuel will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at Trinity Lutheran church.

Visitation will be at the Green Funeral home today (Monday) from 1 to 9 p.m. and at the church for one hour before the service Tuesday.

Rev. D. Josh Nelson will officiate at the service, with Jerry Joringdal, organist, and LeRoy Aasland singing "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" and "How Great Thou Art."

Pallbearers are Kenneth Pearson, Art Buringrud, Donovan Narverud, Hans Newman, Sam Bratteli and Ray Vaudrin. Military honors will be accorded by the Thief River Falls VFW and American Legion clubs. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Charles Whitman Emanuel was born Mar. 29, 1914, in Berthold, ND, the son of Emil and Catherine Whitman Emanuel. He was raised there and graduated from school in 1932. He attended Minot State Teachers college, served with the Civilian Conservation Corps, and then attended Fargo Business college.

He served in the U.S. Army from May 19, 1942, to Jan. 13, 1946, during World War II, and then joined his father and brother, Burton, in the Paint and Glass Store in Thief River Falls. He continued to operate the store after his father's death, until he retired in 1974.

He had been a member of Trinity Lutheran church and was to have been honored as having taught Sunday school for 40 years. He was a member of the Lions club and served as secretary of that organization for many years. He was also a member of the Garden club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Elks, Eagles, and had served as president of the Sons of Norway.

Charles Emanuel is survived by one brother, Burton and wife, June, Elysian; a niece, Gail Kay Malvin, and nephew, Burton Emanuel, both of Mankato; and eight grand-nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one sister, Doris.

will be on the honor roll for the first time, or that I appreciated their child's behavior or attitude or assistance, there is usually a sigh of relief. Not every call from a principal should have to be because a student is in trouble."

Staff taking a personal interest in students and caring about them and their education is encouraged strongly by Kragness. As a result, there have only been a couple of dropouts in the past three years at MCC. This year there are four prior graduates of the school graduating from college in the field of education. Kragness also emphasized that for the most part parents in the district have been very supportive of the school, its programs and its staff.

The northern division of the MASSP for which Kragness was selected as principal of the year has 59 dues-paying members and extends from Sebeka to Cass Lake to Baudette (Lake of the Woods high school) to Hallock to Halstad (Norman County West high school). Dave has served on a number of committees during his 13 years of membership and has been secretary and president.

A graduate of Halstad high school, he earned his bachelor's degree from Mayville State university in 1968. In 1974 he received a master's degree in education administration from St. Cloud State university. He has now accumulated 53 hours of credit beyond his master's degree at Tri-College university (Concordia college, Moorhead State University and North Dakota State university). He attended three summer sessions at S. Cloud state, one at Bemidji State university and two at NDSU in Fargo. For three years he drove to Fargo and Bemidji for night classes.

In his first year out of college he taught health, physical education and driver's education at Badger. His first year's contract was for $5,800. He received an additional $1,150 for serving as head coach in football, basketball, track, baseball and golf and filling the role of athletic director. After two years in Badger he accepted a contract in the fall of 1970 to teach in Newfolden. He taught business education, physical education and health, coached football and was assistant coach in basketball, track and baseball.

He taught at Newfolden for four years, the last three of which Grygla students were in attendance while a new school was discussed, voted on and built. In the fall of 1974 Kragness became principal at Grygla where the non-traditional school used a goals and objectives sheet and classes were in two-hour vocational blocks. After two years there he took a job as principal at Newfolden.

"In six years of teaching I had been in two school districts and had four principals and four superintendents," Kragness said. "I decided that more continuity and stability was necessary for good education for students."

Kragness served as principal at Newfolden for seven years, then resigned in the spring of 1983 to sell insurance. "Two weeks before school started in the fall I was offered three principal jobs, including Marshall County Central again," he said. "It was a family decision of sorts. The kids didn't want to leave Newfolden and all have received excellent educations here. We have good teachers, the superintendent (Gene Busch) and the school board have been supportive and I feel good about the job." So he took the prinicpal's post at Newfolden again in the fall of 1983 and has continued in that role since.

Dave married the former Jan Garnes of Halstad Jan. 21, 1964, and they have three children. David, 22, a graduate of MCC and Mayville State university, is a computer programmer for Pillsbury in Minneapolis and married to the former Nancy Halvorson of Viking. Jon, 18, graduated from MCC Friday night as valedictorian of his class and will attend NDSU in Fargo to major in engineering. Andrea, 17, was a member of the Region 8A championship girls basketball team this year and will be a senior at MCC this fall.

In addition to serving as principal at MCC for grades seven through 12, he was athletic director for seven years and has served part-time as a counselor since 1979.

How does a principal handle the situation of having his own children in school? "When they're in school they are just like any other kids," he said. "They understand that they are to be treated that way. Actually, it's harder for them than it is for me, because they hear their fellow students cuss out the principal from time to time. Students don't have to like me, but they do have to respect the position of principal."

And Kragness is proud of the students at MCC. "Look at this of the tougher subjects, and that has "There are 33 graduates and 12 are honor students. Twenty-three are going on to higher education and two are entering the military. We give honor points for enrollment in some of the tougher subjects, and that has helped. We had 31 sophomores and juniors in Algebra II and 12 seniors in calcucus-trigonometry in 1986-87. It gets kids looking at what's important in education instead of just getting on the honor roll so their parents get reduced rate on their car insurance."

Wrapped up as Kragness is in MCC and its students, not all of his energies are expended there. He has been on the Newfolden city council for nine years, has been secretary and president of the Lions club, secretary and president of the Bethlehem Lutheran church council and for the last five years has been executive secretary of the District 32A committee for the Minnesota State High School league.

"Students at Marshall County Central get an excellent education," he concluded. "We have a super staff of teachers, some of whom have been here a long time and some of shorter tenure, but generally exceptionally capable and cooperative. Graduates of this school do well wherever they go."

And that, as they say in finance, is the bottom line.

Unemployment Rate Highest In Red Lake County

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate dropped for the second consecutive month to 4.6 per cent in April, the lowest April jobless measure since 4.2 per cent was recoreded in 1979, Commissioner Joe Samargia of the Minnesota department of jobs and training reports.

Individual are jobless rates varied from an actual low of 3.8 per cent in Hennepin county to a high of 23.5 per cent in Lake and Red Lake counties for March, the most recent month for which county data is available.

The state's jobless rate is down from 5.1 per cent in March and 5.6 per cent in April 1986, Samargia said, and remains well below the national rate which was 6.3 per cent in April.

Department research analyst Wayne Graner said wage and salary employment, seasonally adjusted, changed little from March since an increase in the non-manufacturing sector was offset by layoffs in manufacturing. The only industries within wage and salary employment that recorded gains were government, up 2,100 jobs, and trade, up 200 jobs, from March.

The unemployment rates pertain to the entire labor force and are not used to determine whether unemployment insurance benefit payments will be extended beyond the usual 26-week maximum. The unemployment rate among persons covered by unemployment insurance is used to determine whether benefit payments will be extended.

Consider Bonding Needs For AVTI

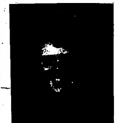
Bonding request for funds to qualify the Thief River Falls AVTI for state building funding will be among items considered by the School District 564 board of education when it meets tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the school district service center.

State law requires an intent to levy to be published at least three weeks prior to July 1 in the year in which the levy is to occur. The shortness of time to comply with that schedule requires immediate attention.

The board will also act on the tobacco-free schools policy, Lincoln improvement projects and resignations from Virgil Burger, Lincoln librarian; Lillian Rux, head custodian at the AVTI; and Bernadette Larson, Mark Twain kindergarten instructor among many items.

Denette Huot To Get Scholarship To Attend UMC



Denette Huot

Denette F. Huot, daughter of Gladyce and the late Donald Huot, Red Lake Falls, has been awarded a $500 agricultural scholarship from Farm Credit Services (FCS) of Grand Forks.

Huot, a senior at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls, plans to enroll at the University of Minnesota at Crookston this fall to study dairy production.

Throughout high school she has been active in 4-H and the Future Farmers of America (FFA). She served as FFA vice president and 4-H secretary this year. She has been a member of the 4-H and FFA dairy teams.

Huot has worked on her family's dairy farm since she was 10 years old. She has also been a CFD teacher at her church.

FCS of Grand Forks annually awards scholarships to students entering college in the fall to pursue careers in farming or other agricultural fields. Scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic record, vocational promise, leadership and financial need.

Registered And Certified Mail Uses Explained

Certified mail provides the sender with a mailing receipt and a record of delivery is kept at the addressee's post office. A return receipt to provide the sender with proof of delivery can be obtained for an additional fee.

For valuables or irreplaceable items, use insured or registered mail. Certified mail service is available for first-class mail items only.

The registered mail system is designed to provide added protection for valuable and important mail. Postal insurance may be purchased, at the option of the mailer, to cover articles valued at the time of mailing up to $25,000.

Registered mail is the most secure service the Postal Service offers. It uses a system of receipts to monitor registered articles from the point of acceptance to delivery. Only items mailed at First-Class Mail rates may be registered. For additional fees, return receipt and restricted delivery services are available.

Dear Readers,
After the funeral service and the return of the mourners to their homes, the bereaved family will usually require a period of time to recover somewhat from their shock and grief. They will then wish to send 'thank you' notes to those who helped with the arrangements provided for food or facilities, contributed flowers or memoriums, and who expressed their sympathy.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

TIMES Around The Region

by Sharon LaCoursiere

Open House

Hallock — Lakestate Systems, Inc., Hallock's wind generator assembly and finishing plant, will have an open house June 2 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Plant personnel and owners of the wind generators will be on hand to conduct tours and answer questions about the operation and functions of wind turbines and there will be a model of the "Harvester 25 KW" machine on display. Coffee and rolls will be served. (Kittson County Enterprise)

TV In School?

Red Lake Falls — The Red Lake Falls school board is looking into teaching their high school students through television. Board member Gene Skala said, "It could possibly be an inexpensive way of improving our academics, depending on how far we would go with it. It could possibly provide inservice work for the teachers, eliminating the need to travel. There is also the possibility of some revenue from it through tuition fees for community educational use." The interactive television could provide the local district, along with similar districts with smaller enrollments, the chance to offer courses presently not available due to class size. According to Superintendent Robert Anderson, there are a lot of facts and studies to be done before any decisions are made, and the funding of the system will be taken into consideration as well. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Truck Collision

Badger — A collision between a 1986 Ford truck owned by Culligan Water Softener of Roseau and a 1976 International truck belonging to Halma Concrete Products resulted in $3,000 damage to the Culligan truck and $1,000 damage to its trailer, and no damage to the Halma truck. Both trucks were east bound on highway 11 May 21, one mile east of Badger. The Culligan truck was attempting to pass the Halma truck when the Halma trailer broke loose, dumping its load of concrete blocks on the roadway and hitting the Culligan truck on the right side and causing it to overturn. Donald Osse, Jr. of Greenbush, driver of the Culligan truck, was treated and released at the Roseau Area hospital; Roger Holmstrom of Strandquist, driver of the Halma truck, was not injured (Badger Enterprise)

Three-Vehicle Collision

Crookston — Six persons were hospitalized as the result of a three-vehicle accident in Crookston May 23. Cars driven by Nora Avendano of Crookston, Ray Moshier of Little Falls, and Ray Feltman collided at the intersection of highways 2 and 75 north of Stevens Drive at 4:10 p.m. All three vehicles were severely damaged. (Crookston Daily Times)

Guilty Plea

Red Lake Falls — Darrel Dean Grove, 41, of Red Lake Falls, pleaded guilty to two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the second degree in district court in Thief River Falls May 12. Charges stem from an incident that took place March 9 in Red Lake Falls. If convicted, Grove faces 15 years' imprisonment or $30,000 fine or both. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Crookston Incarcerations

Crookston — Incarcerated in the Crookston Regional Corrections center May 26 were Gary Sorenson, 25, Thief River Falls, on a charge of trespassing; Daniel Anderson, 18, McIntosh, on a charge of disorderly conduct; Wayne Halverson, 21, East Grand Forks, on a gross misdemeanor DWI; Gene Barstad, 46, Fosston, on aggravated DWI; Thelmer Anderson, 21, Goodridge, DWI; Allen Bestul, 30, Fosston, charges of failure to appear and open bottle; and Paul Gibbs, 39, East Grand Forks, fifth degree assault. (Crookston Daily Times)

Theft

Warren — Joe Krieps reported to the Marshall county sheriff's office that a vacant house in Veldt township had been broken into and a refrigerator, table and chair set, power washer, bench grinder, space heater and three hydraulic rams were missing. The case is under investigation. (Warren Sheaf)

BONNIE KOLDEN of Greenbush was first in line to receive a diploma Friday at Northland community college's graduation ceremonies. For Northland community college it was the largest class ever. A total of 193 students graduated. Bonnie was also among several students to receive an honor pendant. It was the first year honor pendants have been awarded.

Dr. Faye Johnson Keynote Speaker To Home Ec Ass'n

Dr. Faye C. Stucy Johnson, professor of foods and nutrition at California state university, Chico, has been invited to be a keynote speaker at the 78th annual meeting and exposition of the American Home Economics association in Indianapolis, IN, June 29.

Theme of the meeting is "Crossroads to the Twenty-first Centruy." Professor Johnson will speak on the topic entitled, "Utilization of American Produced Rice in Baked Products for the Gluten Intolerant."

The AHEA meeting will feature general sessions with speakers such as futurists-forecaster Dr. Marvin Cetron and President Sarah Harder from AAUW. There will be more than four days of programs, and the AHEA exposition — a showcase for more than 200 nationally known firms and organizations — will be presenting a preview of the latest in consumer and homemaking services and equipment to be introduced to the American family in the months ahead.

Professor Johnson has taught at California state university, Chico, for 11 years. She is currently on sabbatical leave conducting research on product development for the estimated one of 2,000 persons in the general population who have a sensitivity to wheat protein.

Dr. Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stucy of rural Oklee. She graduated from Goodridge high school in 1964 and later received degrees from North Dakota state university, the university of Nebraska and the university of the Pacific.

She credits 4-H club experience in Pennington county for developing her interest in the foods and nutrition area. She demonstrated food products numerous times at the county fair, Red River Valley winter shows and the state fair. She is married to Dr. Carl Johnson, an agricultural geneticist with the Rice Research foundation, located near Chico, and has two teenage daughters Catherine and Brenda. The family resides in Chico, a northern California city 90 miles north of Sacramento.

Legal Services Board Elects New Officers

Northwest Minnesota Legal Services, Inc., elected officers to serve one-year terms at its annual meeting in Moorhead recently.

Elected president was Patricia Irvine, Perham, an attorney. Bill Brummer, director of Tri-Valley Opportunity council, Crookston, was elected vice-president. Darlene Anderson, Fergus Falls, was elected secretary and Ed Shuneta, Battle Lake, was elected treasurer.

At the same meeting, two past officers were presented with plaques for their services. Keith Miller, Moorhead attorney, was recognized for his services as president. Dennis Heitkamp, Moorhead, director of Clay-Wilkin Opportunity council, received his award for service as secretary of the board. Heitkamp was also one of the incorporators of NMLS.

NMLS, based in Moorhead, is a non-profit organization which provides free legal aid to low-income and senior citizens in 23 northwestern Minnesota counties.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Rotary International Sexually Integrated

If the title of this editorial sounds like something out of the pages of a television evangelism report, it isn't meant to be so. It is simply calling attention to the recent order by the U.S. supreme court that Rotary clubs must accept female members—just as the U.S. Jaycees were ordered to accept female members a couple of years ago.

While some local clubs across the country may put up resistance to the order or ignore it—probably no great affect to anyone—it is to the credit of the Thief River Falls Rotary club that its board of directors has approved allowing female members locally.

There will be no wild stampede of ladies seeking admission to the membership roll of the local club, nor to most of the clubs in the United States. The general understanding is that the principles of Rotary will still apply—that member candidates must be proposed by a member, that they represent a business or professional classification of Rotary International, and that no more than one person from any given classification may hold membership in the club.

It is not yet known how the U.S. Supreme court ruling will affect the overall organization, since its effect is confined to the United States and the international organization has clubs in more than 100 countries around the world.

There is certainly nothing wrong with opening the ranks of Rotary to business and professional women—nor, for that matter, to allowing men to join the Business and Professional Women's club if they choose to do so. The Jaycees are accepting female members and the Women of Today are organized to accept males for membership. Women wearing pantsuits to the meetings will raise no eyebrows, but it is possible that men in skirts or dresses could raise a few—especially if the accessories weren't in good taste.

This editor having been a member of the local Rotary club for over a quarter of a century, the culture shock of the first female member will certainly be endurable for me. The ladies have been done no irreparable harm by being excluded from membership all these years. The gentlemen will be done no irreparable harm by having them included now.

Interest Rate Up . . . . . . Farm Profits Down

Recent increases in the prime rate and speculation that it will rise further in the coming weeks may mean a decrease in net farm income, according to Cole Gustafson, a North Dakota State University agricultural finance economist.

Gustafson said agriculture is the most capital intensive industry in the United States and is very sensitive to interest rate changes. For example, a one percentage point increase in farm interest rates can reduce the net income of farmers in North Dakota by $58 million, Gustafson said.

The prime rate increased to eight per cent from 7 ¾ per cent May 1. Experts say that rate is expected to rise further in the coming weeks. The prime rate increase was triggered because the Federal Reserve soon may increase the discount rate.

In the past month interest rates on long term bonds have increased by over a percentage point. The main reason for the rise, Gustafson said, is a change in the Federal Reserve's monetary policy.

In the past few months the nation's money supply increased at an annual rate of only 4.7 per cent, while in the prior nine month period it was increasing at a rate of 19.1 per cent. To keep the value of the dollar from falling further overseas, the Federal Reserve has tightened the money supply in order to prop up interest rates, Gustafson said.

"In addition, because the Fed increased the money supply so rapidly last year, fears of inflation have again returned, increasing interest rates even further," he said.

"This knee-jerk reaction by the Fed is going to have a detrimental effect on agriculture if it is indeed a new long-run policy. A tight monetary policy affects not only farmers with debt, but makes it more expensive for farmers to store crops until prices reach seasonal highs. It also raises the value of the dollar, which in turn discourages exports," Gustafson said.

Realistic Optimism

Following commentary was published recently in the Harvest States Journal.

It may be just the feeling that goes with this time of year but, here and there, some optimism is creeping back into agriculture. Perhaps it's more correct to say there's less pessimism.

University of Minnesota agricultural economist Michael Boehlje likes to call this feeling realistic optimism. He thinks agriculture is ready to make a gradual recovery. "We're roughly at the bottom of a 'U' shape, meaning recovery will be slow. We're not looking at runaway optimism and affluence in agriculture," Boehlje said.

There are some facts and figures to back up cautious optimism. A survey of lenders in seven Midwestern states indicates fewer farmers have gone out of business in the last 12 months than the previous 12 months.

Larry Wipf, vice president and director of regional economics for Norwest Corporation, said the company had surveyed about 800 commercial bankers in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Montana in early April. The bankers had indicated that 2.7 per cent of their farm borrowing clients had gone out of business from April 1986 to March 1987, down from 3.8 per cent the preceding 12 months.

The surveyed bankers said they thought 85 to 90 per cent of their farmer clients would stay in business in the long run, Wipf said. Of the 10 to 15 per cent expected to go out of business, some could survive if their debt was restructured or written down.

Bankers reported 5.3 per cent of their outstanding farm loans were non-performing in April 1987, down from 6.6 per cent in April 1986, Wipf said.

Land values as of April, 1987, averaged six per cent lower than the same period a year ago, Wipf said. However, a third of the bankers said land prices were the same as a year ago and another 12 to 15 per cent said prices were higher.

Three-fourths of survey's respondents expected land prices to remain stable in the next 12 months, Wipf said.

The general consensus was that "the worst is over," Wipf said.

But all may not be rosy. Low feed grain prices and good cash flow opportunities in livestock could cause a "second wave" problem in agriculture, Boehlje said. "There's the real potential we'll have very low prices in the livestock sector. We could see hogs in the mid to high thirties by the second quarter of 1988."

Boehlje knows some farmers who are anticipating lower livestock prices and are selling some assets now in order to stay in business in the next few years. "I'm not predicting another crash, but there are potential problems in the livestock industry."

Boehlje thinks, however, there are good opportunities for people thinking of recycling or restarting in farming. Matter of fact, he feels there's a reason to be concerned about a leadership void in agriculture. It won't happen today or tomorrow, but by 1995 to 2000 the U.S. could have a shortage of people to make important decisions in agriculture, Boehlje said.

Enrollment in agricultural colleges has taken a skid that closely parallels the farm profitability crunch. "There has been an overadjustment in the market. Important jobs in the agricultural business sector will require trained people," Boehlje said.

Borrowed Nonsense:

When Rip Van Winkle awoke from his 20-year sleep, a feast was prepared in his honor. The townspeople served him with a variety of meat and other delicacies and an urn of coffee. "This is wonderful," he exclaimed, "but I better pass up the coffee. It keeps me awake."

Early one morning a traveling man seated himself at the counter of an all night diner. "I'll have one egg," he instructed the waitress nearing the end of her shift. "It should be fried in a clean skillet with just a dab of butter—not on that greasy grill. The heat should be low so the white cooks firm, and it should be turned once so the yolk is not too runny. And it should be seasoned with a light scattering of salt and just a whiff of pepper."

"Yes, sir," the waitress said, and turned to bring the order to the kitchen. Then she stopped. "Oh," she said politely, "by the way, would it be all right if the hen's name is Penny?"

Following editorial is from the Owatonna People's Press:

Rep. Jerry Schoenfeld believes requiring students to stay in school longer is a needed step toward welfare reform. The statistics, he said, show that the majority of long-term welfare recipients do not have high school diplomas.

For that reason, the Waseca DFLer has authored a bill that would require high school students to stay in school until they turn 18.

Hard work is generally comprised of an accumulation of easy tasks that didn't get done when they should have.

Rains Restored Topsoil Moisture Across Minnesota

Cooler temperatures and scattered showers brought Minnesota's topsoil moisture back to more desirable levels last week, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Just two weeks ago, the state's topsoil moisture was rated 51 per cent very short, 42 per cent short, and seven percent adequate. Topsoil moisture now is 11 per cent very short, 26 per cent short, 54 per cent adequate, and nine per cent surplus. During the week, 3.9 days were suitable for fieldwork.

With this spring's early planting season, many farmers were probably able to take some time off this past Memorial Day weekend because they had their crops in ahead of schedule. Field corn is nearly 100 per cent planted compared with 67 per cent in 1986 and the 75 per cent five-year average. The corn crop is 92 per cent emerged compared with 30 per cent last year and the average of 36 per cent. The corn crop's condition is rated as one per cent very poor, seven per cent poor, 34 per cent fair, 53 per cent good and five per cent excellent. Soybean land is 85 per cent planted compared with 32 per cent in 1986 and the 37 per cent average; 34 per cent of the soybean crop has emerged compared with the six per cent average and three per cent at this same time last year.

Small grain crop planting is virtually 100 per cent completed. The spring wheat crop is 99 per cent emerged compared with 36 per cent in 1986 and the average of 67 per cent; 10 per cent is jointing compared with none at this time last year and the average of one percent. The spring wheat crop is rated as one per cent very poor, two per cent poor, 37 per cent fair, 54 per cent good and six per cent excellent.

Oats are 99 per cent emerged compared with 63 per cent in 1986 and the 78 per cent average. While no oats were jointing last year on this same date and the average is only one per cent, 10 per cent of the oat crop at the jointing stage. Barley is 99 per cent emerged compared with 29 per cent in 1986 and the 61 per cent average. Barley is eight per cent jointing compared with none last year and the one per cent average.

Sunflowers are 85 per cent planted versus seven per cent last year and 31 per cent for the average. Potatoes are 91 per cent planted compared with 42 per cent in 1986 and the 55 per cent average. The flax crop is 87 per cent planted versus 11 per cent last year and the average of 37 per cent. Dry edible bean planting, at 81 per cent complete, contrasts with last year's 28 per cent and the average of 31 per cent.

Spuds Beat Prowlers 15-3

Moorhead whipped Thief River Falls 15-3 Thursday in the 1987 North Sub-Region 8AA high school baseball tournament semifinals at Bemidji, ending the Prowlers' season at 9-6.

Top-seeded Bemidji shut out Detroit Lakes 9-0 in the first semifinal encounter of the day, then stretched its season-long winning streak to 18 games with an 11-1 championship game rout of Moorhead as Tim Knudson threw a five-inning no-hitter against the Spuds.

It was a surprisingly one-sided Moorhead-Thief River Falls affair considering the fact that the Prowlers won 4-2 when the two teams met during the regular season. Thief River Falls was the tournament's No. 2 seed, while Moorhead was No. 3.

But the tone was set when Moorhead jumped on the first pitch of the game from Thief Rvier Falls righthander Chris Nelson for a home run and a quick 1-0 lead. It was a 2-2 tie briefly in the early stages of the game, but a 5-3 Moorhead lead ballooned to a 15-3 rout when the Spuds produced eight unanswered runs.

"It was not a good way to end it," said Thief River Falls coach Tracey Wensloff. "It was probably one of our three worst games of the year. We only had two physical errors, but we had a whole mess of mental mistakes."

Moorhead, error-free on defense, out-hit Thief River Falls 13-8.

Bemidji will meet South Sub-Region 8AA winner St. Cloud Apollo in the Region 8AA championship game Tuesday at 2 p.m. at St. Cloud's Municipal Stadium.

Apollo was the No. 2 seed in the South Sub-Region 8AA playoffs. The Eagles came up with a 5-4 nine-inning semifinal win over No. 3-seeded Little Falls Thursday, then scored six times in the top of the eighth inning to beat No. 4-seeded Rocori 8-3 in Friday's title game at Rocori.

No. 1-seeded Brainerd fell to Rocori 10-9 in the semifinals — the Warriors' first post-season start.

North Sub-Region 8AA
First round — Detroit Lakes 5, Fergus Falls 4.
Semifinals — Bemidji 9, Detroit Lakes 0; Moorhead 5, Thief River Falls 3.
Finals — Bemidji 11, Moorhead 1.
South Sub-Region 8AA
First round — Rocori 3, Alexandria 2; Little Falls 1, Sauk Rapids 0 (10 innings); St. Cloud Apollo def. St. Cloud Tech (no score available).
Semifinals — Rocori 10, Brainerd 9; Apollo 5, Little Falls 4 (9 innings).
Finals — Apollo 8, Rocori 3 (8 innings).

Prowlers Take Part In 8AA Track Meet

Bemidji girls and Moorhead boys won titles Saturday at the Region 8AA high school track meet in Brainerd.

A second place finish in the meet's final event, the 1600 meter relay, gave the Bemidji girls the points needed to edge Alexandria 83-82, followed by Moorhead with 69, Rocori 68, Little Falls 58, Brainerd 40, St. Cloud Tech 35, Detroit Lakes 23, Thief River Falls 16, St. Cloud Apollo 16, Fergus Falls 6, and Sauk Rapids 0.

Moorhead boys took top honors with 97.5 points, followed by Bemidji with 88, St. Cloud Apollo 67, St. Cloud Tech 56.5, Alexandria 47, Little Falls 42, Detroit Lakes 37, Rocori 35, Brainerd 34, Fergus Falls 21, Thief River Falls 2, and Sauk Rpaids 0.

None of the nine Thief River Falls girls and five boys who participated in the Region 8AA meet picked up a state meet trip — awarded to the top two finishers in each of the individual events, plus the first place relay teams.

Among the Thief River Falls girls, a fourth place by Cindy Kruta in the 300 meter hurdles in 48.6 and a fourth place by the 3200 meter relay team of Teri Efteland, Lynn Mueller, Peggy Cruz and Christy Puetz in 9:56 were the best the Prowlers could do.

"For the most part, we finished where our times placed us in the sub-region," reported Thief River Falls girls coach Tom Schafer. "We did all right."

Puetz and Christy Holthusen both turned in career-best times in the 400 in placing fifth and sixth, respectively. That 9:56 was a season-best for the 3200 relay team, and Cruz set a school record with a 2:23 in the 800, but still didn't produce a point in a seventh place finish even though she was just two seconds off the winning time.

Cindy Kruta was the Prowlers' top hope for a state meet berth in the 300 hurdles. She had the third-fastest time in Region 8AA this spring going into the meet, but because of the wet weather prior to the meet, which hampered her workouts on the Prowlers' antiquated cinder track, she didn't perform at her peak Saturday.

"I feel sorry for Cindy," mentioned Schafer. "She worked all year long for this, and it was realy frustrating to get to the end of the year and not have any facilities to work on. The others certainly did, and it showed."

Thief River Falls' only points among the boys came from Paul Brandt, where an 11.52 gave him a fifth place in the 100. He was expected to be a contender in both the 100 and 200, but wound up eighth in the 200 in 23.7.

Neither time was poor, explained Thief River Falls boys coach Tim Olson, but they weren't good enough to reach the state meet, either.

"The kids from the South (South Sub-Region 8AA) really surprised us," said Olson, who figured Brandt would be battling speedy Moorhead sprinters for the top spots. "We didn't expect those kids from the South to run like that. They went 1-2 on us."

Weather conditions weren't conducive to a fast Brandt run, either, according to Olson. "It was hot. The sun wore him down," he said. "Paul runs better in cold weather. The more miserable the conditions, the better he does."

The Prowlers received personal-best performances, but no points, from Scott Grove with a 53.0 in the 400 and from Brian Christianson with a 19-2.75 effort in the long jump.

TRF Girls — Region 8AA
100 — 6. Jodi Kruta, 13.3.
300 hurdles — 4. Cindy Kruta, 48.6.
400 — 5. Christy Puetz, 1:00.3; 6. Christy Holthusen, 1:01.7.
3200 — 5. Lynn Mueller, 11:56.2.
3200 relay — 4. (Teri Efteland, Mueller, Peggy Cruz, Puetz), 9:56.
1600 relay — 5. (Cindy Kruta, Efteland, Holthusen, Cruz), 4:15.
TRF Boys — Region 8AA
100 — 5. Paul Brandt, 11.52.

South Dominates Tennis Scene

Thief River Falls' Bret Haugen, along with the rest of the North Sub-Region 8AA performers at the 1987 Region 8AA boys high school tennis tournament in Brainerd.

Haugen, the North Sub-Region 8AA runner-up, drew Mike Musty of Brainerd in an opening round quarterfinal match of the Region 8AA individual singles competition Wednesday. Musty, the South Sub-Region 8AA third place finisher and No. 23-ranked state-wide, beat Haugen 6-1, 6-3.

"Bret did fine," reported Thief River Falls coach Whitney Olson. "He was a little rusty and a little anxious, but we did fine."

The junior was the Prowlers' only Region 8AA representative.

It was a clean sweep for the South Sub-Region 8AA performers, who eliminated all four entries from the North in the opening round quarterfinals in both singles and doubles—most in straight sets.

Dave Jussila of St. Cloud Tech defeated Rob Rebischke of St. Cloud Apollo 6-2, 7-6 for the Region 8AA singles title. Jussila is the state's No. 7-ranked player; Rebischke is No. 19.

It was an all-Tech final in doubles, where Brad Pauley and Wade Bresnahan defeated Dan O'Shea and Luke Erickson 6-4, 7-6.

South domination began Monday in the team finals when Tech overwhelmed North Sub-Region 8AA winner Moorhead 7-0.

Jacks Win Golf Title

Bemidji boys won Region 8AA high school golf tournament team honors Wednesday at Park Rapids, finishing with a four-stroke victory margin over runner-up Fergus Falls.

The Lumberjacks turned in a four-man, 18-hole 312, while Fergus Falls came in at 316, Alexandria 318, St. Cloud Tech 323, Little Falls 330, Brainerd 333, Rocori 334, Detroit Lakes 337, St. Cloud Apollo 341, Moorhead 343, Thief River Falls 344, and Sauk Rapids 346.

Russ Simenson of Bemidji was meet medalist with a 71. He led a group of top-five Region 8AA state meet qualifiers that also included Mark Ryden of Fergus Falls with a 76, Kevin Iverson of Tech with a 76, Mike Clayton of Alexandria with a 77, and Jody Freeman of Little Falls with a 77.

Thief River Falls scores included senior Bob Geatz with rounds of 41-41 for an 82; senior Jason Peterson 43-41, 84; senior Steve Jung 43-44, 87; senior Jim Breiland 45-46, 91; junior Jason Tangquist 44-47, 91; and eighth grader 50-46, 96.

Bemidji's team championship squad, and the top five individual qualifiers will take part in the 1987 Minnesota State High School League Class AA state golf meet Wednesday and Thursday at the Majestic Oaks Golf Course in Ham Lake.

KELLY CORNELL, accompanied by coach Al Buhl, will represent Thief River Falls at the 1987 Minnesota State High School League Class AA state girls golf tournament this week on the Majestic Oaks Golf Course in the Twin Cities suburb of Ham Lake. Competition starts Wednesday at 11 a.m. and resumes Thursday at 8 a.m. Cornell was a third place finisher at the recent Region 8AA tournament, just one stroke behind co-winners Sherry Senden of Alexandria and Julie Jamieson of Moorhead. It's the second straight state golf tournament appearance for Cornell, who has been a state tennis tournament participant in the fall the past two years.

State Golf Tournaments Will Be Played This Week

Field is set for the 60th annual state boys golf tournament and 11th annual state girls golf tournament, which will be played at two sites beginning today (Monday) and running through Thursday. Play since 1976 in boys and 1979 in girls has been conducted with Class AA and Class A formats, reports Larry Larson of the Minnesota State High School League.

Class A boys and girls tournament, an event featuring schools with enrollments of less than 500 students in the upper three grades, will take place on Monday and Tuesday, June 1 and 2, at the St. Cloud Country Club. Class AA boys and girls tournament, participants from schools with more than 500 students in grades 10, 11 and 12, is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, June 3 and 4, at the Majestic Oaks Golf Course in Ham Lake.

Both tournaments are scheduled 36 hole events with 18 holes being played each day. First day play on Monday and Wednesday will begin at 11 a.m. with final rounds on Tuesday and Thursday scheduled to start at 8 a.m.

Class A

Defending state team champions Sauk Centre (boys) and Long Prairie (girls) will return to the St. Cloud Country Club favored to repeat as state champions. Long Prairie, in fact, will try and become the first school in girls competition to capture three consecutive state titles. Sauk Centre will be hopeful of winning its third title. The Mainstreeters first won in 1983.

Sauk Centre is once again expected to be seriously challenged by Lake City, last year's runner-up, who was only two strokes off the pace. Other team entrants this year include repeat entry Aurora-Hoyt Lakes, seventh in 1986, and newcomers Blue Earth, Park Rapids, and first-time entrants Ortonville, Dassel-Cokato, and Farmington.

Sauk Centre senior Mark Mayer recorded the lowest qualifying score among all 40 individual entrants who will compete for the gold medal. He shot a 72 at the Region 6A tournament in Fergus Falls. This will be Mayer's first state tournament as an individual qualifier. Two players who finished in the top 10 a year ago are expected to seriously challenge for the 1987 gold medal. They are senior Mike Willers, Lake City, and sophomore Greg Tuttle, Montgomery-Lonsdale. Both were eighth a year ago.

In the girls portion of the tournament there will be four repeat entries from among the eight teams entered. In addition to favored Long Prairie, other repeat entries include Plainview, Cottonwood, and Roseau. Other teams entered are Pipestone, Nashwauk-Keewatin, Farmington, and first-timer Paynesville.

Defending individual champion Liza LaBelle, a junior from Breck who will be playing in her fourth state tornament, is favored to win again.

Crookston Eliminates MCC-Middle River 4-0

Marshall County Central-Middle River cooperative high school baseball program ended its 1987 season Wednesday the same way it began—with a loss to Crookston.

An 11-7 winner when the two teams met in an April 16 season opener, Crookston won a 4-0 rematch in the North Sub-Region 8A tournament semifinals at Karlstad.

"Lack of hitting and too many mistakes on defense," reported Marshall County Central-Middle River coach Sam Gebhart, whose team was shut out for the first time all year on a three-hitter pitched by the Pirates' Kelly Madigan.

Crookston managed just four hits off Jon Kragness, but took advantage of seven Marshall County Central-Middle River errors. The Pirates were charged with just one error.

"The game would have been even if we wouldn't have given them so many opportunities," mentioned Gebhart.

Darin Rokke was 2-for-3 to represent most of the Marshall County Central-Middle River offense. Rokke and Kragness were two of only four seniors on the team that wound up 9-7 overall.

"We had our problems at times, mostly because of our youth and inexperience," pointed out Gebhart, "but overall I thought we did a pretty fair job."

Roseau edged Tri-County 6-5 in the other Wednesday semifinal game at Karlstad.

MCC Athletes Receive Honors At Luncheon

Awards were presented to members of the Marshall County Central High School football, volleyball, basketball, and track teams during the Nordics' annual athletic luncheon held recently at the Newfolden Community Center.

Football awards presented by head coach Sam Gebhart went to Tom Bolstad, most valuable offensive player and most improved player; Danni Halvorson, most valuable defensive player, most dedicated, and team MVP, which earned him the Jeff Johnson Memorial Award and a $200 scholarship; and Jon Kragness, who was recognized for six years of service as student manager.

Volleyball awards made by coach Tom Mjelde went to Kelli Anderson, most improved; Andrea Kragness, most valuable; and Natalie Ueland, winner of the Hustle Award.

Boys basketball awards presented by coach Ron Ueland were given to Darin Rokke, co-most valuable; Bolstad, most improved; Halvorson, co-most valuable; and Lee Pemberton, best defensive player.

Girls basketball awards made by Mjelde went to Foss, most valuable; Anderson, most improved; and Ueland, best defensive player.

Boys track awards presented by coach Mark Jorgenson went to Todd Kezar, most valuable; Jeff Ueland, most improved; and Shannon Leach, most valuable junior high participant.

Awards for girls track and baseball were delayed until seasons were completed.

Additional awards went to Foss and Kragness. They were named winners of the Outstanding Senior Scholar-Athlete Awards sponsored by the Army Reserve. Foss was also named winner of the Daniel Sparby Memorial Award given annually to the most dedicated senior athlete, and Kragness was named winner of the Scholar Athlete Award presented annually to the athlete with the highest grade point average.

Guest speaker for the event was Nathan Stokke, a Marshall County Central graduate who went on to play football at the University of North Dakota.

Women's Slow Pitch

Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League officials were forced to postpone their third straight slate of games Wednesday night because of wet grounds.

The 16-team league opened its 1987 schedule with four Monday Night Division doubleheaders May 18, but hasn't played since then because of wet weather.

Regularly scheduled games are on tap tonight (Monday) and Wednesday this week on the four Thief River Falls softball complex diamonds located on Highway 1 east of the Area Vocational-Technical Institute, and a round of make-up games will be played Tuesday at various sites throughout the city — Field 5 at Eastside Park; Field 6 at Northland Community College, Field 7 at the fairgrounds; and Field 8 at the fairgrounds fast pitch diamond.

DNR NEWS

During the past winter, the DNR Section of Wildlife completed its 25th annual moose survey. Aerial moose surveys began in 1959 in the northeast moose range and in the early 1960's in the northwest portion of Minnesota.

Aerial surveys are used to provide population information to wildlife managers within the moose ranges and moose hunting recommendations to the DNR Commissioner. This year's survey shows healthy and gradually increasing population of moose in the northeastern and northwestern portions of the state, totalling about 10,000 animals.

This will be the ninth moose hunt. Since the first moose hunt in 1971, more than 5,800 moose have been taken by Minnesota sportsmen.

Hunters who would like a chance in the drawings for moose permits must make their choice by the June 15 application deadline.

Hunters must apply in parties of four. The limit is one moose per party. Only Minnesota residents are eligible. Information booklets with application blanks are available from license agents, county auditor's offices and the DNR License Bureau at 500 Lafayette Road in St. Paul.

There is a $4 application fee per party and parties successful in the drawing are required to purchase a $200 moose license prior to hunting.

Cuts Averted

Proposed state budget cuts that would have closed 11 state parks and curtailed resoure management services in the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) were averted in the closing days of the 1987 Legislative Session when House and Senate members of the State Department conference committee reversed earlier proposals to drastically make these cuts.

Commissioner Joe Alexander said he is both relieved and grateful that legislators were able to assure continued funding of the agency's major programs.

"Although we were hit with some budget reductions," said Alexander, "the Legislature basically recognized the investment this state has made in natural resources management throughout the years as well as acknowledged that they value the wisdom of continued protection of Minnesota's resources in the future."

Agency managers are determining how to spread a $630,000 annual general fund reduction and dealing with shortfalls anticipated during the coming biennium from underfunding of salaries and inflation and the fact that new legislation mandates that state agencies begin paying sales tax on January 1.

Prior to last week's conference committee meetings, the DNR faced up to six million dollars in cuts which would have dictated the closing of state parks, laying off employees, and elimination of several resource management services.

In Loving Memory
In loving memory of Jennifer Peterson. Death is a gateway we must pass through to reach that fair land where the soul's born anew, for man is born to die and his sojourn on earth is a short span of years beginning with birth. And like pilgrims we wander until death takes our hand and we start on our journey to God's promised land, a place where we'll find no suffering or tears, where time is not counted by days, months or years, and is this fair city that God has prepared are unending joys to be happily shared with all our loved ones who patiently wait on death's other side to open the gate!

Successful Poppy Day

Poppy day was Saturday, May 16 in Plummer. Many people were happy and honored to wear the poppy in memory of the men who lost their lives in the wars and as a tribute to all servicemen. There also were many generous contributions for the poppies. Each year the American Legion Auxiliary places an order for the poppies, which are being made by the disabled veterans and families at hospitals and workshops. The money, thats received for the poppy orders, goes to aid disabled veterans and their families.

Baccalaureate and Dinner

Pershing high school's baccalaureate services were held at the St. Joseph's Catholic church in Brooks. Following the services, refreshments were served at the church. Also, that day, the senior class, their parents, Mr. Dean Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson enjoyed a dinner at a restaurant in Brooks (Third Base).

REPRESENTATIVE Wally Sparby received special recognition and a plaque at Northland community college's graduation ceremony Friday in the school's gymnasium. Rep. Sparby's efforts were critical to the passage of legislation which will provide $3.7 million to the school for improvements. Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, though not able to be in attendance, was also mentioned as making significant contributions towards securing the passage of the legislation. The plaque was presented by Dr. Al Nichols (left), provost of the college.

Cornell To Enter State Golf Meet

LaBelle carded an even-par round of 72 in regional qualifying. She hopes to become the state's first three-time champion, should she win this year and next year, since professional Jody Rosenthal, who played at Hopkins Eisenhower, accomplished the feat during the period 1979-1981.

LaBelle's sternest competition could come from Sophomore Chris Wollack, Hermantown. Wollack finished third in the state last year, three strokes behind.

Class AA

State golf tournament scent switches to the Majestic Oaks Golf Course in Ham Lake for play in Class AA on Wednesday and Thursday.

New state champions are certain in the team and individual portions of the tournament as Hastings failed to qualify and 1986 champion Steve Chesley of Mankato West graduated.

Team competition featuring eight region champions is expected to be a battle between always strong Edina, last year's runner-up and Mankato West, third a year ago. They, along with Winona and Minneapolis Roosevelt are repeat entrants. New teams are Henry Sibley (Mendota Heights), Bemidji, and first-timers Grand Rapids and Hill-Murray (Maplewood).

In the individual portion of the AA boys tournament, Kirk Viehl, Mankato West senior who finished fourth as a sophomore two years ago but who failed to qualify last year, is hoping this is the year. His has the lowest qualifying score, a 69. Strong competition is expected to come from Keith Brennan, Edina senior who finished fifth in the state tournament a year ago.

Girls AA tournament will feature former champions Stillwater and Krista Reuterfeldt, a junior from Coon Rapids who, like LaBelle, will try and become a three-time state champion before graduating.

Teams entered in addition to favored Stillwater include Edina, who finished third a year ago; Hastings, fifth in 1986; Alexandria, sixth last year; and eighth place finisher Park Center. Newcomers are Princeton and first-timers Albert Lea and Hutchinson.

Individually, Reuterfeldt will be challenged by 39 other players in the field. Top performers from a year ago back include Kris Leighton, Austin sophomore who was fourth in 1986, 10 strokes behind, and Elk River ninth grader Laura Bleyhl, a sixth last year 11 strokes off the pace set by Reuterfeldt.

Class AA girls field includes Thief River Falls junior Kelly Cornell, who is making her second straight state meet appearance.

Lone Graduate At SDA School Gets 'The Works'

by Marilyne Sayler

It probably qualified among the nation's smallest graduations, but the eighth grade graduation program held at the Seventh-day Adventist church on May 21 was nonetheless filled with the pomp and circumstance that accompanies the traditional celebration.

For the lone graduate, Jodi Meekma, class size didn't seem to negatively affect her attitude about her education.

"I've attended the Seventh-day Adventist elementary school in Thief River Falls since I was in grade one," she comments. "And I've always had lots of good friends, even if they weren't in the same class. The last few years have been especially important to me. I've really begun to realize how much I can help the younger students at the school — both with their classwork and by setting a good example."

"Besides," she said, "my teachers have been able to give me a lot of individual attention that I might not otherwise have received."

Jodi Ellen Meekma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Meekma Sr. of Newfolden, was led in the processional by students Jodi Madden and Jerime Lund. Pianist was Mrs. Ida Nordvall. Invocation was offered by Duane Madden. Jodi Madden and Jodi Meekma sang a duet entitled "Because He Lives."

The graduation address was given by Elder Mark Luckiesh. Duane Madden, principal of the school and Dr. Ben Sayler, chairman of the school's operating committee, presented the graduate with her diploma. A chorus of schoolgirls from grades five to eight sang "The Day of Miracles." Benediction was offered by Jodi's father.

Jodi was honored at a reception following the ceremony. She will continue her high school education at Maplewood academy, a Seventh-day Adventist co-educational boarding school located at Hutchinson, MN.

Having attended her family's flock of sheep since she was a little girl, her dream is to study to become a veterinarian. Jodi has demonstrated that she can single-handedly manage the day-to-day care of the flock as well as more complicated procedures like delivering triplet lambs.

"I really appreciate the experience I've received from living on the farm," she comments enthusiastically, "as well as the encouragement and support that veterinarian Steve Meyer has given me. He has taught me so much about his profession. And he has encouraged me to go on and be the best veterinarian I can. It really means a lot when someone believes in you!"

Grandson of TRF Woman To Study With NSF Grant

Bill Tuleen of Bryan, Texas, grandson of Mrs. Esther McKechnie of Thief River Falls, has earned a National Science Foundation creativity award for graduate engineering as a student at Texas A&M university.

The award will provide him with $90,000—up to $30,000 for each of the the next three years—to study fluid mechanics wherever he chooses, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Stanford University are among those schools which have expressed interest in serving as the host institution. Tuleen's paper was judged best in the NSF competition for this year's 30 recipients of the creativity award.

An article from the Texas A&M news service states the following about Tuleen's research:

Tuleen's major area of study is fluid mechanics. What makes Tuleen's research unique is that he plans to focus his research on dolphins.

"Scientists have measured the speeds at which a dolphin can travel, and have measured the drag and power output, and they don't match. Dolphins can travel a lot faster than we think they should be able to go," he said. "It's called Gray's Paradox. He quantified it in 1936, and people have been working on it ever since."

Either dolphins have about seven times greater power than is currently believed, said Tuleen, or they have some method for reducing hydrodynamic drag.

"The latter is more likely the case" he added. "If we can understand the techniques dolphins use to reduce drag, then maybe we can apply it to other things as well."

Such knowledge may be applied to making ships, airplanes, submarines and even space ships with less drag, allowing them to be propelled more economically.

Research probably comes more naturally to Tuleen than it might to some students, since both of his parents have doctorates. His father, Neal Tuleen, is an associate professor of soil and crop sciences at A&M. His mother, Darleen, has served as a researcher in plant science studies.

Tuleen was a winner in the NSF competition, but he's got more competition ahead. His interest in speed isn't confined to dolphins—he's also a race driver.

Tuleen wil be a participant in the Formula Ford Championship in Canada.

"I enjoy racing formula cars. I've raced in California and in England," he continues. "It may be something I like doing professionally, I don't know. That's why I race, and why I'm going to school. I want to discover where my greatest potential lies."

Duffy Receives Service Award For Legal Help

Kevin Duffy, a Thief River Falls lawyer, has received an award from Northwest Minnesota Legal Service, Inc., for service to financially disadvantaged clients.

NMLS, based in Moorhead, is a non-profit organization which provides free legal aid to low-income and senior citizens in 23 northwestern Minnesota counties. About 80 per cent of the cases handled by the program are done by private attorneys, who agree to accept a greatly reduced fee from NMLS. The program strives to serve those with the most critical legal needs.

Duffy is associated with the Olin law office of Thief River Falls.

According to Larry Nordick, NMLS director, "Kevin has always shown a great willingness to serve our clients. He is very sensitive and committed to their needs. Over the past year, he has been especially busy and effective in representing our financially distressed farm clients."

Duffy was presented with a plaque at a recent joint meeting of the 14th and 15th District Bar associations in Bemidji.

Sign Language Course Offered Here June-July

"Introduction to American Sign Language", the visual-gestural language used by the deaf in the United States and Canada, will be taught each Monday from June 15 through July 27 in Thief River Falls. Location will be in Lincoln high school.

Class time will be from 7 to 9 p.m. with a half-hour break or until 8:30 p.m. straight time at the consensus of the class. Instructor Laurel J. Johnson, interpreter in the Warren school system, will teach the manual alphabet, numbers and many other signs.

Course fee will be $25 for adults or $12.50 for students. Further information is available by contacting the community education department at the Thief River Falls public schools, phone 681-2700, extension 214.

Beth Oscarson Is Red Lake County Dairy Princess

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

When someone refers to a "working dairy farm", Beth Oscarson knows exactly what they mean. The Red Lake county dairy princess is actively involved in the physical aspects of dairying on her parents' farm northeast of Red Lake Falls.

"I help with the milking before and after school," she said. "And I do the calf feeding, help grind feed, keep track of the heifers for A-I, bale hay, fix fence...." She didn't need to list any more duties; the situation was abundantly clear.

And she admits she was excited to be selected county dairy princess at the banquet held recently at Brooks. Other contestants were Denette Huot and Loreen Schultz. All are classmates at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls. She is looking forward to the duties of dairy princess, including the Region One competition in Thief River Falls June 9 and the distribution of dairy products at the Red Lake county fair in Oklee and Bread and Butter days in Red Lake Falls.

The Oscarsons have been in dairying for only three years. They moved to northwestern Minnesota from the Breckenridge area in 1972 and farmed north of Thief River Falls until 1975 when they moved to the present farm just a couple of miles south of the Pennington-Red Lake county line. They built some of the buildings themselves and have a six-stall milking parlor with metered feed and a milk house with 500-gallon bulk tank.

While the operaration is functional, it isn't fancy, Tom Oscarson will tell you. "We have to admit that we built cheap in order to get into operation," he said. "There hasn't been any extra money in farming these last few years to be able to do anything else."

Beth joins her brother and sisters in working on the farm to make the dairy operation go. She has a sister Janet, 19, attending NDSSS at Wahpeton, ND; a brother Sean, 16, a sophomore at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls; sister Amy, 13, a seventh grader; sister Jennifer, 7, a second grader; and sister Amber, age 3.

Beth has been in 4-H club work for eight years and held the offices of secretary, treasurer, vice president and president of the Hilltop Ramblers 4-H club. She has carried foods, clothing, vegetable gardening and home environment projects and dairy projects since the family has been involved with milking cows. She presently has a registered calf as her 4-H project animal.

The Oscarsons milk about 30 head of grade Holsteins and have about 60 to 65 head of cows and young stock on the farm. They are members of the Red Lake county Dairy Herd Improvement association and the herd averages about 14,500 pounds of milk per animal.

Beth occasionally puts the strength gained on farm chores to good use. She is an arm wrestling enthusiast and has won a number of plaques and trophies in powderpuff competition in the area. She also tosses the shot and discus on the Lafayette high school track team and runs the 300 meter hurdles and mile relay. Her best tosses are 32 feet in the shot put and 106 feet in the discus throw.

She also enjoys swimming, cross-stitching and music. She plays trombone in the stage band at school and has taken two years of acoustic guitar lessons and two years of bass guitar lessons. A relaxing moment for her is to pick up her guitar and spend a few minutes strumming out tunes.

This fall she plans to attend the state school of science at Wahpeton, ND, where her older sister is enrolled. She will enter the pre-med program with a view toward obtaining a pharmacy degree. She graduates in the top five of the 52-member graduating class at Red Lake Falls this spring.

+ There are an estimated 21,000 dairy farms in Minnesota with an average estimate of 891,000 dairy cattle according to 1986 statistics.

+ Wisconsin, remained the leading milk producer in 1986 with 18 billion pounds, followed by: California, 17.2 billion; New York, 11.7 billion; Minnesota, 10.6 billion; and Pennsylvania, 10.15 billion pounds. These five states produced over one-half of the U.S. milk supply.

WHEN PEOPLE TALK ABOUT a working dairy farm, Beth Oscarson knows what they mean. She has been active in the physical part of the operation for the three years the family has been involved in dairying northeast of Red Lake Falls. Feeding calves and young stock is part of her duties. Beth is the 1987 Red Lake county dairy princess and will compete at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 9, for the Region One title.

THAT PLEASANT SMILE on the face of Beth Oscarson, Red Lake county dairy princess, belies the competitive spirit that dwells within. Beth shows some of the trophies she has won in powderpuff arm wrestling competition.

PREPARING FOR MILKING in the six-cow milking parlor on the Oscarson dairy farm northeast of Red Lake Falls, Red Lake county dairy princess Beth Oscarson hangs a milking unit in place. Beth helps with the milking of the 30 head of Holstein cattle as well as other chores, including summer haying and field work.

YOU'VE COME A LONG WAY
DAIRY FARMER

The dairyman of 50 or more years ago could have never even dreamed about what the industry would be like today. Modern technology has helped, but we think there's more to it. Your progressive thinking, hard work and faith in the future have paid off for us all. We salute you and thank you for making our lives better and easier.

AND CASS-CLAY HAS COME A LONG WAY WITH YOU!

DID YOU KNOW . . . that Cass-Clay purchases the milk produced on 94 dairy farms within a 35-mile radius of Thief River Falls?

DID YOU KNOW . . . that these Cass-Clay purchases account for hundreds of thousands of dollars flowing into the area economy each year?

BECAUSE OUR processing facilities are not located in this immediate area, it is difficult for people to see the impact Cass-Clay has here. Our former producers are well aware of our presence.

YOU CAN HELP US by asking for these exclusive Cass-Clay products:

CALF FEEDING is one of the many jobs on a dairy farm and often falls to the children in the family as a task they can perform. Red Lake county dairy princess Beth Oscarson is shown feeding calves in one of the calf barns on the Oscarson farm.

RELAXATION for Beth Oscarson, Red Lake county dairy princess, means a few quiet minutes to strum her guitar. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Oscarson of rural Red Lake Falls, Beth is completing her senior year at Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls. She has a brother and three sisters.

Cheeseburgers are the teen choice for any meal other than breakfast. You can relieve your boredom with their fare by using Blue cheese or Brick, Fontina or Feta, Colby or Swiss. Countless varieties are available in . . . the dairy case. But if your youngsters refuse anything but good old American cheese, rest assured that whatever the cheese, the calcium and other nutrients provided will give their health a helping hand.

MARSHALL COUNTY
PRINCESS

Ruthie Pittman New Marshall Princess

Ruthie Pittman, daughter of George and Caroline Pittman of Goodridge, was selected to be this year's Dairy Princess for Marshall County. She was crowned at a banquet held Monday evening at the Steak Knife 2 in Grygla.

The Pittmans own and operate a dairy farm about 6 miles north of Goodridge. Ruthie is a junior this year at Goodridge High School. School activities she is involved in include band, chorus and cheerleading. Ruthie's future plans after graduating from high school, are to go to college and major in childcare. As a member of the local 4 H club Ruthie gained experience in cooking and sewing. She likes most all outdoor activities and sports. She is currently working as a waitress at the cafe in Goodridge after school, and plans to also work there during the summer.

Ruthie will be one of many county dairy princesses to take part in the Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls on June 9, when one girl will be selected to represent northwest Minnesota as Northwest Dairy Princess. She will also represent Marhsall County in several other events this summer.

Maintain Your Cool By Proper Packing

Whether your outing is a short jaunt or a long haul, preparing meals will be easier if you plan and pack well. It's especially important to take good care of perishable foods when you're on the road in hot weather. A little attention will prevent a lot of trouble in the form of spoilage or even illness.

Everyone has heard the admonishment: "Keep hot things hot and cold things cold." Well, it really is necessary and it really isn't hard. Here are a few tips from American Dairy Association for packing and caring for take-along foods so they stay fresh — and safe.

First, be aware of which foods that have already been cooked; uncooked meats, fish and poultry; and anything containing eggs and dairy products. Keep these foods at 40 degrees Fahrenheit or below until it is time to serve or prepare them. Then, if they are to be eaten hot, make sure they are heated thoroughly.

The simplest guideline to follow is that if a food must be refrigerated at home, it must be kept cold outside the refrigerator.

Of all the things going on your trip, pack perishable foods last. Take them straight from the refrigerator or freezer to an insulated ice chest or cooler. Technically, an ice chest is a metal or heavy plastic container with a tight-fitting lid; a cooler is made of plastic foam. For long trips, an ice chest is preferable because a cooler doesn't provide as much insulation.

+ You can pack foods in crushed ice or use "canned ice," a non-water liquid in plastic packages. Freeze the "canned ice" solid and place it in the ice chest, which it will keep cold several days. It gives off no moisture as it melts and can be refrozen.

+ If you don't want to spend the money for this product, try making your own ice blocks. This works especially well for long camping trips. Fill clean, half gallon milk cartons with water; freeze and use to keep your foods cold. When the ice melts you have cold drinking water.

+ Another dual-purpose method of keeping foods cool that also saves space on a long trip is to freeze meats or poultry solid and use them as ice blocks. If frozen solid, chicken parts will defrost in an ice chest in a day or two, ground beef, fish and steak in a day.

+ To keep milk extra cold on a short trip, freeze milk as ice cubes, then add them to a wide-mouthed thermos filled with fluid milk. They will not dilute the milk like cubes made from water.

+ Butter will stay fresher during a long trip if first frozen in its original wrapper, then stored in an ice chest surrounded by other frozen foods. To use, remove just what you need then to fifteen minutes beforehand.

To make packing easier:

+ Buy or pack the smallest portions-containers of food that will still be enough for the outing, such as condiments, sauces, perishables and canned goods.

+ Pack anything that might be damaged by water — in the cooler or in the rain — in moisture-proof bags or containers. Empy cottage cheese cartons are excellent for this. If you take foods such as mixes, dry cereals and powdered milk in containers other than their original boxes, be sure to pack the mixing directions too.

On a journey of several days, check the ice level each evening before stopping, so it will be simpler to purchase more ice if needed. Drain the water from the chest every night to prevent damage to contents.

How can you tell if the interior of your ice chest is staying below 40 degrees Fahrenheit (The only accurate way is to pack a small thermometer with the food. An old desk-type wrapped in plastic bag will do. Without a therometer, you can make sure foods are safe by keeping perishables always packed in ice and by opening the chest only infrequently, removing everything for a meal at once.

So as you map out your next trip, keeping track of the weather, routes and lodging, put aside some time for "provisions." With a small amount of caution and care, you can have wholesome, delicious meals...no matter how far you roam.

Renovated Pastures Benefit

Increased yields and better forage quality can be the results of pasture improvements or renovation, according to the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD). Now is the time to consider improvement methods or plan for renovation next year.

Any improvement practice must have the potential to provide higher net return — usually increased yields, higher quality forage and fewer mid-summer or seasonal pasture shortages. Ultimately, the return from pasture investments depends on the producer's ability to manage the improved pastureland.

Generally, advantages of improved pasture are: (1) Intensive management needed on fewer acres; (2) additional income from selling, renting or producing forage on "excess" land; (3) less fencing and greater accessibility to herd; (4) more and better forage; and (5) even distribution of forage throughout the year.

Species selection is a major consideration of pasture improvement. The pasture should have a well-established high percentage of desirable grass species that are capable of uniform production without reseeding. A drought-tolerant grass and legume mixture also is recommended for most areas of the state, however, all-grass pastures are more tolerant of frequent or continuous grazing. And grasses are generally easier to establish and maintain.

If the existing pasture has a good species mixture, the most economical pasture improvement may be soil testing and fertilization. Nitrogen fertilizer with corrective topdressing of phosphorous and-or potassium can greatly improve the carrying capacity of grass pastures.

Renovation, which is the practice of replacing the old pasture with new seeding, may be considered if the existing pasture cannot be significantly improved with fertilizer alone. In this case, the producer can apply lime, fertilizer and seed to produce deep-rooted, drought-resistant legumes and grasses.

New and improved techniques of interseeding can also increase the productivity of existing pastures. Some local SWCDs have equipment for seeding legumes and-or grasses into sod with a once-over tillage and seeding operation. This technique allows pastures to be seeded and grazed within the same growing season.

While each of these methods requires an initial cash outlay, payback can be considerable. For instance, several studies have demonstrated increases of 100 to 150 pounds of beef per acre on improved versus unimproved grass pastures. Your local University of Minnesota extension office can provide additional information on the economics of pasture improvements in this area.

For technical and financial assistance on pasture improvement practices contact the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation district.

June Dairy Month Held

June Dairy Month (JDM) has been celebrated since 1937 when it was launched with the theme, "Keep Young — Drink Milk." Every year this month-long salute to the dairy industry is observed in homes and restaurants, in supermarkets and stores and wherever dairy foods are sold. It has become the accepted time of the year to extend a special "thanks" to the dairy families of America who produce the milk we drink and consume in dairy products..

At a time when Americans are more concerned than ever about health and fitness, dairy foods are especially important to consumers. They fit well with today's busy lifestyles because they're convenient, nutritious and a good buy, when the cost of other food items is considered.

Food editors help extend this message and join in the celebration each year by spotlighting dairy products in their weekly columns. Recipe suggestions for using milk and milk products, and stories about specific products fill newspaper food pages. Community celebrations also abound during June in the form of parades and celebrity "Milk-offs," traveling exhibits and ice cream socials, farm tours and weekend brunches.

As the most productive part of agriculture, dairying deserves this annual salute. The most recent figures indicate, for example, that in 1985, 11.03 million cows produced 143.7 billion pounds of milk. That's 16.7 billion gallons of milk. Even more remarkable, the 11.03 million cows in 1985 outproduced the 17.5 million cows in 1960.

Since 1957, American Dairy Association has chosen June Dairy Month to kick off the summer season for dairy products with a variety of special advertising and promotion programs. Point-of-purchase materials carrying the JDM theme are installed in more than 25,000 supermarkets across the United States. Appetizing photos of dairy recipes encourage shoppers to participate in the celebration.

So as we settle into the slow, hazy days of summer, it seems only right that we join in the June Dairy Month salute and toast the dairy industry...with a refreshing glass of milk, a generous scoop of ice cream or a serving of our own special dairy treat.

Northwest Dairy Day In TRF June 9th

Northwest Dairy Improvement association will host its 38th annual Northwest Dairy Day on June 9. The event will be held in the parking lot located next to Floyd B. Olson park.

Northwest Dairy Day is sponsored by the counties of Beltrami, Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Becker, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake Of The Woods, Roseau, Red Lake, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk and Wadena.

Judging for cattle entries will begin at 10 a.m. with Kathy Merkins, 1986 Northwest Dairy Princess, reigning over the festivities. The Stuart McLeod award will be announced at 3 p.m. along with the grand champion purebred, grand champion grade and overall show champion. Purebred and grade champion winners will receive a trip to the dairy expo held in Madison, Wisconsin, and a purebred calf, respectively. As of May 27, the chamber of commerce has received 143 entries.

The dairy food demonstration is open to all boys and girls and is not limited to 4-H participants. The three classes of beginners, juniors and advanced will register at Lincoln high school at 10 a.m. Prizes will be awarded to all participants and the winners will also be recognized at the evening banquet.

The purpose of the dairy demonstration is to promote dairy products and to give youth the opportunity to present a well-organized demonstration to the public.

The Northwest Dairy Princess contest will be held at Lincoln high school and 16 contestants have pre-registered. Judges are Thomas Hagness of Minnesota Dairy in Grand Forks, Darlene Muzzy of Thief River Falls and Paul Krause of Eagle Bend. Contestants will take part in the dairy show, distribute dairy products at local grocery stores, participate in personal interviews with the judges throughout the day, partake in a dairy consumerism presentation and experience a modeling demonstration.

Highlight of the day will be the 6 p.m. evening banquet when 1986 Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins will crown her successor at the Best Western. Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, will be a special guest and Howard Person, president of the NW Dairy Improvement association will serve as master of ceremonies.

The banquet is open to the public and reservations may be made at the chamber of commerce office by June 4. Price of the banquet is $4.75.

Thief River Falls originated Dairy Day in Minnesota in 1949 and Albert Koop, retiring director, will be recognized at the banquet. He has served continuously since 1949.

The 4-H club members will offer dairy products in grocery stores throughout the city. Everyone is invited to come and join a fun-filled day honoring the dairy industry.

For more information contact the chamber of commerce at P.O. Box 514, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or call (218) 681-3720.

Food Best Source Of Vitamins, Minerals

Three national health organizations and a consumer health protection group joined forces recently to warn Americans about unsafe use of vitamin and mineral supplements.

That joint statement came from the American Dietetic Association, American Institute of Nutrition, American Society for Clinical Nutrition and the National Council Against Health Fraud.

A spokesman for the organizations, C. Wayne Callaway, M.D., Director of the Center for Clinical Nutrition at George Washington University, said the warning was prompted by "evidence of widespread supplement use, projections of further increases, and professional concern that what consumers don't know may hurt them."

The group urged Americans to get their nutrients from food rather than pills whenever possible. "Meeting nutrient needs by choosing a variety of foods in moderation rather than by supplementation reduces the potential risk for both nutrient risk for both nutrient deficiencies and excesses," the statement said.

According to the FDA, nearly 40 per cent of adult Americans consume an alarming three to eight times the Recommended Dietary Allowances (RDA) in supplement form.

Industry statistics show supplement sales have more than doubled in the past ten years and are now $2.6 billion annually. According to one industry projection, supplement sales may top $10 billion by 1990.

The leader in sales growth is calcium. Consumers will spend around $200 million for calcium supplements this year compared with $47 million in 1983.

Dr. Robert Heaney, Professor of Medicine and osteoporosis researcher at Creighton University, points out that high doses of calcium supplements can upset the balance of other important nutrients such as iron and zinc. "It's better to consume calcium-rich foods which provide a natural balance of nutrients," advised Dr. Heaney.

In addition, studies have shown that the body absorbs calcium in dairy foods more readily than calcium in pills because of the presence of other helpful nutrients such as vitamin D, phosphorus and magnesium.

Although supplements may be helpful in a few special circumstances, the current prevailing scientific advice is that food is indeed best.

In Appreciation of AMERICAN DAIRY FARMERS

"TAKE A BREAK with a cool, refreshing glass of milk!" urges Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way XXXIII. Daughter of Robert and Joan Moerke of Ashby, Yvonne was crowned Grant County Dairy Princess and won the regional dairy princess contest in June of 1986. Yvonne was selected Princess Kay of the Milky Way from a field of 500 candidates and was crowned at the 1986 Minnesota State Fair. Yvonne is a graduate of Ashby High School and Brown Institute in Minneapolis where she specialized in television production. She is now employed full time by a St. Paul insurance company. Yvonne's hobbies include sewing, cooking, swimming, camping, fishing, speaking, and softball.

Salad Entree Has Subtle, Smoky Flavor

Summertime is no time to spend in the kitchen cooking; there are too many wonderful places to be, too many delightful things to do. But what's a cook to do when family members expect something satisfying at mealtime?

For the cook who wants to minimize cooking time and maximize summer fun, Smoked Turkey Salad can provide the answer. This nourishing, main dish salad takes advantage of the extra-special flavor that "smoking" imparts to turkey and other meats. Shoppers unfamiliar with smoked turkey will find it in most supermarket deli cases. Chopped red apple, crisp celery, and pecans add color and crunch to the salad, while navy beans, most often found in soups and casseroles, provide an extra dose of protein and appetite satisfaction.

The dressing allows food lovers to save on calories without sacrificing taste. Smooth and creamy, it uses sour half and half to take down the calorie count while lemon juice and Dijon-style mustard bring up the flavor.

Smoked Turkey Salad is at its best if refrigerated for two to three hours before serving, to allow the flavors time to blend. Serve it with crusty French bread or favorite type of cracker. A refreshing luncheon or light dinner entree, it's certain to appeal to even the most active, warm-weather enthusiast.

Soil Erosion Major Concern For Future

by Mary C. Turck
Land Stewardship Project

Gentle spring rains brighten lawns and trees with their first soft green. Thunderstorms rumble over the countryside, washing fields and lawns clean and fresh and bright. Tiny rivulets of runoff carry infinitesimal specks of soil from fields to ditches. Gullies fill with the aftermath of thunderstorms, Creeks and rivers run high and muddy with spring tides.

Every year as spring rain brings the land alive it also washes valuable topsoil from fields — and into waterways where sedimentation becomes a threat to clean water and to wildlife. Good farmers hate to see topsoil lost as much as they hate to see waterways polluted. For them and for the nation, pollution and erosion control are never-ending tasks.

"Non-point pollution" is pollution which comes from a variety of sources, rather than a single source such as a sewage pipe or industrial waste discharge pipe. Non-point pollution sources account for most of the water pollution in the country. Soil erosion and run-off of pesticides, fertilizers and livestock waste are major sources of non-point pollution.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), passed by Congress in 1985, is one of the newest and most powerful tools for the twin tasks of reducing soil erosion and water pollution. CRP allows farmers with highly erodible land to offer to rent it to the government for ten years. The farmer makes an offer with a specific rental price, and lowest bidders are accepted. Once accepted, the farmer also receives a one-time payment to cover part of the cost of planting the land to grass or woodland cover.

According to a Sierra Club official, if the entire 45 million acres allowed by law are enrolled in the program soil erosion will be reduced by more than 40 per cent in the United States. If CRP works as planned over the next 10 years, it will save 10 billion tons of topsoil across the United States.

No program is without flaws. Some highly erodible land has been passed over for cost reasons or because of competion with the USDA set-aside programs. CRP also doesn't offer any help to farmers who have already been struggling to keep their more erodible lands under grass cover.

But overall CRP does offer a promising opportunity for farmers to practice good conservation on their land, and to be paid instead of penalized for doing so.

(Aim of the non-profit Land Stewardship Project, 512 West Elm, Stillwater, MN 55082, is to apply religious, ethical and environmental principles of caring for the land and the people on it. The Project is built around the concept that farmers and landowners have a moral obligation to the land, and that scoiety as a whole shares that obligation.)

Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Me s Carries Dairy Message In Many Ways

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For a number of dairy farmers between Ada and Willmar, the surprise visit by a blonde young lady who talked their language and understood their concerns had to be a highlight of the past year. Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins of Ada dropped in unexpectedly and unannounced at a number of farms last summer while traveling between her home and a Bible camp where she worked near Sibley State Park.

"Yes, I guess they were surprised," she says in retrospect, "and at first they were probably suspicious, wondering if I was selling something. But when I told them I was a regional dairy princess and was interested in their operation and their problems they all seemed to be very receptive."

Isn't it a little unusual for a young lady to drive unattended into a strange farm yard and strike up a conversation with whomever happens to be around?

"I've always been an outgoing person," she said in a bit of understatement. "And I have always had a pride in being from a dairy farm and being part of the dairy industry. But I think after this past year I have a deeper feeling of pride in the industry.

"I tried to concentrate on the future for dairy farming. Last year there were so many unhappy people. This year people seem a little more positive. I don't like to dwell on the negative. I think dairymen have to keep promoting their product. I know individual farmers in all areas of Minnesota now and I realize that everyone's goals are different. I think the last year helped me to realize that."

Kathleen's pride in the industry was somewhat tempered in the last year by the sale of the Merkins dairy herd through the federal government's buyout program. Her father, Albert Merkins had decided to retire from active farming and the federal program provided an opportunity which appeared to be a once in a lifetime proposition.

"Sure, I miss having the cattle around," he said. "There have been dairy cattle on this farm for at least 50 years. My father had dairy cattle. Last June when Kathleen was selected regional dairy princess we were milking 50 head of cattle. We spread out the sale and milked some cows through August, selling the last ones after the state Princess Kay contest."

While there were cattle on the farm, Kathleen was an active participant in the dairy operation. The herd was on DHIA test with a top animal producing about 18,000 pounds of milk and 700 pounds of butterfat. She showed dairy cattle in 4-H competition and did a lot of judging in both 4-H club and Future Farmers of America team events.

Just turned 21 years old, Kathleen has completed her junior year at Concordia college in Moorhead where she is majoring in social work and minoring in sociology. She participated in the Region One princess contest three times, finishing as second runner-up the first year and first runner-up the second year before receiving the title in 1986. She will surrender her crown June 9 at Northwest Dairy Day where a special evening dinner and coronation program will be conducted this year.

She is a 100-meter hurdler at Concordia and also runs in relays and sprints. In high school she earned her way to the regional event each year from eighth grade through her senior year. But cattle and track competition are far from her only interests.

She enjoys downhill skiing, swimming, fishing, riding bicycle and horseback, playing the piano and flute. She takes voice lessons, is a member of Alpha Kappa Phi social and service society and the Student Association of Social Workers.

While in high school she was in band, choir, jazz choir, solo and ensembles, accompanist for the choir, actress in one-act and three-act plays, class officer, member of the science club, football and basketball cheerleader, participant in speech and debate, president of the junior high school Future Homemakers of America and vice president of the Future Farmers of America chapter as a senior. Toss in being a homecoming queen candidate and member of the Hegne Hustlers 4-H club for nine years, holding most of the offices there, and you get an idea of her active community life.

Since becoming Northwest Dairy Princess she has been involved in a number of appearances and events — perhaps more than she had expected but no more than she has enjoyed and appreciated. At the state black and white show sponsored by the Minnesota Holstein association in Thief River Falls last summer she got her first real exposure to the mixture of high heels and show ring manure.

She was in parades in Karlstad, Twin Valley and five parades at the state fair in addititon to others. She attended the Minnesota Milk Producers association convention in Alexandria and spoke to the Cass Clay Creamery annual meeting in Fargo. She presented awards during dairy day at the Red River Valley winter shows in Crookston, spoke to the Red River Valley Dairymen's association annual banquet and made other appearances as well.

At the Minnesota state fair where the state contest was held she worked in the Minnesota ADA stand in the dairy building, worked in the milk stand, handed out materials, sold dairy items and did some handing out of dairy samples.

When she completes her degree at Concordia next year, she hopes to enter the field of high school counseling and perhaps later to work for a social agency with a counseling branch for farmers. Her father now works part time for area farmers and is in demand by dairymen who need a capable replacement so they can get away for a few days. Her mother, Marie, is in charge of the senior meals program at Ada for Lutheran Social Services. Her brother John, 23, works at Wyndmere, ND.

"I hope I have been able to contribute something during the past year as dairy princess," she said. "It has been a growing experience for me and a chance to repay some of the things which the dairy industry has done for me. I guess I'll always consider myself to be a dairy farmer's daughter."

BENEFITS OF MILK in the building of strong bones was discussed by Kathleen Merkins, Northwest Dairy Princess, during a program for the senior meals program in Ada recently. Kathleen's mother is director of the program. Kathleen is majoring in social work and minoring in sociology at Concordia college in Moorhead

WHEN A DAIRY PRINCESS comes to call, even the cattle line up for a better look. Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins misses the cattle on her own farm since her father retired and sold the herd in the federal government's dairy buy-out program. So she paid a visit to the Howard Neumann farm nearby to get reacquainted with the livestock. The Neumann's daughter Heidi was a former Northwest Dairy Princess.

When you stir up your own homemade ice cream, you get all the fresh goodness of real milk and cream, plus whatever fruits, nuts and flavorings you prefer. Nothing else is quite so delicious as ice cream! For that "down on the dairy farm" feeling, make a freezer full of the most popular flavor of all, vanilla. Use a real vanilla bean to give it deep, true vanilla goodness. If it's worth the effort of making it's worth using the best ingredients.

This June Dairy Month put a little pizzazz in your favorite potato salad recipe with a flavor lift from nutritious, natural cheese. For a sweet, nutty flavor, toss chunks of Swiss cheese into a salad. For a sharp, tangy flavor, crumble in some Blue. Considering the many varieties of cheese available in the dairy case, there's certain to be a cheese to suit your recipe. Remember, too, that cheese is a quick and easy way to add protein, calcium, phosphorus and vitamin A to everyone's diet.

JUST A COUNTRY GIRL, Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins doesn't hesitate to discuss dairying and dairy products with just about anyone just about anywhere. While traveling to and from summer camp last year, she would drop in unannounced on dairy farmers, introduce herself and talk about dairying. Most of the farmers were surprised, she said, but once they found out she knew something about the business they seemed to appreciate the interest.

JUST A FEW DAYS OLD, this healthy Holstein calf gets a little special treatment with a bottle feeding from Kathleen Merkins of Ada, reigning Northwest Dairy Princess. Kathleen has always enjoyed cattle and been proud of her part in the dairy industry. She received her crown at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls last year, competed in the state Princess Kay of the Milky Way contest and will crown her successor at the Region One contest in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 9. The coronation will take place at an evening dinner this year.

AN ATHLETIC GIRL in high school where she excelled in track and field events, Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins knows the energy lift that can be received from dairy products. A pitcher of milk in the refrigerator was always a welcome lift when returning home from school activities.

Minnesota Dairying Trivia

+ The "All you can drink" milk booth at the 1986 Minnesota State Fair sold 13,458 gallons or the equivalent of 215,328 eight oz. glasses.

+ Dairying is Minnesota's major agriculture industry. It accounts for about 20 per cent of the state's total cash farm receipts.

+ Minnesota ranks 2nd in number of people living on farms.

+ Milk production during 1986 totaled a record high 144 billion pounds, 1 per cent higher than in 1985.

+ In the United States, Minnesota ranks 2nd in cheese production, 3rd in butter production, and 7th in ice cream production.

+ The two Minnesota counties that do not have dairy cows are Lake County and Cook County.

+ Minnesota's major dairy product at the turn of the century was butter.

+ As of May 1, 1986, there were 24 butter plants, 22 cheese plants, and 11 ice cream plants in Minnesota.

+ Minnesota's average milk production per cow in 1986 was 11,912 pounds.

+ The predominent breed of dairy cattle in Minnesota is the Holstein.

+ The total number of dairy plants operating in the state of Minnesota in 1986 was 187.

MILK AND CHEESE taste so good that Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins is "beside herself" trying to decide which to serve first. There is a trick to this photography, but there is no trick to the nutrition in dairy products. They're the real thing.

Not Everything In Dairy Case Is The Real Thing

Smart shoppers learn as much as they can about what they're buying. This holds true whether they're selecting a car, a camera or crystal. It's especially important to one's lifestyle and well-being when the purchase is food.

The wide variety of foods available today is counted as one of our country's greatest blessings. Yet with so many different types of foods, ingredients and processing methods, this diversity has also brought confusion.

The dairy case is a good example. Despite the name, not everything sold there is a dairy product (and that doesn't mean just refrigerated biscuits, either). And, not every real dairy product sold in the dairy case. To learn which ones are not, as well as some other facts about foods, take the quiz below. It will help you assess your shopping savvy and hopefully make you a more informed purchaser, especially of dairy products.

1. Which of the following are real dairy products?
   - a. cheese
   - b. ice milk
   - c. milk
   - d. half and half
   - e. sour cream

If you said, "All of the above," you're right. Being made from milk is what makes a dairy product a dairy product.

~~2. True-or-False:~~

Exact standards are set by the government for the composition, ingredients and preparation methods of real dairy foods.

True. Called "standards of identity," they are established by the Food and Drug Administration and some state government agencies to assure uniformity, value and wholesomeness of all milk and real dairy foods. Standards regulate such characteristics as milk-fat and moisture content of cheese and weight per gallon of ice cream.

3. Now a little harder question. Which of these are real dairy products?
   - a. Pasteurized process cheese
   - b. Nonfat dry milk
   - c. Sweetened condensed milk
   - d. Evaporated milk
   - e. Sour half and half

Again, all of them are real dairy foods, even if they all aren't found in the dairy case. This is because they are all made from milk, not vegetable fat or vegetable protein. Pasteurized process cheese is natural cheese that has been ground, melted and pasteurized by high temperatures, with emulsifiers added to prevent separation of milkfat. Often other food ingredients are included for flavor and texture, for example, vinegar, salt and spices.

Nonfat dry milk is simply skim milk with most of the water removed. It can be used "as is," in cooking, or reconstituted, in exactly the same ways you use skim milk. Evaporated and sweetened condensed milks are fluid milk with approximately 60 per cent of the water removed. To prevent spoilage, evaporated milk is sterilized and sweetened condensed milk has a sweetener, such as sucrose, added. Sour half and half is like sour cream, but contains 10.5 to 18 per cent milkfat as compared to sour cream's 18 per cent or more.

4. How can I be sure I am buying a real dairy product?
   - a. Read the ingredients list
   - b. Look for the "REAL" Seal

Both answers are correct. With real and imitation dairy foods packaged in look alike containers, sometimes it's difficult to be sure what you are getting. The fastest and simplest way is to look for the "REAL" Seal. This symbol, a stylized drop of milk encircling the word "REAL," can be displayed only on genuine dairy foods meeting federal and state standards. American Dairy Association assures that the contents of a package with the Seal are genuine dairy products.

Some real dairy foods do not display the Seal. If you don't see it on the container, that doesn't mean there is not a real dairy food inside. Reading the ingredients list will tell you whether or not the contents are a dairy product. The base material of the product must be 100 per cent milk or cream.

Both the ingredients list and the "REAL" Seal help you know what you're buying before you buy it, so you can continue to get the value you're paying for, which is the real goal of smart shoppers.

Neglected Pasture No Bargain

Consider the much-neglected, often under-productive pasture. Because most pastureland doesn't have the erosion or yield potential of traditional cropland, conservation and fertility management on these acres frequently is overlooked.

But pastures can be profitable, if given the thought and care of other cropland. And pastures can become more productive through conservation practices and intensive management.

Pasture management may be an unfamiliar concept to many farmers. For that reason, a sound conservation plan can be an important tool for a landowner who is considering converting or has begun to convert idle land into pasture. The essentials for a good pasture management and conservation plan are basic;

- — Economic objectives (sustaining cows, achieving fast weight gain, etc.);
- — Soils data and watering locations;
- — Number and type of animals;
- — Fertility management;
- — Grass-legume species selection;
- — Rotation grazing plan.

The latter three become the main elements for sound soil and water conservation on pastureland.

Because of the limited and low-cost inputs, pasture may be the cheapest crop to manage. And because the animals harvest and use it directly, it may be the least labor-intensive. The first considerations for good output are fertility management and rotational grazing, because the soil is a fixed resource that can be changed little.

Good fertility management can produce great results in increased protein content and higher yield, both of which will produce better livestock gains and increased milk production. Good fertility management will also ensure healthy cover — which in turn protects fragile or erosive land.

The advantage of fertility management and good species selection on this land is obvious, because if the soil type rocks or slope limits crop production, it could become more productive through intensive pasture management.

This is where species selection goes hand-in-hand with the other two main conservation considerations — fertility and rotation grazing. A tight root system will produce tighter sod, thereby reducing erosion potential. A good grass-legume mixture will supply nitrogen and produce better yields. Both of these factors will contribute to the overall vitality of the pasture.

But because overgrazing can greatly reduce the yield of otherwise highly productive pasture, a rotational grazing system incorporating adequate water supplies is the third critical element of a good pasture management plan. Grazing management is essential to maximize returns from investment in fertilizer and other inputs.

Just as overgrazing unmanaged land limits livestock and milk production, it also destroys the land's natural fertility and ability to support wildlife populations. Both economic and environmental incentives, therefore, can justify a rotation system.

The basis of any managed grazing system is the subdivision of existing pasture into smaller fenced areas with similar production potential. This enables producers to confine their herds to one area while the others recover from prior grazing. In practice, the grazing sequence is reversed each year, resulting in greater forage production, better utilization of the individual pastures, and improved carrying capacity of the overall pasture area.

Ironically, new land retirement programs are putting greater emphasis on pastureland in many parts of the state. Conservationists are discovering that some of the cropland that formerly was used for pasture (typically marginal lands) are now being enrolled in the state RIM Reserve program, CRP or other similar retirement programs. This puts increased pressure on the remaining pasture to support the same number of animals. More and more farmers are recognizing the benefits of an intensively managed pasture rotation system.

For more details about improving or establishing your pastureland, contact the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District at Grygla, MN.

The latest figures indicate that all of the fluid milk consumed, 86 per cent is at home. Of the milk consumed away from home, about nine per cent is in schools.

"D" is for dairy products, but remember the "C" that comes before "D." It stands for clean, cool and covered, and that's what's needed to keep dairy products in top-notch condition.

Yogurt sales continue on a strong upward trend. The most recent figures show that yogurt sales jumped 10 per cent over the previous year. It's estimated that each person consumes nearly four pounds of yogurt a year.

SALUTE TO THE Dairymen

Thanks for your dedication and service! We applaud your high standards and quality controls so that we may enjoy the finest in dairy products!

How Do You Like Your Milk? Let Me Count The Ways

CHEESE AND CRACKERS make a taste tempting snack any time of the year, but especially so during June Dairy Month. Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins, who took an active role in the dairy operation of the Merkins farm north of Ada, is an attractive hostess while promoting dairy product use.

Processing developments over the past few years have made possible such a wide variety of milk types that some people find it hard to know the difference. Listed below is a lineup of the kinds of milk currently available in the dairy case. Whatever your taste or dietary needs, there's certain to be a milk to fill the order.

Whole Milk must contain at least 3.25 per cent milkfat and 8.25 per cent solids not fat. The solids not fat include protein, carbohydrate, minerals and water-soluble vitamins. In addition, almost all whole milk marketed is fortified with D.

Lowfat Milk has had sufficient milkfat removed to bring the levels to between 0.5 and two per cent. It also must contain at least 8.25 per cent solids not fat. Vitamin A is added to offset its loss caused by removal of some of the milkfat. It must contain 2000 International Units (IU) of A per quart. Lowfat milk is labeled with the per cent milkfat, e.g., 2 per cent lowfat milk. Addition of vitamin D is optional. Milk-derived may also be added to lowfat milk. If nonfat milk solids are added to reach the 10 per cent solids not fat level, the product must be labeled "protein fortified" or 'fortified with protein."

Skim Milk, also called nonfat milk, has had sufficient milkfat removed to bring the level to less than 0.5 per cent. It must contain at least 8.25 per cent solids not fat and must be fortified with vitamin A. If nonfat solids are added to reach the 10 per cent level, it must be labeled "protein fortified" or "fortified with protein." Addition of vitamin D is optional.

Chocolate Milk is made by adding chocolate or cocoa and sweetener to milk — whole, lowfat or skim. Both the lowfat and skim must be fortified with 2000 IU of vitamin A per quart. Addition of vitamin D is optional.

Eggnog is a mixture of milk, eggs, sugar and cream. It may also contain added flavorings such as rum extract, nutmeg or vanilla. It's a seaonal product most readily available during the Christmas holidays.

Nonfat Dry Milk Fortified with vitamins A and D is obtained by removal of water from pasteurized skim milk. It takes 100 pounds of milk to make about eight pounds of nonfat dry milk, which contains not more than five per cent by weight of moisture and not more than 1.5 per cent by weight of milkfat, unless otherwise indicated. It is fortified with vitamins A and D and has all the proteins, minerals and water soluble vitamins of the nonfat portion of milk.

Evaporated Milk is a canned whole milk concentrate containing not less than 7.5 per cent milkfat and 25.0 per cent milk solids. It is prepared by evaporating about 60 per cent of the water from fresh whole milk. This concentrate is then homogenized, fortified with vitamin D (400 IU per reconstituted quart), sealed in cans and sterilized by heat. Addition of vitamin A is optional.

Sweetened Condensed Milk is a canned whole milk concentrate containing not less than 28.0 per cent milk solids and 8.0 per cent milkfat. It is pasteurized and may be homogenized. The quantity of the nutritive sweetener used is sufficient to prevent spoilage.

Buttermilk is made by adding a special bacterial culture to pasteurized milk to produce the desirable acidity, body, flavor and aroma characteristic of this product. Salt is usually added. Yellow flecks in some buttermilk are bits of real butter added for extra flavor.

Sweet Acidophilus Milk is made by adding a bacteria culture known as Lactobacillus acidophilus to fresh pasteurized milk, generally lowfat or skim. These bacteria are thought to maintain the balance of beneficial microorganisms in the intestinal tract. Acidophilus cultured milk may be prescribed for people who are taking antibiotics.

Lactose-Treated Milk is pasteurized milk to which the enzyme lactase has been added. The enzyme helps to break down lactose, the natural sugar found in milk, into two digested sugars. In other words, the lactose in milk is predigested prior to drinking, so even those who are lactose-intolerant can receive the benefits of milk's nutrients.

High-Calcium Milk is made by adding calcium to milk, generally lowfat, to help individuals meet their daily calcium requirements. The added calcium is derived from milk or from chemical compounds such as calcium carbonate or tri-calcium phosphate.

June is National Dairy Month. A time to say thanks to the dairy families of America. So take a break, and toast them with a cool, frosty milk shake, malt or soda.

To add pep to salads while cutting calories, season an eight ounce container of plain yogurt with a dry salad mix. Spoon lightly over salad greens.

Dairy Products Add Flavor To Barbecue Menu

The thrill of the grill calls to Americans each summer, and Americans respond with growing enthusiasm. Cooking out-of-doors is more fun than being cooped up in the kitchen, and willing hands to help are more easily found. It doesn't matter if the grill is on a patio or porch, a deck, balcony or fire-escape, in the neighborhood park, on the roof, at the beach. Delighful odors fill the air, appetites freshen, and eating takes on a festive flair.

Buttermilk Marinated Kabobs derive their special flavor from the marinade-baste. A blend of buttermilk, brown sugar, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and herbs, the marinade imparts a pleasing tanginess to the taste of the Kabobs. Given time, the acid in the milk also helps to tenderize the meat, which is a nice plus for the homemaker interested in using less-expensive cuts of meat. Plump cherry tomatoes, small whole onions and half rounds of zucchini fill out the Kabobs but any number of other garden-fresh vegetables can be used. Once assembled, the Kabobs cook quickly over a bed of hot coals.

Picnic Potato Salad provides a colorful accompaniment to the Kabobs. Sliced, but unpeeled, boiled red potatoes are gently tossed with sour cream, bacon, horseradish, mustard and seasonings. One to two hours chilling time allows the flavors to blend and permeate the potatoes. Sprinkle with snipped fresh chives and you have a refreshing change-of-pace salad for an al fresco meal certain to please family and guests.

A summertime meat-and-potatoes dinner doesn't have to mean spending hours at the stove. A minimum of indoor preparation time can result in a marvelous outdoors meal.

BUTTERMILK MARINATED KABOBS

Yield: 8 kabobs

Marinade:

2 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ teaspoon dried marjoram
2 cups buttermilk

Kabobs:

2 pounds round steak, approximately 1-inch thick, cut into 2-inch squares (24 pieces)
3 medium onions, cut into 8 pieces each
24 one-inch thick slices zucchini
12 cherry tomatoes
6 large mushrooms, halved

For marinade: Combine brown sugar, lemon juice, Worcestershire, salt and herbs. Stir in buttermilk. Add meat; cover and marinate in refrigerator a minimum of 12 hours.

For kabobs: Parboil onions in boiling salted water to cover, 6 to 8 minutes; rinse in cold water and drain.

To assemble: Alternate pieces of meat with onions, zucchini, tomatoes and mushrooms on each skewer. Grill over hot coals until meat reaches desired degree of doneness. Baste frequently with marinade. Allow approximately 15 minutes for medium cooked meat.

Calci Skim Makes Entry On Market As Health Helper

To counteract the lack of calcium in many people's modern diets, a new product is being marketed which provides additional calcium in a flavorful, nutritious drink.

"Calci Skim is a little whiter than regular skim milk and a little thicker," states Tom Hagness, sales manager of the Minnesota Dairy Division of Cass Clay Creamery in Fargo, ND. He says his company's new product has 96 calories per eight-ounce glass, about the same as in regular milk.

"But it has 500 milligrams of calcium per glass a scompared to 300 milligrams in regular and two-per cent milk," Hagness said. The product is now available locally and throughout the area.

Many women in particular don't get their daily quotas of calcium, Hagness said, because they have a tendency to supplement their diet with antacids or other pills which don't give them the benefit of Vitamin D, which Calci Skim provides. Lack of calcium can lead to osteoporosis, a disease which weakens bones and causes them to become brittle.

Hagness said the average adult needs 800 milligrams of calcium while pregnant women need 1,200 milligrams. Two eight-ounce glasses of milk will help adults reach their recommended amount of calcium needed daily.

Because Calci Skim doesn't contain butterfat such as whole milk or two per cent does, it is considered good for dieters.

"We would like to have more of our products available in Thief River Falls supermarkets," Hagness said. "We have about 100 milk producers in a 35-mile radius of Thief River Falls who sell their production to Cass Clay and they would like to see more of their production in the local stores."

GAINING POPULARITY with milk drinkers is skim milk which has been fortified with added calcium. Calci Skim, prepared and distributed by Cass Clay Creamery of Fargo, is one such product which is intended to help provide people with their needed allowance of calcium each day.

Balance Concept Can Make Farming Greater Pleasure

by Mary C. Turck
Land Stewardship Project

Dick and Sharon Thompson began farming near Boone, Iowa in the 1950's. Dick had agricultural college degrees, including an M.S. in animal production, and says that for the first ten years they "bought everything the salesmen sold." In other words, they were progressive, well-educated, technologically modern farmers who used heavy chemical inputs to increase yields.

But Dick and Sharon became skeptical and in 1967 they went off chemicals completely. From 1967 to 1984 they used absolutely no chemical inputs on their land. (In the past three years they have purchased fertilizer in experiments aimed at boosting corn yields.) Since 1967 they have also been farming and doing their own on-farm research to find profitable methods of sustainable farming.

Dick and Sharon did not pretend to have a magic method for combining stewardship of the land and profitability, but they do have a key concept — balance. Crops and animals, sun and rain, work and play, spirit, soul and body are elements to be kept in balance for the Thompsons — along with crop rotation, tillage, weeds, insects, soil fertility, microbes, minerals, animal size, nutrition, and the bank account. With the help of funding from the Rodale Institute for tests and some labor costs they maintain 200 test plots on their farm.

They have a 90 sow farrow-to-finish operation which uses a balanced diet, fresh air and sunshine, and virtually no drugs or antibiotics. They also raise about 50 beef cattle and feed out the calves, generating plentiful fertilizer for a corn, beans, corn, oats and hay rotation.

The Thompsons maintain that their style of relatively chemical-free farming, with a balance between livestock and crops can work for other farmers as well. But they also caution that their style is one which should be adapted, not adopted. Farmers need to experiment and gradually adapt the scientific findings to their own soil, terrain, farm size, and personal preferences.

I heard the Thompsons speak at the University of Minnesota this winter, in an ag school forum co-sponsored by the Land Stewardship Project. Their presentation was lively, fact-filled, and thought-provoking. If your farm group is looking for speakers or just for more information, you might write to the Thompsons at Box 132, R.R. 2, Boone, IA 50036 — though I'm sure their speaking schedule is slim and must fit around their farming schedule.

(The non-profit Land Stewardship Project, 512 West Elm Street, Stillwater, MN 55082, aims to apply religious, ethical and environmental principles of caring for the land and the people on it. The Project is built around the concept that farmers and landowners have a moral obligation to the land, and that society as a whole shares that obligation.)

Non-Alcoholic Coolers For Summer Enjoyment

The traditional American cocktail hour has been slowly taking on a new look and a new taste. It started some years ago with a move away from mixed drinks to lighter wine coolers; now the trend is away from alcohol altogether. In its place, are a chilling blend of flavor combinations designed to excite the palate and quench a thirst.

Creamy Mai Tais and Pina Coladas are pre-dinner drinks with a tropical touch. Made with powdered drink mixers, they substitute rum extract for the alcohol and cold milk for the water. Mix in a blender and serve over ice. Add a graceful garnish of sliced fruit or a fresh flower to complement their frosty flavors, and these cooling imitations can pass for the real thing.

Orange Coconut Cream is quick to make and can double as dessert. Prepared in the blender, it's a smooth, frothy mix of ice cream, orange juice concentrate, coconut cream and milk. Serve it up in a well-chilled glass with a garnish of orange slice.

The third in this tempting trio of drinks is Triple Berry Cooler. Raspberries (fresh or frozen) combine with frozen concentrated cranberry juice cocktail, strawberry ice cream and milk. The result is slightly tart, slightly sweet; an opulent ending to any meal.

A further plus for each of these dazzling drinks is that they're as nutritious as they are delicious. Milk and ice cream both add good doses of calcium, which could easily become the cocktail hour command.

Tall, chilled glasses hold cocktail hour and after-dinner coolers, all made with the absence of alcohol.

High Calcium Milk Has Appeal

Q: Why develop high-calcium milk?

A: Researchers at Dairy Research Inc. (DRINC) are working to develop products that will expand the market for dairy foods and appeal to consumers. More and more consumers are concerned about getting enough calcium in their daily diets and do not currently receive the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (USRDA) for adults of 100 milligrams per day.

Q: Will the high-calcium milk replace other milks in consumer diets?

A: No. The product is being designed for those persons who are not getting the recommended amount of calcium in their regular diets and do not currently drink milk. For most Americans, a well-balanced diet derived from the four basic food groups-including the recommended number of servings of dairy foods-will provide the USRDA of calcium. There is no need to enrich foods for most individuals who consume a nutritionally-balance ddiet.

Q: Why develop another high-calcium milk product?

A: DRINC's high-calcium milk — and all prototypes developed at the DRINC laboratory — are all-dairy derived, natural products.

Other high calcium milks currently on the market may have added calcium from chemicals and sources other than milk. This type of calcium may settle at the bottom of the glass or give the product a chalky aftertaste and odd texture.

Q: How much calcium is in the product?

A: An 8 ounce serving of DRINC's high-calcium milk satisfies 65 to 70 per cent of the USRDA of 1000 milligrams of calcium. A consumer can get all the calcium he-she needs in a day with only one and a half glasses of DRINC's new product.

Q: What about the other nutrients in the high-calcium milk?

A: DRINC's high-calcium product has the same nutrient value as the source of milk used in the process. If skim milk is used, the nutrient value of high-calcium would be equal to that of skim.

Q: Will the calcium to phosphorus ratio be changed?

A: No. Because phosphorus plays an important role in the absorption of calcium by the body, it is necessary that the ratio remains the same as in regular milk. And in DRINC's high-calcium milk it does.

Q: What about calories?

A: The calories content would also be equal to the number of calories in the source of milk used to make the product. Flavored high-calcium milks may contain a slightly higher number of calories depending on the amount of sweetener added.

Q: Then there are different flavors of DRINC's new high-calcium milk?

A: Yes, researchers are experimenting with a rich-tasting chocolate flavor. Fruit and exotic flavors may soon be new variety possibilities.

Q: When will consumers see this nutritious product on grocers' shelves?

A: DRINC scientists project preliminary consumer testing will be completed in the first half of 1987. The product will be offered for mass manufacture in the latter part of that year. DRINC develops the prototype, but does not manufacture or market the product to consumers; therefore, an exact date for consumer marketing is not possible to project.

If you're planning to clean house for two hours, first drink a glass of milk. It will provide enough energy to carry you through. Or, it will give you the energy to walk a mile, dance an hour, play nine holes of golf or climb 196 stairs.

Frozen Yogurts Give Tang To Summer

Few foods are as capable of providing a tangy thrill on a hot summer's day or a refreshing respite after a heavy meal as frozen yogurts and milk-based fruit sherbets. Easy to make at home, they can serve as dazzling desserts or refreshing pauses all year long.

While their origin is obscure, we know the Greeks and Romans savored iced sweets. Marco Polo brought recipes for frozen milk-based desserts to Italy from the Orient in the thirteenth century. These recipes, it was claimed, had been used in Asia for thousands of years already.

Today, frozen yogurts and milk sherbets continue to gain in popularity even as Americans strive to slim down. Both are a natural extension of the ongoing quest for foods that are lighter, healthier and less fattening. Just look at the calorie count for either dessert and you'll find that they are typically lower in calories than their ice cream counterparts.

Most recipes for homemade ice cream call for milk, whipping cream, sweeteners and flavorings. Frozen yogurt and milk sherbets differ by varying the dairy ingredients.

Frozen yogurt boasts in intensity of flavor and a tangy taste enjoyed by many. Recipes call for plain or flavored yogurt in place of milk or cream, but cream can be added to obtain a smoother, richer product. Flavored with fruit purees, juices or extracts, they lend themselves to an infinite variety of flavors ranging from apricot brandy to blueberry cheesecake.

Commercially, frozen yogurt is available frozen soft or hard, in cups, cones and sundaes; in bar form or frozen on sticks, coated with chocolate.

Most recipes for homemade milk sherbets rely on milk as the main dairy ingredient. The milk is usually lowfat or whole but buttermilk and evaporated milk are occasionally called for. Light cream (half and half) may also be added. Because the fat content is lower, sherbets don't have as rich and smooth a texture as ice cream. For this reason, stabilizers such as gelatin or egg whites are added to give sherbets a lighter, airier texture.

Sherbets are typically fruit flavored with a variety of fruit purees and juices, sweenteners such as sugar and honey, flavor extracts or liqueurs. Some of the most popular sherbet flavors include orange, pineapple, raspberry, lime and lemon. But creative cooks, free of the cost considerations faced by manufacturers, are churning out such tantalizing flavors as honey cantaloupe, pina colada and peanut caramel.

For the person who shys away from drinking milk, homemade frozen yogurts and milk sherbets offer a tasty way to help meet their daily need for calcium, protein and riboflavin (B2) to the diet.

Another plus for these cooling treats is that they don't take much time to make, thanks to the wide variety of ice cream freezers available for home use. The steps are basically the same as making ice cream, and the serving suggestion as inviting.

Whatever your taste or diet considerations, frozen yogurts and milk sherbets can be counted on for a calorie-conscious step toward good taste and nutrition.

SALUTE TO THE

Dairy Farmers Are Committed To Progress In 1987

June Dairy Month is a traditional time to recognize our nation's dairy farmers for their dedication in supplying us with fresh, wholesome dairy foods.

During the past several years, however, that dedication has moved beyond simply producing milk and other dairy products.

Dairymen have now rolled up their sleeves and gone to work in another area: aggressive promotion of their products in the marketplace.

Through a 15-cents per hundredweight checkoff, dairy farmers are funding dynamic programs of advertising, promotion, education and research as never before.

The good news is that the programs are working.

Each year since 1983 when the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act was passed, consumption of milk and milk products has increased close to three per cent for a total of nearly 12 per cent. This positive upturn is expected to continue through 1987.

That's remarkable progress because in the years prior to 1983, consumption didn't even keep pace with population increases of around one per cent a year.

Those small consumption increases, coupled with soaring production, meant a growing dairy surplus and large government purchases resulting in low prices for dairy farmers.

Now, while consumption is increasing, production has finally begun to decline as a result of the Dairy Termination Program.

What all this means is that production and consumption are finally reaching an equilibrium, benefiting both the producer and the consumer.

The dramatic improvement in the supply-demand balance for milk and milk products clearly demonstrates that dairy farmers are achieving great results through commitment and cooperation.

Now, especially during June Dairy Month, support the dairy industry and your good health by using real dairy products (look for the REAL Seal), try a new cheese variety or yogurt flavor, and enjoy your summer a little more with a cool dairy treat.

Salute to the Dairy Industry!

It's an ever-changing industry that looks for the most modern technological advancements to produce the best possible products. Our American Dairy Industry is constantly aware of new and innovative ways to improve the quality of dairy products, while keeping the price competitive. We appreciate our area's Dairy Farmers and all who keep this industry, and our American economy thriving.

It is our pleasure and privilege to be of financial service to the people who make top grade dairy products a big part of our daily lives.

Carbonated Milk Is New Market Trial

Q: What is carbonated milk?

A: It is skim milk, to which carbonation (carbon dioxide) is added. Flavorings and sweeteners can also be added.

Q: What about calories?

A: The calorie content of the plain carbonated milk is the same as skim milk — 86 calories per 8-ounce glass.

Q: What does carbonated milk taste like?

A: Taste is a very subjective sense, but most people agree carbonated milk does not taste like milk. While the drinks possess a slight dairy flavor, they tend to be lighter than milk. Some have compared plain carbonated milk to club soda. The flavored milk tastes like the flavor.

Q: What flavors are being tried?

A: Many. Fruit flavors such as strawberry, peach, orange and banana; exotic flavors such as pina colada and others including chocolate, root beer, cola and even rum.

Q: Does the carbonated milk require refrigeration?

A: Yes, for now. It can come in 16-ounce bottles like soft drinks and requires refrigeration. Researchers will experiment with other processing methods, however, which could increase the shelf life of the product and make refrigeration unnecessary.

Q: Why develop carbonated milk?

A: Researchers at Dairy Research Inc. (DRINC) work to develop products that will expand the market for dairy foods and appeal to consumers who do not currently drink milk. In regard to carbonated milk specifically, we believe a market exists for a fun, yet nutritious drink. Americans like carbonated beverages, as evidenced by the tremendous growth in the soft drink industry. Carbonated milk provides the dairy industry an opportunity for entry into this casual, snack market, as well as growth in the restaurant and fast-food industry, where soft drinks predominate.

Q: Are new markets really necessary for milk?

A: Yes. Although milk and dairy product consumption has increased in recent years, new products are needed to keep pace, appeal to infrequent or nonmilk drinkers and help reduce or possibly eliminate the milk surplus.

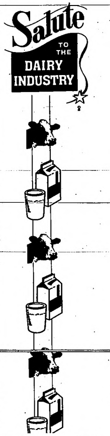
Q: What would it take to eliminate the milk surplus?

A: Last year's surplus was 13 billion pounds of milk. Researchers estimate that with a share of 6 to 8 per cent of the soft drink market, carbonated milk could literally eliminate the U.S. milk surplus at its 1985 level.

Q: When will consumers see this fizzy product on grocers' shelves?

A: DRINC scientists project the development phase will take an additional year. The product then will be ready for mass manufacture and marketing, so carbonated milk is probably at least 1½ to 2 years away from the consumer marketplace.

WEARING HER CROWN and banner in royal fashion, Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins will give up her title at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, June 9. Kathleen grew up on a dairy farm just a couple of miles north of Ada and carried foods and dairy projects during her nine years in the Hegne Hustlers 4-H club in Norman county.



Salute to the Dairyman

We praise the dairyfarmer for doing his share in this community. Thanks to him, we eat the foods necessary for our nutritional wellbeing. His local business enterprises make him a vital economic force. We pledge our continued support to this valuable citizen!

Spreadable Butter All-Dairy Product

Q: What is spreadable butter?

A. An all-dairy product that spreads easily out of the refrigerator.

Q: Does it have the same amount of fat and cholesterol as traditional butter?

A: No. Spreadable butter has 35 to 40 per cent less fat than found in butter or margarine and 35 to 40 per cent less cholesterol. The product is a good alternative for consumers concerned about cholesterol levels or the total amount of fat in their diet.

Q: What about calories?

A: Because it contains less fat, spreadable butter also has 34 to 40 per cent fewer calories than butter or margarine. For example, one teaspoon of butter or margarine has 36 calories as opposed to 23 from one teaspoon of spreadable butter.

Q: What does the butter spread look like?

A: Nearly two-thirds of 240 consumers tested preferred the all-dairy DRINC product to margarine during recent market testing in 12 shopping malls. But test participants said they like the product's spreadability, even when cold, as its main benefit. The participants had no suggestions for improvement.

Q: Why develop a butter that spreads easily from the refrigerator?

A: Market analysis indicated a need for an all-dairy butter spread with reduced calories, fat and cholestrol. Now, more than ever, consumers are interested in good nutrition and natural, healthy foods. Spreadable butter could appeal to these consumers. Cost projections indicate that the product price will be competitive with the cost of butter-margarine blends currently on the market.

Q: Are new markets really necessary for dairy products?

A: Although milk and dairy product consumption has increased in recent years, new products are needed to keep pace, fit into changing lifestyles, appeal to infrequent or non-dairy users and help reduce or possibly eliminate the milk surplus.

Q: Will the product come in different varieties?

A: Researchers are experimenting with flavored butters, such as herb, garlic and chive. These specialty items will fit into the fast-paced life of consumers who enjoy entertaining or who just desire something different for dinner.

Q: When will consumers see this new product on grocers' shelves?

A: DRINC researchers say the product will be ready for mass manufacture during the beginning of 1987. Discussion has begun on contractual arrangements with interested processors in this country and in Canada.

Q: What is DRINC?

A: DRINC is the product and process research arm of the United Dairy Industry Association. The laboratory is funded by dairy farmers through their checkoff dollars.

SCRAPBOOKS created by Northwest Dairy Princess Kathleen Merkins hold memories of her reign as dairy ambassador for Region One as well as her high school and 4-H club activities.

In the soda jerk talk of yesteryear, "split one" was a call for a banana split, a "pink stick" was a strawberry ice cream cone and "patch" was strawberry ice cream in a dish. A "white cow" meant a vanilla milk shake, and a "black cow" referred to chocolate. A chocolate and vanilla sundae was a "mystery." The cry "vanilla" alerted staff to a pretty customer. Like Latin, soda jerk talk is dying, but ice cream treats and pretty girls are here to stay.

New Free Recipe Leaflet Can Be Ordered From ADA

A new recipe leaflet now available from the American Dairy Association, offers a refreshing selection of frozen desserts to be enjoyed all year long. Prepare them with a minimum of fuss in any one of the ice cream machines available for home use. Maple Nut, Spicy Peach and Honey Cantaloupe are just a few of the ten recipies provided. Nutrient values and calorie counts are given for each recipe.

For a FREE single copy or a quantity of this recipe leaflet write to: "Homemade Frozen Yogurts and Fruit Sherbets" American Dairy Association of Minnesota, 2015 Rice Street, St. Paul, MN 55113.

Of the 50 states, Wisconsin produces the most milk, followed by California, New York, Minnesota and Pennsylvania. The latest figures indicate that, together, they produce over 74 million pounds of milk per year, or 52 per cent of all the milk produced in the U.S.

Does that favorite recipe of your grandmother's call for sour milk? Just substitute the same amount with today's buttermilk right from the carton, or pour one tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar in a measuring cul and add enough milk to make one cup. Let stand five minutes before using.

For continually providing our area with top of the line dairy products, it's our pleasure to salute the dedicated efforts of the dairy farmers of our area. Thanks for a job well done.

STREET CONSTRUCTION. Last Friday Border States Paving of Fargo entered the lowest bid on the 1987 street and utility project. Four bids were received with Border States having the lowest bid at $735,112.70. The project cost was originally expected to reach $790,000. Ron Lindberg, representative to the city from Stewart and Walker engineering, said the lower bid probably reflects low oil costs. Lindberg said he does not know when to expect construction to begin, but he will know more after meeting with Border States Paving. Residents will be assessed $6 per foot in areas where an overlay is needed. On East and West Greenwood, property owners will be assessed for curb and gutter and bituminous overlay. The decision as to whether assessments will be deferred against property owners abutting the street construction but lying outside of the city limits has not been decided. The other bids on the project were: $772,880.65 from Thorson Inc., of Bemidji; $816,489 from Northern Paving of Crookston; and $885,980 from Johnson Construction of Fargo.

Fire Damages Mobile Home Of New TRF Residents

Fire destroyed a mobile home owned by Bob Loeffler and used by the Marty Richter family Friday. Cause of the fire, which is believed to have started in one of the bedrooms, is not known at this time.

Recent residents of the Thief River Falls area, Richter and his family were living in the mobile home which was located behind Bob's Auto Sales. According to the Thief River Falls fire department, Richter, his wife and two children, were not at home when the fire started. The family has lived in Thief River Falls for less than one month.

Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said the fire was reported 4:45 p.m. Friday. Two rooms in the mobile home had extensive damage and others had heat and smoke damage.

"Non Stop Bop" Sessions Begin At Franklin Fri.

"Non Stop Bop" is the title given to the planned activities and events program to be sponsored at Franklin middle school each week under sponsorship of the community education department of School District 564.

Sports, dancing and swimming activities in the gymnasium, cafeteria and pool areas of the school are included in the activities with sixth, seventh and eighth grade students to participate from 7:30 to 10 p.m. on the first and third Friday of each month and the ninth through 12th grades on the second and fourth Friday of each month.

Participation fee is $10 for six events for middle school students and $15 for six events for high school students. First sessions on June 5 for the younger group and June 12 for the older group will be free of charge. Punch cards which may be used for the six sessions will be for sale at the door.

TRF Police Officer Accepts Position In Minnetonka

Police officer Brett Pertler has accepted a position on the Minnetonka police force. Pertler, an officer in Thief River Falls for three years, was chosen for one of three positions among 157 applicants.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said he hates to see Pertler go but is happy for him. Froschheiser said Pertler's acceptance speaks highly for Pertler and Pertler's training.

Pertler graduated from law enforcement school at the area vocational technical school in Hibbing and was hired by the Thief River Falls police department in October of 1984. He graduated from high school in Cloquet.

OTH-B Opponents Prepare Strategy Against TRF Site

Opponent to the OTH-B radar siting in this area, Donavon Dyrdal said opponents to the radar site do not wish to disclose their strategy against the radar site at this time.

Dyrdal said if legal action is what it takes to stop a project which threatens to take away business and a large part of their way of life, however, then that is what might have to be done.

Before the project continues, however, Dyrdal said two branches of the federal government will have to reach an understanding. Dyrdal explained that the defense department will have to determine whether the project is really necessary. But an investigative branch of the government has determined that the project is obsolete and not cost effective. Dyrdal cited a June 6, 1986 memorandum which found the OTH-B system obsolete and not cost effective.

Dyrdal said if it is determined that the OTH-B system is necessary for the defense of the nation it will change at least how he looks at it.

However, there are other issues which need closer scrutiny, Dyrdal said. The decision to bring the OTH-B to the Thief River Falls area ignores what it will do to a way of life and the environment, he believes.

He does not think the many letters and signatures on petitions should be ignored by elected officials or by Jobs Inc. The OTH-B is a relatively short-lived project while the agriculture community has been here for a long time and will continue to be here for a long time, Dyrdal said. The support to the community from the agriculture sector cannot be ignored for its contribution to the community, Dyrdal said.

Well over 200 signatures appear on one of two petitions against the project which are recorded in the final environmental impact statement. Most of those signatures, and letters, are from residents living in the rural area.

Letters in support of the project came from the cities of Warren and Thief River Falls, the Pennington county commissioners, Jobs, Inc., Representative Wally Sparby, Senator LeRoy Stumpf, and School District 564.

Letters against the project — some vehement in their opposition — came from the township boards of Sanders, Norden and Numedal, the National Farmers Organization, ag implement dealer and many rural residents.

Dyrdal does not believe the agriculture community has been given the consideration it deserves. The final environmental impact statement and participation of opposition members in the November 20 meeting in Thief River Falls should indicate that the project is not wanted here, Dyrdal said, and all but three of the people who testified were against the project.

He said he realizes there are people who want to retire or get out of farming and they view this as a chance to leave farming and this should be their choice. However, he added that he "believes there are lot of young people eager to get into farming. So, these people do have another choice other than selling their land to the government.

"We have a unique situation here with good farmland and a good environment for wildlife and we should keep it that way," Dyrdal said.

Ag Info Center Receives $5,000

Area ag information center in Thief River Falls has been awarded a $5,000 grant from the Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund to establish a food shelf to meet the special needs of the farm population.

The grant was part of a $30,000 allocation to 20 organizations which meet emergency food needs of northwestern Minnesota. Seventeen area food shelves received a total of $14,000, including the Assembly of God food shelf in Thief River Falls which received $800. Marshall County East food shelf received $1,000 in the distribution.

150 Dairy Entries Are Expected For Dairy Day

Come To The 38th Annual DAIRY DAY

NORTHWEST DAIRY PRINCESS Kathleen Merkins of Ada reminds area residents that the 38th annual Northwest Dairy Day will be conducted in Thief River Falls next Tuesday, June 9. Princess Kathleen will surrender her crown at special ceremonies during a coronation banquet that evening in the Best Western inn. Coronations have previously taken place on a stage at the site of the annual dairy show. This year the dinner is being held to honor the candidates and public attendance is invited. Tickets are available in advance at $4.75 each through June 4 (Thursday) at the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce office.

Dairy entries totalling 150 and dairy princess candidates totalling 19 from eight counties will compete Tuesday in Thief River Falls when the 38th annual Northwest Dairy Day is conducted here. The dairy show will be at Floyd B. Olson park in downtown Thief River Falls and the princess contest will conclude with a dinner and coronation in the evening at the Best Western inn.

The dairy princess dinner is a new event this year, since coronation has previously been done on a stage at the dairy show site following the dairy awards presentation. This year the dinner will be served at 6 p.m. at the Best Western with tickets available to the general public at $4.75 each through Thursday of this week. Coronation will follow the dinner.

Kathleen Merkins, Northwest Dairy Princess, will crown her successor at the program, assisted by Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way. Master of ceremonies for the event will be Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent and president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Northwest Dairy Day.

Contestants in the event will visit the dairy show, distribute dairy products at local grocery stores, participate in personal interviews with the judges throughout the day and be provided with a dairy consumerism presentation and modeling demonstration. Judges for the contest are Thomas Hogness of Minnesota Dairy in Grand Forks, ND, Darlene Muzzy of Thief River Falls and Pearl Krause of Eagle Bend.

Contestants include the following county entries:

Becker — Wendy Rethwisch and Diane Schultz, Frazee and Stacie Myhre, Lake Park;

Clay — Mary Ackerson, Barnesville and Jaculin Rodewald, Ulen;

Clearwater — LeAnn Kaiser, Shevlin;

East Polk — Kimberly Ann Rue, Fosston and Erin Osmonson, Gully;

Pennington — Kim Carlson, St. Hilaire;

Red Lake — Denette Huot, Beth [illegible] Lake Falls;

Roseau — Mary Lee, Roseau; Liesa Brateng, Wannaska; and Bonnie Wiskow, Strathcona;

Wadena — Rebecca Hendrickson, Menahga; Charlotte Malone, Wadena; and Cari Schoon, Sebeka.

Albert Koop of rural Thief River Falls, who has been a member of the board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association since Northwest Dairy Day began 38 years ago, will be recognized at the Tuesday evening banquet.

Participants in Northwest Dairy Day come from Minnesota, ADA Region One which includes the counties of Becker, Beltrami, Cass, Clay, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wadena.

Judging in the dairy show will begin about 10:30 a.m. with the showmanship competition, following a showmanship demonstration by Mark Rue of Fosston, repeat winner in the senior showmanship contest in 1986. Contestants will be in quest of the top prizes of a purebred dairy calf to the showman of the grand

School Board OKs AVTI Referendum

Authorization was given to the administration to proceed with a local referendum to provide 15 per cent of the AVTI building project at the board of education meeting conducted Monday evening in the school district service center.

Low qualifying bid of Ed Turenne to provide food services for the AVTI effective July 1, 1987, was accepted by the board. Lon Gobell and his attorney, Kurt Marben, attended the meeting in support of a letter to the board which objected to rejection of Gobell's bid as non-conforming. Gobell contended he had submitted a bid on the school district's form which did not request certain information, the lack of which made the bid non-conforming.

A committee for selection of a head hockey coach was appointed and includes board members Dennis Kiesow and Ron Martin, Supt. Leo Ruberto, assistant superintendent Frank Hamerlinck, Lincoln principal Terry Soine; Tom Goddard, Lee Alger, Jon Larson, John Seaverson and the principal of the building where the teaching position would be open. Approval was given to post for assistant high school football and assistant high school volleyball coaches.

Resignation of Beth Hepola as AVTI sales and marketing instructor was accepted and Dolly Hallstrom was employed as AVTI cosmetology instructor for the summer. James Cuppett was hired as AVTI welding instructor for the 1987-1988 school year. Authorization was given to post for an AVTI airframe and powerplant instructor for 1987-88 and an AVTI radio-telecommunications specialist effective July 1.

Authorization was given to obtain quotes and advertise for bids for improvement projects at Lincoln. Included are remodeling of the distributive education area to create five distinct classrooms ($110,000); paint the 1954 addition ($25,000); carpet and replace tile in the band room and remodel bathrooms and stairwell ($14,000); place new drapes, remove some windows, repaint and add serving line curtains in the cafeteria ($10,000); repair the weight room roof ($10,000); improve sidewalks, loading ramp and handicapped ramp ($10,000); paint the 1938 addition ($9,000); resurface the tennis courts ($6,000); tile the girls and boys locker rooms ($6,000); repaint the wall lockers ($5,000); replace some outside doors and gym doors ($4,000); and repair gym bleachers ($3,000).

Total costs of $212,000 would be funded by $140,000 remaining from the Lincoln bond issue, $75,000 from the 1987-88 capital budget and $15,000 with carryover funds, leaving an

TRF Planning Board Passes Resolution On Care Facility

Planning board members in Thief River Falls passed a resolution Monday night recommending to the Thief River Falls city council that a transitional care facility for chemically dependent adult males be given permission to house no more than 10 clients.

The transitional care facility will be located in the former Kees rest home in Thief River Falls, 621 LaBree Ave. N. Jon Furuseth applied to the state for a license to house 15 clients. The state then informed the city of the application and asked for a recommendation, which is normal procedure.

Don Stewart, community development director, said that as the research into the application began, there were three issues being discussed by the planning board. The issues were: Whether the application was for an expanded or intensified use of a non-conforming use; whether the former use (Kees rest home) had discontinued its use for more than the allowed six months which would then require the property to change to a conforming use; and whether the proposed use of the rest home was similar to the former use.

Research into the history of the rest home indicated that the average number of clients at Kees rest home in the last four or five years was 10. Research also indicated that the rest home had not been closed for six months.

At the planning commission meeting a straw vote of residents living within 350 feet of the proposed facility was conducted. A total of 12 votes were cast in favor of the project. The residents appeared to favor the proposed use and many also noted improvements to the property since the change in ownership. A number of the residents did not vote.

Chris Twomey made the motion to present a recommendation of approval for the project as long as no more than 10 clients were allowed, no meetings of outside organizations were conducted at the facility, and off-street parking was provided.

The recommendation will be passed on to the Thief River Falls city council at its next meeting which is scheduled for Monday, June 8 (not Tuesday, June 9, as is usually the case).

Society and Clubs

Kristi Gerardy-Mike LaSalle United In Marriage May 2

Kristi Gerardy and Mike LaSalle were united in marriage May 2 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls. Rev. Stanley Bourassa and Rev. Dave Super officiated at the 2 p.m., double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ron Gerardy and Mr. and Mrs. Jack LaSalle, all of Thief River Falls.

Organist for the ceremony was Christie Flatland, friend of the couple, playing preludes of "He Has Chosen You For Me" and "Gift of Love." Processionals were "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Sleepers Awake." "We Gather Together" was chosen as the gathering song. "Prayer" was selected for the lighting of the unity candle. "Spirit Song" was the communion hymn, [illegible] munion meditation. Closing hymn was "We Thank You Father," with "Sinfonia" as recessional.

Song leaders were Diane Rokke, Judy Dupree and Debbie Hedges. Mark Gerardy was reader, Chris Tveitbakk and Jeff Twomey were servers, and Mark and Brandon Gerardy were gift bearers.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. She wore a white gown of taffeta and Raschel lace, with high lace collar of re-embroidered Chantilly lace accented with dangling pearls. The fitted bodice was enhanced with a heavily beaded Venise lace medallion, and the Elizabethan sleeves featured taffeta and dangling pearls to match the collar. A basque waistline flowed into ruffles of taffeta and Chantilly lace, leading to a semi-cathedral train in back, with a skirt of Raschel lace hemmed with re-embroidered Chantilly lace.

To compliment her gown, the bride wore an ascot hat of Raschel lace with pearl and flower accents, featuring short veil and blusher with matching pearls enhancing brim and pouf. She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladiolus, yellow roses and teal babies' breath. Personal attendant was the groom's sister, Leigh Jordahl.

Matron of honor was Renae Hoard, Thief River Falls, sister of the bride. Other bridesmaids were Michelle Morrissey, sister of the bride; Kim Gerardy, sister-in-law of the bride; Mary Ziemann, friend of the bride; and Patti Wold, sister of the groom.

Matron of honor and bridesmaids were attired in jade tea-length gowns of Raschel lace with satin lace jackets featuring long, shirred sleeves over spaghetti-strapped satin bodices. The gowns featured full, gathered lace skirts. They wore matching jade satin shoes and taffeta-covered ascot hats trimmed with bows in back and lace veils. They carried cascading bouquets of white gladiolus florets with teal babies' breath.

Melissa Hoard, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She carried a teal bridal basket filled with white gladiolus and yellow roses.

Ring bearer was Kyle Udenberg, nephew of the groom. He was attired in a white tuxedo similar to that of the groom.

The groom wore white tails with matching tie and cummerbund. He wore a boutonniere of yellow sweetheart roses and teal babies' breath.

Leroy Andreson, friend of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Bill LaSalle, brother of the groom; Tom Kubishta, friend of the groom; Mitch Hoard, brother-in-law of the bride; and Bob Wold, brother-in-law of the groom.

Ushering the guests were Brian and Bruce Gerardy, brothers of the bride, Daryn Jordahl, brother-in-law of the groom; and Jim Morrissey, brother-in-law of the bride. All gentlemen of the wedding party wore silver grey tuxedos with teal cummerbunds and ties. Their boutonnieres were teal-tipped white carnations.

Honored guests at the ceremony were Florence Pierce and Barbara Gerardy, grandmothers of the couple.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held in the church hall. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gerardy and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Markstrom.

Highlighting the serving table was a three-tiered fountain wedding cake iced in white, decorated with yellow and white flowers with teal-colored leaves. Bridal stairs extended to smaller tiered cakes featuring miniatures of the bridal party. Topping the cake was an ornament of wedding bells.

Valerie Vigstol and Ramona Pierce cut and served the wedding cake. Waitresses were Anita Woods, Kristi Dupree, Tanya Schob, Dawn Schob, Nikki Goulet, Jolene Gonsorowski, Sarah Gonsorowski and Dawn Lambert.

Paula Hahne was in charge of registering the guests; Karl, Lisa and Lori DeLap served punch; and Elaine Borsheim was flower hostess. David Walseth and Kent Larson were in charge of the gifts.

The couple will make their home in Thief River Falls where the bride is employed at Coast to Coast and the groom at Bruce Pharmacy.

Kim Lawrenz to Wed Kevin Vettleson

Kim Ellen Lawrenz and Kevin Leigh Vettleson are pleased to announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lawrenz of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vettleson of Oklee.

The bride-elect is a 1984 graduate of Lincoln high school and [illegible] graduate of Brainerd AVTI travel planner program. Her fiance is a 1980 graduate of Oklee high school.

A June 27 wedding is planned at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Brekkes To Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary June 7

The children of Leonard and Vivian Brekke cordially invite all family and friends to help celebrate the couple's 40th wedding anniversary. An open house will be held Sunday, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. There will be a program at 3 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend; no gifts, please.

Pennington County Council On Aging To Meet

Pennington County Council on Aging will meet Monday at the Heritage Center at 1 p.m. Please note the time of the meeting.

Robin Christensen Wed To Randall Dahl In Newfolden

Robin L. Christensen and Randall M. Dahl were united in marriage at Newfolden Evangelical Free church Saturday, May 2. Parents of the couple are Arnold and Betty Christensen of Salem, SD, and Robert and Carol Dahl of Newfolden.

Rev. Earl Eveland and the bride's uncle, Rev. Donald Underwood, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Acolyte was Marty Howes, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Myles Hogberg provided organ music and David Howes, cousin of the groom played the traditional wedding march entrance on piano. Soloists were Dion Larson, friend of the groom; Karen Kjernsrud, cousin of the groom; and Mrs. Esther Underwood, aunt of the bride. For her wedding the bride chose the songs, "Wedding Prayer," "I Could Never Promise" and "Each For the Other."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a traditional white, toe-length gown of bridal satin, featuring an illusion net yoke with sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. The fitted bodice had a slightly raised basque waistline and was adorned with pearls. The three-tiered, ruffled hemline flowed to a chapel-length train.

To compliment her gown, the bride wore a taffeta bridal hat trimmed with Venise lace and pearls featuring a turned-up brim with taffeta rosette and tiny teacups. A fingertip veil and pouf accented the hat. The cascading bridal bouquet was of pink, yellow, white, pale blue and deep blue roses and babies' breath, with trailing satin streamers.

Dawn Christensen, Salem, SD, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Brenda Dahl, Newfolden, sister of the groom, and Lanita Melton, Salem, SD, friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore toe-length gowns of royal blue satin with ruffled sleeves and sweetheart necklines, and open weave hats trimmed in tulle and flowers. They carried white lace fans covered with deep blue roses and white flowers with pearl accents and white ribbon streamers.

The groom was attired in silver gray, pinstripe tails with matching gray cummerbund and tie. His boutonniere was a white rose with babies' breath.

Dion Larson, Strandquist, friend of the groom, was best man. Jeff and Kelly Dahl, brothers of the groom, served as groomsmen. They wore silver gray pinstripe tails matching that of the groom, with royal blue satin cummerbunds and ties. Ushering the guests were Kevin Boe and Scott Gustafson, both friends of the groom from Newfolden.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Engvald Dahl of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oen of Thief River Falls, grandparents of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall. Host and hostess were Vernon and Peggy Gunderson. Presiding at the punch bowl were Gina Dahl and Sherri Gjovik, cousins of the groom, and Donna Jenkins, fiancee of Jeff Dahl, registered the guests.

Aunts of the groom, Pat Kjensrud and Christine Howes, poured, and Joanne Adams, aunt of the bride, and Sandy Gjovik, aunt of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake.

The bride is a 1985 graduate of Salem high school and attended Northwestern college in 1985 and 1986. The groom is a 1985 graduate of Marshall County Central in Newfolden and attended Northwestern college in 1985-86. ### CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all the caring and wonderful nurses, student nurses, doctors, and orderlies at Northwest Medical Center, and also in the beginning for the quick response from the Northstar Ambulance Service.

A special thank to all the caring people who visited Bennie in the hospital, and sent cards, flowers, and gifts.

A special thank you to Dr. Leo Herber, for being a friend as well as a doctor, Sister Caroline, for her many trips to the hospital to give us support, and the special nurses, who became close friends to us during these last three months.

We also wish to thank Green's Funeral Home, for their help support, understanding and sympathy, St. Bernard's Church for their prayers, guidance, and help with the preparations, and Fr. Dave Super, Sister Doreen, and Sister Mordelle for participating in the lovely wake and funeral services. Also a special thank yo to our youngest daughter Anita, for the meaningful songs and poems recited at the wake service in tribute to her father.

A greatful thanks to Pat Thompson, for the scriptures she read during the funeral mass, the casketbearers — sons, Paul and Vince Miramontes, brothers, Jesse and James Miramontes, nephews Wayne Jorshaw and Henry Hostad, grandson, Chad Johnson, and close friends, Ames Grisanti and Donald Roy. Also, special thanks to Police Officers, Harvey Tauer and Jim Hulteen, and former Police Officer, Ray Bren, also Bob Wold of the Sheriff's Department for their condolences.

A heartfelt thank you to the V.F.W. Post for the use of their dining hall, and the Ladies Auxiliary for preparing the delicious meal, also the American Legion Post, V.F.W. Post, the Law Enforcement Center, and the Highway Patrol for the wonderful services they prepared and took part in at the funeral mass.

And deep gratitude to all relatives, friends, and caring people too numerous to mention, for their support, sympathy, phone calls, gifts, cards, flowers, and food. We sincerely thank each and every one of you.

May God bless you, and be with you always.

HAMSTERS BRING OUT THE "HAM" in everyone — because they tickle when they wiggle. Big smiles were the order of the day when Mrs. Sharon Iverson's class at Knox school had a pet show yesterday. All classes had a chance to pet, cuddle and enjoy the pets brought by their classmates.

First Annual Pet Show Held At Knox School Tuesday

First annual pet show was held at Knox school Tuesday morning. Children of Mrs. Sharon Iverson's class made colorful awards and judged one another's pets. All parents and school mates were invited to attend the show.

Most unusual pet was Brandi Larson's caterpillar. "Smallest Pet" award was won by Matt Lawrence with his hamster. Sharing honors for the "Largest Pet" award were Keith Anderson's dog, Maggie, and Carson Quesnell's dog, Major. Ryan Philipp's poodle won "Friendliest" award, Danny Klopp's cat, Sassy, won "Most Agreeable" award, and Casey Holmgren's puppy stole "Cutest Pet" award.

Tabitha Nesvold's hamsters won awards for sleepiest and fastest runner, and Brandi Egberg's hamster, Cupcake, nibbled on "Best Pet" award. Nathan Johnson's parakeets won recognition as "Most Colorful" and "Noisiest," and Lisa Odegaard's borrowed pet, a white poodle, won the "Most Charming" award.

Mrs Iverson stated that response from children, parents and pets was "marvelous" and she plans to make the pet show a yearly event. She said "The pets were remarkably well-behaved and a good time was enjoyed by all."

After the morning's excitement, children went on to participate in "Field Day Activities" under the direction of Myron Peterson and classroom teachers in the afternoon.

To Test Pressure Cooker Gauges At Holt, M. River

The season for food preservation is approaching quickly. One of the items that is necessary in canning all vegetables (except tomatoes) and meat is a pressure canner, according to Nancy J. Nelson, Marshall county extension agent, home economics.

Canners with a dial gauge should be tested every two to three years for accuracy.

A clinic for testing dial gauge canners is being held on Tuesday, June 9, sponsored by the Marshall county extension office. The morning session at the Middle River community center will be held from 10 to 11:30 a.m. with an afternoon session being held at the Grygla civic center, from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

Current publications on food preservation will also be available. There is no charge for the testing of gauges.

Kidney Foundation Elects Officers

The board of directors of the Kidney Foundation have elected new officers for the 1987-88 year. The new officers are LaVonne Haraldson, chairperson; Cliff Bredeson, president; Web Maves, executive vice president; Ruth Nepper, executive vice president; Bob Bergan, vice president; Sue Sculthorp, secretary, and Marilyn Winters, treasurer.

There will be a Kidney Foundation auction September 12 and 13 at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Call Cliff Bredeson at 681-4615, Web Maves at 681-1786, or Morris Howick at 681-2691 if you have items to donate.

150 Dairy Entries Are Expected For Dairy Day

champion grade animal of the show and a trip to the World Dairy Expo at Madison, WI, to the showman of the grand champion purebred of the show.

Other major awards which include plaques are the overall grand show champion, junior champion, and the Stuart McLeod award, presented to the show's outstanding participant and named in honor of Stuart McLeod, one of the originators of Northwest Dairy Day and president of the sponsoring Northwest Dairy Improvement association for more than 25 years.

A dairy food demonstration will be arranged at Lincoln high school and is open to all boys and girls, not only 4-H club members. Three classes for beginners, juniors and advanced exhibitors will be established and all entries will receive participation awards. Winners will be recognized at the evening banquet. Purpose of the dairy demonstration is to promote dairy products and provide youth with an opportunity to prepare and present a well organized demonstration for the public. Registration will take place at Lincoln high school at 10 a.m.

In coordination with the 38th annual dairy day, 4-H club members from the area will offer dairy product samples in grocery stores throughout Thief River Falls. Anyone desiring further information may contact Sue Lillevold, secretary of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, at the chamber of commerce office in Thief River Falls, phone 681-3720.

Just what is a sale? Is it when a store sells gold chain at 50% off all year long? Diamonds too? We don't do that. We never have and never will. Quality is never cheap, but now it's less. Last month on a major buying trip we found diamond values that to us were unbelievable . . . not the 50% "savings" you've seen and wondered about, but truly incredible values on quality diamonds. Come in and see what we're so excited about! For you we went to Antwerp.

Deaths And Funerals

Albert "Butch" LaFrenz, 72

Thief River Falls — Albert "Butch" LaFrenz died this morning (Wednesday) at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls at the age of 72. Funeral services are pending with the Green Funeral home. A complete obituary will follow in Monday's edition of the Times.

Carl Rud, Sr., 85

Middle River — Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. May 26 at the First Lutheran church in Middle River for Carl Rud, Sr., who died at the Karlstad Memorial hospital May 22 at the age of 85.

Rev. Mark Gehrke officiated at the service, with Mrs. Richard Luoto singing and Mrs. Floyd Peterson at the organ. Musical selections were "Softly and Tenderly" and "In the Garden."

Active pallbearers were Marvin Beito, Ronnie Moen, Jack Nelson, Conrad Olson, Victor Kaml and Howard Hodne. Those in attendance were considered honorary bearers. Interment was in Huntly township cemetery near Strathcona with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of arrangements.

Carl Arthur Rud, Sr., was born Sept. 18, 1901, in East Park township, Marshall county, the son of Christ and Janna Rud. He attended school and grew to manhood there and was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

Dec. 23, 1923, he was united in marriage to Clara Hoff at Middle River. The couple farmed in East Park township until 1960, when they moved to Middle River.

May 11, 1979, he was united in marriage to Katie Shimpa at Roseau. They resided at the Royal Manor in Middle River for several months, and had recently moved to Karlstad Memorial nursing center.

He is survived by his wife, Katie; four sons, Carl, Jr., Kenneth, Ernie andf LeRoy, all of Grand Forks, ND; four daughters, Clarinda Cormier, Karlstad, Christine Veselka and Mrs. Elmer (Clarice) Rasmussen, both of Middle River, and Mrs. Dallas (Carol) Wikstrom, Thief River Falls; four step-sons, John, Charles, George and Ted Shimpa, all of Greenbush; 27 grandchildren; 44 great-grandchildren; and seven great-great-grandchildren.

He is also survived by brothers, Engvald, Greenbush, John, Karlstad, and Calmer, Strandquist; two sisters, Jennie Larson, Strathcona, and Alma Wicklund, Greenbush; and several nieces, nephews and other relatives.

He was preceded in death by his first wife, parents, a son, a grandson, a daughter, and one brother and one sister.

GO TO THE FUNERAL! Don't Worry What to Say

Some people don't like to go to a visitation or funeral because they think that too many visitors might upset the family. Others because they don't know what to say or how to act. Should you go to the funeral? Definitely, Yes! Your visit will not only be greatly appreciated by the bereaved but is often most helpful. Mourners do not want to be alone. They seek and need the support of relatives and friends. Don't worry about what to say. Your very presence says a lot. Yet don't hesitate to speak about the deceased. The family wants to talk about their loss. It is beneficial to them.

Also, our visitations usually last several hours the day prior to the funeral and also for some time before services. These times help confront the reality of the loss.

School Board Gives O.K. To AVTI Referendum

$18,000 contingency.

Authorization was given to enter into lease agreements for AVTI equipment purchases and advertise for bids for the purchase of auto technology equipment. Student senate budget was approved, as was a name change for the AVTI to the Thief River Falls Technical Institute.

Jane Mackenroth, community education director, reported on the first reunion of the Lincoln high school class of 1987 the night of graduation. She said approximately 110 of the 154 graduates attended, 45 adults assisted in chaperoning and 75 businesses donated prizes, food and refreshments.

Approval was given to continue membership in the Minnesota state high school league and policy to establish tobacco free schools was approved, as were the superintendent's goals and objectives.

Resignations were accepted from Virgil Burger, Lincoln librarian; Bernadette Larson, Mark Twain kindergarten instructor; Lillian Rux, head custodian at the AVTI; Bonnie Stewart, adult outreach coordinator; and Dewey Rood, custodian.

Individual supervisor contracts were approved for Lois Janes, AVTI administrative assistant; Kathryn Kinsman, food services supervisor; Jane Mackenroth, community education director; Fred Mykleby, transportation supervisor; LeRoy Vigen, buildings and grounds foreman; and Ray Vigstol, mechanic foreman and supervisor.

Approval was given to the agreement with the principals and directors association and negotiated contracts for Supt. Ruberto and assistant Hamerlinck.

IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, [illegible], who passed away May 24th, 1965.

THROUGH THE LIGHT

Mom when you left this Earth
I wasn't here to see, all the happiness and love
that you gave my family.
I was born three years later and I never shed a tear,
I only knew you through their memories and that they missed you so much here.
On your birthday, and on holidays
Mom would take me by the hand, as we'd bring flowers to your grave
but still I did not understand . . .
as we knelt to say a prayer
I'd see the pain that Mom felt so — but why it was it so sad when it came your time to go?
They said that you had cancer and you suffered more each day, so shouldn't they have been happy
now that your pain has gone away?
For though I treasured dearly
the brother I never knew,
I was ignorant to the pain they felt the day that they lost you.
Well it's been a little over a month now since I have seen the light, as I watched our Dad lay on his death bed unwilling to quit the fight.
I know now of the sorrow
as I start once more to cry, the helplessness they must have felt as they watched you slowly die.
The other day it was a holiday and Mom took me by the hand, as we brought flowers to yours and Daddy's grave
Dear Brother, now I understand . . .
as we knelt to say a prayer
I saw the pain that Mom felt so — and felt the pain inside my own heart for now, at last I know.
As I look into the Heavens
I know I'll make it through somehow, to carry on in my life ahead
I've got TWO angels to watch me now.

Sadly missed by his Mom "Dolly",
Sisters: [illegible] and Anita and Brothers: Vince and Paul

Unemployment In Area 2½ Times Metro Area Rate

Minneapolis-St. Paul metro area unemployment rate declined sharply in April to 3.7 per cent, the lowest rate for this month since 1979 when it reached 3.1 per cent, according to Commissioner Joe Samargia of the Minnesota department of jobs and training reported today.

The April rate compares with 4.5 per cent in March and 4.6 per cent in April of 1986, Samargia said.

The comparable national unemployment rate for April was 6.2 per cent and the statewide rate for the month was 4.9 per cent. (Figures are not adjusted for seasonal variations.) April figures for Region 1 averaged 9.5 per cent, ranging from 5.3 per cent in Roseau county to 19.9 per cent in Red Lake county. Pennington had 8.6 per cent unemployment and Marshall 14.9 per cent.

A rise in total employment in the metro area during April was a normal seasonal development, Samargia said, but the decrease in the number of unemployed people which occurred caused a greater drop in the jobless rate than what is usually expected in April.

Department analyst Kevin Alaspa noted that although manufacturing employment was virtually unchanged from March to April, certain other industries had appreciable gains. Increases occurred most noticeably in construction, retail trade and personal and business services, he said. State and local governments also accounted for some of the rise in employment, he added.

TIMES Around The Region

by Sharon LaCoursiere

A Big One

Red Lake Falls — Allen Kehn of Red Lake Falls caught a ten pound northern in the Red Lake river May 18. The fish was 30 inches long. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Fun Sunday

Detroit Lakes — St. Luke's Episcopal church in Detroit Lakes held their third annual Blue Jeans Sunday recently. Everyone, young and old, came to church attired in blue jeans and well-equipped with rakes, brooms and cleaning cloths. After the weekly church service, all parishioners turned to the task of spring house and yard cleaning. After the cleaning, workers were treated to an old-fashioned picnic on the spotless church grounds. (Detroit Lakes Tribune)

Area Vandalism

Warren — Vandalism to buildings and vehicles was reported to the Marshall county sheriff's office May 20. Lester Wallsten of Warren reported that his grain truck parked in Vega township had headlights, windows and mirrors broken; Johnson Airspray in Argyle reported that an all-night light above the hangar door had been shot out; Duane Ekman of Argyle reported his tractor parked in Bloomer township had a window shot out; and Vernon McFarland reported his tractor had been shot in the front end and building had also been damaged by gunshots. (Warren Sheaf)

Presented In Defense . . .

Kennedy — In a letter to the editor of the North Star News, Peter Asplin, a senior at Kennedy high school, defended teen dances held in Florian against attacks in a May 14 article by Marshall County Sheriff Dennis Brekke. Asplin stated he has attended the last few Florian dances and can see only positive effects. He said, "In this area there are very few non-school functions for teens, especially after basketball season ends. I feel that Florian offers a chance for teens to go out and just have fun. At Florian teens are not subjected to the incredible amounts of peer pressure which is present at parties. It is quite possible to go to Florian and dance, talk, meet people and just generally have fun without drinking." Asplin ends his letter by stating, "I feel that if parents trust their kids, more often than not the kids will act responsibly." (North Star News)

Former RLF Man Honored

Red Lake Falls — U.S. Army Major Richard A. Demarais, 1963 graduate of Lafayette high school and son of Mrs. Alice Christianson of Red Lake Falls, was recently decorated in ceremonies in Washington, D.C. with the Meritous Service Medal for outstanding service as commander of dental company detachment and executive officer of U.S. Army Dental Activity at Fort Dix, NJ. He was also promoted from captain to major medical service corps. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Truck Fire

Badger — A semi truck loaded with lumber caught fire May 19 about 4:30 p.m. southeast of Greenbush on county road 3. Firemen from Badger and Greenbush battled the blaze, which did considerable damage to the truck and its load of lumber. According to the driver of the truck, John Laughy of Baudette, the cause of the fire was overheated brakes. Laughy sustained minor injuries when a tire burst as he was trying to put out the fire. The truck is owned by Maus Sales of Baudette. (Greenbush Tribune)

Fatality

Wadena — Catherine Noreen Tigges, 21, of Wadena, was killed early May 22 when her vehicle rolled over on the River Bottom Road east of Bluffton. She was the daughter of Donald and Noreen Tigges of rural Wadena. (Wadena Pioneer Journal)

Bemidji Accident

Bemidji — Wet pavement was considered the cause of a three-vehicle accident May 25 at the intersection of highway 197 and Irvine avenue in Bemidji. An eastbound 1973 Chevrolet driven by Brian Paul, 18, was unable to stop for a red light before striking a Chevrolet Citation in the rear. The impact pushed the Citation into a 1976 Ford LTD driven by John Wolbeck, 39, of Thief River Falls. Paul Vanderschaaf, 35, of Bemidji, driver of the Citation, suffered no injuries; but Paul and his passenger, Bill Gottas, Bemidji, were injured. Wolbeck also reported injury to his knee. There were no charges filed in the incident and minor damage was reported to the Paul and Wolbeck vehicles and moderate damage to the Vanderschaaf vehicle. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Fox For Fun & Profit

Humboldt — A Humboldt couple is starting a new business venture to raise money for their children's college education. Dan and Linda Turner have begun raising silver fox for fun and profit. Pelts can sell for as high as $260 each, depending on color and quality. The Turner's foxes have produced two litters so far with a total of nine kits, and there are two more litters expected any day. Profits of the venture are being placed in a college fund for the young Turners, ages one, three, five and six. (Kittson County Enterprise)

He Can't Afford To Fly

Kennedy — A Canada goose strolled around the city of Kennedy a week ago. He wandered through a few yards, gathering a bit of a crowd in his wake, and then took off down the street to find greener pastures — still on foot. (North Star News)

Guilty Plea

Bemidji — Brian Holthusen, 21, of Grygla, pleaded guilty in Beltrami county district court May 22 to illegally taking a cow and calf moose January 31, 1986, in Lee township. Judge James Preece ordered presentence investigation of the case. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Make Your Own Movie

Wadena — Eighteen Wadena elementary students recently participated in a four-day visual arts residency program made possible by a grant that the school received for supplemental fine arts activities. Students learned how to work the camera, act and direct at the seminar, and ended the four days with a program entitled, "Our School: A Great Place to Learn." (Wadena Pioneer Journal)

Roseau Presentation

Roseau — Scenes and music from eight recently-produced plays about Minnesota history will be presented in the production, "All the Livelong Day," to be held at 7:30 p.m. June 6 in the assembly room of the Library-Museum complex in Roseau. The public is invited and admission is free. Refreshments will be served by Roseau Friends of the Library. (Roseau Times-Region)

Back To Hallock

Hallock — "Back Home Days" in Hallock June 20 will feature a lip sync contest and tug o' war. Hallock Eagles and Pepperoni Junction are taking registrations for the tug o' war to be held at 4:30 p.m. at Gilbert Olson Park. Two Hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded. The lip sync contest will be at the Hallock city hall with prizes of $100 for first place and $50 for second, with winners in each of two age divisions. Register for the lip sync contest by mailing to Karen Bergeron, P.O. Box 27, Hallock. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Collision By RLF

Red Lake Falls — No injuries were reported in a two-vehicle collision May 20 two miles south of Red Lake Falls at the junction of highway 32 and township road 114. A 1974 Chevrolet truck driven by Eric Vatthauer and owned by Quality Farm Supply of Thief River Falls was west bound on township 114 when it collided with a 1983 Chevrolet pickup driven by Joseph DeHaan of Red Lake Falls, who was south bound on highway 32. DeHaan's pickup landed on its roof in the ditch and the vehicle was totalled. The truck was damaged in the amount of $500.

Bear With It

Wadena — Needless to say, Wadena residents were unpleasantly surprised recently when a large black bear decided to take a walk through town. A crowd of curious onlookers caused him to seek solice in a tree until police came to his rescue and cleared the area. After the crowd dispersed, he climbed back down and made a hasty exit out of town the way he came in. (Wadena Pioneer Journal)

DOGS, a cat, hamsters, birds and one caterpillar were enjoyed by parents, teachers and students at Knox school's first annual pet show yesterday. Everyone got a chance to hold the animals and, as shown above, some were just made to fit comfortably in anyone's arms.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

In watching "Coffee Time" last week when Mayor Bob Carlson addressed the topic of well water versus surface water I was really burned up.

The city has spent, I feel, too much money getting a firm from Kansas City, MO when we have the same right here.

The well drillers here are known for their expert work and also know where the water is closer to town. Those prices quoted I feel are out of line.

Thank you, Mayor Bob, for referring to me as the one to start this concern for well water, but I can't take all the credit.

What about a public meeting? That way we can get everyone's concern brought out. This is a very worthwhile matter and, I feel that it shouldn't be dropped. I am sure that down the road a few years, it will come up again, if not discussed now publicly.

Doyle Thompson

To The Editor:

The 1987 legislative session has now come to a close, and I want to thank all those who helped achieve so much for Minnesota's state universities. The challenges this session were difficult, as legislators struggled to support educational programs and facilities within the limits imposed by a budget shortfall. As the dust settles, it is apparent that those who prevailed carried the message that the future of Minnesota and of our nation depends upon the quality of our minds.

With an adequate base of operating dollars and a bonding bill that makes a solid investment in the future, our state universities will be able to continue to fulfill their historic mission of providing high quality undergraduate programs to people throughout Minnesota. We will also be able to strengthen and expand the partnerships we have forged with business and community leaders in order to enhance regional economic development.

A great deal more remains to be done in the months and years ahead as we seek to achieve a level of support that will bring our state universities up to a competitive position with our counterparts across the country. But needed steps forward have been taken and, with your continued support, I am confident that we in the Minnesota state university system will maintain our commitment to create possibility for all the people of Minnesota, whatever their income, whatever region of the state they call home, whatever their racial or ethnic background, whatever their aspirations.

Sincerely,
-s- Robert L. Carothers
Chancellor

Kassa Attends Stabilization Pond Seminar In D.L.

Timothy J. Kassa of Goodridge aitneded a stabilization pond seminar conducted by the Minnesota pollution control agency May 19-22, 1987 in Detroit Lakes.

Designed especially for employees involved in the stabilization pond method of wastewater treatment, the course covered the concepts of pond treatment, proper operation and maintenance practices and laboratory procedures.

A visit to the pond at Audubon was included on the agenda. This allowed participants to perform sampling and troubleshoot operation and maintenance practices at a stabilization pond.

The Minnesota pollution control agency conducted the seminar to help provide stabilization pond operators with the training they need to properly operate and maintain their facilities to ensure the protection of Minnesota's water resources.

Abundant Rains Relieve Topsoil Moisture Shortage

"When it rains, it pours!" Was the case for most of the state of Minnesota this past week as much-needed rain fell in abundance, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. A few weeks ago many farmers were hoping for some rainfall to relieve the short topsoil moisture conditions, but now many of these same farmers, and especially those in the northern third of the state, would rather see some sunny, dry weather to dry up surplus topsoil moisture.

Topsoil moisture as of May 29 was reported as being three per cent very short, 18 per cent short, 65 per cent adequate and 14 per cent surplus. Portions of the central, west central, south central and southeast districts reported short topsoil moisture and were hoping to receive a larger share of the rain that fell in the other three-quarters of the state. Because of the scattered showers that occurred throughout the week, only 3.1 days were suitable for fieldwork.

Small grain crops are emerged and moving well into the jointing and heading stages of maturity. The spring wheat crop is 25 per cent jointing compared with two per cent last year and the 5-year average of five per cent. The crop is two per cent heading, whereas none was heading by this same date last year or for the five-year average. Spring wheat condition has shown improvement over the past few weeks. As of May 8, spring wheat was rated three per cent very poor, 10 per cent poor, 38 per cent fair, 47 per cent good and two per cent excellent, but this week, the crop is reported 45 per cent fair, 50 per cent good, and five per cent excellent.

Other small grains are maturing earlier than normal as well. Oats are 37 per cent jointing versus four per cent in 1986 and six per cent for the average. Barley is 21 per cent jointing compared with one per cent last year and the four per cent average. Last year and for the five-year averages, neither barley nor oats showed any signs of heading. This year, two per cent of the oat crop is heading and one per cent of the barley crop is in the heading stage.

Ninety-nine per cent of the field corn crop is emerged compared with the 62 per cent five-year average and 55 per cent on this same date last year. Corn acreage. The corn crop's condition is reported as being two per cent poor, 36 per cent fair, 54 per cent good and eight per cent excellent. Soybean planting is 98 per cent complete compared with 59 per cent last year and the 68 per cent average. Emergence levels are at 66 per cent versus 12 per cent in 1986 and 22 per cent on average. The soybean crop's condition is reported as two per cent poor, 49 per cent fair, 48 per cent good and one per cent excellent.

Sunflowers are 95 per cent planted compared with 25 per cent in 1986 and 55 per cent on average. Potatoes are 93 per cent planted versus 77 per cent last year and the 78 per cent average. Flax planting is 93 per cent complete compared with the 61 per cent average and 47 per cent on this same date last year. Dry edible beans are 86 per cent planted compared with 68 per cent in 1986 and the average of 67 per cent. Sweet corn is 73 per cent planted versus 69 per cent last year and 63 per cent on average. Green pea acreage is 95 per cent planted compared with 94 per cent last year and the average of 90 per cent.

Pasture conditions in the state are eight per cent poor, 44 per cent fair, 45 per cent good and three per cent excellent. Five per cent of Minnesota's alfalfa acreage has been cut for first crop hay, but cutting was held back by the wet conditions of the week. Many areas in the state are expecting reduced alfalfa yields on first crop hay because of the dry conditions that prevailed throughout most of the month of May.

Three-Day Senior Program Set At Old Mill Park

Old Mill state park, 13 miles east of Argyle, will be the site June 8-10 of a special program for senior citizens co-sponsored by the Marshall county council on aging, Marshall county historical society and Old Mill state park.

Registration will be on Monday from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday evening will include a meal served by Lutheran Social Services senior meals and a musical jamboree. Visitors are invited to bring their fiddles, guitars, accordions and other instruments to join in the fun. On Tuesday, members of the Marshall county historical society will be operating the old grist mill under the V.I.P. (Volunteers In Parks) program, turning out fresh stone ground flour.

Also on Tuesday, park personnel will be giving tours of prairie restoration projects and slide programs on Minnesota state parks. There will be a potluck noon meal on Tuesday and a display of craft projects by local seniors. Tuesday evening the music and sing along will continue. On Wednesday morning there will be a pancake breakfast provided by L.S.S. and farewell from the park manager.

There will be a $5 per person registration fee to cover the two meals and miscellaneous expense. Camping is available for about 36 units. Seniors over 65 years old may camp for $3 per night with an additional charge of $1.50 per night for electrical hookup. Reservations for camping can be made by calling the park headquarters at (218) 437-8174. Call the park by Friday to sign up for the Monday evening meal.

Soil Survey For Marshall County Hits Grygla Area

The soil survey is continuing in Marshall county and soil scientists will be working in the Grygla area for the next two or three weeks. They will try to stop at farm homes, but if there is no one home, they plan to map as much as possible in the shortest period of time.

"If you get a chance to visit with the soil scientist, find out what he is finding on your farm," suggests Ralph Rundell of the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD. "If you have questions, call us and we will try to keep you informed. The main areas to be mapped this month include Eckvoll, Valley and Espelie townships.

Interview with the judges is considered to be one of the more important phases of the competition. Debbie is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carroll Erickson of Thief River Falls.

SWIMSUIT AND EVENING GOWN to be worn by Miss Thief River Falls, Debbie Erickson, at the Miss Minnesota pageant later this month in Austin, are modeled by Debbie at the Erickson home in Thief River Falls. Debbie has recently completed her junior year in college and is using several weeks to prepare for the state competition.

BSU Music Camp Sessions Begin Sunday, July 19

A 40-year tradition will be celebrated this summer when the Bemidji state university summer music camp opens its doors for two camp sessions July 19-31.

Featuring music faculty from throughout the United States and Canada, the camp enrolls 300 students during its one-week sessions.

Begun as a band directors' clinic in 1948 by Bemidji state band conductor Maurice Calahan, the clinic grew as more directors and students began attending the summer sessions.

With the addition of choir, orchestra, jazz and piano sections over the years, the clinic has expanded into a comprehensive camp which serves the needs of all students studying music from grades 6-12 and special sections for college music students and music teachers. Over 25,000 students have participated in the program since its inception.

For the third consecutive year, the camp is directed by Dr. Jon Nichols, assistant professor of music education and percussion at Bemidji state university, and includes a faculty of 20 and a staff of five.

At the camp, all students receive instruction on their instrument or voice, full ensemble experiences, sectionals and music theory classes.

Highlighting the first camp week July 19-24 will be the camp choir, orchestra, and jazz concentrations. Dr. Paul Brandvik, director of choral activities at BSU, will return as conductor of the choir and the choral directors' course. Special voice sessions taught by Dr. Fulton Gallagher, also of the BSU faculty, will enhance the choral program for students and directors.

The orchestra, conducted by Dr. Barry Kolman of the BSU faculty, will perform in both string and full orchestra settings. BSU faculty members Roberta Sellon and Dr. Patrick Riley will provide additional instruction for string students.

A popular aspect of the music camp in recent years has been the jazz concentration, coordinated by Dr. Steven Konecne. With the assistance of jazz faculty from throughout the nation and Canada, Konecne organizes instruction in jazz improvisation, sectionals and full ensemble experience for some 50 students.

Completing the first week's performing groups is the camp concert band, conducted by Larry Simmons, the coordinatir of music in the Rochester, Michigan, schools who is beginning his second year with the camp.

Adding a new dimension to the first week is the Bemidji Piano Camp, coordinated by area piano teacher and performer Margaret Harper. Under Harper's leadership, students receive instruction in keyboard theory, performance practice, and individual lessons. Depending upon enrollment, a second week of piano camp instruction may be offered July 26-31.

Traditionally, the camp's second week (July 26-31) has featured experiences for concert band. This year's concert band conductors include Eugene Corporan, director of bands at Michigan State University and David Reul, coordinator of music in Oconomowoc, WI. Additionally, two auditioned jazz bands will round out the scheduled program for musicians.

Finale concerts, which have become popular summer music events in the area, feature the students performing in their specialties. The 7 p.m. concerts in Memorial Hall 100 on the BSU campus will be performed on July 24 and July 31. They are open to the public at no charge.

Students and directors interested in attending the Summer Music Camp should contact Dr. Jon Nichols, camp director, Music Department, Bangsberg Fine Arts Complex, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699 (218-755-2915) for a brochure and application.

250 Attend Fifth Discovery Place Graduation Wed.

Over 250 people attended the fifth annual Discovery Place graduation at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls May 27. Twenty-four children wore white caps and gowns and marched to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" to receive their diplomas from vice president of the board of directors, Kathi Carlson.

All of the Discovery Place children presented a program of songs, fingerplays and dance. The children who participated were from the age of two years through a school age group. They sang, marched and gave actions to traditional children's songs. The schoolage group presented a May pole dance.

The children who "graduated" from the preschool group to the kindergarten group were: Ian Anton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Anton; Sarah Backer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Backer; Beth Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Carpenter; and Jessica Corbett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Corbett;

Old Mill Park's Open House Notes 50th Anniversary

Every year on the first Sunday in June, Minnesota state parks have open house. This is a special 50th anniversary year at Old Mill state park 30 miles northwest of Thief River Falls.

It was 1937 when the state purchased the 287-acre area that is now the park. That same year construction was begun on the original stone buildings by the WPA (Works Progress Administration). Many changes have taken place over the last 50 years and everyone is invited to come out to the park this weekend and find out what has been added or changed recently.

This weekend at Old Mill there will be a variety of events for park visitors. In addition to the camping, picnicking, hiking and swimming there will be a camper show in the picnic area both Saturday and Sunday. There will be slide programs on Minnesota's state parks at the picnic shelter from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

During this same time the staff from the park will be on hand at the shelter to serve a cup of coffee or glass of lemonade and a cookie and answer questions about the park. Park staff is headed by Leonard Anderson, park manager, and includes Greg Dahlin, Karlstad, maintenance; Dorothy Johnson, Argyle, Karen Gonsorowski, Viking and Harriet Hodne, Newfolden, park workers; and David Ulferts, Warren, lifeguard.

On Sunday members of the Marshall County historical society will be operating the old mill on the park grounds for another "Grinding Days" demonstration. From 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Also on Sunday there will be a program at 2 p.m. to highlight some of the developments over the last 50 years and to recognize several local groups for their support of the park.

Red Lake Falls Gets Grant To Floor Plan Homark

A special grant for the city of Red Lake Falls has been announced by Rep. Wally Sparby, Thief River Falls, and Senator LeRoy Stumpf, Plummer.

The $250,000 grant comes from the department of energy and economic development (DEED) as part of an economic development program for small cities. Stumpf said the program is designed to help local businesses in their development needs.

According to Sparby and Stumpf, the city of Red Lake Falls will use the grant money to finance a dealer revolving loan pool for floor planning for Homark Company dealers. The floor planning is expected to increase Homark's sales by 25 per cent, thus bringing its job total to 90.

"It is projects such as these that help address community and economic development needs," Sparby said. "The city of Red Lake Falls and company officials should be commended for developing this successful project."

Policies Abroad Create Problems For U.S. Economy

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

With the Venice economic summit just two weeks away, and with the international trade and currency turmoil in the background, it's important to be as clear as we can on what economic problems have a strictly "made in USA" label and what problems have their origins overseas.

It's easy to list our own sins: our huge budget deficit, our massive import binge, a miserable productivity performance (outside the roughly 20 per cent of our economy that's in manufacturing), a record low savings rate, an unwillingness to pay the increased taxes needed to cut the deficit and so on.

But when we look abroad, we also see policies and problems that are hurting us. Japan's restrictive trade policies are only too well known. And both Japan's and Germany's reluctance to take the fiscal and monetary brakes off their powerful but sputtering economies is also all too evident.

It's not just Germany's and Japan's policies that limit markets but a slowdown in world economic growth. The world economic outlook published last month by the International Monetary Fund projects growth in the industrialized countries at 2.3 per cent, a drop from 2.4 per cent a year ago and three per cent two years ago. That's hard on U.S. exports.

Especially worrisome is the most recent news on growth in West Germany. Industrial output fell three per cent in March. The government now admits that even its modest 2.5 per cent growth forecast of last January is too high.

That bears directly on the question of whether it is reasonable to expect Germany, as its part of the international policy bargain, to stimulate its economy. After all, inflation is non-existent, unemployment is nearly nine per cent and German industry has experienced a drop in domestic orders in all major industrial categories since last fall. That confirms that domestic demand is weak.

Prompt tax cuts and some monetary easing would pay off handsomely, not only for Germany itself, but for Western Europe and the United States.

As I said here two weeks ago, we also have to bring something concrete to the summit table. In particular, we have to demonstrate that this country is serious about sizeable reductions in our budget deficit. The most vivid sign that Mr. Reagan could offer to his fellow summiteers would be a willingness to accept the modest excise tax increases that both houses of Congress have had the political courage to incorporate into their deficit-cutting programs.

Radon Pollution Indoor Hazard For Lung Cancer

Radon, a radioactive gas, is a powerful pollutant that is a problem in some homes. It usually comes from soil surrounding the house and enters through cracks in the foundation, walls, joints or other openings. It can also be transported in water and building materials.

Decay products of radon can be inhaled into the lungs and cause tissue damage and lung cancer. Indoor radon exposure may be the second leading cause of lung cancer (behind cigarette smoking). Studies estimate it may cause between 5,000 and 30,000 deaths annually. If your home has a radon problem and if someone in your family smokes in the home, your family's risk (to smokers and nonsmokers) of lung cancer is dramatically increased.

Not many studies of radon levels have been done in Minnesota, and the only way to find out if your home has high radon levels is to measure it. Since radon is invisible and has no odor, special equipment is needed to detect it.

The simplest way to find out if your home has a radon problem is to obtain a radon detector, such as charcoal canisters or alpha track detectors. These devices are exposed to the air in your home for a specified time and then sent to a laboratory for analysis. Alpha track detectors are available for $20 from the American Lung Association of Minnesota, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55102. You can also write for a free radon fact sheet.

Tax Law Changes Affect Students And Summer Work

Students looking forward to summer jobs should be aware of several important tax law changes, according to C.D. Switzer, director of the IRS in Minnesota.

Many students who were able to claim exemption from withholding in the past will no longer qualify for that tax status on their W-4 or W-4A form in 1987. If a person can be taken as a dependent on someone else's return and has combined wage and nonwage income of more than $500, then he or she will be unable to claim exemption from withholding. Nonwage income includes such items as interest and dividends.

"That means if you earn more than $500 and just one dollar of it is interest, you won't be able to claim exempt status on your W-4," Switzer emphasized. A person who has wage income only can usually claim exemption from withholding on the W-4 if his or her wages this year will total less than $2,540.

Students who worked for someone last year and are still working for them this year should fill out a new W-4 or W-4A form and give it to their employer by October 1. Several tax law changes maq affect the number of withholding allowances students can claim. For example, scholarship money used to pay room and board and other living expenses will become taxable. Earnings from internships and residencies will be fully taxable, and for people who don't itemize, the deduction for charitable donations is gone. To avoid a tax bill on their 1987 return, students should complete new W-4 or W-4A forms as soon as possible, Switzer said.

All students who can be claimed as a dependent on their parents' or someone else's tax return can no longer take a personal exemption for themselves on their own tax return, Switzer said. In prior years, students could generally take their own personal exemption even if they were a dependent on their parents' or another person's return.

Anyone at least five years old by the end of 1987 must now have a social security number if they will be claimed as a dependent. The number is required to be listed on the 1040 or 1040A form for each dependent who will be claimed. Call the social security administration to apply for a number.

More tax information is available from a new IRS service called Tele-Tax. Outside the metro area dial toll-free 1-800-554-4477 to listen to several prerecorded messages. Tape number 999 explains the W-4 and W-4A form and tape number 326 covers the highlights of the tax reform act. Tele-Tax is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Trained IRS tax specialists are available to answer your questions Monday through Friday during normal business hours by calling 291-1422 or toll-free 1-800-424-1040.

HELEN KNUTSON of Grygla was chosen as the Artist of the Month by the Thief River Falls community arts council. Most of her painting on canvas is with oils, however she has done some on celotex. Some of her work will be on display at the Thief River Falls library during the month of June.

Grygla Artist Is Featured At TRF Library In June

Helen Knutson of Grygla, is artist of the month, which is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council.

Although she has always had an interest in art, she didn't start painting until after she started attending an art class in the fall of 1975. Today she does most of her painting on canvas with oils, however she has done some on celotex.

The kitchen table is currently her studio. "I don't spend much time on my painting, but my kitchen table usually has a variety of art materials spread on it. Oftentimes, Marilyn Bannerman's things are on the other side of the table as we paint and help one another." Marilyn Bannerman was artist of the month in March.

Helen's inspiration comes from common things in nature such as the changing seasons, weather, cloud formations, trees, and wildlife. She also gathers ideas from photographs. She is inspired by photographs she has taken or one that was printed in travel brochures or on postcards.

Currently, Helen is content to improve her skills in oil painting. By increasing her techniques and mastery of the medium, she hopes to [illegible] types of flowers and birds.

Helen's paintings will be on display at the Northwest regional library in Thief River Falls throughout the month of June.

Fire Chief Notes New Volunteers On Fire Dep't.

Fire chief Dave Bjorkman has noted the retirement of three long-term volunteer fire fighters from the fire department. Most recently, Henry Hastad, a 20-year volunteer, has retired from the volunteer force and is being replaced by Duane Gonsorowski.

Chief Bjorkman said this is the third such change on the volunteer force this year. Earlier this year Hal Harbott was chosen to replace Gene Henrickson and Joe Borchardt to replace Barry Fellman, who became a full-time fire fighter on the fire department.

Bjorkman said he will miss these experienced volunteers and expects the same degree of dedication from the newer recruits.

NCC Student Housing Needed

Northland community college registrar Dennis Bendickson notes that the college is in need of student housing for students who will be enrolled at the college next fall.

Anyone having rental housing suitable for student use is asked to call the college office (681-2181) to be placed on the available housing list.

Worthless Check Cases Receive Sentencing In Court

Issuance of worthless checks and forgeries were listed violations in the courtroom log for district court, division two, in Thief River Falls during the past week.

In Minnesota vs. Timothy Ervin Culp, 20, Roseau, Culp was sentenced to 90 days in jail to be served concurrently with another sentence. Culp was given credit for time served. He was adjudged guilty of issuance of worthless checks totaling over $700. In a separate case Culp was placed in the custody of the Minnesota commissioner of corrections for 19 months on the charge of uttering a forged instrument. He is to be given credit for time served. Culp was represented by assistant public defender Dennis Murphy. Attorney Dave Olin was the prosecuting attorney for the state.

In Minnesota vs. David Edward Koehmstedt, 19, Thief River Falls, sentencing was stayed an indefinite period of time not to exceed five years for uttering a forged instrument. He will not be assessed a fine or given a jail sentence on condition he follows probation guidelines and makes restitution for $591.30. Koehmstedt was represented by Attorney Richard Sather. Attorney Dave Olin was the prosecuting attorney.

In Minnesota vs. Kevin Andreas Olson, 26, Thief River Falls, Olson was placed in the custody of the Minnesota commissioner of corrections for 13 months for uttering a forged instrument. However, execution of the sentence was stayed for a five-year probation period. He was sentenced to six months in the county jail and given credit for time served. He is allowed to participate in the Huber law program and must pay a fine of $300 plus costs. In additon, he cannot have a checking account and must make restitution totaling $70 if restitution hasn't already been made. Olson was represented by assistant public defender Dennis Murphy. County Attorney Dave Olin represented the state.

In Minnesota vs. Rodney Melvin Nissen, 25, Bemidji, Nissen was sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $750 for aggravated driving after revocation. The fine was suspended along with two months in jail. He must pay the remainder of the fine and costs. Nissen was represented by Assistant public defender Dennis Murphy. County Attorney Dave Olin represented the state.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS joined in a project accomplished over the past several weeks to replace the shingles on the Silverton Lutheran church located four miles east and one mile north of Thief River Falls. The church was last shingled in the mid 1950s. The steeple was shingled last year. The Silverton congregation was formed in 1906 and the 30x40 church built and dedicated in 1913. Pictured in the bottom photo (left to right) are Roger Hruby, Orlin Lerol and Lyle Walseth near the top of the roof, Harry Bolstad and Wayne Harder on the loaders and Allen Harder on the ground. They comprised the crew working on the church last Saturday. Other volunteers were Richard Hruby, Scott Walseth, Owen Weckworth, Steven Harder and Floyd Dalzell. Trucks were provided by Herman Christopherson and Gilbert Trontvet, tractors by Allen and Harold Harder, Harry Bolstad and Lyle Walseth, and food by Gloria, Annette and Gladys Harder, Arlene Walseth and Joan and Karen Hruby. The work was done during the period from Memorial Day through Monday of this week.

WAGNER-PEYSER ACT PUBLIC NOTICE PROGRAM YEAR 1987

As provided by Part 652 of the Wagner-Peyser Act, 29 USC, 49 et seq., the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training announces the following substate allocations of funds received pursuant to the Act.

|---|---|
| District IA (West Metro) | $2,013,825 |
| District IB (East Metro) | $1,919,832 |
| District II (Northeast) | $ 810,384 |
| District III (Northwest) | $1,176,665 |
| District IV (Central) | $1,416,706 |
| District V (South) | $1,464,554 |

Such allocations are for the period July 1, 1987, through June 30, 1988, also known as Program Year 1987 (PY1987). District boundaries are shown below:

Wagner-Peyser funding is used for public employment service activity. Approximately 72 per cent of the above funds were allocated based on each substate district's relative share of the state civilian labor force (weight 2/3) and unemployed (weight 1/3) in Calendar Year 1986. Approximately 18 per cent of the funds were allocated to the districts according to each district's relative share of the total number of placement transactions made by the Minnesota Job Service from 7/1/84 through 12/31/86. Approximately 10 per cent of the above funds were allocated to the districts based upon the quotient resulting when the district's share of state's unemployed is divided by the district's share of state's civilian labor force.

Component plans were developed for Service Delivery Areas within the state in consort with the private Industry Councils and Chief Elected Officials representing such areas for this purpose.

Written comments regarding the allocations or the planning process will receive full review and consideration and should be addressed to the attention of Dean Sullivan, Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Operations, Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training, 690 American Center Building, 150 E. Kellogg Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55101.

Bankers Ass'n. Joins Salute To Dairy Industry

Minnesota Bankers association (MBA) has joined with the American Dairy association in celebrating June Dairy Month, a salute to the state's dairy industry.

Many Minnesota banks will lend their support to the month-long promotion which calls attention to the economy and nutrition of dairy products as well as the economic impact of the industry on Minnesota.

"Minnesota has more than 21,000 dairy families generating well over a billion dollars in gross income. This income has a very positive effect on the state economy and should not be overlooked," stated Roy W. Terwilliger, MBA president.

He said milk is the leading source of Minnesota gross farm income. Last year Minnesota's dairy cattle numbered 891,000 and produced 10.6 billion pounds of milk.

Banks throughout Minnesota and the nation are presenting special lobby and window displays, serving dairy food samples and promoting other special efforts as a salute to the dairy industry during June Dairy Month.

Women's Slow Pitch

Playing for the first time since May 18, the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League resumed its rain-plagued schedule Monday.

Brenda Russell hit a three-run home run in a 12-8 win over Pepsi-Cola Bottling and added a grand slam home run in a 25-14 victory over Geno's Body Shop as Hair Dynamics came out a doubleheader winner.

Linda Tabor was 5-for-5 and Colleen Kron went 4-for-5 as Rainbow Nursery handled the Thief River Falls Merchants 11-2.

Pepsi-Cola Bottling rebounded from its Game 1 loss to Hair Dynamics to beat McDonald's 11-2 as Jodi Helt tripled.

Narverud Cleaners whipped the Thief River Falls Merchants 12-2.

It was also announced that Purdy's Shoes dropped plans to be a member of the Monday Night Division. May 18 games against Hair Dynamics and Narverud Cleaners, originally listed as forfeit wins over Purdy's Shoes, have been erased from the standings. Rest of the scheduled games against the team will simply be listed as a bye on the schedule.

VFW, Ridge Runners and Musherettes were doubleheader winners Tuesday in a night of make-up games for Division II teams — their twice-postponed season openers.

Dorene Larson homered in both games as VFW defeated Wilson Brothers 16-7 and beat KKAQ-Rusty Nail with a four-run eighth inning that snapped a 9-9 tie after the regulation seven innings.

Brenda Olson was 4-for-4 as the Ridge Runners downed Roseau Transport 9-5, and homered in a second-game 12-0 romp over KKAQ-Rusty Nail. Cheryl Hanson was 4-for-4 in Game 2, while Shannon Schafer went 3-for-4 and Tracey Nelson homered and tripled.

Musherettes scored four times in the top of the seventh to gain a tie, then added a pair of runs in the eighth for a 7-6 extra-inning win over Northwest Medical Center. Sue Olson was 3-for-4, homered and scored three times, while Kristi Lee came up with three RBI on a pair of hits. Olson came back to hit for the cycle in an 11-10 second-game victory over American Legion-Sather Law Office. She was 4-for-4 with five RBI and scored four times. Lee and Pam Schenkey were both 3-for-4, with Lee hitting a home run and driving in three runs, while Schenkey scored three times.

Julie Bergsnev homered as Northwest Medical Center got by Wilson Brothers 9-6, while American Legion-Sather Law Office handled Roseau Transport 15-1.

LEAVING SATURDAY for the 1987 National Junior College Athletic Association national golf tournament in Odessa, Texas will be Northland Community College freshman Dave Onkka and Pioneers coach Deb Jacobson. Onkka earned the NJCAA berth with a ninth place finish at the Region 13 tournament earlier this spring in Rochester.

NJCAA Event In Texas . . .

Onkka Heads For Golf Tournament

Dave Onkka, a Northland Community College freshman from Thief River Falls, and Pioneers coach Deb Jacobson will leave Saturday for the 1987 National Junior College Athletic Association national golf tournament in Odessa, Texas.

Onkka became an NJCAA qualifier with a tie for ninth place at the May 14-15 Minnesota Community College Conference state and NJCAA Region 13 tournament in Rochester. Earning All-Region 13 honors, Onkka became Northland's first NJCAA national qualifier since Jeff Reese of Hallock in 1981.

There will be NJCAA practice rounds Sunday and Monday. The tournament will be played Tuesday and Wednesday at the Odessa County Club and the Mission Dorado County Club. The 72-hole event will have a 36-hole cut. The low 24 golfers, or those within 15 shots of the leader, will make the second day field.

Lee Sorensen of Thief River Falls was Northland's first-ever NJCAA golf tournament qualifier when a second place state-region meet finish in 1973 sent him on to the NJCAA event in Rosewell, NM.

Northland, under coach Al Adams, won back-to-back state and region titles in 1974 and 1975 to qualify its entire team for the NJCAA tournament. The 1974 squad featured Sorensen, Mark Metusalem, Jay Moum, and Dick Penning of Thief River Falls, plus Jim Strandemo of Mahnomen. The 1975 team included returnees Strandemo and Penning, plus Dick Skay and Bruce Restad of Thief River Falls and Dave Kjos of Mahnomen. The 1974 NJCAA event was held at Ft. Meyers, FL, and the 1975 tournament was played at Hutchinson, KS.

Strandemo was the state and region tournament medalist both years.

Other Northland individual NJCAA qualifiers included Tom Olson, a fifth place state and region finisher in 1976 who played in the national tournament at Galveston, TX; and Reese, a third place state and region finisher in 1981 who played in the national tournament at Chapel Hill, TN.

Tennis Letters Presented

Athletic letters were awarded to 10 members of the 1987 Thief River Falls boys high school tennis team by head coach Whitey Olson following the recent completion of the Prowlers' spring schedule.

Letters went to juniors John Dondelinger, Troy Hanestad, Bret Haugen, Grant Larson, and Troy Peterson; sophomore Kent Holmes; and freshmen Tom Brouse, Kevin Holmes, Mike Howe and Jay Opdahl.

Dondelinger and Haugen served as Thief River Falls co-captains this year.

Thief River Falls went 5-3 during regular season dual meet competition and won two of three multiple-team outings — taking the East Grand Forks Invitational and the Northwest Quadrangular — while finishing second in the Prowlers' five-team Thief River Falls Invitational.

Post-season play included a berth in the finals of the North Sub-Region 8AA team tournament, and a Region 8AA singles berth for Haugen.

"I think we had an excellent year," said Olson. "We got back to winning some tournaments."

Without a single senior listed on the 19-member squad of freshmen, sophomores and juniors, plus a promising group of 13 eighth graders, Olson is optimistic about the Prowlers' tennis future. "We're looking ahead with good expectations," he said. "We're setting our sights beyond what we did this year."

Area Sports Briefs

Legion Baseball Opener Is Thursday

Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team will open its 1987 season Thursday when Post 117 hosts Halstad in a 7 p.m. game at the fairgrounds diamond.

Mark Lundin returns for his second year as Thief River Falls head coach. The 1986 Lincoln High School head baseball coach served as a teacher-coach in the Warren school system this year.

A bulk of his 1987 Legion team will come from the Lincoln squad that finished its high school schedule with a 9-5 record this spring.

A complete 1987 Legion schedule is still being worked out.

While Lundin handles the Legion squad, Scott McKeever will join the Thief River Falls baseball program as coach of the 16-year-olds. The Middle River native played American Legion baseball in Thief River Falls and was a baseball-basketball standout at Northland Community College.

Nick Drees will continue to serve as the program director for both teams. He coached the Legion squad from 1980 through the 1983 season before surrendering the coaching reigns to Kerry Wollin in 1985 and Lundin last year.

Youth Baseball Registration Is Thursday

Registration will take place Thursday and Friday for the 1987 Thief River Falls Park and Recreation Department-sponsored summer baseball program for 7-12-year-olds.

The registration will take place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. both days at the Sports Arena. Registration fee is $5. Gary Cornell is the program director, telephone 681-3449.

Boys Track Team Awards . . .

Brandt Is Named TRF MVP

Seniors Paul Brandt and Tony Rondorf, plus junior Brian Christianson, gained special recognition at the 1987 post-season banquet for members of the Thief River Falls boys high school track team.

Brandt was named most valuable and Rondorf was named winner of the Coaches' Award, while Christianson was selected as the Prowlers' 1988 captain, succeeding Brandt.

There were no team victories, but a small Thief River Falls squad did well as individuals this spring, according to head coach Tim Olson. "It was a very satisfying season," Olson explained. "We produced a lot of points for 20 kids."

Thief River Falls' 1987 schedule included indoor meets in April at Moorhead and Crookston, along with 12 outdoor outings at Crookston (three meets), University of North Dakota, Moorhead, Grand Forks (two meets), Park Rapids, Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Fergus Falls, and Roseau. The Prowlers also participated in the North Sub-Region 8AA meet at Moorhead, and a handful of qualifiers made it to the 1987 Region 8AA meet Saturday in Brainerd.

High School Track . . .

TRF Girls Presented Awards

Post-season awards have been presented to members of the 1987 Thief River Falls girls high school track team, it was announced this week by head coach Tom Schafer.

Special recognition went to junior Christy Puetz, most valuable; freshman Alice Dunning, most-improved; juniors Cindy Kruta and Peggy Cruz, hardest workers; and freshman Christy Holthusen, Rookie of the Year.

Athletic letters were presented to juniors Tammy Ortloff, Cruz, Kruta, and Puetz; sophomores Val Noel, Dianna Olson and Courtney Mostrom-Ose; freshmen Nenna Arnold, Lynnae Broten, Jennifer Johnson, Lynn Mueller, Rhonda Rothschadl, Leigh Solheim, Dunning, and Holthusen; eighth grader Terri Efteland; seventh grader Jodi Kruta; plus student manager Krista Trontvet.

Puetz led the Prowlers in scoring this spring with 111.25 points. Cindy Kruta was second with 105.25, followed by Mueller 92, Jodi Kruta 68, Cruz 59, Holthusen 40.75, Dunning 24, Ortloff 21, Rothschadl 12.50, Efteland 8.25, Solheim 5.50, Arnold 4.75, Noel 2, and Johnson 1.

Cruz currently ranks No. 3 on the Prowlers' all-time career scoring charts with 298 points. The leader is Stacie Kruta with 425.75, and the No. 2 spot belongs with Michelle Puetz with 328.75. Other top-ten career scorers on the 1987 squad include Cindy Kruta, No. 5 with 274.25; Mueller, No. 7 with 200.50; and Christy Puetz, No. 10 with 182.50.

Three Thief River Falls records fell this spring as Jodi Kruta ran a 12.68 in the 100 meters; Cruz ran a 2:23.30 in the 800 meters; and Mueller ran an 11:45.47 in the 3200 meters.

It was a successful season, said Schafer, especially in light of the fact the Prowlers did not have a single senior on the squad this year.

"With what we had, I thought the season was very successful," he explained. "With so many freshmen and first-year people, we had only four-five kids scoring for us in our early meets. But gradually more and more girls started scoring for us as the season went along. We made some definite progress. I thought we did very well."

Big strides were made in the field events, where Dunning and Ortloff developed into point-producers in the shot put and discus — areas that haven't been very productive for the Prowlers in recent years. Mueller (3200), Cindy Kruta (hurdles), Cruz (800), and Puetz (400) were all top-caliber performers, pointed out Schafer, and Jodi Kruta's showing after breaking into the varsity line-up late in the year was a pleasant surprise.

Without any graduation losses, plus a promising group of eighth graders who are expected to contribute to the varsity next spring, Schafer is optimistic about the Prowlers' track future.

Cruz, Puetz and Cindy Kruta served as the Prowlers' tri-captains this spring.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Low Water Levels

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) fisheries and waters personnel have reported unusually low water levels on area lakes this spring. Unseasonably light snowfall, an early spring, and a lack of spring rains have all contributed to a situation where some lakes are two feet or more below normal levels.

Boaters and anglers may have boat-launching problems at public and private access sites where the water may be too shallow to launch boats as easily as in years past. In some cases launching large boats may not be possible this year in places where it would be possible in a normal year. Some channels between lakes are also affected by this situation and passage may not be possible in some places.

DNR suggests that people call ahead, if possible, to check local conditions on their favorite fishing and boating lakes if they are concerned about accessibility.

Forest Fire Arson

Two suspects have been charged with three felony counts of arson and one gross misdemeanor in connection with the Bemis Hill Fire, an Easter Sunday forest fire in the Beltrami Island State Forest in Roseau County just south of Warroad.

A joint investigation by members of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forestry Division and the Roseau County Sheriff's Department led to the arrest of two individuals: Shane Douglas Wahl, age 18, of Greenbush and Gary Paul Mahoney, age 20, presently of Warroad.

Wahl was apprehended April 27 and appeared before Judge Donald E. Shanahan. He was charged with one alleged count of arson in the second degree and one count of arson in the third degree. Bail was set at $5,000 and he was remanded back to the custody of the Roseau County Sheriff.

Mahoney was arrested May 2 and appeared before Judge Shanahan May 4 on one alleged count of aiding and abetting arson in the third degree and one count of negligent fire. Mahoney was released on his own recognizance. Both suspects were bound over to appear in district court on May 11 in Roseau. Roseau County Attorney Martin Berg is prosecuting for the State of Minnesota.

Bemis Hill Fire was first reported about 2 a.m. Sunday, April 19, by an officer of the Roseau County Sheriff's Department. DNR Forestry personnel worked through the night to bring the fire under control. About 21 acres of timber were destroyed. Total costs exceeded $6,000, including fire suppression and the value of the timber.

Permits Required

Department of Natural Resources Ecological Services office has reminded persons planning to control vegetation or swimmer's itch in lakes, streams or other public waters, that they are required to obtain permits for this activity.

"Permits are required because the unregulated use of chemicals or destruction of vegetation is a potential threat to public health and to the aquatic environment, particularly fish habitat," said DNR acquatic biologist Steven Colvin.

Any use of chemicals in public waters requires a permit, as does the removal or control of emergent vegetation, Colvin said. Emergent vegetation is any vegetation which extends above the water surface, such as cattails, bulrush or wild rice.

Lakeshore property owners, however, do not need a permit for cutting or pulling submerged vegetation in a maximum area of 2,500 square feet. The control site cannot extend more than 50 feet along the owner's shoreline or one-half the length of the frontage, whichever is less.

A 15-foot wide boat channel may be added to the lakeward edge of the control site if necessary for boat access to open water, but must not increase the 50 foot width limitation on shoreline frontage.

This work can be done using hand or power-operated cutters, rakes and similar tools. It cannot be done with draglines, bulldozers, hydraulic jets, suction dredges or other power-operated, earth-moving equipment. After cutting and pulling, all vegetation must be removed from the water.

TRF Fast Pitch Softball Team Opens '87 Tournament Schedule

Thief River Falls Schmidt Beer-American Legion men's fast pitch softball team opened its 1987 schedule Sunday by winning two of three starts in a 16-team invitational tournament at Sabin, near Moorhead.

Kevin Sanders was 3-for-3 and Reggie Harder went 3-for-4 as Thief River Falls out-scored Dan's Oil of Horace, ND 10-6 in Game 1. Winning pitcher Mike Drury was supplied with a 7-3 second inning lead.

Tony Johnson pitched a two-hitter as Thief River Falls edged the Grand Forks Merchants 2-1 in the second round quarterfinals. The winners scored both of their runs in the first inning on a lead-off home run by Sanders, followed by base hits from Roger Cota and Ron Ostby.

LTP Well Drilling of West Fargo jumped out to an early 3-0 lead and went on to beat Thief River Falls 5-3 in the semifinals. Mark Lundin was 3-for-3 for the losers, while Paul Walker went 2-for-3 and Sanders was 2-for-4. Drury took the pitching loss.

Schmidt Beer-American Legion, Thief River Falls' only fast pitch softball team this summer following the demise of the city's fast pitch league, will be in a Sunday tournament, in Grand Forks.

Jacks Win 8AA Baseball Title

Bemidji hammered St. Cloud Apollo 11-4 Tuesday in the 1987 Region 8AA high school baseball tournament championship game at St. Cloud's Municipal Stadium.

The Lumberjacks, who earlier won the North Sub-Region 8AA title, will take a perfect 19-0 record into the Class AA state tournament quarterfinals June 9 where they'll meet the yet-to-be-named Region 6AA winner at 5:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Municipal Stadium.

Apollo, the South Sub-Region 8AA champion, finished the year at 14-8.

Bemidji was the Class AA state tournament runner-up a year ago. Defending state champion St. Paul Cretin has already been eliminated in regional play.

Crookston and Roseau were scheduled to play for the Region 8A title today (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. at Crookston. Both sport 15-5 records following Tuesday's semifinals when the Pirates out-scored Blackduck 9-6 and the Rams edged Bagley 3-2. Crookston and Roseau went 1-2 in last week's North Sub-Region 8A tournament, while Bagley and Blackduck went 1-2 in the South Sub-Region 8A eliminations.

Class A, AA Boys, Girls . . .

Field Set For Track Meet

The 65th annual boys and 16th annual girls state track and field meet will be conducted at the Carl Tonn Field in Osseo on Friday and Saturday, June 5 and 6.

Two-day affair is the biggest single sporting event sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League, which conducts state championships in 14 boys sports, 13 girls sports, and speech, drama and debate activities, reports Larry Larson of the MSHSL.

More than 1,000 young men and women representing more than 250 high schools have qualified for the state track and field meet through regional competition. The athletes are the best performers from among more than 11,000 students who participated in the sport from more than 400 high schools this season.

Friday's running event competition will begin at noon in Class AA. Field events start one hour earlier for boys and at noon for girls. Five field events will name champions on Friday along with the 3,200 meter run.

In Class A, the preliminaries on Friday begin at 4:30 p.m. with field events and 5:30 p.m. for the running events. Competition is expected to end at 9:30 p.m. following the running of the 4 x 400 meter relay event.

In Saturday's competition for gold medals, the four field events will begin competition starting at 10:30 a.m. and track events will begin at noon.

Class AA Boys

A total of 294 boys will compete in this year's Class AA boys competition. They come from 83 different schools.

Among the outstanding participants in this division will be two champions from a year ago who hope to repeat as titlists. Dan Bannister, a senior from Minneapolis North, will attempt to win another gold medal in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles event where his region qualifying time of 38.43 is tops among the 16 entrants. Bannister hopes to break the state record time of 37.9 set by Mike Hoven of Bemidji in 1982.

Other champion back is long jumper Mike Rogalski, a senior from Marshall. His jump of 22-0.25 last year was tops. His 21-7-30 jump in last week's region competition ranks eighth best this year. Top region jump was recorded by Edina's Todd Warren, who jumped 22-7.

Defending state team champion in AA boys is Apple Valley.

Class AA Girls

Among the 281 girls competing from 73 high schools will be 1986 double winners Kim Kauls, a senior from Forest Lake, and Sue Chopskie, a junior from Park (Cottage Grove).

Kauls is back in hopes of garnering firsts in the 1600 meter run and 3200 meter run events. Her qualifying time of 5:00.9 is second to Moorhead's Heather Doyle, the state cross country champion two years ago. Doyle recorded a 4:59.26 in the Region 8AA meet last week. Kauls' time of 10:45.2 in the 3200 meter run last week was tops among state qualifiers by some seven seconds ahead of Winona senior, Christine Abbott.

Chopskie, meanwhile, is the defending champion in both the 200 and 400 meter dash events. Her time of 56.8 is tops among 400 qualifiers, but in the 200 Jaylene Gerenz of Rosemount has the top qualifying time of 25.06.

Defending state team champion in this division is Minnetonka.

Class A Boys

Two-time winner from a year ago, Donovan Bergstrom, now a junior at Elgin-Millville High, leads an array of former champions into this year's Class A meet. One of six defending champions back, Bergstrom hopes to repeat victories in the 1600 meter and 3200 meter run events. He has the top qualifying time in the 1600 meter run (4:19.01), but yields the top time in the 3200 meter run by three seconds to Park Rapids senior Troy Larson.

Other defending champions in this class are field event participants. They include Pete Kelzenberg, Watertown-Mayer, discus; Jim King, Watertown-Mayer, triple jump; Tony Brunsberg, Becker-Big Lake, long jump; and Bob Johnson, Pelican Rapids, pole vault. All of these field event participants will be hard pressed to repeat titles as other individuals have better qualifying distances and heights.

There are 288 participants from 121 high school competing in this class.

Class A Girls

Among the 292 participants representing 101 high schools in this division are four defending champions.

One of them is Heather Van Norman, a triple winner last June who is the state Class A record holder in the 100 meter dash (12.14). In addition to trying to repeat her title in that event, Van Norman, a junior from Windom, will attempt to capture firsts in the 200 and 400 meter dash events. Her qualifying times in each of the 100, 200 and 400 events are tops. She is expected to get her sternest competiton from Roseau senior Liesa Brateng, who tied for tops in qualifying in the 100 (12.3) and was just behind Van Norman in the 200 (24.9 to 25.0). Van Norman's time in the 400 was 57.5.

Other 1986 champions back hoping to win again include Brateng, 300 meter low hurdles; Dawn Mueska, Stewartville, long jump; and Jodi Swenson, Crosby-Ironton, high jump.

1987 State Meet Matches Underway For Tennis Teams

Fifty-ninth annual Minnesota State High School League-sponsored state boys tennis tournament began a four-day run today (Wednesday) with two days of team competition and concludes Saturday afternoon following two days of singles and doubles action at the 98th Street Racquet Club in Bloomington.

For the first time since 1982 competition returns to the Class AA-A format with eight teams qualifying in Class AA and four in Class A. The past four years, play determined one team champion, one singles winner, and doubles victors. This year, however, enough Class A schools are competing to warrant two classes.

Class AA team quarterfinal matches were set for 12-noon and 2 p.m. today with semifinal matches slated for Thursday morning at 10:30 a.m. and the championship match at 3 p.m. In Class A, the four teams will compete on Thursday for honors. Semifinal matches start at 8:30 a.m. with the finals set for 1 p.m.

A new state champion is certain as defending titlist Minnehaha Academy did not qualify. Class AA team favorite is Edina, who is looking for its first title since 1981 (Edina East). In Class A, St. Paul Academy has been tabbed the favorite.

Class AA quarterfinals featured Region 1AA Owatonna vs. Region 6AA Edina; Region 3AA Hastings vs. Region 4AA Mounds View; Region 8AA St. Cloud Tech vs. Region 7AA Duluth East; and Region 2AA Eden Prairie vs. Region 5AA Minneapolis Washburn. Edina, Tech and East were repeat entries from a year ago.

Class A semifinals will include Region 1A Blue Earth vs. Region 3A Staples-Motley; and Region 2A St. Paul Academy vs. Region [illegible]. [illegible] St. Paul Academy competed in last year's state tournament.

Class AA singles champion of two years ago, Edina's Paul Odland, now a senior, hopes to become a two-time state champion this year after losing in semifinal play to eventual state champion Jason Hall of Minnehaha Academy in 1986. Hall has graduated. Odland's sternest competition could come from senior Ryan Skanse, Minnehaha Academy, a quarterfinalist last year, who is in the opposite bracket of Odland.

In Class AA doubles play look for the douubles duo of Tom Murphy and Mike Husebo of Edina to impress. Husebo returns as part of the twosome who captured title honors last June. His teammate in 1986, Guy Carteng, graduated.

There are no clear-cut favorites in Class A singles or doubles. A total of 54 of the state's 154 registered boys tennis teams competed in Class A during the 1986-87 season.

Hayes Lake Park Features Pair Of Weekend Programs

On Sunday, June 7, Hayes Lake State Park, along with the rest of the Minnesota state park system, will host its annual Open House.

Held every year on the first Sunday in June, Open House provides residents of the area the opportunity to explore the park. According to Park Manager, Dan Fischer, visitors to the park can visit with the park staff, enjoy a campfire, hike with the park naturalist, have coffee or lemonade at the park office and in general enjoy the park.

No vehicle permit is required to enter the park on that day, although campground and souvenir charges are still in effect. Park hours are from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. For more information on the day's activities, contact the park at 425-7504.

Hayes Lake State Park will feature "Timber on the Move" Saturday, June 6, at 8 p.m. at the park headquarters. It's a program that follows the development of log moving technology from a river drive to balloon yarding and its impact on the land. Visitors are invited to bring any interesting pictures or articles dealing with logging to share with the group.

Americans love their birds. National Wildlife magazine reports that sixty-two million Americans regularly put out seed in backyard feeders. In fact, one expert estimates that bird enthusiasts buy over one million tons of bird seed each year.

Troll Stroll Foot Race Is Scheduled July 18 At Kennedy

Kennedy's 12th annual Troll Stroll five-mile run from neighboring Donaldson to Kennedy is scheduled to be held Saturday, July 18.

Registration takes place at 8:30 that morning in Donaldson. The race starts at 9 a.m.

Prizes will be awarded to runners based upon a broad range of categories. The race is open to runners of all ages. A T-shirt with the Troll Stroll logo will be presented to each participant before the race.

A 2.5 mile Half Stroll will also be held that day through the Kennedy streets. The Half Stroll and the full Troll Stroll share a mutual finish line.

For more information, or to preregister for the event, contact Randy Swanberg at 674-4260.

Wildlife Group Issues Warning . . .

Indoor Air May Be Hazardous

Americans have spent some $200 billion trying to improve the quality of the air they breathe outdoors. They have spent billions more tightening up their homes and offices to conserve energy. Only now, safe behind their insulated walls and triple-sealed windows, they are realizing that the air they are breathing indoors is often more dangerous than the air outside.

According to an article by Mike Lipske in National Wildlife magazine, the quality of air indoors may well become the country's biggest environmental issue in years to come. National Wildlife is a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Our current indoor air pollution problems are, in part, an unpleasant side effect of energy conservation. After the 1973 Arab oil embargo, when fuel prices skyrocketed, office building managers began seeking ways to create tighter, more energy-efficient environments.

In offices, windows that opened were replaced by mechanical ventilation systems. "Many buildings in the wintertime do not admit any outside air," says Michael Larsen, an industrial hygienist. "They just keep recirculating what's there." Meanwhile, homeowners, spurred on by utility companies, spread caulk and weatherstripping around windows and doors.

Tightening up the envelope, as engineers call it, did reduce fuel bills — in many cases substantially. But it also banished the natural ventilation that, in years past, diluted stale and contaminated indoor air. In many cases, the results have been devastating.

Workers in Washington, D.C., for example, discovered that slime in the air conditioning drain pans of a government-managed building was producing airborne fungus at levels roughtly equivalent to those found in a chicken coop. Nearby, employees working in offices in a converted portion of a parking garage began suffering from headaches and other health problems. Indoor carbon monoxide levels proved to be almost three times higher than federal limits allowed for outside air. The office space, now abandoned, was being used by the Environmental Protection Agency.

In fact, the number of people claiming to be victims of "building sickness" has tripled in this country since the early 1970's, and health care costs from indoor pollution are now thought to run as high as $100 billion a year.

Tightness alone does not cause indoor air pollution. The problem, say experts, is the chemical contents of many modern buildings. Formaldehyde, for example, is a colorless gas found in thousands of products ranging from carpeting and drapes to particle-board. It causes nose, eye, and upper respiratory tract irritation, as well as nausea.

Pesticides, cleaning solvents, and fumes from many other items can make people ill. Glue, varnish, paint, and liquid spot remover frequently contain tolulene, a toxic chemical that can cause fatigue, muscle weakness, and liver and kidney damage. Paint strippers and aerosol sprays may contain methylene chloride, a suspected carcinogen.

Because buildings are sealed tighter, tobacco smoke has become a greater problem than ever. An EPA scientist calculated that from 500 to 5,000 deaths occur annually in this country from "passive smoking" — tobacco smoke inhaled by non-smokers. The National Council for Clean Indoor Air goes even further, saying that involuntary exposure to tobacco smoke may lead to as many as 46,000 deaths a year.

Finally, authorities have only recently realized that radon, a naturally occurring odorless gas, is threatening millions of Americans, contaminating one in eight homes. Radon seeps into home basements from soil, and stays in houses that are tightly sealed.

What can people do about indoor air pollution? According to experts, you might determine whether an illness is related to your workplace by asking the following questions:

+ Do the symptoms go away when you leave your office? If so, there's a chance you are being exposed to some irritant.

+ Are the sumptoms worse as the week progresses, better on the weekend, and the worse again on Monday? Such a cycle could indicate a workplace problem.

+ Do any co-workers suffer?

+ Is your office new? New carpeting and furniture may emit formaldehyde or plasticizers for a few months.

+ Has your office recently been painted, remodeled, cleaned extensively, or exterminated? Any one of these can leave high levels of irritants.

+ Do you work with smokers?

For homeowners, one of the first places to look for help is the city, county, or state health department. Many can either supply information about common problems in the region or places to go for help. In some cases, officials will even evaluate homes at no cost.

Family physicians can also help. By doing blood tests and culturing nasal, throat, or lung secretions, they can sometimes tell what agent, if any, is causing the symptoms.

In the final analysis, many experts are beginning to wonder why we have started to clean the air outdoors, while the air inside has gotten worse.

Trees Fight Pollution

For years, city officials have planted trees along metropolitan thoroughfares, mainly because they are beautiful. Now, however, scientists are discovering that trees ahve other attributes. According to an article by Mike Toner in National Wildlife magazine, urban planners are planting trees because they clean up air pollution. National Wildlife is a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

During photosynthesis, trees not only convert carbon dioxide into oxygen but also filter the air of many of its man-made and natural pollutants. Hence, many city planners are using these natural cleaners to help purify the urban environment.

Air cleaning potential of trees is well-documented. Scientists in New Haven, CT, for example, have determined that one large sugar maple can remove as much airborne lead as the city's cars emit by burning a thousand gallons of gasoline. Similarly, city planners in Los Angeles say that by the year 2000, trees will remove some 200 tons of dust and smoke from the region's air each day.

There are drawbacks to the effectiveness of this plan, not the least of which is the potential damage to the trees themselves. Specifically, too much ozone can actually destroy the stomata — tiny pores — on tree leaves. Worse yet, there is ample evidence to suggest that toxic substances and polluted air can kill trees not only in the city but in forests many miles from any urban environment as well.

Another shortcoming is due to the limited filtering capacity of the trees themselves. A graphic example are the 440,000 maples, oaks, and lindens planted in St. Louis in the early 1970s: although they have the potential to remove 340 tons of dust and soot a year from the city's air, that is still less than one per cent of the city's total annual particulate pollution. Again, according to Smith, "Individual trees — even one or two or three rows planted along a street or highway — are not going to help much."

Nonetheless, city planners from Europe to Australia are including trees in their future urban development plans. "In most cities of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, you find tree plantings on a scale that most Americans would not believe," says Leon Dochinger, a plant pathologist at the U.S. Forest Service. And, in the United States, cities such as Dayton, OH, have used trees to cleanse the urban atmosphere.

And, despite the limitations, future use of trees in city landscapes seems assured. In just the last five years, Los Angeles has planted a million seedlings to help improve its air quality. Local groups in London and Chicago have also undertaken efforts to revitalize their urban forests. More ambitiously yet, Australian groups have proposed a plan to plan 200 million trees by 1988.

By no means is planting trees the solution to city pollution; that burden falls upon people themselves. In the interim, however, trees have become one of the city planner's best allies in the fight for cleaner air.

Birds of a feather stick together for good reason. According to National Wildlife magazine, cliff swallows nest in large colonies in order to share information about locating food. The birds feed on swarms of insects that are temporarily sucked up into the air by convection currents. By following individuals that have located a swarm, colony members are more successful in finding food than if they foraged alone.

Dorothy Rood, 449-3681

On Thursday evening May 21st the AVTI graduation exercises were held at the Sports Arena in Thief River Falls. Dede Sorenson and Debbie Carlson were graduates from the cosmetology class. Those who attended were John Sorenson, Jami and Matthew, Eunice Sorenson, Dorothy Rood, Tammy and Vicki Grove, Danny Benoit, Bob and Margie Rendulich, and Neil Carlson. Later all were guests at the reception held at the Sorenson home. Other guests were Dick and Carol Potucek, Katherine Hagman, Carol Stromgren, Kenny Martin, and Edith Sorenson.

A week ago Wednesday Teresa, Jill and Joshua Johnson of Thief River Falls and Lester Johnson of Moorhead were visitors at the home of Olga Johnson.

Dorothy Rood accompanied John and Dede Sorenson, Jami and Matthew of Thief River Falls to visit briefly at the Annie Rood home near Strandquist. Annie went with them to the Hegland graveyard to decorate the graves on Saturday afternoon.

On Wednesday evening Becky Johnson on Thief River Falls visited at the Rueben Benitt home.

On Sunday Orvis and Aileen Benitt went to Oklee where they visited with Aileen's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bernier. Later they visited and were supper guests at the Jerry Gerardy home at Plummer.

Peter and Frances Gerszewski went to Warsaw, ND, early Memorial Day and decorated the graves. Afterwards they visited and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Seeba near Grafton, ND.

On Thursday the Happy Holt homemakers met at the home of Jan Hanson and enjoyed a noon potluck dinner on Polish cookery. Those who attended were Carol Benitt, Delores Benitt, Marjorie Steinhauer, Iris Floistad, Arlene Luoto, Marion Gusa, Doris Augustine, Margaret Voth, and Jan Hanson.

On Sunday Lorraine Swenson visited and had coffee with Lola Kvalvog.

Supper guests at the Russ and Sheila Holtan home in Thief River Falls in honor of Katrina's sixth birthday included her sisters, Kassi and Kelsey, Virgil and Cathy Erickson, Pat, Mary Jo, and Andy, Joe and Mabel Holtan, Jeanette Holtan, Paul and Corie Erickson, Deb, Amanda, Amber, and Aaron Holtan and Mary Oxford of Detroit Lakes. The group enjoyed supper and birthday cake for Katrina who was six years old on the 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stark and family of Fridley were Memorial Day weekend guests at the home of Junis Tanner.

On Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Herman Christopherson and Ingvald Fosholm of Thief River Falls, Milla and Ronnie Anderson of St. Hilaire, John, Donna and Jill Fosholm visited at the home of Kristine Ness.

On Saturday Bud and Darlene Hallstrom of Moorhead and Hilma Horien visited at the Bob Skoglund home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sorenson, Jami and Matthew of Thief River Falls visited with Dorothy Rood on Wednesday evening.

On Tuesday Norma Dahle visited with Kristine Ness.

Saturday visitors at the home of Olga Johnson and with her guests were Mr. nd Mrs. Lyle Johnson, Bobby, Tim, Teresa, Lenny, Jill, Jay and Joshua and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Collins of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Ness visited with Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Sorter on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sorenson, Jami and Matthew were Tuesday evening visitors at the Robert Rendulich home in Thief River Falls.

On Sunday afternoon Elda Knutson of Thief River Falls visited at the Rueben Benitt home.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schwartz visited at the Marvin Bakken home in Thief River Falls.

Margaret Collins was a Wednesday afternoon visitor and coffee guest with Jan Hanson.

Virgil and Andy Erickson, Robert Seenson and Paul Erickson enjoyed fishing on Saturday at Union Lake near Erskine. Virgil and Paul participated in the "take a kid fishing weekend."

On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stark and family of Fridley and Junis Tanner visited with Tony Brenna who had just had surgery at the Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Hilma Horien visited and was a coffee guest with Kristine Ness on Wednesday afternoon.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Bud Moen and Aasie Tollefson of Fargo visited at the Olga Johnson home.

Myron Sorter was a Wednesday afternoon visitor at the Selmer Sorter home.

Dorothy Rood was a Friday overnight visitor at the John Sorenson home in Thief River Falls. Matthew returned home with his grandma and stayed until Saturday evening when Jami stayed with his grandma overnight.

Elroy and Carol Benitt visited at the Rueben Benitt home on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Henry Schwartz visited with Cora Nabben on Tuesday evening.

Dave Hanson visited with Junis Tanner on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rendulich were Wednesday visitors at the John Sorenson home in Thief River Falls.

Bringing birthday greetings to Clara J. Reierson on Friday evening were Cliff and Jeanette Reierson, Lloyd and Harryet Larson, Craig and Marcy Michelson, Mark Reierson, Jody Christopherson, Arnold and Myrtle Silverness.

Ronnie Smith of Milwaukee, WI, arrived on Friday to spend a few days visiting with his mother, Alma Smith.

Ellie and Helga Tuura of Middle River visited with Vienna Grondahl on Monday after enjoying the dinner served at the Nazareth church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Inman and Darrell, Terry, Carolyn and Loren Inman, and Jimmy Inman of Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Inman and Jamie Hurst of Kentucky were weekend visitors at the home of Olga Johnson.

Senior Citizen's Meet

The senior citizens held their monthly meeting in May at which time they made plans to have a picnic on June 17. They voted on scholarships and Attorney Elizabeth Buchl of Northwest Legal Services in Moorhead spoke on long-term car insurance.

Memorial Day

Rain did not deter the Plummer American Legion and the auxiliary from visiting seven cemeteries near Plummer, Brooks and Oklee on Memorial Day. A program was held at the school auditorium preceding the visitations. Mr. Lynn Kiefenheim from Red Lake Falls was the guest speaker. 1985 and 1986 Boy staters Jeff Engesether and Tom Hesse gave original readings and 1986 Boy stater Wayne Erickson read a poem that he had written. Robin Brantl, 1986 Girls stater also read a peom, "America, My Country." The fellowship singers entertained with songs. Father Thomas Baxter of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Red Lake Falls, gave the invocation and benediction. Deanna Fossell and Kim Felling played "Taps." The American Legion Color Guard advanced and retired the colors. A potluck dinner was held at the clubrooms following the cemetery visitations.

Chippewa Forest Has Opportunities For Bird Watching

A sure sign of spring is the annual spring bird migration. The 650,000-acre Chippewa National Forest is a great place to see birds, both migratory species and those that are year-round residents.

According to John Mathisen, Wildlife Biologist on the Chippewa, "The Forest contains a wide variety of habitats such as lakes, streams, wetlands, a forest encompassing a variety of age, size and species, and upland openings." Mathisen says this diversity in the Forest explains why approximately 235 species of birds occur in the Chippewa National Forest.

Compared to other outdoor activities, birdwatching is relatively inexpensive, and the list of equipment is short. All that is needed to start are a pair of binoculars and a pocket-sized field guide to the birds of the eastern United States. The binoculars aid in identifying birds at a distance. The field guide provides information on which species will be found in this area, types of habitats in which the various species can be located, and drawings or photographs of the birds for identification.

Once the equipment is lined up, the next step is to determine when and where to go. According to Mathisen, "Now is the time. Spring and early summer are when the birds are doing the most singing because it's their breeding season. That makes them easier to locate." Though the trees are fast leafing out, in the spring the visibility in the woods is better without as much foliage.

Mathisen suggests that early morning hours are usually the best time of the day to see birds, because that's when they are most active. Although these may be the best times and seasons for birding, it can be done just about any time of the day and any season of the year.

With the wide diversity of habitat types, just about any location on the Chippewa National Forest provides a suitable area to see birds. "The key is finding the habitat to fit the needs of the bird you're wanting to see," explains Mathisen. "If I were interested in seeing bald eagles, for example, I would spend some time near the larger lakes, such as Leech, Cass or Winnie. I'd look for wood ducks or herons in a wetland area."

Public Notices

Card Of Thanks

Special thanks to Dr. Bray and Dr. Browning and all the nurses at Northwest Medical Center.

Also a special thank you to Pastor Robert Dahlen for his comforting visits.

Thank you to those who sent cards, brought gifts and flowers and visited me.

God bless you one and all.
Luella Holen
1t44p

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks for the kindness shown to us at the sudden death of our beloved son & brother Scott Allan.

Special thanks to Pastor Galland for his visits and prayers. Also thanks to Dr. Sugden, Green Funeral home, and all the people that brought food to the house.

We also wish to thank the W.M.S. for serving the lunch after the funeral and to family and friends.

Your thoughtfulness was well appreciated.

May God bless you all
Family of Scott Allan Olson

Card Of Thanks

I wish I could find the right words that could express my feelings of appreciation to those who took the time out of their busy lives to share a special time in my life. My children (Linda, Bob, Tony, Barb, Jeff & Peg) My grandchildren, the offices of Mn. Dept. of Jobs & Training, the office staff, all who came in to have coffee with me in the afternoon and dinner in the evening, those who called, the many who sent cards, gifts, flowers and visited me in my home and everyone that made my retirement day a huge success.

Thank you all so very much.
Tress Noel
1t44p

Card Of Thanks

Words cannot express the deep feeling of appreciation I have for all who remembered me while I was a patient at the United Hospital and at the Rehabilitation Hospital.

Thanks to everyone who remembered me in prayer; who sent cards, letters, and flowers; to those who visited and called; and to those who helped out back home.

The Lord has been good to me and prayers have definitely been answered.

REVOLVING LOAN FUND

The City of Thief River Falls is requesting that industries contemplating expansion, construction of facilities, or acquisition of equipment contact the Community Development Office (681-2500) regarding the availability of low interest loan money through the Municipal Revolving Loan Fund. Applications and eligibility criteria are available upon request. The deadline for submittal of applications is 5:00 P.M. on Tuesday, June 20, 1987.

WHILE CLASSMATES WATCH the procedure, Matthew Scholin (right) demonstrates the use of a blood glucose monitor donated to Northrop elementary school by the Masons of Masonic Lodge No. 238 in Thief River Falls. Aldon Hyland, worshipful master of the lodge, said the monitors are presented to schools throughout the state as part of the Masons for Diabetic Youth program. Shown with Matthew are (left to right) Brad Olson, Scott Tunheim and fourth grade teacher Linda Olson. Matthew uses the unit to check his blood during the school day to determine if adjustment in his food intake is necessary.

County Board Proceedings

June 3, 1987
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS,
PENNINGTON COUNTY
MAY 12, 1987
10:00 a.m.

Pursuant to adjournment, the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County met in the Commissioners' room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls, MN, on Tuesday, May 12, 1987, at 10:00 a.m. All members were present.

Minutes of the meeting held on April 28th were approved as mailed.

Auditor Olson discussed low level radioactive waste informational meeting to be held May 28, 1987, in the City Auditorium. Commissioner Swanson will chair the meeting.

Jay Brummer, NWRDC: Steve Rilser, International Coalition; Lowell Enerson, Red Lake Watershed and Lance Yehe, President of International Coalition, met with the Board to discuss local water management planning. We would need a county task force for each county and a regional task force for the region. The International Coalition for Land-Water Stewardship would be the coordinating agency for a 17 county area in the Red River Basin. Cost to the County would be $7,684 - $5,000 in the first year and $2,684 in the second. Board discussed this but no decision was made.

Floyd Fredrickson and Jim Cuppett from the American Legion Club along with Vern Dokkin from the VFW Club were in to discuss the Veterans Service Officer's conduct and appearance. Instances of misconduct were mentioned along with his inability to meet with the public. Also instances of giving false information to deceased veterans' families. The Board would like to discuss this with John Ellison and Roger Bengtson at the next meeting.

Bill Huggett was in to discuss the lease on the Winjum building. If the County were to purchase the building they would like to negotiate a new lease at a lower rate due to the County being real estate tax exempt.

Rick Nordhagen, Paul Ihle, Steve Nordhagen, Les Nordhagen, Shirley Borgen, Vernon Lundell, Dave Forsberg, Engineer Olson, Steve Paulson and Dick Haugen were in to discuss the equipment and warranty on the equipment at the solid waste facility. Discussion was centered around "down time" and safety factors involved in the use of the machinery. These problems must be eliminated. Vernon Lundell mentioned the need for a preventive maintenance person that would keep the equipment in working order. Vernon Lundell agreed to work with Rick Nordhagen along with Engineer Olson and Dave Olin to work out a schedule to eliminate these problems to the County's satisfaction. Lundell also agreed to extend the warranty on the machinery for a certain amount of time to be agreed upon by the above group.

Jim Winjum was in with a proposal for the sale of his building for use as a Welfare Office. Price is now $176,224. No action taken.

Discussion was held on financing a highway department building. Also discussed the possibility of the Extension Office moving from the courthouse.

Sheriff Wold discussed the purchasing of a 1983 Plymouth State Patrol car for $2,800. Moved by Commissioner Penning, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to allow the Sheriff to purchase the 1983 squad car and to advertise the other one for sale by bids. Motion carried.

Commissioner Swanson brought up for discussion the culvert by the Kenville place in Rocksbury Township. It is washing out. Soil & Water Conservation has up to $1,500 for this type of project or 75 per cent of the total cost whichever is less. Board approved the repairs and requests Rocksbury Township to request the funding from the S.C.S.

Dave Forsberg gave his report on the composting and cans. The cans are moving and the compost could be moved by the end of May. Dave is available for further research if desired but is not longer needed at the present time.

Board asked for a letter to be drafted to Future Fuel about the building and site maintenance. On the subject of emission testing, the Northwest Hospital has agreed to allow test burn. Cliff Jacobs, Iron Fireman, will run the burner and provide information to Interpoll, Inc about the burn.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Swanson the following resolution was introduced:

WHEREAS, The Waste Management Board (WMB), pursuant to its authority to provide ongoing technical assistance to funded projects, shall enter into a contract with Interpoll, Inc. to conduct emission tests at the Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls using densified refuse derived fuel (dRDF) produced at Pennington County's Thief River Falls dRDF facility; and

WHEREAS, Pennington County has agreed to provide assistance in coordinating and facilitating this testing; and

WHEREAS, the WMB is relying on such assistance to ensure the success of this testing program;

NOW, THEREFORE, to clarify the work that Pennington County and the WMB shall undertake in support of the dRDF emission testing program, the parties to this Memorandum of Understanding agree to the following:

DUTIES OF PENNINGTON COUNTY:

1. Pennington County shall be responsible for securing the permission of the Northwest Medical Center to allow dRDF combustion emissions testing at the hospital.

Pennington County shall provide the WMB with written confirmation of the availability of the test location for tests in late spring or early summer. In the event that the Northwest Medical Center is unavailable for tests, Pennington County is responsible for locating a new test location satisfactory to the WMB.

2. Pennington County shall be responsible for gaining access to the test facility to prepare for the testing and to conduct the testing.

3. Pennington County shall be responsible for preparing the facility to be tested for the tests according to specifications developed by the private testing firm. Any costs incurred for facility modifications shall be paid by Pennington County and Pennington County shall be responsible for payment of any costs or damages incurred by third persons as a result of actions taken pursuant to this MOU.

4. Pennington County shall be responsible for providing the dRDF pellets for each test burn, at no charge to the WMB or the private testing firm.

5. Pennington County shall be responsible for locating information on the test facility burners (boiler specifications) needed by the private testing firm for its analysis.

6. Pennington County shall be responsible for restoring the test burn facility after testing is completed and shall be solely responsible for making arrangements with the test facility regarding payment for any damages suffered by the test facility as a result of the testing program. (The private testing firm shall be responsible for any damage to the test facility resulting from the private testing firm's testing activities if the testing firm is at fault.)

7. The contract between the WMB and Interpoll, Inc. allows Interpoll to invoke delay charges if Interpoll's testing is delayed due to difficulties resulting from the State's failure to adequately make preparations for testing. Pennington County shall be responsible for any delay charges resulting from non performance or inadequate performance of its duties under this memorandum of understanding.

8. For the purpose of coordinating the tasks set forth above in numbers 1 through 6, Pennington County shall designate an individual who shall represent the county and be the contact person for this project.

DUTIES OF THE WASTE MANAGEMENT BOARD:

1. The WMB shall be responsible for transmitting to Pennington County the specifications developed by the private testing firm for preparing the facility for testing.

2. The WMB shall be responsible for costs associated with the testing and analysis performed by the private testing firm up to a maximum WMB commitment of $23,040. In the event the proposed tests cost more than $23,040 because of delay charges, Pennington County agrees to fund the additional delay charges. Testing shall not proceed until all financing is in order.

3. Following the completeion of the testing and analysis performed by the private testing firm, the WMB shall provide Pennington County with a copy of the final report prepared by the private testing firm.

The foregoing resolution was unanimously adopted.

Purchase of the sign truck for the highway department previously discussed for a price of $2,500 was approved.

State Aid No. 7 plans will be back prior to the next Board meeting. Engineer Olson would like to let bids for it to be opened on June 23 if the plans are accepted by MNDOT. Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to take bids for overlaying SA No. 7 at the June 23 Board meeting providing the State approves the plans as submitted. Motion carried.

Discussed the meeting on May 27 on formulating public policy in emergency management. Commissioner Penning and Engineer Olson will attend.

Moved by Commissioner Penning, seconded by Commissioner Koop to reissue warrant No. 82663 without idemity bond for easement purchase. Motion carried.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to support the reappointment of John Johnson to the Private Industry Council. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Penning and Commissioner Koop will view the forfeited property and set values on this property.

The following bills were presented, audited and approved for payment:

Report Of Stolen Shoes In LEC List Of Incidents

Pennington county sheriff's department and Thief River Falls police department reported a variety of incidents happening during the past week.

POLICE NEWS. Thefts. On May 27 Lillian Ranum, Thief River Falls, reported she had washed some shoes and set them out on the step to dry. Someone took the shoes which are valued at $40.

On May 28 Scott Muzzy, Thief River Falls, reported someone broke into his locked car and took a Powermark AM-FM cassette stereo, a power booster, Kmart brand, and Pioneer speakers. The total loss was estimated at $350. The vehicle was parked in the Edgewood apartment parking lot.

On May 28 Thief River Falls street department reported street signs taken from the North Duluth area. New posts had been put in for the signs and the signs were left next to the posts until the cement dried. Missing are signs for Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and 12th streets on NorthDuluth. The loss was estimated at $120.

On May 28 Jeff Eckstein, Thief River Falls, reported that while his car was parked in the Hartz warehouse parking lot, someone took a Fischer tape player from his vehicle which was unlocked. The loss was estimated at $200.

Vandalism. On May 28 Peggy Solem, route one, reported some scratches were put in the paint on her car while it was parked in a parking lot on the previous day. It was possibly done with a sharp knife. Damage was estimated at $500.

On May 29 at 2:39 a.m. John Honck, Thief River Falls, reported someone slashed tires on his vehilce while it was parked in a paking lot by the apartment building. All four tires were flat and damage was estimated at $360. Blake McGuire, 21, Little Fork, presently residing in the city, was arrested and charged with criminal damage to property. The case is still under investigation.

Other. On May 28 at 12:55 a.m. a car driven by Gerald Richter, Crookston, was going west in Centennial parking lot and his passenger, Mark Huffman, 14, Crookston, jumped out of the vehicle before it came to a complete stop. Huffman slipped and the vehicle drove over his right foot. Huffman was treated and released from Northwest Medical center with minor injuries.

On May 28 Todd Vedbraaten, Thief River Falls, reported an unknown vehicle struck his car while it was parked at his residence. The other vehicle left the scene of the accident. Damage to the left rear of the car was estimated at $300.

SHERIFF NEWS. Accidents. On May 23 Michael Wayne Konickson of Plummer was traveling north on county road 81, one-quarter mile north of county road 52 in Wyandotte township, when he was crossing over railroad tracks and a vehicle driven by Jeffrey Mark Engesether of Grand Forks was traveling south and the vehicles side-swiped each other. Damage to the Konickson vehicle was estimated at $600 and $200 to the Engesether vehicle.

On May 27 at 11:49 p.m. Robert Lynn Hesse of route one, St. Hilaire, was traveling east one-quarter mile west of county road 10 on state aid 3 when a deer ran out in front of his car. Damage was estimated at $350.

On May 31 at 6:45 a.m. Jeff Dean Asp of Thief River Falls was traveling west on county road two, when the car went off the road at an intersection. Damage was estimated at $75.

On May 24 at 2:07 a.m. Michael Thygeson of Thief River Falls was backing up in St. Hilaire when he hit Ronnie McBride's vehicle which was parked. Damage to McBride's vehicle was estimated at $250 and $150 for Thygeson's vehicle.

Vandalism. On May 24 a resident of North township reported vandalism done to a mailbox. The resident also noticed another mailbox that was damaged. The damage loss was estimated at $50 to each. # Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge Celebrates 50 Years

Bus tours of the refuge are being planned

Times Reporter

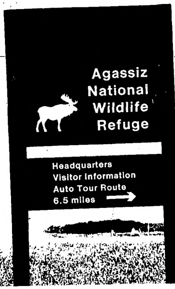
A visit to Agassiz National Wildlife refuge 25 miles north east of Thief River Falls provides an interesting variety of wildlife. Goslings, ducklings, moose calves and fawns make this time of year in the 50 year history of the refuge especially interesting.

Historically, the refuge got its start after attempts to drain the area in 1933 failed and the area was obtained by the state of Minnesota. Later, the area was turned over to the Bureau of Biological Survey, now the United States Fish and Wildlife service. In 1937, Agassiz national wildlife refuge was established.

In its 50th year, Agassiz national wildlife refuge now occupies 61,449 acres (about 100 square miles) in eastern Marshall county. Over half the area is highly productive shallow marshlands.

Wetlands at the refuge comprise 65 per cent of the total land base and are subdivided into 18 impoundments or pools. This large area resembles a large spoked wheel with the 10,000 acre Agassiz pool, the largest impoundment, being the hub of the wheel while the remaining impoundments are the spokes. Each of the impoundment water levels can be controlled to be of maximum benefit to the animals in Agassiz national wildlife refuge.

From an environmental aspect, wetlands serve to filter pollution, remove sediment, recycle nutrients and produce oxygen. But there are economic values as well. Some of the economic values of wetland include flood and erosion contol, ground water recharge, fishing, hunting, trapping and other recreational pursuits.



The primary purpose of the refuge has been to produce waterfowl and maintain the area for the benefit of migratory birds, although a large variety of mammals also inhabit the refuge. Observers at the refuge have recorded 274 bird species and 49 different species of mammals throughout the years.

Visitors, and there are usually 16,000 to 20,000 each year can see moose, whitetail deer, black bear, eastern timber wolf, elk, bobcat, beaver, otter, mink, raccoon, rabbits, squirrel, skunks, and waterfowl such as Canada geese, ducks and sandhill cranes.

Last year was the first year of scheduled bus tours at Agassiz refuge. The program was so successful that it will be continued this year. Bus tours, which have already begun, will shuttle visitors through some of the refuge's interior haunts. These bus tours are a result of a cooperative arrangement between the convention and visitors bureau of the chamber of commerce in Thief River Falls and the management of the Agassiz national wildlife refuge.

One of the key attractions to the tour is being able to get off the beaten path to sights not normally seen by visitors. The chamber is in possession of the keys that will unlock gates to greater wildlife viewing.

Reservations for the tour, which leaves every Friday evening at 7 p.m. and returns about two hours later, should be made in advance. There are only 16 available seats on the bus and one wheelchair tie down.

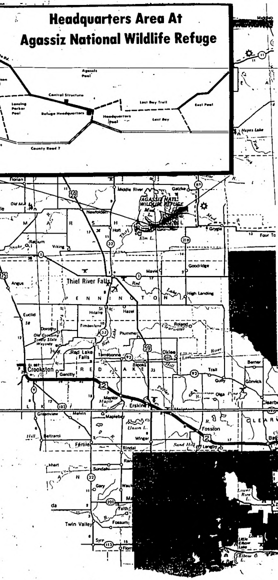
The bus used, will be one of the buses owned by the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council. Reservations can be made by calling the gift shop at the Heritage community center, 681-6760.

A tape recording about the refuge will be played on the way to the refuge allowing passengers to relax and enjoy the panoramic view of the countryside while learning more about the refuge.

Once the bus arrives at the refuge, discerning visitors, under the direction of a guide, will notice a large variety of wildlife. The chamber of commerce and Red Lake Riverland tourism association, which is an association of individuals from East Grand Forks, Crookston, Red Lake Falls, and Thief River Falls, is promoting the refuge, and particularly its abundent bird life, in advertisements carried in publications all over the United States.

Sue Lillevold, chamber of commerce executive vice president, said she has received responses from people in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, all interested in seeing the wildlife—specifically birds— at the refuge.

SHOVELERS are another variety of waterfowl which can be found at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge.



Lillevold said however, the chamber of commerce and Red Lake Riverland are as interested in attracting tourists from outside of Minnesota as they are visitors from the surrounding area.

If reservations for the bus tour cannot be obtained, the Lost Bay auto tour at the refuge is open and will remain open and will remain open until late September. The four-mile route originates at refuge headquarters located 11 miles east of Holt and is open during daylight hours, seven days a week. Refuge office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Brochures containing information about the refuge and auto tour are available at headquarters.

A variety of wildlife can be seen and heard especially during the early morning or evening. Sandhill cranes, ducks, geese, Franklin's gulls and other bird species will entertain with colorful and often vocal courtship and nesting activities.

Deer and moose are frequently observed along the auto tour route and county road seven, which bisects the refuge. Smaller mammals like woodchuck, beaver, muskrat, mink, raccoon and possibly even an otter might be seen.

Visitors to the refuge can also expect to see evidence of management activities such as prescribed burning, brush cutting, water management. Several controlled burns were done last fall and this spring. These locations are easily visible. Visitors to the refuge will note the changes in vegetation and wildlife use through the months and years because of the burning.

Burning is the most effective management tool available to wildlife management specialists. Areas in the burned areas keep upland game areas in their most productive states. Denser nesting sites and better browse help wildlife survive.

According to Larry Lewis, assistant manager, just under 7,000 acres were burned off last fall. Lewis said the weather cooperated and they were able to catch up on some of the scheduled burns which had been put off. Lewis said they do try to keep to a three and five year rotation for burning but weather has a lot to do with when those burns take place.

Since this is the 50th year for the refuge, a number of special activities have been planned. Lewis said a display booth will be set up at the Marshall county fair, and an open house has been scheduled September 26 through 27.

Lewis said he anticipates a fairly good year for the refuge, although they have seen some nest flooding and abandonment because of the recent rains.

Visitors to the refuge are asked to take pride in the refuge and respect the rights of others by not littering and by driving safely. Visitors should also remember to bring their binoculars, field guide, cameras and family for a few hours of enjoyment.

TEAL are among the many waterfowl to make Agassiz National Wildlife refuge their home. This pair were caught by the photographer resting on some vegetation, which is more than likely the home of a muskrat. About 274 different bird species and 49 different mammals have been recorded at Agassiz. An estimated 16,000 visitors each year pass through the gates at Agassiz to see the abundant wildlife.

GROW OR GO

A large crowd of family and friends had gathered for the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The aging couple, dressed in their finest, celebrated the occasion with pomp and pageantry.

When the festivities slackened a bit, I chanced to ask them a question. "How did you make fifty years together?"

They smiled at each other. "Tell him," she said.

He started slowly, deliberately. "The day we married the old minister said to us, 'You have two choices as you try to build a life together. You can GROW or GO. The choice is up to you.'"

A big smile covered the 50-year groom's face. "We decided to GROW. To GO has never been an option for us. Oh, we've had tough times, but we've never been sorry about our decision."

The poet's invitation surfaced as the couple turned to greet more well-wishers:

"Come, GROW old along with me; the best is yet to be."

And so it is. So it is.

Keep Hail From Hitting You Where It Hurts.

To minimize your financial risk from hail, it's essential to have the right risk management tools. Crop hail insurance through Farm Credit is one of them.

Think of hail insurance as cash flow insurance. Should your crop be damaged by hail, you'll still be guaranteed an income.

Crop hail insurance through Farm Credit Services is flexible; it can be structured to fit your unique needs. It's also very affordable.

In the event of crop damage, Farm Credit makes fast and expedient adjustments. To assure this, Farm Credit Services personnel maintain an active role in the entire process from start to finish.

Put a valuable risk management tool in your hands—crop hail insurance through Farm Credit. Call or stop by the nearest Farm Credit Services office.

In the Thief River Falls area, see Loan Officers Roger Philipp, Van Swanson and Tom Harlow for crop hail insurance from Farm Credit.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Sales Tax Changes

Minnesota Department of Revenue has issued a 1987 sales tax law change bulletin which describes in summary form the changes made in the state sales tax law. As might be expected, there are some unusual quirks in the law, probably the result of trade-offs and bargaining and good lobbying efforts by some special interests. If the full background were known, those quirks may seem perfectly reasonable, but as they stand they leave room for question.

For instance, all federal taxes are included in the sales price of an item before the sales tax is figured, except federal excise taxes on motor vehicles. Why exempt only the federal excise tax on motor vehicles?

New as well as used farm machinery will be taxed at the two per cent rate. Sod farming is included within the definition of "farming", so that a lawn mower purchased for use in the production of sod for sale is taxes at the two per cent rate. Is a lawn mower used for mowing a farm yard considered farm machinery? Is the sale of sod taxed at the six per cent rate? Lawn care, fertilizing, mowing and spraying are included in services now being taxed; nothing is said about sod sale in the new law.

Probably somewhat out of a feeling of guilt, the state made sales to its governmental units subject to the sales tax. Sales to the federal government and its agencies and to local governments remain exempt, however. Wouldn't it have made more sense to tax the sales to the federal government and exempt sales to the state government, which in turn collects the tax which is charged? There's probably a law against that somewhere, too — undoubtedly a federal one.

All items purchased with good stamps or food coupons issued under the WIC program must be exempt from the sales tax. Since food is still exempt from sales tax for everyone, this provision seems a bit unnecessary.

Long distance phone calls out of state, made from and charged to the telephone in Minnesota, are subject to sales tax, including outgoing WATS service. Incoming personal or WATS calls to an individual or business in Minnesota from outside the state are exempt. This is a good excuse to have your out-of-state family members call you instead of calling them: save six per cent plus the cost of the call!

And here's the biggie! After June 1, 1987, it is unlawful for anyone to knowingly advertise that no sales or use tax is due on a sale when the person knows that the ad is false. Do they mean to tell us false advertising was previously legal!

Resisting The Inactions Of Resisters

Following guest editorial was written by Wilfred L. Ebel, acting director of the U.S. Selective Service System:

David Gillam Kerley has been convicted as a felon by a jury of his peers in Madison, Wisconsin. On May 29th, he was sentenced to 3 years in prison and ordered to pay a $10,000.00 fine. His crime? Refusing to comply with the Military Selective Service Act — the federal law that requires men to register with Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday.

While I agree with the necessity to prosecute nonregistrants, I have great sympathy for Mr. Kerley. My feelings are akin to the adage that one should "hate the sin, but love the sinner." It is a paradox that a man fortunate enough to live in a free society — one that protects our right of legitimate dissent — should choose to defy a law that helps guarantee our freedoms. Registration gives our nation the ability to call on its young men in any future emergency, should Congress decide a draft is needed.

Mr. Kerley over-stepped the bounds of legitimate dissent by knowingly and willingly violating the law. The government literally begged him to register and thus avoid going to trial. Regrettably, Mr. Kerley adamantly and repeatedly rejected such entreaties. Apparently he never understood that it's okay to be a discontent in our society, but it's not okay to be a malcontent. For a democracy to thrive, citizens cannot pick and choose which laws they will obey; all laws must be obeyed. Laws that prove unpopular or unwise are changed by our society through out system of government, not by criminal disobedience.

Despite widespread circulation of fliers on the University of Wisconsin's Madison campus, calling for students to "pack the courtroom," a few supporters of the defendant were present when the guilty verdict was handed down. I suspect that the young men in Madison, like just about all young American men, know that spending those five minutes at the post office to give the government their name, address, date of birth, social security and phone numbers is a civic duty as well as a legal requirement. Failure to register, they know, is simply not worth the risk of being branded a felon, being denied federal student aid, or making themselves ineligible for most federal employment and certain federal job training benefits.

It is sad to note that Mr. Kerley has also placed his future profession at risk. He aspires to a degree in law, and one must wonder what difficulties will be encountered when a convicted felon applies for admittance to the bar.

Although I have never met Mr. Kerley, I am certain we share some common concerns and goals. Surely, we both want future generations of Americans to enjoy the same benefits we inherited from our forebearers. But history teaches the wise must not only pray for peace, they must simultaneously prepare for war. Preparedness never caused a war and unpreparedness never prevented one.

This year, as we commemorate the Bicentennial of the signing of our Constitution, we should each remember that freedom isn't free. Nor is its permanency ensured. Each generation must be prepared to make whatever sacrifices are necessary to preserve and protect American values. In our culture, the security of our free society must often rank ahead of individual goals or beliefs. Concomitantly, we must adhere to the legal concept of least drastic means. That is to say the government's method of assuring the safety of the state must minimize intrusion on individual rights.

Peacetime registration without a draft is hardly intrusive. Eighteen million men have registered since President Carter called for a return to peacetime registration after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. No doubt many were less than eager to do so, and some have legitimate and deeply felt objections of conscience that would preclude them from serving in a war. But they lived up to their obligation by registering and the moral high ground belongs to them. Not one has been adversely affected because they obeyed the law — they go to school, work, travel, marry and enjoy all the other benefits of living in our great nation.

Every registrant knows that registration is not an obligation to serve in the military. All should know that the system will provide equitable opportunities for exemptions, postponements and deferments should Congress reinstate a draft. Conscientious objector status will be dispensed liberally to those whose religious, ethical or moral beliefs cause them to oppose military service. It is out of fairness to these millions who have registered that the government is obligated to pursue those few who have failed to comply.

I am proud of the 5,000 young men who came forward to register every day. I lament that Mr. Kerley doesn't share his pride. He has failed to understand that registration is an investment our nation must make to help maintain that peace.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Real estate sales person to prospective buyer: "You're looking for something in the $15,000 to $19,000 price range, huh? O.K. Just how big is the dog you're buying it for?"

The Sunday school teacher was somewhat surprised at the way some of her class members said the Lord's Prayer. One had to be corrected after saying "Howard be thy name". Another prayed "Lead us not into Penn station". And a third recited, "Our Father, who art in heaven, how'd you know my name?"

In the center of the elementary artist's crayoned drawing of America was an airplane covered with apples, pears, bananas and oranges. His explanation to his teacher was also elementary: "That's the fruited plane," he said.

After a bitter argument, the young wife called her mother. "John doesn't love me anymore," she wailed. "I'll teach him a lesson. I'm coming home to stay with you."

"Hold on dear," the mother replied. "If you really want to teach him a lesson, I'll come and live with you."

The judge was aghast at the decision returned by the jury. "What possible reason can you give for acquitting this defendant?" he demanded of the jury foreman.

"Insanity, your honor," the foreman replied.

"All 12 of you?" the judge exclaimed.

"There are bigger things in life than the amount of money you earn on your job," explained the boss to the employee seeking a raise.

"I understand that," the employee replied. "Like my bills, for instance."

The hardest persons to convince that they are at retirement age are children at bedtime.

Gully

Sonna Bravold, Box 5,
Gully, MN 56646 268-4350

Bradley Forsberg, Scott and Terry of Crystal and a friend Michael Johnson and Perry Torgerson of Clearbrook spent last weekend at the Kenneth Forsberg home. Coffee guests on Sunday at the Forsberg home were Kathy, Kim and Leah Frosberg of Crookston, Wanda Rydeen, Linsey and Brigette Rettman, Bruce, Donny and Tony Bergman of Minneapolis, Bob Rutkowski, Warren and Barb Torgerson of Clearbrook.

Lund ladies aid will meet at the church basement in Gully on Wednesday afternoon, June 10. Bible study at 1:30 with meeting at 2:30. Hostesses are Luverne Fore, Grace Nyland, Alice Forsberg, Natalie Haugen and Grace Brekke. Serving will be from 4 to 6 o'clock. Everyone welcome. Lund ladies aid members will have a space at the Flee Market on June 6 at the Gully park. Members please bring goodies for the bake sale and whatever else you have to donate to be sold from our space to raise money for Lund ladies aid.

We hope the weatherman "will provide some good weather for June 6 in Gully when the community club will sponsor the flea market. We hope many people will ask for space to display and sell their crafts or whatever space may be had by calling 268-4232. Lunch will be served during the day.

The Gully American Legion auxiliary will be selling ice cream at their stand in the park on June 6. They will not be having a bake sale as planned earlier.

Memorial Day services were held at the Gully hall at 10:30 on Monday. Rev. Darrell Vetter of Henning and a former pastor at Gully were the main speakers. Fond memories were recalled as we heard our former pastor speak. Robert Carlson was Master of Ceremonies. Invocation and closing prayer were given by Rev. Bob Kelly. Piano solos were rendered by Mary Beth and Thomas Erlandson. Patriotic songs were sung by the audience. Instrumental duets by Kim Carlson on the saxaphone and Alisa Carlson on the clarinet. Lonny Carlson played the National Anthem on the saxapohone.

Lonny Carlson and Thomas Erlandson played taps. Because of rain the memorial tribute was held indoors. The honor roll was read by Robert Carlson as Kim and Alisa Carlson placed poppies on the cross in remembrance of the departed who had served their country well. The audience stood for a few minutes in silence in respect to the 37 sailors who died recently aboard the U.S.S. Stark. The Legionaires served rolls and coffee.

Robert and Noreen Carlson held open house at their home on Sunday afternoon in honor of their son, Lonny, who graduated from Gonvick high school. People came not only to congratulate Lonny on his graduation but also to wish him well in his chosen career. Lonny had earlier qualified and enlisted in the U.S. Navy and will leave on July 7 for the more serious, more courageous and maybe more adventuresome time ahead. Many friends and relatives from the area came to the Carlson home. Some of the people who came from other areas were Peggy Mathews of Bemidji, Carla and Tim Tice and family of East Grand Forks, Elmer and Dianne Carlson of McIntosh, Judy and Allen Potvin and family of Fosston, Jim and Eileen Votava of McIntosh, Gene and Sharon Nelson of Clearbrook, Audrey Carl, and Carla Siverson of Fosston, Mavis Brekke of Fosston, Jim Ranae and Shelly Vidbratten of Thief River Falls, Frances and Ruthie Pladsen of Bloomington. A delicious lunch was served to everyone.

Mesaba Aviation, Inc., has reported a net loss of $213,000 or seven cents per share for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1987, compared to net income of $201,000 or eight cents per share in fiscal 1986. Operating revenues in fiscal 1987 totaled $21,800,000, an increase of 58 per cent from $13,800,000 a year ago.

For the fourth quarter of fiscal 1987, Mesaba posted net income of $295,000 or 10 cents per share, a substantial improvement from the net loss of $160,000 or 5 cents per share in the same period last year.

Mesaba's President and chief executive officer, Robert D. Swenson, said the Company's losses were incurred during the first half of fiscal 1987 due to weak yields and reduced passenger load factors. He added that Mesaba returned to profitability in the third and fourth quarters as a result of increased traffic growth and higher passenger load factors attributable to the Oct. 1, 1986 realignment of Mesaba's route system.

Operating as Northwest Airlink under a marketing agreement with Northwest Airlines, Mesaba is the dominant regional carrier serving Minneapolis-St. Paul International airport. Mesaba's route system currently encompasses 21 cities in Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Mesaba's common stock is traded on the National Market System under the NASDAQ symbol MESA.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The headline of the January 14, 1987, lead editorial in the "New York Times" read: "The Right Miminum Wage: $0.00."

When even the liberal "Times" acknowledges the folly of the minimum wage, can Congress be far behind? The answer, unfortunately, is yes. Labor unions are demanding a major hike in the minimum wage and many members of Congress appear sympathetic to their plea.

The union campaign is base dupon several myths about the minimum wage that simply do not stand up to scrutiny. For example, the unions contend that many minimum wage workers are heads of households living below the poverty line. This is simply untrue. The typical minimum wage worker is young, single, working part time and residing at home.

The truth, as the "Times" pointed out, is that the minimum wage is not an effective weapon against poverty. In fact, while it may increase the income of a few marginal workers, it inevitably means the loss of employement for many more. The Minimum Wage Study commission found that a 10 per cent increase in the minimum wage would wipe out 113,000 to 339,000 jobs for teenagers. Almost without exception, these are people at the bottom of the economic ladder with few job skills who are looking for that all-important first job. For them, a higher minimum wage would be disastrous.

And it wouldn't exactly be a laughing matter for the rest of us, either. Numerous studies have shown that increases in the minimum wage "ripple" through the job market leading to even more expensive pay hikes for higher income workers. Since there is no corresponding increase in productivity, the inevitable result is higher prices for goods and services — which means a return to inflation. Inflation reached 13 per cent near the end of the Carter administration, which marked the end of a four-step, 46 per cent increase in the minimum wage. The minimum wage rise wasn't the only cause of inflation, but it was a major factor.

Yet another myth propagated by unions is that a higher minimum wage would have no adverse impact on our country's competitiveness. Oh, please! Obviously wage increases unaccompanied by productivity increases will impede our competitiveness. No rational economist would argue otherwise.

At a time when our country is striving to get its act together and become more competitive in the world marketplace, it is incredible to me that our Congress is actually considering this proposal. This is what they call cutting off your nose to spite your face and we don't need it.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

Calling it a package steeped in fairness and simplicity, the 1987 legilsature adopted the 1987 Omnibus Tax reform package in the closing hours of the 1987 legislative session.

The package will mean reduced income tax rates in all tax brackets under $100,000. The legislation is designed to return to taxpayers $660 million of the 'windfall' which will result from the state's conformity to federal tax law changes enacted in 1986.

The law will reduce the top income tax rate from its current 14 per cent to only eight percent. Both standard deductions and personal exemptions will be increased with a personal exemption of $2,540 for a single and $3,760 for a joint in 1987 and $3,000 and $5,000 in 1988. Also the dependent exemption will be $1,900 in 1987, $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989. There will also be a senior credit for those 65 years of age and older of $750 for a single and $1,200 for a couple. The state tuition deduction will also be maintained.

Similar to changes made in the individual income tax, the base for the corporate income tax will be broadened and rates reduced from 12 per cent to 9.5 per cent.

A new corporate minimum tax will be implemented to see that more of the 51 per cent or 25,000 corporations in Minnesota who do not currently pay income tax pay their fair share in the future. Some of these businesses have combined annual sales of $30 billion, payrolls of $7 billion and own or rent property worth $18 billion.

Small and new businesses as well as cooperatives would be exempt from the minimum tax.

Food and clothing are still exempt from sales tax. Purchases made by local governments, schools, nonprofit and charitable organizations (including hospitals and nursing homes) would continue to be exempt from the sales tax as well.

Perhaps the most far-reaching reform will come in property taxes over the next two years. By 1990, the number of property classes is expected to be reduced and taxes lowered. Commercial-industrial property tax relief will be specifically targeted to small business next year with a $25 million small business credit, and general reductions will follow in 1989.

This package was crafted to simplify the system and make it generally fairer for all. At the same time, it will give the state greater control over its spending and budgeting.

I will try to spell out in greater detail other parts of the tax bill in the coming weeks.

REPORT

From The

MINNESOTA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

by Rep. Wallace Sparby
District 1B

Minnesota farmers told us that agricultural interests should be a high priority this legislative session, and we paid attention. The important agricultural bills passed this year should highlight Minnesota nationally as a state with progressive ag policies. New reform in taxes and school aids will also help farmers, as ag land property taxes are expected to drop about 10 per cent.

Early funding of the interest buydown program, improvements in the mediation law, a grain testing bill and substantial funding for research and development projects, were all given overwhelming support in the House. Some of the legislation is designed to help give immediate aid to farmers. Other provisions should build and diversify our agricultural base, bringing new wealth to rural Minnesota in the near future.

Lenders can no longer require farmers to waive their rights to mediation, a court-ordered moratorium or the debtor remedies, under a recently passed bill. The mediation process will be improved with an orientation session that allows debtors, financial analysts and mediators to prepare for the first mediation session. Another new mediation provision allows contract for deed and machinery sales contract holders to place crop liens during mediation.

The grain testing bill should settle disputes that sometimes arise when grain is tested at an elevator. If there's a question over the protein content, moisture level or other pricing factors of grain, either the seller or buyer can pay a small fee and have a certified sample mailed to the Minnesota department of agriculture. The state results must be used as the final pricing authority.

Ethanol received considerable attention this year. The bill, which would have put ethanol in about 65 per cent of the state's unleaded gas, did not pass this session. But ethanol supporters did win a $200,000 promotion package and a 20-cent-per-ethanol-gallon subsidy to producers was extended to the year 2000.

The 1987 omnibus ag bill is rich with ag research and development projects that are future oriented. New studies will focus on sweet sorghum as a source for alcohol fuels, wild rice production, dairy sheep, control of pseudorabies and "stray voltage" problems on livestock.

The development, promotion and marketing of Minnesota ag products is strongly emphasized in the ag bill, with a $360,000 challenge grant fund to promote "Minnesota Grown" products and an $858,000 promotion fund for the Minnesota trade office. A "Minnesota Grown" label will be designed for products that are at least 80 per cent produced in Minnesota.

Funding has been provided for the beginning farmer loan program, which assists persons entering farming; the homestead redemption program, which assists those trying to get their farms back; and the farm crisis intervention program, which provides farm management training and support services throughout the state's AVTIs. A University of Minnesota chair in sustainable agriculture is also established.

The omnibus ag bill improves the rights of first refusal law by extending information, given to previous land owners, to include terms as well as price. Every time an offer is made to lease or sell land, the former owner must be given the same offer.

This is the bulk of the 1987 agricultural legislation, but there is more. If you would like further information on what the Minnesota Legislature has provided to farmers, I can be reached this summer at (612) 296-9918.

One of the more innovative measures created by the Minnesota Legislature this year is the Greater Minnesota corporation (GMC), a public-private development organization. GMC programs, seeded with state and private dollars and enriched with Minnesota brainpower, should bring new wealth to rural Minnesota.

The GMC will oversee up to four newly created research institutes located in greater Minnesota. The agricultural utilization research institute is receiving $3.5 million to promote markets for agricultural products. The other institutes will provide development grants to businesses for research and development projects. The end result should be new products and services that Minnesota businesses can market. The GMC board will also study the establishment of a for-profit venture capital corporation to invest in Minnesota companies and production.

The GMC is not the only economic development initiative created by the rural development act. Also established are customized training funds to benefit low-income persons as well as new and expanding businesses in rural Minnesota. State supplemental education grants are created to pay for adult farm management programs and employment training programs for displaced workers. A mineral resources program, a county forestry assistance fund and a Twin Cities urban revitalization act are also included in the rural development act.

Challenge grants ranging from $5,000 to $100,000 will be provided to new and expanding businesses in Minnesota. The state and six regional foundations will share part of the grant cost that is matched with business funds.

Other services include staff support in various regions to provide information counseling to businesses and connect them with federal, state and local economic development programs.

The GMC and rural development act open the door to creative ideas, new products, new training and new markets. By combining the state's public and private "brainpower pool" and seed money, I think we have sparked a new course for economic development in Minnesota.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

Calling it a package steeped in fairness and simplicity, the 1987 legilsature adopted the 1987 Omnibus Tax reform package in the closing hours of the 1987 legislative session.

The package will mean reduced income tax rates in all tax brackets under $100,000. The legislation is designed to return to taxpayers $660 million of the 'windfall' which will result from the state's conformity to federal tax law changes enacted in 1986.

The law will reduce the top income tax rate from its current 14 per cent to only eight percent. Both standard deductions and personal exemptions will be increased with a personal exemption of $2,540 for a single and $3,760 for a joint in 1987 and $3,000 and $5,000 in 1988. Also the dependent exemption will be $1,900 in 1987, $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989. There will also be a senior credit for those 65 years of age and older of $750 for a single and $1,200 for a couple. The state tuition deduction will also be maintained.

Similar to changes made in the individual income tax, the base for the corporate income tax will be broadened and rates reduced from 12 per cent to 9.5 per cent.

A new corporate minimum tax will be implemented to see that more of the 51 per cent or 25,000 corporations in Minnesota who do not currently pay income tax pay their fair share in the future. Some of these businesses have combined annual sales of $30 billion, payrolls of $7 billion and own or rent property worth $18 billion.

Small and new businesses as well as cooperatives would be exempt from the minimum tax.

Food and clothing are still exempt from sales tax. Purchases made by local governments, schools, nonprofit and charitable organizations (including hospitals and nursing homes) would continue to be exmpt from the sales tax as well.

Perhaps the most far-reaching reform will come in property taxes over the next two years. By 1990, the number of property classes is expected to be reduced and taxes lowered. Commercial-industrial property tax relief will be specifically targeted to small business next year with a $25 million small business credit, and general reductions will follow in 1989.

This package was crafted to simplify the system and make it generally fairer for all. At the same time, it will give the state greater control over its spending and budgeting.

I will try to spell out in greater detail other parts of the tax bill in the coming weeks.

MINNESOTA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Minnesota farmers told us that agricultural interests should be a high priority this legislative session, and we paid attention. The important agricultural bills passed this year should highlight Minnesota nationally as a state with progressive ag policies. New reform in taxes and school aids will also help farmers, as ag land property taxes are expected to drop about 10 per cent.

Early funding of the interest buy-down program, improvements in the mediation law, a grain testing bill and substantial funding for research and development projects, were all given overwhelming support in the House. Some of the legislation is designed to help give immediate aid to farmers. Other provisions should build and diversify our agricultural base, bringing new wealth to rural Minnesota in the near future.

Lenders can no longer require farmers to waive their rights to mediation, a court-ordered moratorium or the debtor remedies, under a recently passed bill. The mediation process will be improved with an orientation session that allows debtors, financial analysts and mediators to prepare for the first mediation session. Another new mediation provision allows contract for deed and machinery sales contract holders to place crop liens during mediation.

The grain testing bill should settle disputes that sometimes arise when grain is tested at an elevator. If there's a question over the protein content, moisture level or other pricing factors of grain, either the seller or buyer can pay a small fee and have a certified sample mailed to the Minnesota department of agriculture. The state results must be used as the final pricing authority.

Ethanol received considerable attention this year. The bill, which would have put ethanol in about 65 per cent of the state's unleaded gas, did not pass this session. But ethanol supporters did win a $200,000 promotion package and a 20-cent-per-ethanol-gallon subsidy to producers was extended to the year 2000.

The 1987 omnibus ag bill is rich with ag research and development projects that are future oriented. New studies will focus on sweet sorghum as a source for alcohol fuels, wild rice production, dairy sheep, control of pseudorabies and "stray voltage" problems on livestock.

The development, promotion and marketing of Minnesota ag products is strongly emphasized in the ag bill, with a $360,000 challenge grant fund to promote "Minnesota Grown" products and an $858,000 promotion fund for the Minnesota trade office. A "Minnesota Grown" label will be designed for products that are at least 80 per cent produced in Minnesota.

Funding has been provided for the beginning farmer loan program, which assists persons entering farming; the homestead redemption program, which assists those trying to get their farms back; and the farm crisis intervention program, which provides farm management training and support services throughout the state's AVTIs. A University of Minnesota chair in sustainable agriculture is also established.

The omnibus ag bill improves the rights of first refusal law by extending information, given to previous land owners, to include terms as well as price. Every time an offer is made to lease or sell land, the former owner must be given the same offer.

This is the bulk of the 1987 agricultural legislation, but there is more. If you would like further information on what the Minnesota Legislature has provided to farmers, I can be reached this summer at (612) 296-9918.

One of the more innovative measures created by the Minnesota Legislature this year is the Greater Minnesota corporation (GMC), a public-private development organization. GMC programs, seeded with state and private dollars and enriched with Minnesota brainpower, should bring new wealth to rural Minnesota.

The GMC will oversee up to four newly created research institutes located in greater Minnesota. The agricultural utilization research institute is receiving $3.5 million to promote markets for agricultural products. The other institutes will provide development grants to businesses for research and development projects. The end result should be new products and services that Minnesota businesses can market. The GMC board will also study the establishment of a for-profit venture capital corporation to invest in Minnesota companies and production.

The GMC is not the only economic development initiative created by the rural development act. Also established are customized training funds to benefit low-income persons as well as new and expanding businesses in rural Minnesota. State supplemental education grants are created to pay for adult farm management programs and employment training programs for displaced workers. A mineral resources program, a county forestry assistance fund and a Twin Cities urban revitalization act are also included in the rural development act.

Challenge grants ranging from $5,000 to $100,000 will be provided to new and expanding businesses in Minnesota. The state and six regional foundations will share part of the grant cost that is matched with business funds.

Other services include staff support in various regions to provide information counseling to businesses and connect them with federal, state and local economic development programs.

The GMC and rural development act open the door to creative ideas, new products, new training and new markets. By combining the state's public and private "brainpower pool" and seed money, I think we have sparked a new course for economic development in Minnesota.

The Newfolden Garden club met on May 15th at the home of Thelma Haugen. Eleven members were present. After reciting the club creed and purpose, roll call was answered with each member giving a "helpful garden hint." A plant exchange was also held. Business: We decided to meet at the village garden plot on Monday evening, May 18th, to weed and clean the flower beds, and prepare them for planting. We will wait a while to see if we get some rain before planting the flowers. Thea Haarstad gave an interesting talk on "Choosing plants for a colorful flower garden for all summer." Elaine Roering won the door prize. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

The winner of the 10 inch crystal bud vase at the Friday drawing, the 15th, was Valborg Huglen. Friday, the 22nd, is a $10 drawing and on the 29th, it is a $15 drawing.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. So far I've been lucky enough not to have to use my medicare, but now I've got to have a major operation. Exactly what services will medicare cover while I'm in the hospital?

A. Medicare hospital insurance (Part A) can help pay for the following services while a person is a hospital inpatient: a semiprivate room; all meals, including special diets; regular nursing services; operating and recovery room costs; the costs of special car units, such as an intensive care or coronary care unit; drugs furnished by the hospital; lab tests included in the hospital bill; X-rays and other radiology services billed by the hospital; medical supplies; use of appliances, such as a wheelchair; rehabilitation services; and blood transfusions furnished by the hospital during your stay, except for any nonreplacement fees charged for the first three pints of whole blood or units of packed red cells. Most people pay nothing for the hospital insurance part of medicare.

Q. My brother is 23. He's out of school and can't find a job. In fact, he has no money at all. Can he get Supplemental Security Income (SSI)?

A. To be eligible for SSI, a person must be 65 or older or blind or disabled and have limited income and resources. Unless your brother is blind or disabled he is not eligible. A person 18 or older is considered disabled if a physical or mental impairment prevents him from doing any substantial gainful work and is expected to last for at least 12 months or to result in death.

Q. I know that there is a five full month waiting period before disability can be paid. Is this for everyone?

A. There is a waiting period for almost everyone starting on social security disability. For example: a disability is determined to start on March 15. The waiting period would be from April to August with the first benefit payable for September. People can file applications before the waiting period ends. Some people, such as those who were on disability before, do not have a second waiting period.

Q. Does having a pre-existing medical condition affect being able to get Medicare?

A. Not at all. No medical examination is required to get Medicare. In fact, people receiving social security disability are eligible for medicare after two years.

Q. Which is the main social security office in North Dakota?

A. There is not one. All states are divided into districts, each of which is responsible for an area. A district can cross state lines and may contain more than one office. For example, offices in Grafton, ND, Crookston, MN, and Grand Forks make up the Grand Forks District. This district works with 16 counties within ND and MN plus residents of Manitoba.

Q. Why do Canadian residents receive social security?

A. U. S. citizenship is not a requirement to receive social security. As long as persons have enough work under the program, or are eligible on someone else's work record, they can receive social security benefits. In addition, U. S. citizens live around the globe and the agency can send checks to most countries. As of December, 1986, about 1,300 individuals in Manitoba received monthly social security benefits. There are nearly 61,000 social security beneficiaries throughout Canada.

Q. What else is social security trust money used for besides social security purposes?

A. Nothing. A persistent, and false, rumor is that trust fund money has been used for purposes other than social security payments or operational expenses.

Confusion over this issue is because of the trust fund in vestment procedures. The government uses the money it has borrowed from social security, along with other money in its general fund, to finance federal programs and projects. This investment of trust fund reserves in government securities, just like the purchase of treasury notes and bonds by a private citizen, creates an obligation on the part of the federal government. The government has always made good on its obligations to social security, and repays the trust funds with interest.

Q. I was told that my tip income needs to be reported for social security. How? East Grand Forks, MN

A. The IRS can give you more specific information about this.

Generally, employees rather than the employer are responsible for reporting and paying the social security tax on tips they receive. However, one exception to this rule holds that under certain circumstances the employer must also pay an employer's share on the tips similar to the matching share he or she pays on regular wages.

Tips have been covered under social security since 1966. The employee is responsible for reporting tips earned to his or her employer and paying the tax on them. The tips must amount to $20 a month from one employer before they are counted for social security coverage.

Since 1978, however, employers have been responsible for paying social security taxes on tips that are considered to be earnings for purposes of meeting the requirements of the minimum wage law. This happens in jobs where low wages are paid in expectation of substantial tips. Federal law allows the employer to pay as little as 50 per cent of the minimum wage and permit tips to be considered earnings up to the minimum wage.

Tips should be reported to the employer in writing by the 10th of the month after the month they are received. Employers may request reports more often. The employer reports the tips along with the wages for social security purposes.

Employees can get Form 4070, Report of Tips, from an Internal Revenue service office. Other tip reporting forms are acceptable if they contain the same information as Form 4070.

Q. Does remarriage affect benefits for widows?

A. Although a widow generally loses her right to benefits on the deceased worker's record when she remarries, she does not if the marriage takes place after age 60. A disabled widow may remarry after age 50 without affecting benefits. These rules are also true for widowers.

Q. Are there really social security trust funds?

A. Yes. In fact, there are four of them.

The financial operations of social security are handled through two separate trust funds: the Federal Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance (OASI) trust fund, used to finance retirement and survivors benefits and auxiliary benefits to family members; and the Federal Disability Insurance (DI) trust fund, used to finance benefits for disabled workers and their families.

In addition, two separate trust funds finance the nation's Medicare programs. They are the Federal Hospital Insurance (HI) trust fund and the Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI) trust fund.

A portion of the payroll tax is earmarked for each trust fund. For example, the current 7.15 per cent employee deduction is allocated as follows: 5.2 per cent to the OASI trust funs, 0.5 per cent to the DI trust fund and 1.45 per cent to the HI trust fund.

The SMI program is voluntary. About three-fourths of its revenue is derived from the general fund of the treasury. The remainder comes from premiums paid to enrollees.

Q. How is social security trust fund money used?

A. The primary use is to pay monthly benefits. Income is not marked for a particular employee and saved as with bank accounts. Instead, social security works like a pipeline. Revenue collected from today's workers flows into one end of the pipe, and comes out the other end in the form of benefits for today's beneficiaries.

Any reserves that are not used for payment of benefits or operational expenses (which are consistently less than 1.5 per cent of revenues) are invested only in U. S. Government securities and earn the prevailing rate of interest. These are normally special obligations issued specifically for the trust funds. The amount of interest earned is substantial. For example, in 1986 the social security trust funds earned $3.9 billion in interest.

Congratulations to Michelle Jelle, daughter of Walt and Bernice Jelle, who was chosen to receive a Presidential Scholarship for 1987-88 at Bemidji State University. Michelle's school and community record and her creative project were facts considered in the selection. This great honor is awarded to only ten students of the entire group of students who plan to enter college at Bemidji State University. This prestigious award means that Michelle will receive her entire year's tuition, having a value of about $1,462. The Presidential Scholarships at Bemidji State University were created in 1985 to honor those entering students who have demonstrated leadership and citizenship in their school and community and is a very great honor. Again, we congratulate Michelle!

Visitors at the Ernest Selle home on Monday were Dale Lind of Minneapolis, Gene Daly of St. Paul and Cheryl Stinar.

Guests who spent the weekend visiting at the Nora Engelstad home and at the Richard and Ronnie Engelstad homes were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bucholz, Charles and Jody of Grace City, ND. # Ag Info Center Bread And Butter Concert Planned Area agricultural information center located at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) has announced plans for the first annual "Bread And Butter Benefit Concert" to be held on Sunday, June 28.

The main attraction for the concert will be nationally known country-western recording artist Dottie West. Also featured will be "The Dakota Men", and area bands "The Last Resort," "Bottom Line," "Deliverance," "Four Wheel Drive," "Red Eye Review," "Gary Emerson and The Ivories" and "The Hee Haw Gang". Entertainment will begin at 2 p.m. and run until 11 p.m. with Dottie West scheduled to appear at 9 p.m.

In addition, a full day of fun and activities is being planned for all ages. Clowns, mimes, jugglers, hayrides, competitions, prizes, tubing and canoeing are planned activities. (Tubing begins at 10 a.m.; at 1 p.m. join the "Dakota Men" on a leisurely float trip down the Red Lake river.)

The event will be held at Voyageur's View Campground and Outfitters one mile north of Red Lake Falls on Red Lake County Road 13.

All proceeds from the concert and parking receipts will be used to support the on-going services to area farmers by the ag information center. Advanced tickets are now available at the center (phone 681-6236), Voyageur's View (phone 253-2031) and several area radio stations. Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $5 for children 12 and under.

"Sponsors for the event include several area businesses that recognize the vital role that agriculture plays in our area's economy," states a spokesman for the ag information center.

Homeless Food Stamp Recipients Can Buy Meals

New United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) regulations give additional help to homeless people and to the shelters and food kitchens that provide meals to them.

Homeless food stamp recipients are now permitted to use their food stamp coupons to purchase prepared meals that are served by shelters and food kitchens that serve homeless people. The new regulations went into effect April 1.

Meal providers that wish to participate must first be certified by the Minnesota department of human services (DHS), and then authorized by the food and nutrition service of USDA in order to redeem food stamp coupons. The food and nutrition service will wait for DHS to certify these providers before granting authorization.

Shelters or establishments interested in obtaining more information on certification may call (612) 296-2694 in the Metropolitan area, or toll free 1-800-652-9747 in other parts of the state. Written inquiries should be addressed to the Department of Human Services, Program Supervision Section, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155. A fact sheet will be provided upon request.

Homeless food stamp recipients who have questions about using food stamps to purchase meals may call (612) 296-1835, or the toll free number.

Disabled Persons Fared Well In '87 Legislature

Minnesota's 600,000 disabled citizens fared "generally pretty well" in the recently concluded legislative session, says the Minnesota State Council on Disability (formerly, Minnesota State Council for the Handicapped). The council gives legislators a "B+" rating for their 1987 session efforts.

According to John Clawson, council executive director, "Overall the session was very good for people with disabilities. This is due to a lot of hard work on the part of advocates, both individuals and groups." However, Clawson says, the picture wasn't perfect.

"We experienced a big disappointment in the greater Minnesota transit subsidy cutback. No one seemed to understand the relationship between integrated life in the community and the need for a strong transit system."

Clawson also said it is "very disheartening that so little importance was given to making state buildings accessible. While tens of millions of dollars were set aside for recreational facilities and luxuries, the governor's five million dollar recommendation for accessibility was whittled down to only $4 million, and those dollars will be reduced even further since accessibility dollars are tied together with an asbestos removal project. We plan to redouble our efforts in 1988!"

The three victories, according to Clawson, include increased funding for an a reorganization of the mental health system; "birth to two" legislation which mandates education services for the very youngest children and their families; and major improvement in statewide safety standards for transportation services for persons with disabilities.

The council identifies these other highlights of the 1987 session:

+ Light Rail Transit — Hennepin county was authorized to build a light rail transit line with a design plan which must include handicapped accessibility.

+ Human Rights Act — Prohibits discrimination against disabled students in post-secondary schools.

+ Council Powers Act — Changes the name of the Council for the Handicapped to the Council on Disability and strengthens the advocacy role of the council.

+ Handicapped Parking — Redefines eligibility; establishes fines for fraudulent permit use; and increases the fine for unauthorized handicapped parking.

+ Home Health Care Licensure — Requires licensure of home care agencies.

+ Hearing Impaired Phone Access — Provides telephone devices to low-income, hearing impaired persons and establishes a message relay system.

+ Civil Service Supported Employment — Establishes a trial state employment program for person with severe disabilities.

+ Client Advisory Committee — Requires the State Planning agency to contract for a client advisory committee for workers employed in sheltered workshops.

+ Developmental Achievement Centers — Expands eligibility requirements for supported employment and establishes a new rules format.

+ Medical Assistance Eligibility — Raises eligibility income standards to 115 per cent of the current AFDC standards.

Although disabled Minnesotans fared well in the '87 legislative session, Clawson feels, "Many legislators support our issues; but we have a long way to go in helping policymakers to understand the economics of disability, and the accompanying social, emotional and personal need issues that go along with being disabled."

"The council will be working during the interim with local groups and individuals to help show legislators the importance of our goals, which have always stressed integration in the community, full productivity and the independence of all persons with disabilities."

"MAKE MINE MILK" say Kathleen Merkins of Ada (left), Northwest Dairy Princess, and Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way. Both royal representatives of the Minnesota dairy industry will be in Thief River Falls Tuesday for the 38th annual Northwest Dairy Day. They will visit the dairy show and take part in the regional princess banquet program at the Best Western Inn.

Preparations Complete For 38th NW Dairy Day

Preparations are completed and all is in readiness for the 38th annual edition of Northwest Dairy Day to be held in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Young people from a 16-county area which comprises Region One of the Minnesota American Dairy association (ADA) will bring their 4-H and FFA dairy project animals to Thief River Falls for the competition for prizes and recognition.

"Everyone is a winner at Northwest Dairy Day, thanks to the sponsoring business places in Thief River Falls and other communities in the region," stated Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent and president of the sponsoring Northwest Dairy Improvement association.

"Every participant in the dairy show receives a prize in accordance with the number of years he or she has shown at the event," he said. "From first through eighth year these include a wash halter, show halter, grooming kit, show blanket, travel alarm clock, cow halter, calculator and transistor radio. Exhibitors in their ninth, 10th and 11th years receive engraved trophies."

In addition to the participation awards which all entrants receive, contestants are in quest of some other substantial prizes. Showman of the grand champion grade animal of the show will receive a purebred calf of the dairy breed of his or her choice to be awarded at the 1988 dairy day. This year the calf will go to Deanna Mitchell, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell of Detroit Lakes, whose cow was Holstein breed champion, grade champion and overall show champion last year.

Showman of the grand champion purebred animal will receive an expense-paid trip to the World Dairy Expo at Madison, WI, in October. Last year's winner was Jason Johnston, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnston of Angus. He was champion junior exhibitor and his animal was reserve champion of the show.

Trophies or plaques go to the grand show champion, junior champion exhibitor, best uddered cow, individual dairy herd, county diary herd and winner of the Stuart McLeod award for overall points earned at Dairy Day.

Farm Credit Services In TRF Takes Own Advice: Cuts Back

Farm Credit Services (FCS) of Grand Forks is adjusting the level of service at several of its branch offices, including Thief River Falls, according to President Bob Palmer.

"Our association has experienced a dramatic reduction in the amount of money customers are borrowing in the area and we've lost some members. We've had to find ways to become even more cost efficient," Palmer said.

"We examined service in every one of our branches and we are taking steps to adjust that service to match the loan volume in the office," Palmer said.

According to Marlene Daniels, public relations director for the company, that reduction in service means staff members will not be sitting behind desks eight hours a day, five days a week.

Daniels said FCS wants to make sure though that the public knows FCS is not closing its branch office. In fact, the same number of employees will work at the branch office in Thief River Falls as were working there one year ago. The reduction will mean that farmers wanting to visit the FCS office should first make an appointment to make sure someone is there and prepared to help them. In addition a toll free number will be available to make appointments.

According to a news release from FCS, the organization will continue to operate out of Thief River Falls. The

Residents Object To Story About Care Facility

Residents of the area of 621 LaBree av. N., where a transitional care facility is proposed to be located, have expressed concern that a story in last Wednesday's Times regarding a city planning commission meeting contains misleading information.

One paragraph of the story stated: "At the planning commission meeting a straw vote of residents living within 350 feet of the proposed facility was conducted. A total of 12 votes were cast in favor of the project. The residents appeared to favor the proposed use and many also noted improvements to the property since the change in ownership. A number of the residents did not vote."

One resident of the area contacted the Times and noted that the vote taken at the planning commission meeting was on limiting the number of clients at the facility to no more than 10, not a vote in favor of the project. A preliminary house-to-house contact prior to an earlier meeting indicated all but three residents of the area to be opposed to the project, the caller said.

A number of residents at the commission meeting last Monday did not vote, the caller said, because no real options were being made available to them about use of the property (former Kees rest home) for the transitional care facility.

Thief River Falls city council will discuss this very issue tonight in city council chambers in the city auditorium. The council has decided to hold its regularly scheduled council meeting on Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m. instead of Tuesday at the same time.

Other matters to be discussed tonight include the resignation of Officer Brett Pertler as patrolman and a recommendation to replace Pertler with Jeff Sebenaler.

Park Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Sunday's open house at Old Mill State park was especially important at the park. The park, which was established in 1937, was celebrating its 50th anniversary.

In conjunction with that celebration and the open house the 109-year-old steam engine which powers the mill was started and operating. The steam engine will be fired again on Tuesday afternoon.

On Sunday, the mill was started up and other programs were held. A film about Minnesota parks could be watched in one of the shelters; coffee, cookies and lemonade were served; and several individuals and organizations were recognized for their contributions to the continuing operation of the park.

Marshall county historical society, Immanuel Lutheran church in Radium, and Zion Lutheran church in Warren received a plaque and special recognition. Marshall county hisotorical society received the meritorious service award for its exceptional working partnership with the park and the many hours of voluntary time put in at the park during the last seven years.

Immanuel Lutheran church in Radium was recognized for providing the funds to purchase and install new playground equipment at the park. Zion Lutheran church in Warren was recognized for providing funds for new electrical sites in the campground.

Several Boy Scout groups were recognized Sunday also. In presenting certificates of appreciation, park director Leonard Anderson said he was appreciative of the assistance Boy Scouts of Thief River Falls provided last fall. Anderson was injured in a hunting accident and winter preparations were delayed

OLD MILL STATE PARK is celebrating its 50th anniversary. Sunday the steam engine powering the mill was fired up to grind wheat into flour. Several awards were presented during a presentation at the park and several announcements were made. Merle DeBoer, regional manager announced that because of budget cuts Old Mill State park was in a vulnerable position. Len Anderson, park manager, said he did not know where cuts would be. He asked for help from the public and invited the public to participate in discussion about the needs of the park. New safety regulations for steam engines which threaten to make this week the last time the steam engine at Old Mill State park operates, were also discussed. Look for a feature on Old Mill State park in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Shelly Swanson Earns H.S. Diploma At College

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Eighteen-year-old Shelly Swanson of Goodridge received her high school diploma at commencement exercises there Friday, although she hasn't attended the Goodridge school for two years. During that time she has been attending college full-time and is now only two quarters away from a two-year degree in light horse management at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Shelly is one of a number of area participants in the Post-Secondary Options Act established by the Minnesota legislature and put into effect for the first time in the 1985-86 school year. But she is one of the very few — if not the only one — in this area to have attended college on a full-time basis during her junior and senior years in high school.

The act permits junior and seniors in high school to attend the schools of their choice, receiving credit for the courses passed. It also requires the school district where the student resides to pay the costs, including tuition and books. For Shelly, the gain was a payment of about $800 per quarter for six quarters toward her college education.

"What the state has essentially said is that the dollars a school district receives for the education of a student are the child's dollars," stated Dr. Donald Langan, superintendent of the Goodridge schools. "Our district receives about $3,000 per year in foundation aids from the state and local revenue raised through property taxes. We will have expended about 60 to 70 per cent of that amount for Shelly to attend college courses."

Dr. Langan said that the paperwork involved in the program is great, but that the system seems to function amazingly well. The difficulty results primarily from the number of entities involved, meaning that paper has to shuffle among the school district, student, college and state department of education for signatures, payment and verification.

He also noted that the Goodridge district may have been better prepared for the program because it has been involved in post secondary access since 1982. Shelly's sister Sheri was one of the first Goodridge students to attend Northland community college in Thief River Falls while still a high school student at Goodridge. During the school years from 1982 through 1984, however, parents paid for tuition and books. The 1985 law made the district liable for those costs.

Under the program, high school students receive high school credit for college courses which are approved for high school credit. But it takes nine hours of college credit to equal one high school credit, Shelly noted. She carried an average of 16 credits while attending Northland as a high school junior, and 18 or 19 credits while attending UMC in the 1986-87 school year. Full-time equivalency at UMC is 12 credits.

"I only had about three credits left for high school graduation when I enrolled at Northland," Shelly said: "I have about four extra credits beyond what I need to graduate from Goodridge now. If I had known that I was going to transfer to the light horse management program after the first year I would have taken

HITTING THE BOOKS has permitted Shelly Swanson to earn her high school diploma from Goodridge while attending college full time as a high school junior and senior. Shelly is the daughter of Lowell Swanson of Goodridge and Darlene Swanson of Thief River Falls. She moved to Thief River Falls at the end of her sophomore year in high school but decided she wanted to graduate with her class at Goodridge. She attended Northland community college and the University of Minnesota-Crookston and received her high school diploma at Goodridge Friday.

Miss TRF Charm Clinic Tuesday; Entries Needed

Thief River Falls Women of Today chapter could use a few more candidates for the Miss Thief River Falls pageant to be conducted August 1. A charm clinic for contestants will be conducted Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the basement of the former Carnegie public library building at the corner of Main avenue and First street.

"This is an important night for the girls to attend," stated Arlene Novak, general chairman for the pageant. "Although entries can be accepted after that date, those attending will receive some very helpful hints and ideas and start to share in the friendships that develop among pageant contestants."

Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls who will soon enter the Miss Minnesota pageant, will be on hand to demonstrate walking and modeling techniques and give helpful hints on stage performance. Carolyn Schmitz will also demonstrate color analysis and give make-up suggestions.

Girls attending are asked to wear or bring high-heeled shoes to practice walking and to wear or bring a dressy blouse, preferably a dark color, for photographs to be taken at Peterson Photo for the pageant program booklet.

"It would be helpful to have all our candidates in attendance at the charm clinic and photo session so all will receive the information and have photos completed for the booklet," Novak added. "We could use more girls from the Thief River Falls area and encourage any businesses or organizations who are interested in sponsoring someone to contact us."

Persons needing information are encouraged to call Arlene Novak at 964-5346, Betty Srnsky at 681-1648 or Jennifer Clow at 681-7462.

Tracy Mohrland-David Wold Wed May 2 In St. Paul

Tracy Lee Mohrland and David Ralph Wold were united in marriage May 2 at First Evangelical Free church in St. Paul. Rev. Mark Wold and Rev. Robert Gibson officiated at the 1:30 p.m. double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Mohrland of South St. Paul and Mrs. Betty Wold and the late Ralph Wold of Thief River Falls.

Darlene Dexter, friend of the couple, was organist and pianist. Prelude songs chosen were "Reigen Seliger Grister," "Sarabande" and "It's All Because You Love Me"; processional selections were "Sheep May Safely Graze" and "Trumpet Voluntary"; and "Hallelujah Chorus" was played as recessional. Other musical selections were "Household of Faith" and "My Tribute." Musicians performing at the ceremony were Linel Mehus, cello; Linda Bradbury, violin; Sheldon Carlson and James Clark, trumpet; Bth Tjaden, flute. David and Penny Donelson sang duet and solos were performed by Kevin and Kimberly Bardwell.

The bride was escorted by her father to an altar graced with ferns and candelabra, with white satin bows adorning the pews.

She wore a gown of white crystalene over satin, trimmed in pearls and sequins, with a full cathedral train. Her headband was a tulle pouf with a deep V of pearls at the forehead, matching the pearl trim on the gown, and a chapel-length veil falling from the back. Her personal attendants were Carol Smith and Cindy Nelson, friends of the bride.

Maid of honor was Kristin Backlund, Roseville, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Karen Gustafson, St. Paul; Jane Miklya, Minneapolis; Joann Lehrke, St. Paul; Patty Schenfisch, Minot, ND; and Tami Nice, Burnsville, all friends of the bride. They wore teal blue, tea-length taffeta gowns with pearl necklaces, their gifts from the bride. Their bouquets were flowers in bridal colors of white, pink and teal blue.

Timothy Dahlstrom, St. Louis, MO, served as his friend's best man. Groomsmen were Jon Burnison, Timothy Mehus and Daniel Knutson, all of White Bear Lake; Scott Selmer, St. Paul; and Brent Bostrom, Roseville, all friends of the groom.

Ushers were friends, Del Kauss, St. Paul; Joseph Heckel, Roseville; and Wayne Johnston, Minneapolis.

The groom was attired in a charcoal grey Pierre Cardin tuxedo with tails, white pleated shirt, and black bow tie and cummerbund. Gentlemen of the wedding party wore charcoal grey tuxedos with white, pleated shirts and teal blue cummerbunds and ties. Their boutonnieres were white carnations centered with a teal rose.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua gown with matching accessories, and the mother of the groom wore dusty rose with black patent accessories. Their matching corsages were of white mums and pink tea roses.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mohrland, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Selma Anderson, grandmother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, given by the parents of the bride. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. James Mohrland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bleed and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Woodbury.

Highlighting the serving table was a pillared, three-tiered wedding cake iced in teal blue and white, with fresh flowers gracing the top. Andrea Govanson, friend of the couple, cut and served the cake; presiding at the punch bowl were Tina and Tammy Morhland, who also were in charge of the gift table; and Carol Smith, friend of the bride, served as flower hostess.

Guests attending the ceremony were from Gainsville, FL; Virginia Beach, VA; St. Louis, MO; Hettinger, ND; and Thief River Falls and Zumbrota.

After a honeymoon trip to Barbados Island and Florida, the newlyweds are at home at 4060 Gershwin Avenue, number 206, Oakdale, MN. The bride is a graduate of the University of North Dakota and is employed at 3-M Company and the groom is a Moorhead State University graduate and is employed at The St. Paul Company.

Cook's Choice

More summer salads to try this week — these are fruit salads to please the palate.

MINTED FRUIT SALAD

- 1 cup pineapple chunks, fresh or canned
- 2 tablespoons fresh mint, chopped, or 2 teaspoons dried
- ½ cantaloupe
- 1 unpeeled apple
- ½ cup seedless grapes
- 2 tablespoons lowfat, plain yogurt
- mint springs for garnish

Combine pineapple chunks and mint in a large bowl. Use a melon baller or cut cantaloupe into cubes, chop apple, and slice grapes in half. Combine fruits; toss with yogurt to taste; and chill before serving. Garnish with mint.

Pear may be substituted for the apple. The recipe makes four one-cup servings, with zero fat content and 78 calories each.

SUMMER SALAD MOLD

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups cold water
- ¼ cup honey
- ¾ cup fresh lime juice
- 1 cup pitted fresh cherries
- 1 cup honeydew melon balls

Place water in small saucepan and sprinkle gelatin on top. Stir constantly over low heat until gelatin dissolves; remove from heat. Stir in honey, lime juice and cherries; chill until slightly thickened.

Fold in melon balls; place in 6 cup mold. Chill until firm and unmold onto serving plate.

This will make about eight half-cup servings, each containing 73 calories and zero grams of fat.

Shelly Swanson Earns High School Diploma At College

some different classes. As it is now, I have about two quarters left to complete my college requirements."

While Shelly received payment for her tuition and books at college, the costs of her dormitory living were not covered. As a result, she had to pay about half of the $1,600 cost of all college expenses herself. She still thinks it was a good deal, but the experience isn't all the best of both worlds.

"When you leave your high school to attend college it's just like you no longer exist," she admitted. "You have no more connections with your classmates or the school and at college you're just another student. I missed student events at Goodridge, like the Sno-Fest program, because I didn't know when it was scheduled. When I went to the prom there were a bunch of strangers there; I didn't know most of the dates that my classmates had. I felt out of placed in my own school."

Supt. Langan and principal Gordon Henrickson agreed on the loss of social contact with class members. "When a student makes the choice to attend college full time," Henrickson said, "he or she must recognize that high school life continues to go on. That is one of the trade-offs of going to college, and it is a difficult one for teenagers to accept."

Although Shelly admits she missed the daily contact with her classmates and being in the flow of high school classes and activities, she said the adjustment to college life was not all that difficult. It was hard to explain to other students that she was still in high school, she said, but she didn't fine the classes to be unusually difficult.

"You have to learn to adjust your study habits and understand what to emphasize," she said. "And you have to really want to be in school and be willing to study." An honor roll student at Goodridge, she said she earned mostly As and Bs in college and during her first quarter at UMC had a 3.51 grade point average.

Shelly has been a horse enthusiast since she first had a pony before she started kindergarten. At eight years of age she was taking care of five horses on the farm and receiving encouragement from an avid horseman, Allen Iverson of Thief River Falls, her maternal grandfather. Over the years she has had nine or 10 horses and in 1954 she got a horse trailer and bought a pleasure horse which she has been training.

The light horse management program at UMC teaches all areas of horse care and management from cleaning stables to breeding, training, riding, showing, health, grooming and others. The UMC program is rated among the best in the nation.

Shelly will intern at Zephyr Arabians at Reno, NV, a ranch operated by her dad's sister, Linda Zimmerman and her husband Mickey. She leaves for Nevada June 10.

While most students won't take the full time route that Shelly did, Dr. Langan believes the Post Secondary Options Act to be a boon to parents. "The biggest gain is the unusually high number of Goodridge high school graduates who go on to complete a four-year degree," the superintendent said. "I have to believe it is because our students have already had the experience of the college trauma of waiting in line to register and the other frustrations that go with it. They have been through all that by the time they get to college after high school graduation."

All of the juniors and seniors at Goodridge high school come to Thief River Falls daily for classes. This year seven of the students were enrolled at Northland community college and the other 32 were enrolled in classes at Lincoln high school or the Northwest Vocational center. It is anticipated that when the Thief River Falls technical institute switches to a quarter basis that more high school students will enroll there. That is another option open to them.

While there is a financial impact on the participating district by having students attending college where tuition, fees and books must be paid by the district, Dr. Langan believes, the benefits to the students outweigh the costs to the district.

Shelly Swanson would agree with the benefits. "I would do it again if I had it to do over," she said, "but I would do it differently. Studetns should decide what they want to do and then the credits they take will all be of advantage to them."

Even in the program Shelly was involved in at UMC, there wasn't much time for horsing around.

branch will become a contact office with loan officers available on a regular schedule several days a week. Customers will soon be able to call the office with the toll-free telephone number to make appointments at their convenienve at the office.

FCS will sell its office building in Thief River Falls and rent space back from the new landlord or it will rent excess office space in the building to other tenants.

"While some loan officers will be reassigned to other locations, the overall number of FCS employees in Thief River Falls will not fall below the level of a year ago before the office became a hub of the association's special credit effort in Minnesota," Palmer said.

Daniels, however, did not know at the time of the interview with the Times, how many employees will be reassigned or to where. She mentioned that reductions will also take place in Cando and Lakota, ND. FCS in Grand Forks provides service to 20 counties in North Dakota and Minnesota.

"We're taking the advice we've so often given to farmers: to reduce expenses in the face of the financial crisis facing agriculture. We're hopeful our customers will understand the necessity for making these changes and will continue to be loyal to their farmer-owned Farm Credit System," Palmer said.

Preparations For 38th NW Dairy Day Complete

showman at 1986 Northwest Dairy Day and a repeat winner from the previous year, will open this year's show with a showmanship demonstration. Showmanship contest among 1987 exhibitors will follow.

Representation from all six recognized dairy breeds will again be noted at the show, although entries in some of the breeds are dwindling. Holstein, Guernsey, Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorn, Ayrshire and Jersey breeds are among the approximately 150 entries received for this year.

Northwest Dairy Princess contest will take place throughout the day with judging, interviews and other events planned, including visits by the candidates to the dairy show at Floyd B. Olson park in downtown Thief River Falls. Coronation will take place at a new event — a buffet dinner at the Best Western inn — in the evening.

Special guests at Dairy Day will be Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, and Kathleen Merkins of Ada, Northwest Dairy Princess. Kathleen will crown her successor at the evening program.

Recognition will also be given at the banquet to Albert Koop of rural Thief River Falls who has been a member of the board of directors of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association since it was organized 38 years ago.

Public attendance is invited for the dairy show which is free of charge to everyone. There is an admission charge for the coronation dinner for which reservations closed last week.

Deaths And Funerals

Alfred Nabben, 73

Thief River Falls — Alfred Nabben 73, died Wednesday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. Funeral services for Alfred Nabben were held Saturday at 2 p.m. at St. John Lutheran church with Rev. John Beck officiating.

Elaine Idso served as organist at the service, with Harvey Dyrud singing "Take My Hand Precious Lord," "Jeg Har En Ven" and "I Have A Friend."

Pallbearers were Carl Berggren, Dean Kaushagen, Dale Koop, Bill Mehrkens, Charles Meyers and Kenneth J. Ose. Interment was in Bethlehem Lutheran cemetery, rural Thief River Falls, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Alfred Nabben was born Aug. 21, 1913, in Agder township, Marshall county, the son of Haagen and Martha Mortenson Nabben. He grew up there and attended rural school district 115.

Dec. 2, 1939, he was united in marriage to Cora Runnestrand at the Mavie parsonage. They lived in Agder township and farmed in Marshall county until moving to Thief River Falls in 1966. He was a member of St. John Lutheran church and a former member of Bethlehem Lutheran church.

Alfred Nabben is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Jack (Cheryl) Srnsky, St. Hilaire, Mrs. Duane (Corinne) Opdahl and Mrs. Wendell (LaVonne) Wegge, both of Thief River Falls; 11 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; three sisters, Johanna Green, Grafton, ND, Josephine Dunbar, Milwaukee, WI, and Adeline Moe, Thief River Falls; and three brothers, Harold, Thief River Falls, Victor, Niagara, ND, and Erland, Cudahy, WI.

Preceding him in death were his parents; three brothers, Henry, Mathias and Percy; and one grandson.

Albert "Butch" Lafrenz, 72

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Trinity Lutheran church for Albert "Butch" Lafrenz, who died Wednesday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls at the age of 72. Interment will be in Pleasant View cemetery in Lidgerwood, ND.

A second service will be held today (Monday) at 1 p.m. at the Walby-Frank Funeral home in Hankinson, ND, with Rev. Richard Wholer officiating. There will be visitation in Hankinson for one hour before the service there.

Rev. D. Josh Nelson officiated at services at Trinity Lutheran church, with Mrs. Walter Forney as organist and Mrs. Jan Peterson singing "He Leadeth Me" and "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say."

Honorary pallbearers are all past and present members of the Thief River Falls fire department. Active bearers are Einar Barstad, Willard Fleegel, Ken Froschheisser, Duane Noel, Vernon Quam and Freeman Lanska. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Albert Lafrenz was born Nov. 25, 1914, in Richland county, North Dakota, the son of Andrew and Agnes Wohler Lafrenz. He attended rural school at Lidgerwood, ND, and grew to adulthood in that area. He was employed by Great Northern railway, Willmar division, until October of 1946.

He was united in marriage Oct. 12, 1946, to Bernice I. Berge at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. The couple made their home here. He retired in February of 1978 after 32 years of service with the fire department. He was a meter reader from Nov. 4, 1946, until he was transferred to the city fire department Sept. 1, 1947. He was also a volunteer fireman for 22 years.

He was baptized and confirmed in Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, served as steward for the Teamster's public employees local 664 in Thief River Falls for many years, and was a member of the Eagles Aerie of Thief River Falls.

"Butch" Lafrenz is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Kathy) Nelson, Thief River Falls, and Ruth Ann Lafrenz, St. Paul; two grandsons, Kevin and Chris Nelson of Thief River Falls, two sisters, Miss Magdalen Lafrenz and Mrs. Edna Bladow of Hankinson, ND; two nephews, James and Gene Bladow of Hankinson; and three aunts and one uncle.

He was a member of Christ Lutheran church of Eveleth, the Old Guard, Eveleth American Legion, Fayal Senior Citizens, Eveleth Farmers Market, and an avid gardener. He served in France during World War I.

Joseph Digerness is survived by his wife, Mabel; three sons and daughters-in-law, Warren and Barbara and Harry and Marianne of Eveleth and Stanley and Brenda of Brimingham, AL; one daughter, Alida Stajer, Eveleth; eight grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Edna Hartman in 1957, and a sister, Alida Rivard in 1966.

Fredric Wilson, 73

Minneapolis — Fredric R. Wilson died May 22 at his home in Minneapolis at the age of 73.

Fredric Wilson was born Feb. 11, 1914, in Spicer, to James and Hilda Roalquam Wilson. At the age of four, he moved with his family to Kratka township, Pennington county. Until the age of 21 he lived and worked on the family farm.

He then moved to the Twin Cities and worked as an independent factory representative in carpeting and textiles. In 1983, he opened his own wholesale textile business in Minneapolis.

Fredric Wilson is survived by his wife, Kathryn; three sons, Michael, Peter and Lane, all of Minneapolis; five grandchildren; two brothers, Archie, Thief River Falls, and Warren of Goodridge; and one sister, June Berg, Minneapolis.

He was preceded in death by his parents; two brothers, Stanley and Sidney; and one sister, Evalyne Foster.

St. John Church Offers Series On The Family

St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls will be showing the "Focus on the Family" film series on seven consecutive Tuesdays at 7 p.m., beginning this Tuesday.

A supervised nursery for preschool children will be available during the films and supervised outdoor recreation for those kindergarten age and older will also be available. Recreation will be indoors if there is inclement weather.

James Dobson, the films' originator, is a licensed psychologist and has been called the leading Christian family counselor in America today. Dates and titles of the films include June 9, "Preparing for Adolescence, Part 1"; June 16, "Preparing for Adolescence, Part 2"; June 23, "Christian Fathering"; June 30, "Shaping the Will Without Breaking the Spirit"; July 7, "The Strong Willed Child"; July 14, "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women, Part 1"; and July 21, "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women, Part 2".

Refreshments will be served for everyone about 8:30 p.m. and recreation will continue for all persons interested in staying.

Dear Readers,

Many persons prefer to relieve their family of the responsibility for their funeral arrangements. To do this, they prearrange their funeral service and set up a Funeral Trust Fund with a local bank or savings & loan, earning interest. We can explain the laws that control the prefinancing of funeral arrangements and a Funeral Trust Fund.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home
LARRY B. BELMONT

TIMES Around The Region

by Sharon LaCoursiere

Whoops!

Grafton, ND — The Grafton Record included several adult comic books in their supplement last Monday, intending to advertize the printing capabilities of Associated Printers, a division of Morgan Publishing, the publisher of the Record. They have received several complaints about the offensive language in one of the books and have printed an apology for the incident, explaining that the books weren't screened well enough before being sent out to the public. The name of the offensive comic books was "Gnatrat, The Dark Gnat Returns." John Morgan, Jr., president of Morgan Publishing, says the comic books will no longer be distributed in Walsh County. (Grafton Record)

RLF Carnival

Red Lake Falls — An old-fashioned carnival will be in Red Lake Falls Monday and Tuesday (today and tomorrow) at Tube the Red. RLF businessmen have advance tickets for the event. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Not Yet

Williams — The Williams city council turned thumbs down on a request for a pay raise from employees of the Williams Liquor Store, citing the dismal picture of the annual financial statement of the store. They finally decided to deny the request and look into it again in six months if the store is operating in the black by that time. (Williams Northern Light)

The Name Of The Game

Crookston — Members of a local walking club in Crookston have named themselves "The Happy Hoofers." (Crookston Times Region)

Young Contest Winner

Grygla — Eliza Skibicki, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Skibicki of Goodridge, won $100 in a contest in which she correctly guessed "Who is Mikey? (Grygla Eagle)

Forgery & Theft

Karlstad — A Kittson County district court jury returned a verdict of guilty against two women on charges of theft and forgery of a personal check. Goldie Ann Lampert of Bemidji was found guilty of altering a forged check and Glynda Gay Lampert of Bowesmont, ND, was found guilty of aggravated forgery by check. Judge Anderson ordered pre-sentence investigation into the matter and remanded custody to the Kittson county sheriff. Both will appear before Judge Anderson June 29 for sentencing.

Sentenced

Red Lake Falls — Clayton and Olaf Ard of Dent were sentenced recently in connection with theft of fox from the Jim Chaput farm in Lambert township. Clayton Ard, 22, was sentenced to 18 months in jail with a stay and five years' probation. He was ordered to pay a fine of $555 by October 1, 1987, and must perform 100 hours of community service. Olaf Ard, 28, was given a stay of imposition and sentenced to five years' probation. He must pay $335 in fines and perform 50 hours of community service. (RLF Gazette)

August Rodeo

Red Lake Falls — The Red Lake Falls city council has authorized the Economic Development and Planning Commission to proceed with plans for a rodeo to be held August 8 and 9 in Sportsmen's Park. A contract with the rodeo company was authorized in the amount of $6,500. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Clearbrook Summerfest

Clearbrook — The Clearbrook Summerfest celebration will be the weekend of June 26, 27, and 28. Some of the events are a flea market and craft sale Friday and Saturday; races on Saturday; and a men's slow pitch softball tournament Saturday and Sunday. (Leader-Record)

"The King And I"

Crookston — Crookston community theatre will present "The King and I" June 6 through 8 and 11 through 13 at Central high school auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and tickets are available at the door. (Crookston Daily Times)

Biking For The Good Of It

Kennedy — Young and not-so-young citizens of Kennedy turned out in force a week ago Friday to raise over $4,500 in a Bike-A-Thon for Mark Lundberg of Kennedy, who was injured in a diving accident in Bemidji May 3. Lundberg remains hospitalized with spinal injuries from the accident. (Kittson County Enterprise)

Only One Allowed

Red Lake Falls — A motion to amend the Red Lake Falls off-sale liquor ordinance to allow more than one license in town failed at a recent city council meeting because there was no second to the motion. Tom and Gail Hessing of Chateau Bottineau Liquors hold the only liquor license in the city at present. After the meeting, Hessing said issuance of more than one liquor license would eventually force the closing of his liquor store. He stated, "The goal (of the council) is to attract new business, not destroy existing ones." (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

'U' M Conference On Retirement Slated June 12

A conference on the implications of the 1986 federal law that removed mandatory retirement requirements for most professions will be June 12 in the Cowles auditorium of the Hubert H. Humphrey center at the University of Minnesota.

"Is Retirement Obsolete? Beyond the New Federal Law," will address issues such as demographic trends in employment, retirement and aging; social changes; the new law's effects on employment, termination and retirement decisions; and opportunities for individuals approaching the later years of their working lives.

Speakers will include Donna Anderson, executive director of the National Retiree Volunteer center, Minneapolis Mayor Donald Fraser, Curtis W. Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Children Are The Losers

"Responsible parents are concerned about the harm that comes to children of divorce as a result of being estranged from their fathers and experiencing economic deprivation," states Edward Nichols, national program director of Fathers Advocacy, Information and Referral (FAIR) Corp.

"The benefit of this research is that it shows how both these problems may be solved. The data demonstrats that the high cost of unsuccessful litigation, designed to enforce 'visitation rights', deprives children economically."

Not surprisingly, children in families where divorce has taken place generally wind up the losers in many ways. One of these is often in the financial area where the cost of maintaining separate households reduces the amount of money available for family needs in other areas. Many are the mothers with child custody who claim very little if any financial support from fathers who live elsewhere.

According to a national research project conducted for FAIR, in which the relationship between divorced fathers and their children was studied, "visitational interference" is a major factor contributing to defaults in child support payments.

In the project, divorced fathers in 48 states were studied over a three-year period. It was concluded that when fathers are allowed to "visit" with their children and maintain a relationship, the support default rate was six per cent. When visitation was frustrated by the mother, the default rate climed to 64 per cent. It was also found that court-ordered visitation was frustrated in 77 per cent of the cases studied.

Professional social workers reportedly collected the data from 2,228 fathers calling FAIR's toll-free hotline (1-800-722-3247). They subsequently conducted 482 interviews to elaborate their findings.

In the study it was determined that the average father, denied court ordered visitation, spent $4,300 on unsuccessful litigation. One-third of the fathers studied spent more per year on legal fees than their required child support. The study was conducted in cooperation with attorneys affiliated with FAIR's national program.

"It was concluded," Nichols said, "that revisions in the law and the way it is practiced, designed to enforce visitation rights, would result in a major impact on child support default rates."

It was also concluded that there is a need for legal reforms, including imposition of sanctions against parents engaging in visitational interference, the use of juries as an option for litigants in family law controversies, and amendment to federal child support legislation to provide for enforceable rights for visitation.

Lack of payment of child support can be a costly situation for the general public, for public assistance through welfare programs is needed in many cases to provide for the welfare of the children. Meaningful reforms which could improve the percentage of payment of court ordered support should be encouraged.

Separation Of Powers

Following historical review was written by William R. Hawkins, a policy analyst for the U.S. Business and Industrial Council, for the New Federalist Papers published by Public Research, Syndicated. The 200-year prospective makes for interesting reading:

The constitutional convention which met 200 years ago this month to establish a new form of government did so because the existing system had failed. The government under the Articles of Confederation was weak and disorganized. It had only one branch, the Congress, which over the period 1781-1787 had shown its incompetence. Thus the delegates gathered in Philadelphia were convinced that the new government must not be centered on Congress as was the old.

John Jay, who as Secretary for Foreign Affairs was particularly frustrated by the shortcomings of the Confederation, wrote to George Washington in January, 1787: "Would giving any further degree of authority to Congress do the business? I think not." Congress contained "so many wills, and those wills moved by such a variety of contradictory motives and inducements" that their actions were always "feebly done." Jay was convinced of the need for increased Federal authority, but it must be placed in new branches independent of the Congress. A separation of powers. The convention must "divide the sovereignty into its proper departments. Let Congress legislate — let others execute — let others judge."

The principle of separation of powers is usually discussed in terms of checks and balances, a framework that stresses an overlapping authority between branches and the ability of each to interfere with the actions of the others. However, in 1787 the framers were more interested in the freedom and power of the new executive and judiciary branches they felt were needed to provide effective government.

James Madison's well-known statement in Federalist Paper number 51 (a paper devoted to the separation of powers) reflects these priorities: "In framing a government which to be administered by men over men, the great difficulty lies in this: you must first enable the government to control the goverened and in the next place, oblige it control itself." The concept of checks and balances refers to the second objective; the independence of the President and the courts to the first.

Madison goes on the speak of the need to "guard against dangerous encroachments" by the Congress into the affairs of the other branches, particularly the Presidency. Congress is to be divided into two separate houses with different modes of election and be "as little connected" as possible in order to weaken it whereas the Executive "should be fortified."

The idea of a separation of powers was not new. Aristotle, Montesquieu, and Blackstone had all written about it, and their works were quite familiar to the framers; but the contribution of John Adams should not be overlooked. Adams was not at the Philadelphia convention, as he was ambassador to England, but he had written on the subject for twenty years. His 1776 tract Thoughts on Government argued that an all-powerful legislature would grow ambitious and avaricious. It was structurally unsuited to perform executive or judicial duties, thus these duties must be taken from it. The executive should have an absolute veto over the legislature and have exclusive control of appointments in the administration. How the executive was elected was secondary to the assurance that the executive could maintain his independence from the legislature.

Looking back at events in 1808, even with the Presidency in the hands of his political opponents, Adams maintained his views and urged the public to support their Presidents "in their independence, and turn a deaf ear to all false charges against them . . . But if you suffer them to be overawed and shackled in the exercise of their constitutional power . . . you will soon repent of it in bitter anguish.

Adams influenced several state constitutions and in 1779 wrote the Massachusetts constitution. He drew sharp lines between the legislative, executive and judicial branches, strengthening the last two at the expense of the first. Article XXX of the Declaration of Rights states Adam's views: "In the government of the Commonwealth, the legislative department shall never exercise the executive and judicial powers." Corresponding restrictions wefe imposed on the other branches.

Today, the principle of the separation of power is under attack. The encroachments and ambitions of Congress feared by Jay, Madison, Adams, and most of the other framers in clear view. Congres in its budgetary micromanagement of programs, its dictation of military strategy and its attempts to write and interpret treaties (particularly in arms control negotiations) is seeking executive power; while in its many investigations, inquisitional hearings, contempt citations, and special prosecutors it is seeking both judicial and executive powers. At every turn, Congress seeks to intimidate officials in other branches into accepting rather than confronting its bid to control all aspects of governemnt policy.

But history shows that a Congress-centered system cannot provide effective government. It can disrupt or paralyze, but it cannot lead. This was well known in 1787 and motivated a complete change in the structure of government. At what cost will this lesson be relearned today?

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Your local school board has the opportunity in June to make a decision on whether to participate in the School District Enrollment Options Program passed by the 1987 Legislature. This legislation has the potential of significantly expanding the course offerings and instructional methods available to all students by allowing them to choose the programs and school they will attend.

If your district plans to participate in this voluntary open enrollment program during 1987-88, notification must be given to the Commissioner of Education by July 1, 1987. If a district decides to allow students (and their parents) choice of the district in which the student will be enrolled this fall, the student must submit an application to that district by August 1, 1987. A response must be given to the student by August 10, 1987.

Districts which choose to participate in the program must agree to allow its resident pupils to enroll in other participating districts, accept nonresident pupils from other participating districts, and follow the procedure in the law.

Interested citizens, parents, and students should contact their local board of education for the date, time, and place of the meeting when the Voluntary Open Enrollment Program will be discussed.

Further information about the program can be obtained from the Minnesota Department of Education by contacting Ken Zastrow, Manager of School District Support Services, at 612-296-3384.

To The Editor:

During the week of May 25th, I had reason to stay in your fair city for two days. Not only is your area beautiful to the eye, but the people are wonderful.

I was one of three instructors teaching a fromulating public policy course for public officials for the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, Division of Emergency Services. The participants attending were among the best we've had.

We stayed at the Best Western Hotel — where accommodations couldn't have been better; lovely rooms, super food, service and staff were great!

On Thursday morning, departure day, I found my car would not budge from the hotel's parking lot. LeRoy Bugge from Bugge Oil was called and responded promptly. He tried for a time to get my car started, but decided it was best to take it to one of his stations and there Jerry Stenseth and he had it running in no time at all; at a very reasonable rate, I might add. They both treated me so kindly while at their place of business.

I enjoyed a delicious lunch that day at Lon's with a friend who teaches at Gonvick, and lives near Oklee. We talked into the afternoon. As you probably know, the restaurant closes in the afternoon, but no one asked us to leave. They just allowed us to sit and visit. I appreciated that warm consideration so much, as Kathy and I had not seen each other for quite some time.

Thief River Falls is a place I'll be ready to return to soon. Everyone was so genuinely friendly. My thanks for making my stay in your city a memorable one.

Sincerely,
Coleen Olson

To The Editor:

In regard to the notice in the Times about the drive-in closing, Mr. Hickerson blamed the sheriff's department for his loss of business. If he would have had a few shows suitable for families he might still be in business.

When you run a business you are responsible to see that your customers don't break the law. By allowing teens to drink and have keg parties he was breaking the law, and as the mother of three teens, I am glad he is closed. I would like to say thank you to the sheriff's department for doing a good job.

State Fair Show Schedule Includes Major Attractions

Twelve different shows featuring rock, country, pop, folk and gospel music as well as comedy are scheduled for the Minnesota State Fair Grandstand during the 1987 exposition, Aug. 27 through Labor Day, Sept. 7.

Night Ranger will open the schedule with an 8 p.m. concert Aug. 27. Willie Nelson and Family with George Jones and the Jones Boys will give 8 p.m. performances Aug. 28 and 29. The True Value Country Showdown talent contest, featuring Moe Bandy as host and guest performer, is set for 1 p.m. Aug. 29. Appearing at a 1 p.m. matinee Aug. 30 will be Peter, Paul and Mary. The Monkees, featuring Davy Jones, Micky Dolenz and Peter Tork, will appear along with special guest "Weird Al" Yankovic at 6 and 9 p.m. Aug. 30.

Monday Aug. 31 is Coke-Max Headroom Youth Day at the fair, when persons 17 and under will be admitted to the fairgrounds free of charge. A special Youth Day matinee featuring the Jets and Limited Warranty is set for 1 p.m. that day. Gloria Estefan and Miami Sound Machine will perform at 8 p.m. that evening. The Pointer Sisters will appear at 8 p.m. Sept. 1, and Red Skelton will be at the Grandstand for an 8 p.m. show Sept. 3

Alabama and Restless Heart open the last weekend of Grandstand concerts with 8 p.m. shows Sept. 4 and 5. Gospel star Sandi Patti will perform at a 1 p.m. matinee Sept. 6. At 8 p.m. that evening, the Oak Ridge Boys and Southern Pacific close out the Grandstand concert schedule.

All concerts will be projected onto two 20-by-30 foot Diamond Vision screens. The full-color high resolution screens are identical to those used at the Live Aid and Farm Aid concerts as well as major sporting events, and are equally effective in daylight and evening hours.

Aerial fireworks follow each day's final Grandstand show.

Alabama tickets are $11 for reserved seats and $6 for general admission. Tickets for Willie Nelson and the Pointer Sisters are $10 reserved and $6 general admission. Ticket prices for Night Ranger, the Monkees, Red Skelton, Sandi Patti and the Oak Ridge Boys are $9 reserved and $5 general admission. Tickets for Peter, Paul and Mary, the Jets and Miami Sound Machine are $8 reserved and $5 general admission, and admission to the True Value Country Showdown with Moe Bandy is $4 reserved and $2 general admission. There will be no refunds or exchanges.

Also on the Grandstand schedule are Grand National truck and tractor pulls, set for 1 and 7 p.m. Sept. 2 and 1 p.m. Sept. 3. Stock car racing featuring several NASCAR drivers and the American Speed Association regulars is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sept. 7.

Mail orders for tickets are now being accepted. Over-the-counter ticket sales start June 22 at the State Fair ticket offices on the fairgrounds. For complete information, call the State Fair box office at (612) 642-2262.

Work Starts This Week On Bridges On Highway 220

Work will begin during the week of June 8 on a bridge replacement project on two bridges on highway 220 over ditches located seven and nine miles north of highway 317.

According to Mn-DOT resident engineer Wes Gjovik in Thief River Falls, the bridges will be replaced with concrete box culverts and the project should be completed by mid-July.

Gjovik said that traffic will be detoured during construction on a route using highway 11 east to Donaldson, highway 75 south to county road 5 and county road 5 west to highway 220.

The contractor plans to begin work on the south bridge and will move on to the north bridge when the south bridge is open to traffic. Landwehr Heavy Moving, Inc. from Clearwater is the prime contractor on this project and the project cost is $284,367.

Huge Fireworks Show Scheduled For State Fair

A solid 30 minutes of aerial fireworks, preceded by early evening family stage shows, will be featured at the Minnesota state fair's Fourth of July fireworks get-together. The event is sponsored by Midwest Federal.

Starting at 10 p.m., over three tons of aerial fireworks will be launched from the grandstrand infield, capped one-half hour later with a grand finale.

Prior to the fireworks, free stage shows will be offered at several locations on the fairgrounds. At Baldwin park near the 4-H building, the Whitesidewalls will perform at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. The Rockin' Hollywoods will appear at the same times in the Bandshell. At the grandstand, the Minneapolis trombone choir will perform at 8 and 9 p.m.

A single admission ticket at the outside gate provides access to all fairgrounds activities, including first-come seating in the grandstrand. Admission is $2.50 for adults 13 and over and $1.50 for children. Advance sale discount tickets are available starting June 8 at all statewide Midwest Federal locations, priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children. Parking is free.

Gates open at 4 p.m. Food and beverages will be available at a variety of locations around the fairgrounds. All fairgrounds gates on Larpenteur and Como avenues will be open.

Food Courses At UMC Offered As Separate Events

"Cost Control" and "Sauces and Garnishment" will be offered as two separate courses through continuing education at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

"Cost Control" will touch upon purchasing, receiving, recipe standardization and food cost calculations. It will be held Monday, June 22, from 7 a.m. to 12 noon in Food Service 122. Registration deadline is June 17.

"Sauces and Garnishment" will include basic stocks, thickening agents, mother sauces, small sauces, recipe testing and sampling and basic garnishment techniques. It will be held Monday, June 29, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon in Food Service 122. Registration deadline is June 24.

Law On Motorized Bicycles Changed In Legislature

The 1987 Minnesota legislature approved several changes in the state's motorized bicycle law which have been signed into law by Governor Rudy Perpich. The effective date of the legislation is June 1.

Minnesota department of public safety, which has responsibility for enforcing motorized bicycle laws, said the new law will require that motorized bicycles be insured under Minnesota no-fault insurance regulations.

The law also requires that a motorized bicycle have a piston capacity of no more than 50 cubic centimeters and be driven no faster than 30 miles an hour on a flat surface.

Also provided in the law is requirement to develop approved safety courses for motorized bicycles. Operator's permits can be issued to any person who is at least 15 years of age and who has successfully completed an approved safety class.

Persons under the age of 16 operating motorized bicycles on a permit are subject to the restrictions relating to operation of a motorcycle under a two-wheel instruction permit. These include no driving at night, having a headlight on at all times and wearing a helmet. Passengers cannot be carried on a motorized bicycle.

The law also removed the requirement that motorized bicycles have fully operable pedals.

Matthew Bartsch Joins Air Force For Nov. Entry

Matthew D. Bartsch, son of Vivian Contos of Thief River Falls, entered the air force's delayed enlistment program (DEP) and is scheduled to enter active duty on November 23. On that date, Matt will fly to San Antonio, TX, where he will attend six weeks of basic military training at Lackland air force base.

A 1987 graduate of Lincoln high school, Airman Bartsch is scheduled for training in the airlift aircraft maintenance career field. He will be earning college credits for air force training which may be applied toward an associate in sciences degree from the community college of the air force.

Roseau Museum Receives Grant From Institute

Roseau county historical society museum has been awarded a 1987 general operating support grant of $5,000 from the Institute of Museum Services (IMS) in Washington, D.C. The grants assist museums with the costs of basic services and operations.

This year 1,296 museums applied for the one-year grants which are made on a competitive basis. The award is based on the strength and quality of the applicant museum as demonstrated by its responses to application questions. Competition for these funds is strong, and the 409 museums receiving awards have demonstrated the highest standards of services and operations.

The award must be used for the purposes identified by the museum in its grant application. Roseau county museum is using its 1987 GOS grant to pay the salary of one additional staff person to help continue with the care and preservation of the museum's collection.

Fundamentals Of Speech Course Offered At NCC

Northland community college will confront the most common American fear according to USA Today — public speaking — when NCC instructor Roger Vaughan teaches "Fundamentals of Speech" Wednesday evenings from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m., beginning June 10.

This course is designed to increase the students' skill in communicating their thoughts to an audience.

It includes the selection and evaluation of topics and source materials for public speaking and composition and organization of the speech. On Thursday evening, July 16, final speeches will be given at the Best Western inn with audience and menu to be determined by the class. The final speech atmosphere will more accurately reflect the environment in which future speaking engagements will occur.

The three-credit course meets Wednesday evenings for six weeks and may be transferred to other post secondary institutions upon approval. Call 681-2181 for additional information.

A Word From Northwestern Bell...

This column is another in a continuing series of news items of general interest to our customers.

In 1986 the Federal Communications Commission directed Northwestern Bell and other telephone companies throughout the country to shift installation and maintenance responsibility of inside telephone wiring to individual residence and one and two line business customers.

That order was effective January 1, 1987.

This means you or your property owner now have the responsibility and the freedom to choose who will install and maintain the telephone wiring inside your home or business.

This is a whole new experience for most customers.

The maintenance of your inside wiring is no longer included as part of your Northwestern Bell service.

It's no different than the responsibility you already have for taking care of your electric, water and gas services inside your home or business.

Generally speaking, telephone wiring properly installed will give years of dependable service.

But, sometimes something goes wrong.

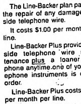
A pet or rodent might chew on it. Sometimes it's excessive moisture.

A misplaced nail or staple, a dripping water pipe or other unforeseen events might cause a problem.

Our repair people tell us that occasionally folks who shampoo carpets inadvertently fill the telephone jack with foam, thereby rendering it useless.

Since you now have the responsibility, a few words of advice may help you decide how to maintain your telephone wiring.

Your options include:
- maintaining your inside wire yourself.
- hiring a contractor.
- contacting Northwestern Bell if you have trouble with your inside wire.



TIM GOULD
Area Manager

Northwestern Bell will be glad to repair it for you.

The only difference now is that we will charge for the time and the materials it takes to restore the wiring to its proper working order.

Northwestern Bell also provides two low cost, convenient maintenance plans.

These plans are called Line-Backer* and Line-Backer Plus*.

The Line-Backer plan pays for the repair of any damaged inside telephone wire.

It costs $1.00 per month per line.

Line-Backer Plus provides inside telephone wire maintenance plus a loaner telephone anytime one of your telephone instruments is out of order.

Line-Backer Plus costs $2.00 per month per line.

Northwestern Bell does not repair the telephone instrument, but the quality loaner is available to you while you get your phone repaired or shop for a new one.

Because these services are relatively new, Northwestern Bell will waive the signup charge, $12.25 for residence and $16.00 for business.

To take advantage of this special offer, you must call the following number to place your order by June 30, 1987.

A HIGH THROW from catcher Tom Knoff pulled Thief River Falls second baseman Chris Bjorgaard off the bag as Norman County West runner Brett Storsved came up with a first inning stolen base during Thursday's American Legion baseball game played in Thief River Falls. Shortstop Kory Joppru backed up Bjorgaard on the play. Thief River Falls Post 117 opened its 1987 season with a 16-2 win.

TRF Opens Legion Season With 16-2 Win

Thief River Falls' American Legion baseball season started Thursday in much the same fashion as the recently-completed 1987 Thief River Falls high school season as Post 117 whipped over-matched Norman County West 16-2 on the fairgrounds diamond here. The Prowlers started their spring schedule with a similar 17-1 victory over an Ada team that had some of the same Norman County West American Legion players on its roster.

The Prowlers wound up 9-6 under Tracey Wensloff, who succeeded Mark Lundin as head coach. Lundin, who served as a teacher-coach at Warren during the 1986-87 school year, is back for his second season as Thief River Falls American Legion coach. His team finished 13-20 last summer, but he's expecting better this time around. "We're probably stronger than we were last year," he said.

Post 117 will be at home again Tuesday agasint Warroad, a split doubleheader that will include a 6 p.m. game for the Legion regulars and an 8 p.m. game for the Legion B team Bombers.

Thief River Falls' big opening night offensive show featured a 15-hit attack that quickly erased an early 1-0 deficit. Corey Olson, a junior on the Marshall County Central-Middle River cooperative high school baseball team this spring, led the assault with a 3-for-4 plate performance. Tom Knofff, Dean DuChamp and Chris Bjorgaard had two hits apiece.

DuChamp and Jared Erickson, meanwhile, limited the visitors to just two hits in the shortened 10-run-rule 4½-inning game. DuChamp pitched four innings of hitless ball for the win, striking out seven and walking five.

Norman County West took advantage of those walks for a 1-0 headstart. Brett Storsved, the multitalented athlete from Norman County West High School, drew a game-opening walk, stole second and moved to third on a balk called against DuChamp. Jeremy Melting drew a one-out walk and when he stole second, Storsved scored as the ball got away from Bjorgaard covering the bag.

But it was all Thief River Falls the rest of the way, starting with a four-hit, four-run first inning. Although the first three Thief River Falls batters gave Post 117 a bases-loaded, no-out opportunity, the runs didn't start scoring until the first two were cut down at the plate on infield force-outs. A single by Olson produced two runs — the second one coming off an error on the play — and a single that Bjorgaard bounced up the middle netted him two RBI.

Knoff had a one-out double to left in the second inning, stole third and scored on a bad-hop single past first base by Kory Joppru for a 5-1 edge.

It was another four-hit, four-run third that secured the victory. Knoff plated two of the runs with a bases-loaded double. DuChamp collected an RBI on an infield single, and a fourth run scored on an error.

A seven-run fourth inning made it a rout as Thief River Falls sent 12 batters to the plate, picking up five hits to go along with two walks and a hit-batsmen. Casey Johnson, another Marshall County Central-Middle River product, had a three-run double to deep left field in his second at-bat of the inning, and pinch-hitting Hunter Boldt had a two-run single during the outburst. Jason Lane added an RBI on a fielder's choice play, later scoring himself on a delayed-type double steal.

Storsved scored again in the fifth inning after picking up his team's first hit of the night, a one-out double into the left-center field gap. He stole third and scored on a two-out double by Melting.

Cornell 21st At State Meet

Kelly Cornell, a Thief River Falls junior and the Prowlers' only state meet participant this spring, shot rounds of 94-101 for a 195 and a 21st place finish in a field of 40 at the 1987 Minnesota State High School League Class AA girls state golf meet on the Majestic Oaks Golf Course in Ham Lake.

Cornell was in a tie for the No. 12 spot after Wednesday's first round of 18 holes with a 45-49, but slipped to a 50-51 Thursday.

"If she'd had a little better luck putting she would have been up there," reported Thief River Falls coach Al Buhl. "From what I watched, she hit the ball as well as anybody except maybe the top one or two. But she just had a tough time putting. Her short game is not her strong suit, anyway, and there greens are a lot bigger and faster than ours. But she still played very well. To be 21st in the state is not all that bad."

state is not all that bad."

It was Cornell's second straight state golf meet appearance. She improved 12 places and 12 strokes from her 1986 sophomore effort when she was 33rd with a 207. Buhl is hoping for a similar improvement in 1988.

Conditions played a part in the rising state meet scores, explained Buhl. It was cold and windy on Wednesday. It was still windy Thursday, but it was hot, and the girls tired.

Cornell turned in the top score among the five Region 8AA state meet qualifiers. Next in line was Gretchen Smith of Brainerd with a 96-103, 199; followed by Julie Jamison of Moorhead, 102-102, 204; Sherry Senden of Alexandria, 107-102, 209; and Shannon Monahan of Alexandria, 108-105, 213.

Defending champion Stillwater held off Hutchinson for the team title 753-756, followed by Hastings at 769, Edina 772, Albert Lea 788, Region 8AA champion Alexandria 822, Princeton 808, and Park Center 885.

Individually, Kelli Ross of Burnsville was medalist with a 78-78, 156. Defending champion Krista Reuterfeld of Coon Rapids (84-85) and Kris Leighton of Austin (80-89) shared second place at 169.

Edina won the Class AA boys tournament at the same time and at the same site with a 637, followed by Sibley at 640, Hill-Murray 642, Mankato West 643, Region 8AA winner Bemidji 660, Minneapolis Roosevelt 661, Grand Rapids 665, and Winona 667.

Terry O'Loughlin of Hill-Murray was medalist with a 72-78, 150. Runner-up was Jeff Jones of Sibley with a 79-73, 152. Third place finisher was Mike Toth of Elk River with a 77-76, 153, followed by the top Region 8AA finisher — fourth place Russ Simenson of Bemidji with a 78-76, 154.

Class A tournaments were played Monday and Tuesday at the St. Cloud Country Club.

Long Prairie girls were winners with a 754. Region 8AA champion Roseau was second at 766, followed by Cottonwood 785, Paynesville 790, Farmington 799, Plainview 799, Pipestone 837, and Nashwauk-Keewatin 853.

Liza LaBelle of Breck was the individual winner with a 78-81, 159. Runner-up was Allison Macius of Sanborn-Lamberton with an 83-79, 162. Top Region 8A finisher was fourth place Sara Huglen of Roseau with an 87-85, 172.

Sauk Centre boys were also Class A winners with a 632, followed by Lake City 642, Region 8A winner Park Rapids 653, Farmington 663, Dassel-Cokato 670, Aurora-Hoyt Lakes 672, Ortonville 690, and Blue Earth 714.

Mark Mayer of Sauk Centre was the individual winner with a 72-71, 143. Runner-up honors were shared by Jay Nelson of Waseca and Greg Tuttle of Montgomery-Lonsdale, both with a 79-76, 155. Top Region 8A finishers were John Dailey of Park Rapids (75-89), Scott Eggers of East Grand Forks (87-77) and Rob Nord of Fosston (81-81), who all tied for 18th place at 164.

Boys and girls in grades 5-12 from throughout northwestern Minnesota are invited to participate in the camp to be held in the Lincoln High School gym.

Girls will meet from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. Boys in grades 5-8 will meet from 12:15 to 3 p.m., while boys in grades 9-12 will meet from 3 to 5:45 p.m.

Registrations will be accepted the first day of the camp.

TRF Girls Earn Letters

Athletic letters were presented to 15 members of the 1987 Thief River Falls girls high school golf team this spring, according to school officials.

Letter winners included seniors Gayle Borchert, Mindy Hornseth, Cari Offerdahl, Monica Saez, and Karen Schmitz; juniors Rebecca Bortnem, Kelly Cornell, Stacey Cummings, Diann Egge, Marie Gonsorowski, Nancy Jorde, Jill Olson, Heidi Tofte, and Karin Tyler; plus freshman Rochelle Hagenah.

"I thought we had an excellent year," said Thief River Falls coach Al Buhl, whose first year on the job in 1986 was a measles-forced shortened campaign.

"In a sense, we were a year behind because of last year," explained Buhl. "That really hurt our juniors. But they came back and did a nice job this year. It was a great bunch of kids. From a coaching standpoint, you couldn't ask for a better group of kids to work with."

Thief River Falls girls didn't win any invitational meets this spring, but they were a top-three finisher on a number of occasions, and Buhl figures with most of his varsity regulars returning, a top-three Region 8AA finish could be a legitimate goal for the 1988 Prowlers.

Mike Lundgren Sports Editor

Second-year Thief River Falls American Legion baseball coach Mark Lundin figures his Post 117 team will be improved over young 1986 squad that went 13-20 — Thief River Falls' lowest victory total since 1979.

Most of last year's squad is back. Key additions include Tom Knoff, Chris Bjorgaard, and Mike Anderson. Knoff, who plays high school baseball in Thief River Falls, but has played American Legion baseball in Grand Forks, will stay in Thief River Falls this summer. He led the Prowlers this spring with a .476 batting average. Bjorgaard, the all-round high school athlete, is out for American Legion baseball this summer after passing up the program last year. Anderson was a top baseball prospect in the Thief River Falls program before moving to Arizona this year. He played part of the 1986 season with Post 117 before being sidelined because of illness. He is expected to be back in town later this month.

Another player who should help the Thief River Falls attack this summer is Bill Dicken, who started at third base in Thursday's season opener after passing up his junior year of high school baseball.

Thief River Falls has the potential to challenge for Ninth District honors this summer. A new post-season playoff format will be implemented this year when the six Class AA teams (Thief River Falls, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, and the Moorhead Blues) will be joined by the top two finishers in the Class A playoff field to form the eight-team, double-elimination Ninth District tournament at East Grand Forks.

The Ninth District went to Class AA-A set-up in 1983, with the winners of the two tournaments meeting in a best-of-three playoff series for the Ninth District state tournament berth. This time the Class AA teams will delay their playoff plans for a week while the Class A teams square off in the eliminations to name the two finalists who will join the Class AA teams.

+ Brian Stark, the Prowlers' 6-5 senior center during the 1986-87 high school basketball season, has signed a letter of intent to play basketball next year at North Dakota State College of Science in Wahpeton, it was announced by Wildcats head coach Rick McCormick.

+ Rocori High School of Cold Spring is the smallest member enrollment-wise of Region 8AA, but the Spartans more than hold their own athletically with strong basketball, baseball, golf, and track programs. The Rocori girls, for example, won the 1987 Minnesota Class AA state track title over the weekend. In Region 8AA, Brainerd features the highest enrollment figure in grades 10-12, according to the Minnesota State High School League, with 1,371 students during the 1986-87 school year. The rest of the Region 8AA membership included St. Cloud Tech with 1,213, Little Falls 1,093, Bemidji 1,071, St. Cloud Apollo 1,039, Alexandria 982, Moorhead 942, Fergus Falls 782, Thief River Falls 660, Detroit Lakes 644, Sauk Rapids 525, and Rocori 521. Former Region 8AA members Crookston and East Grand Forks, have enrollment figures of 472 and 432, respetively, and belong to Region 8A.

Women's Slow Pitch

Second set of doubleheader wins by VFW and the Ridge Runners Wednesday put both teams at 4-0 in the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League Division II standings.

VFW came up with a pair of one-run wins, beating the Musherettes 3-2 on a game-winning RBI single by Sue Dupree in the top of the seventh, then out-scoring Northwest Medical Center 12-11 in the nightcap. Linda Rux tripled for the winners; Jody Pahlen had two triples for the losers.

Ridge Runners had an easier time of it. They defeated Northwest Medical Center 12-5 as Tracey Nelson went 3-for-4 while Brenda Olson and Shannon Schafer had triples. A number of Ridge Runners had 3-for-4 performances in a 16-3 win over American Legion-Sather Law Office, while Kerry Nelson homered and Barb Hanson tripled.

Connie Dugstad was 4-for-4 to lead Roseau Transport past KKAQ-Rusty Nail 10-8, while American Legion-Sather Law Office handled Wilson Brothers 10-3 and Wilson Brothers topped Roseau Transport 9-3.

Musherettes banged out 25 hits in a 16-14 win over KKAQ-Rusty Nail. Sue Olson and Kristi Lee were both 5-for-5 for the winners. Olson hit two triples and her third home run of the year, scored five times and drove in four runs. Lee had a double and two RBI among her totals. Wendy Carriere was 3-for-4 with a pair of RBI, while Julie Halvorson contributed three RBI. Jan Milliard drove four runs for the losers.

Toni is a fifth grader at Mark Twain. Other Mark Twain students who were presented with achievement awards for accomplishments in the nationally-sponsored program included, front row left to right, Mike Klimek, Chris Johnson, Randy Woodward, Ben Engelstad, Derek Dahlstrom, Steven Heinze, and Jeremy Hulteen; back row left to right, Becca Parnham, Melanie Krepp, Jane Bentson, Jamie Martell, Nicolle Armstrong, Stefanie Swanson, Lisa Ulrich, Kristen Lane, Karl Kirkeby, Elissa Hall, Lisa Rendulich, and Kelly Skeim. The tests were conducted earlier this year at the other two Thief River Falls elementary schools — Northrop and Washington — by instructor Howard Thorson. Those award winners were already announced.

Bemidji, Roseau Enter Tournament

First of three days of state tournament games will begin Tuesday with quarterfinal games being held in St. Cloud (Class A) and St. Paul (Class AA) when the 41st annual Minnesota State High School League-sponsored state baseball tournament gets underway, reports Larry Larson of the MSHSL.

Class A quarterfinal games will begin at St. Cloud's Municipal Stadium at 11 a.m. on Tuesday and continue with play ending at approximately 9:30 p.m. that night. The four quarterfinal contests in Class AA are set for Municipal Stadium in St. Paul with the exact same timetable as Class A with scheduled starts at 11 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 5 p.m., and 7:30 p.m.

Defending champion Greenway of Coleraine, top ranked all-season long, and Windom are repeat entries in Class A this season, while in Class AA a new champion is certain as Cretin of St. Paul has been eliminated. The lone returner from last year's field is Bemidji, the 1986 state runner-up who is the state's lone undefeated team and top ranked in its division.

Class A

Tuesday quarterfinals — (Upper Bracket) Region 7A Greenway (19-3) vs. Region 6A Long Prairie (18-3), 11 a.m.; Region 3A Cottonwood (11-2) vs. Region 2A Windom (17-5), 1:30 p.m.; (Lower Bracket) Region 4A Norwood-Young America (16-4) vs. Region 1A Waseca (20-3), 5 p.m.; Region 8A Roseau (16-5) vs. Region 5A St. Cloud Cathedral (17-4), 7:30 p.m.

Semifinals will be played Saturday, June 13, at the Metrodome in Minneapolis. Upper Bracket quarterfinal winners meet at 12-noon, and the Lower Bracket winners play at 2:30 p.m.

Championship session that night will include the third place game at 6 p.m. and the title game at 8:30 p.m.

Roseau beat Crookston 4-1 Wednesday in the Region 8A finals.

Catcher Tom Knoff made the throw. Thief River Falls won the game 16-2.

Region 8AA Teams Win State Track Meet Championships

Region 8AA teams won both the boys and girls titles Saturday at the 1987 Class AA state high school track and field meet at Osseo.

Moorhead boys triumphed with 38 points. Roseville was runner-up with 34 and Mounds View was third with 33, while Bemidji shared fourth place with Richfield with 24 points.

The Spuds took the team title despite just one first place finish — by Jamie Hagness with a 46-9½ triple jump.

Only other first place finish for a Region 8AA entry was in the discus where Bemidji's Roy Spino and Kevin Falldorf went 1-2 with tosses of 166-7 and 162-8, respectively.

Rocori won the Class AA girls state title with 48 points, followed in the top five by Rosemount with 42, Forest Lake 34, Windom 36, and Bemidji 24.

The Rocori girls of Cold Spring had four first place finishes as Tracee Wolf took the high jump with a 5-8 effort, Sue Faus claimed the 400 in 57.28, the 4 x 800 relay team ran a 9:24.37 and the 4 x 400 relay team clocked a 3:58.37.

Brainerd's Trend Fields won the 100 hurdles in 14.95 and Bemidji won the 4 x 200 relay in 1:44.79.

Roseau girls, led by Liesa Brateng, fared well in Class A competition. Windom won the team title with 30 points, followed by Plainview with 38, Roseau and Norwood-Young America 26. Brateng won the 300 hurdles in 42.68. She set a state record and ran the third fastest time in the nation this year in the Friday prelims in 42.63. She also finished second in the 100 in 12.28 and second in the 200 in 24.78. Heather Van Norman of Windom won both of those races, plus the 400, for the third straight year in leading her team to the title.

Brateng was the only Region 8A individual winner for either the boys or girls.

Elgin-Milleville won the Class A boys title with 48 points. De La Salle was second with 36. Top Region 8A finishers were Park Rapids and Ada-Borup, well back in the pack with eight points apiece.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

STUART McLEOD AWARD at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday was won by Dea Billberg, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Billberg of Roseau. Dea had the champion individual dairy herd of the show, reserve champion grade animal, champion senior yearling, reserve champion calf and placed fifth in showmanship to win the points championship at the annual event. She also showed a two-year-old and an aged cow to blue ribbon placing. Dea is shown receiving her award plaque from Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way. Considered one of the top awards at the annual dairy day, the Stuart McLeod award is named in honor of the founders of the event who served as president of the sponsoring organization over 25 years. He died on Dairy Day 10 years ago. This year's winner is the daughter of the former Arlene Ubel, Northwest Dairy Princess in 1967.

DAIRY DEMONSTRATIONS were held in three age groups at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday with the demonstrators above claiming the championship ribbons. Casey Schlauderaff of Becker county won the beginner division, Tammy Olson of Becker county won the junior division and Debbie Malone of Wadena county won the advanced division. Respective reserve champions were Ramond Johnson of Becker county, David Horsager of Wadena county and Lauren Horsager of Wadena county. Demonstrations were presented in the home economics department at Lincoln high school.

Transitional Care Home Receives City Approval

Transitional care facility for chemically dependent adult males called Trident, was given conditional approval by the Thief River Falls city council Monday night.

The resignation of one employee and retirement of another city employee sparked lively discussion in the city council chambers as to whether the city should begin to cut back on personnel. Nevertheless, replacements for the two employees were approved.

The city council Monday night also approved an application for the energy efficiency project, which grants power to an energy council to manage $45,000 for various energy efficiency projects.

Thief River Falls city council approved a planning commission recommendation, which would permit the continuance of a nonconforming use. Jon Furuseth has worked on getting approval since January for a transitional care facility which he proposes to operate at the former Kees Rest Home, 621 North LaBree. Furuseth has received a state license which would permit 15 residents to occupy the residence, but the city council only granted him permission to house 10 clients.

The planning commission and the city council agreed to allow the facility to operate only under the following stipulations:

1) The facility be licensed and approval given to operate with no more than 10 clients, since a number in excess of 10 would represent an intensification of a non-conforming use;

2) That no meetings be held on the premises for the benefit of persons who are not clients; and,

3) That four off-street parking spaces be provided on the site.

A straw vote of neighbors in the area on the proposal at a June 1 meeting indicated that 12 approved of the recommendation and no votes were cast against it. Monday night Councilman Milan Borhseim, alderman for the area in which the facility would be located, said he had not received any feedback since the meeting.

The planning commission made the recommendation and the council accepted the recommendation because in their opinion no physical or structural changes into areas previously unoccupied would occur which would constitute an intensification of use was going to take place. Historically the council has also permitted non-conforming uses to be continued by new owners, as as the use was not intensified. The council agreed with the planning commission that discontinuance of the non-conforming use because of a lapse of six months was not an issue.

Furuseth was not entirely pleased

Foster Homes In Area Are Needed To Meet Demand

There is a growing need for good, caring foster homes for children, adolescents and adults in this area, according to Sue Miller and June Shafland at the Pennington county social services office.

"Foster and respite homes are a viable, essential option in the continuum of care being offered," Miller said. "Our office is currently working to recruit and certify families and individuals willing to open their homes to those in need.

If they can provide supervision and assistance with daily living skills and can work with a county social worker," she added, "then these giving, concerned people may be able to become foster or respite care providers."

Miller and Shafland said there is a special need for persons who are able to be at home on a full-time basis to provide care for pre-school children during the school year or school age and pre-school children during the summer vacation. Also needed are homes for adolescents who must often be placed on an emergency basis and frequently for relatively short periods of time.

An informational meeting for those interested in providing foster care will be conducted Tuesday, June 23, at 7 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

"If you can provide a private room, nutritious meals, have laundry services available and are willing to include a child, adult or adolescent as a member of your family, think about becoming a foster or respite care provider," Miller said. "Payment is made for care and supervision given."

Cancer Society Notes Success Of 1987 Crusade

Officers of the Pennington county unit of the American Cancer society have expressed appreciation to all who participated in the recent city-crusade in Thief River Falls.

With more than 30 service groups participating, 2,500 homes were contacted and given information on breast cancer, $5,500 was raised in one evening of contacts and more than 200 volunteers participated. In the rural crusade $4,400 were raised and Daffodil Days produced $2,700 in funding.

Donations will be used in education and research toward finding cures for cancer. Of a $10 donation, $3.10 goes to research, $2.70 to education, $2 to services, 80 cents to management and $1.40 to fund raising.

COMPARISON of freshly clipped heads prior to the Northwest Dairy Day show in Thief River Falls is made by Kathleen Merkins, Northwest Dairy Princess. Nick Schon, 11, of Detroit Lakes and his Holstein calf had about the same length of head hair for the dairy show competition.

A BIG DAY FOR A SMALL SHOWMAN was noted by Darren Carlson of Angus at the Northwest Dairy Day dairy show Tuesday. The 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mylo Carlson who was showing at his third dairy day, Darren won the overall show championship, purebred championship, best uddered cow, Holstein bred championship and reserve champion junior showmanship ribbon. The purebred show championship entitles him to a trip to the World Dairy Expo at Madison, WI, as a guest of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association.

Carlson and Rue Star At Northwest Dairy Day

Ten-year-old Darren Carlson carried off most of the top dairy show honors and 21-year-old Kim Rue of Fosston won the regional princess title when the 38th annual edition of Northwest Dairy Day was carried out under nearly perfect June skies Tuesday in Thief River Falls.

Darren, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mylo Carlson of Angus and a third year showman at Northwest Dairy Day, showed the grand champion animal of the show, a two-year-old purebred Holstein. His cow was also judged to be the best uddered cow of the show, and Darren was reserve champion junior showman.

Enroute to the show championship, Darren and his cow won the Holstein Class V championship, Holstein purebred championship, Holstein breed championship and overall purebred championship of the show. For the latter title he earns the right to attend the World Dairy Expo in Madison, WI.

Kim Rue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Rue of Fosston, won the Northwest Dairy Princess title over 17 other contestants from nine counties and was crowned at a dairy princess banquet program Tuesday evening at the Best Western inn.

A 1984 graduate of Fosston high school who will be a senior at Concordia college in Moorhead next fall, Kim comes from a dairy farm where her parents milk 96 head of grade Hoslteins in partnership with her uncle, Marland Rue. She is five feet, five inches tall, has brown hair and brown eyes. She was a 4-H club dairy showman and dairy project exhibitor for nine years and was a Polk county dairy princess three years ago. She has a brother Marc, 20 and another brother, Randy, 12.

First runner-up on the princess contest was Rebecca Hendrickson, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hendrickson of Menahga. A 1986 graduate of Menahga high school, she will be a sophomore at Bemidji state university's four-year nursing program. The five feet, seven inch green-eyed blonde is second oldest in a family which includes three sisters and seven brothers. The family milks 54 head of grade Holsteins.

Second runner-up was Charlotte Malone, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Malone of Sebeka and a 1987

MCCI Provides TRF Businessmen With Legislative Update

Nancy Christensen, director of labor and management relations for the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), didn't have much good news for businessmen in Thief River Falls.

Christensen said that past legislative session was an enormous disappointment to businessmen. Christensen told businessmen gathered at a meeting at the chamber of commerce offices in Thief River Falls Wednesday morning that they should continue to write their legislative representatives and not give up.

In her opinion, businessmen ought to tell their legislators not to come down eighth street until they stop legislation which threatens business in Minnesota.

Don't be fooled by legislators who say it could have been worse, Christensen said. It shouldn't have happened in the first place.

Christensen and Greg DeWitt, senior vice president of MCCI gave a one-hour legislative update to a packed room of area businessmen Wednesday morning at the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce.

May Valley Home Activities

New residents welcomed at Valley Home in May were Melford Anderson, Melvin Sorter, Martha Froome and Sadie Carlson. Highlight of events during the month was a mother-daughter tea with over 100 attending. Activities director Verna Rood served as mistress of ceremonies, with Peter and Madalyn Novellino presenting a musical program. Flower arrangements were given as prizes to ladies with the most children, most grandchildren, and those travelling the furthest distance to attend. Luncheon served was strawberry dessert and coffee following punch and nut cups.

Residents were treated this month to cakes and floral arrangements from Northland community college graduates. Mrs. Ada Smerek's adult piano students presented a program; the Happy Seniors band entertained; Ruth circle from Trinity Lutheran church presented a program and served sweet breads; St. Bernard's Catholic Daughters served angel food cake.

Other treats and events enjoyed included a potato dumpling dinner served by Carolyn Jablinske and other kitchen cooks to celebrate Syttende Mai, strawberry pie served to shop and craft workers, and a dinner at the Heritage center May 21 honoring senior citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blom's daughter visited and brought date-filled cookies as a treat, Rainbow circle of Zion Lutheran church served angel food cake one day, and everyone received May baskets of candy and nuts on May Day.

Entertainment during the month was provided by Cathy Erickson of Middle River, the Silvertones from Zion Lutheran church, and Ruth Sackett and her second grade students from Goodridge school presenting a program and bringing sunflowers to display.

Birthdays celebrated with a special party this month were Martha Froome, May 6; Ed Brezney and Ray McGregor, both May 8; Emma Hetland, May 10; Borgot Funnesdahl and Gladys Henrikson, both May 14, Ruth Swanson, May 23; and Orville Grimm, May 28. Rev. Ortmann showed a gospel film for the occasion and honored guests received cards and gifts. As birthday treats, Mrs. Froome served a variety of breads, Ed Brezney served ice cream, Emma Hetland served cake and ice cream, Gladys Henrikson served ice cream and cookies, Orville Grimm served apple turnovers and strawberry ice cream, and Ruth Swanson served dixie cups and cake.

Church services were presented by Rev. Ollie Urdahl and Leon and music by Mark Kelly and daughters; Melvin Swenson and Art Grimstad of Our Saviour's Lutheran church and Larry Myhrer; Rev. Berton Hushagen of Abundant Life church; Rev. Dick Ewing of Oakridge and Zion Lutheran church in Viking; Rev. Sheldon Lorenson of the Evangelical Free church; Rev. Melvyn Budke of United Methodist church; and Rev. Dale Van Duesen of Viking Covenant church.

Services were also provided by Revs. Stan Bourassa and Dave Super of St. Bernard's Catholic church; Jennings Jensen, Rev. Sheldon Lorenson of Evangelical Free church, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Brodin and family, Harvey Dyrud, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Trochmann, Norris Trochmann and Lois Brown, Dean Paskewitz and Don Johnson of Faith Lutheran Brethren church, and Judith Wold and Art Grimstad.

Monthly bowling tournament with Oakland Park was held there with Oakland bowlers taking home the trophy. Other activities were art classes led by Betty Rantanen, singalongs with Carol Waswick, morning exercises by Mary Welch, rummage sales, resident council meetings, shopping expeditions, movies, popcorn treats, games led by Earl Yonke and Mary Welch, bean bag toss and ball dart games, visits by a beautician, choir and band practice.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Installation Of New Officers

Sharon Odegaard, president, presided at the regular meeting of Ecklund-Holmstrom unit 117 of the American Legion auxiliary June 2. Installation of officers was held for the 1987-88 year, with Avis Odegaard as installing officer.

Acting Sergeant-At-Arms Audrey Hermenson presented candidates to be installed: Sharon Odegaard, president; Milly Dallmann, first vice president; Gloria Lee, second vice president; Rhoda Joppru, treasurer; Constance Driscoll, chaplain; Ann Joppru, secretary; LaVonne Haraldson, historian; Octavia Jorgenson and Collen Holen, Sergeants-at-Arms; and Karen Fredrickson and JoAnn Reeve, executive board members. Annabelle Cuppett presented the closing prayer.

Donna Poole, membership chairman, reported 589 members. Constance Driscoll, children and youth chairman, reported she had presented more books, "Children Be Ware," to the schools. Avis Odegaard, rehab. chairman, reported on the visit to the Fargo VA hospital. Members were asked by Clarice Gallaher, legislative chairman, to keep up on veterans' affairs and write their congressmen.

A report was given on Fun and Game Day at Oakland Park by community service chairman, JoAnn Reeve; Eileen Horejsh thanked everyone who helped with Poppy Day and reported a successful event; and president Sharon Odegaard thanked those who helped with the Memorial Day service and dinner.

Delegates and alternates were chosen for the district convention in Barnesville June 19 and 20 and to the department convention in Duluth in July.

It was reported that girls' staters, along with 1986-87 Girls' State Governor Gayle Borchert and Annabelle Cuppett, counselor, left for St. Catherine college in St. Paul June 7. The auxiliary voted to give the delegates spending money for the week.

Scholarship march was held and luncheon served by Peg Peterson and Marilyn Winters. Next meeting will be in September.

Mothers' Day Program For Happy Seniors

Happy Seniors met May 8 at the Thief River Falls Heritage Center. President Lucille Johnson presided at the meeting, opening with singing of "God Bless America," followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Business reports were given with suggestion of a rummage sale to raise money. Trips were discussed.

A Mothers' Day program was the highlight of the meeting, with Jean Nelson in charge. The group joined in singing "Springtime," "The Birds Return" and "Daisy Bell." Frank Armstrong gave a Mothers' Day reading: "Mother's Job" was presented by Ethel Hyattt; Jean Nelson presented "The Book From My Heart," Harry Oen presented "Mothers' Day" and Arne Samuelson closed with "My Mother's Bible."

Council Okays Transitional Care Facility

with the restrictions. Furuseth contended that while the average number of residents in Kees rest home may have been between 8 and 10, Kees rest home was licensed for 15 and at one time had 16 in it.

Co-City Attorney Paul Ihle said the planning commission defined "intensification of use" by determining what the actual average number of residents in the house were.

Don Stewart, community development director, said Mayor Bob Carlson testified that there was room for only 8 or 9 beds in the facility. A historical survey of the rest home, Stewart said, also indicated the average number of residents was between 8 and 10 persons. Anything above that, would be an intensification of use, according to research results.

Furuseth said he would not be intisifying the use by putting 15 in the house. In fact he said, it is not likely that the facility will average 15, despite the fact that Kees was licensed for 15 and he is licensed for 15. The number of applicants in the winter would probably be much higher than summer, he said, putting the average around 10.

The decision by the council to accept the recommendation of the planning commission was made unanimously.

The recent resignation and request for replacement of a police officer in Thief River Falls, was described as a poor time to make that request, in view of current contract negotiations. Alderman Milan Borsheim and Don Liden both said a replacement for Pertler would jeopardize current contract negotiations between the city police force and labor committee, which both alderman are members of. The current contract dispute between the city and law enforcement personnel, has dissolved into arbitration hearings.

On June 4, the city council public safety committee met to discuss the replacement for Brett Pertler and after considerable discussion, the committee voted unanimously to recommend the hiring of Jeff Sebenaler to replace Pertler. Sebenaler has been a part-time officer for the past three years, working an average of 100 hours per month. He also has the educational background to qualify him for the job.

Chief Froschheiser said he understood the difficult position the council was in, but that the city needed another patrolman. Froschheiser read from a report from the public safety committee which shows a marked increase in activity by the police.

A comparison of department records from January 1 to June 1, 1986, and January 1 to June 1, 1987, show there were 4,113 calls for service in 1986 and for the same period in 1987 there were 4,426 calls for service, an increase of 313 calls or 7.5 per cent.

According to the report, the increase in calls were related to theft, juvenile violations, vulnerable adult investigations, child physical and sexual abuse, court hearings, forgery, minors drinking, assaults, distrubances and domestic violence.

Vulnerable adult and child abuse reports are mandated by law to be investigated by Law Enforcement and Social Services. These investigations are time-consuming because they involve taking statements, video-taping, hearings and reporting to state officials.

Chief Froschheiser went to say that added work loads would have to be placed on other individuals and this would cut back on surveillance, stakeouts and drug searches and arrests.

The city council adopted the recommendation to hire Sebenaler to replace Pertler on a 6 - 2 vote (Alderman Borsheim and Liden voted no). The decision to approve the recommendation was quickly followed by another decision to replace Custodian Leo Nissen, who is retiring, with Dick Olson and hiring another person to replace Dick olson. This time the vote was 7 - 1.

Alderman Liden and Borsheim were disturbed that it seemed the council was paying only lip service to a declaration made earlier this year to hold down costs and start cutting back on personnel and services to meet a balanced budget. Neither thought the issue was qualifications of the officers or men involved.

An application giving authorization to execute agreements and certifications was approved by the city council for the energy efficiency project. The agreement permits the energy council to execute certifications and such agreements as are necessary to implement the project.

Funds for the project became available when a lawsuit against Exxon resulted in a large amount of money being made available for energy related projects. A total of $45,000 could be made available to the energy council in Thief River Falls in a two year period. The grant requires the city to provide a 10 per cent matching fund and name a committee to manage the funds. Seven individuals have been named to that committee: Darryl Tveitbakk, Dave Odette, Merle Lindberg, Dave Beste, Alderman Don Barron, Alderman Dale Wennberg and Alderman Ken Murphy.

The energy council program in Thief River Falls will provide funds to conduct home energy audits, encourage the installation of high efficiency electric water heaters, encourage demand control of electric water heaters, and study existing street lighting.

While the authorization was still granted, several council members said they were concerned that the energy council might get involved in projects similar to those of other organizations. Darryl Tveitbakk, representative from the energy council, assured the council that funds would be distributed fairly and the energy council would follow the lead of the city council. Tveitbakk and council members added that the funds were not to be used as home improvement loans.

Sidewalks in downtown Thief River Falls are in the process of being inspected. Bob Bregier, building inspector, notified the council that he has already begun the process and wanted some direction from the council.

Bregier asked whether he was to inspect sidewalks in residential areas and if so should he send out notices to property owners who are responsible for the condition of the sidewalk. Bregier also wanted to know whether the council planned to go ahead with repairs to the sidewalks and would the property owners be assessed for the repairs.

The council passed a resolution to have Bregier continue an inspection of the downtown area and forward the information to the public safety council for their consideration and recommendations.

In other business the city council: approved a resolution granting a $1,000 contribution to the Jaycees for a fireworks display at the end of Summerfest; passed a motion to pay regular and special bills; granted a progression raise to Kevin Peterson, electronic technician; accepted the resignation of Brett Pertler; resolved to send a community needs inventory to the Northwest Regional Development Commission; granted permits for beer in Oakland park for the class of 1977 on July 26 and for the Minnesota Deer Hunter's association on June 17.

In items for information the city council received a thank you letter from North township citing an improvement at the lagoons. The council and members of the local media also discussed how to notify the public of regular meetings, special meetings and committee meetings.

Courage Day Camp Scheduled Here For July 16-19

Area children and teenagers with physical disabilities or speech, hearing or vision impairments may sign-up for summer fun at a Courage day camp to be held July 16-19 at the Thief River Falls armory.

Day camps give young people with physical disabilities an opportunity to enjoy outdoor camping experiences close to home. Directed by trained men and women from the community, day camps offer varied outdoor activities that take advantage of the natural sites and recreational resources in each area.

Participation in Courage day camps is an excellent way for children and teenagers to prepare for future stays at Courage Center's Camp Courage, near Maple Lake, and Courage North, on Lake George in northern Minnesota.

For information contact Cecelia Stoltman at (218) 681-5393. Courage day camps are sponsored by Courage Center, a nonprofit United Way organization headquartered in the Minneapolis suburb of Golden Valley. The Center provides rehabilitation and independent living programs for children and adults with physical disabilities and speech, hearing or vision impairments.

Annual Writers' Conference Set At Bemidji State

The 19th annual Upper Midwest writers' confrence held July 17-19 at Bemidji state university will feature nationally recognized professionals focusing on the theme "The American Indian as Subject and Artist."

Novelists Gerald Vizenor and Will Weaver will be joined by critic Gretchen Ronnow, visual artist Kent Smith and poet William Elliott as the featured instructors for the conference.

The conference may be attended for undergraduate or graduate credit. Participants enrolled for credit should submit written or visual samples of their creative work, or an essay discussing "The American Indian as Subject and Artist."

One partial and two full scholarships are available to high school students who have completed their junior year in Minnesota high schools.

More information on the conference can be obtained by contacting William Elliott, Box 48, Hagg-Sauer Hall, Bemidji State University, Bemidji, MN 56601-2699 (218-755-2813).

Offer Computer Workshops At Roseau Location

Thief River Falls AVTI and the University of Minnesota-Crookston will be offering two computer workshops in Roseau beginning in June. These classes will provide participants with extensive hands-on experience on IBM personal computers.

"Computer Literacy" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, June 30 and July 1, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Travel Host restaurant. This class will cover major types of software used in home and office. Key topics will include: Introduction to the IBM Disk Operating System, Data Base Management software and spreadsheet commands. Tuition is $50. Lunch is not included.

"Advanced Lotus 1-2-3" is scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 29, 30 and July 1, from 6 to 9:30 p.m. This workshop will focus on the advanced features of Lotus 1-2-3. Topics include the review of Lotus 1-2-3 functional and operating commands, graphics using Lotus 1-2-3, data base management with Lotus 1-2-3 and creating and executing keyboard macros with Lotus 1-2-3. Tuition is $50.

Pre-registration is required by June 19 by contacting adult extension, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Telephone number is (218) 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

TIMES Around The Region

by Sharon LaCoursiere

Williams Boy Makes Good

Williams — A forty-year career that began with school news reporting in the Williams Northern Light at the age of 13, ended for chief European correspondent of Associated Press, David Mason, recently. Mason grew up in Williams, graduated from Macalester college and did a stint in the Air Force before he began working for Associated Press in 1947. He spent 33 years of his life as an overseas journalist for the internationally-known wire service before his recent retirement. (Williams Northern Light)

Biking For Future Good Times

Warren — The Warren Jaycees Bike-A-Thon May 22 brought in $2,029.99 to be used for playground equipment for the school. Ninety-four youngsters participated in the effort, along with several Jaycee members. John Peterson, son of Gary and Joan Peterson of Warren, was the winner of the new bicycle prize in the bike safety contest held in conjunction with the Bike-A-Thon. (Warren Sheaf)

Change of Name

Crookston — Crookston's annual summer festival celebration, previously known as "Pioneer Days," has had its name changed to "Summerfest." The planning committee decided the new moniker will better represent the wide variety of events offered at the four-day affair. Summerfest will be June 25 through 28. (Crookston Daily Times)

Collision in Roseau

Roseau — Myron Kofstad of Warren, driving a 1979 Dodge pickup, and Alden Hugg of Thief River Falls, in a 1979 Ford Bronco, collided May 22 near the Cenex Plant in Roseau. Hugg was eastbound on highway 11 and Kofstad was southbound on the township road. There was $300 damage to the Kofstad vehicle and $1,000 damage to the Hugg vehicle. No injuries were reported. (Roseau Times-Region)

Culligan Plant Accident

Minnetonka — Eight workers were treated for inhalation of hydrocholoric acid fumes at a Culligan plant in Minnetonka after the acid spilled from a truck that was filling up a storage tank at the plant. One hundred workers were evacuated from the plant after the spill. The truck driver, Vernon Butler, could give no reason for the incident. (Bemidji Pioneer)

Well Contamination

Detroit Lakes — Contamination from the Becker county landfill has been found in the well water of a nearby farm. Contamination was found in the well of the David Earley farm when tests were conducted recently by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. Curt Weldon, acting county solid waste officer, stated that the water from the well can be used for some household purposes and for bathing, "but definitely not for drinking." Becker county will be supplying the Earleys with drinking water for a while, and the PCA will be conducting further tests in the area. (Detroit Lakes Tribune)

June Is Bustin' Out All Over

Red Lake Falls — A 10,000 gallon fuel tank owned by Red Lake Electric Cooperative in Red Lake Falls caused minor damage when it erupted from its underground resting place recently. The tank began peeking through the ground a week before full emergence last week. Recent heavy rainfall and loosening of an achor cable were reasons given for the eruption. According to an REA spokesman, damage has been limited to torn-off pipework and minor damage to a transformer owned by Otter Tail Power company. (Red Lake Falls Gazette)

Vehicle Totalled

Williams — A new Ford pickup, belonging to Scott Brischois of Fort Frances and purheased three weeks ago, caught fire and burned while he was attempting to start it after it stalled on highway 11 three miles west of Williams May 29. The Williams fire department was called to the scene but the pickup was a total loss by the time they arrived. Brischois and his girl friend were on their way to their homes in Sprague, Manitoba at the time. (Williams Northern Light)

All Around Town

Karlstad — The Karlstad C & C will sponsor a city-wide rummage sale June 25 as a kick-off to the June Festival in the city. The ladies in charge of the event are even producing a map of the city to let buyers know where to find the bargains. (North Star News)

SENIOR SHOWMANSHIP title Tuesday at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls went to Tracy Vesledahl, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Vesledahl of Winger. She also won the Guernsey breed championship, repeating as champion in that division. As senior showmanship champion she will open the 1988 dairy show with a showmanship demonstration. Reserve champion senior showman was Tony Mitchell of Detroit Lakes.

One Will Be Miss Greenbush

Greenbush — Contestants for the title of Miss Greenbush are Amy Dalager, daughter of Arlan and Bridget Dalager; Lynette Berge, daughter of Harvey and Lois Berge; and Tanya Hasson, daughter of Jim and Marge Hasson. The girls will compete in evening gown, swimsuit, talent and personal interview competition at the fourth annual Miss Greenbush pageant June 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Greenbush high school gymnasium. (Greenbush Tribune)

Do Not Disturb

Erskine — Visitors are being asked not to crawl, jump or sit on, or otherwise disturb the tranquility of the "Big Fish" that is a local landmark in Erskine. Eric Budd, art instructor at Win-E-Mac schools, has just finished repairs on the fish's lower jaw, part of which had been broken off. The fish is now good as new. (Erskine Echo)

Polaris Thefts

Grygla — Steven Scot Foss, 27, rural Grygla, was arraigned before Judge Donald Shanahan May 26 on a charge of felony theft in connection with a series of thefts from Polaris Industries. Found at Foss' rural Grygla residence was stolen property consisting of ATV and snowmobile parts taken over a period of several months with a retail value exceeding $20,000. Foss will appear in district court in Roseau June 8 (Roseau Times-Region)

Want To Play?

Grygla — Every Wednesday night is horseshoe-throwing night in Grygla. Everyone is invited to horseshoe competition at the VFW court east of the tennis court in Grygla at 7:30 p.m. throughout the summer. (Grygla Eagle)

Go For It, Guys

Grafton, ND — North Dakota gentlemen are being urged to enter the Mr. North Dakota Male America Pageant by sub-mitting a current snapshot and writing a brief biography. The applicant must be at least 18 years of age, a U.S. citizen, resident of the state for no less than six months, a high school graduate or higher, single, married, divorced or widowed, and must be of good moral character. Contestants will be judged on personal interview, swim wear and formal wear attire, with points awarded for poise, personality, charm and handsomeness. Contestant with the highest overall point total will be declared Mr. North Dakota Male America, 1987. (Grafton Record)

Would Dad Grin & Bear It?

Apple Valley — Wondering what to give Dad for Fathers' Day? The Minnesota Zoo at Apple Valley is offering a Fathers' Day gift packet including a gift certificate, card, animal fact sheet, and a real, live Sloth bear. The article in the Bemidji Pioneer says, "Give Dad a wild gift. Instead of a bear hug, why not give Dad a real bear June 21 for Fathers' Day? Why not, indeed? For more information, write the Minnesota Zoo, Apple Valley, 55124, or call 612-432-9010.

Adult Illiteracy Teleconference At NCC June 23

Northland community college in Thief River Falls joins 1,000 community, technical and junior colleges and school districts across the country as community hosts for the first national video teleconference on adult illiteracy and its impact on the workforce, June 23 at 6:30 p.m.

Joining college hosts here will be community leaders from local literacy action programs and leaders from business, labor, government and community groups who are concerned with reducing the number of youth and adult illiterates in the Thief River Falls area and across the country.

"The American Seminar: Literacy, Your Community and Its Workforce" is sponsored by the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges (AACJC) and will originate live from the BizNet Studio of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D.C., as a one-way video, two-way audio national and local "town hall" meeting discussion.

The program will include a roster of panelists and speakers from education, government, business and industry. Models of exemplary state, regional and local literacy plans will be showcased. Substantial time blocks during the interactive teleconference are reserved for questions and comments from community participants around the country.

"Northland community college has long been a leader in addressing community issues," said President Alex Easton. "Once again the college will be providing leadership to bring together community leaders here who are already fighting the problem of illiteracy with other equally concerned leaders to develop a literacy education action plan for our community."

For more information, contact Dr. James Haviland at 681-2181.

SPECIAL APPRECIATION award to Kathleen Merkins, 1986 Northwest Dairy Princess, was presented by Norma Hanson of Goodridge, Region One ADA chairman, at the princess coronation banquet Tuesday evening at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls. Kathleen has been an active and enthusiastic regional princess, carrying the message of dairy nutrition and economic importance of the industry throughout much of the state.

Johnson Named As Distinguished Teacher At UMC

Robert Johnson

Robert Johnson, assistant professor of biology at te University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC), received the distinguished teacher award at the annual faculty and staff recognition banquet held recently in Crookston.

The distinguished teaching award, begun in 1983, carries a $500 stipend in recognition of teaching effectiveness, student development and educational leadership.

Johnson joined the arts and sciences division faculty in the fall of 1969 as assistant professor and was granted tenure in 1975.

A graduate of Grand Forks Central high school, Johnson received his bachelor of science degree with a major in natural and physical sciences in 1960. His master of science degree from UND in 1964, was in biology, chemistry, geology and physics.

Over the years Johnson has been involved in developing all of the chemistry courses. The most challenging aspect of course development for him has been to meet the demands of the health related programs of the East Grand Forks AVTI. UMC cooperates with the EGF AVTI nursing consortium to provide essential science course-work.

Julie Melander Receives Degree

College of St. Catherine in St. Paul awarded 347 bachelor of arts degrees and four master of arts in theology degrees at spring commencement. Among the graduates was Julie Ann Melander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Melander, Mendota Heights.

Julie earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration: accounting and finance. While a student at the college, she was elected to Delta Mu Delta, the business administration honor society. She is a 1983 graduate of Lincoln high school.

Florence Klema Gets Grant To Research School

Florence Klema, Roseau, received a state Delta Kappa Gamma grant to assist in her research of a Roseau county pioneer school. Klema is writing a history of Casperson school which operated in Golden Valley township, southeast of Wannaska, from 1909 to 1946.

The building has recently been moved to the Pioneer Farm west of Roseau. This $400 special projects grant will be used to enable the Pioneer Farm and the Roseau county historical society to publish Klema's findings in booklet form.

Mrs. Klema's research began with the Roseau county superintendent of schools records in the county courthouse. Through correspondence with former teachers, students and school board members, Klema has acquired photos, information and memorabilia.

The published booklet will include a description of the log school and its furnishings, of the role of the early rural school teacher and of the modes of transportation used before the advent of the school bus.

"The early schools were also used as social centers. There will be descriptions of holiday programs, basket socials and picnics," Klema said.

Klema, a retired teacher with experience in one-room rural schools and in Roseau elementary school, is a member of Alpha Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma. She presently chairs the chapter's professional affairs committee.

Special Office Of IRS Deals With Resolving Problem

Taxpayers with an "unresolved" federal tax problem can get help from a special Internal Revenue service office. The problem resolution program (PRP) office gives personal attention to taxpayers whose previous contacts through normal IRS channels have not helped.

In 1985, about 477,000 taxpayers were aided by the PRP staff. As a result of these contacts, IRS has clarified the instructions for some tax forms and improved the handling of payments and credits. The most common complaint brought to PRP concerns refund checks. Refunds are sometimes delayed because social security numbers are incorrect on the tax form or the taxpayer has moved without leaving a forwarding address.

The IRS stressed that PRP is not a substitute for normal IRS channels and cannot be used to appeal decisions made in an examination. The PRP office takes complaints only after there has been at least one unsuccessful contact with the IRS.

Taxpayers can reach PRP by calling the IRS number listed in the phone book and asking for problem resolution.

Police Activities Show Increase Over Last Year

Incidents of vandalism and juveniles and alcohol were again in the Thief River Falls police reports for the past week. Some of these criminal activities were found to be on the increase in Thief River Falls according to research provided to the city council Monday night.

According to the report, a comparison of department records from January 1 to June 1, 1986, and January 1 to June 1, 1987, show a marked increase in activity. For that period in 1986, there were 4,113 calls for service; and, for the same period in 1987, there were 4,426 calls for service, an increase of 313 calls, or 7.5 per cent.

The increase in calls, according to the report, are all related to theft, juvenile violations, vulnerable adult investigations, child physical and sexual abuse, court hearings, forgery, minors drinking, assaults, disturbances and domestic violence.

POLICE NEWS. Vandalism. On June 3 Westside motors reported that someone brodow in a Ford Bronco in the car lot. The damage was apparently done with a big rock and is estimated at $225.

On the same day, Mrs. William Rondorf, Thief River Falls, reported that her car was vandalized while it was parked in Knight avenue parking lot. The 1983 Buick, was damage on the hood. Damage loss was estimated at $75.

On June 4 at 11:09 a.m. Charles Thorstad, Thief River Falls, reported vandalism to his car. His 1977 Cadillac with a vinyl roof was damaged with a sharp object. Approximately $1,100 in damage was reported.

On June 5 Pioneer Village reported that a window was broken on the depot building. The damage was apparently done with a rock. The rock went through the window and also damaged an old display case. Damage to the window was estimated at $50. Damage to the display case, if it can be repaired, was estimated at $100.

On June 4 police received a report of some young children damaging a small bicycle and a toy belonging to another youth. A total of six youths were involved in the vandalism to items belonging to the Edgar family. Approximately $50 in damage was done to the bike. Restitution is being made and the children counseled with parents.

On June 5 James Stoltman, route 6, reported that while he was sitting in the passenger side of his van at about 11:40 p.m. in the 100 block of West Fourth street, a rock was thrown at his van, breaking the driver's window. Damage was estimated at $50. It is under investigation.

Minors. On June 3 police received a report of a youth acting strangely behind the hospital. Officers investigating, found a 15 year old youth had been drinking considerably and was charged with consumption by a minor.

On June 4 at 4 a.m. a car was observed traveling in the parking lane on North Atlantic by an on-duty officer. One 16 year old youth has been charged with consumption by a minor.

Accidents. On June 4 at 1:49 a.m. a pickp driven by David Wayne Davidson, route 3, age 28, was going south on Kendall when he struck a parked van owned by the State of Minnesota, which was then pushed into a car owned by Jeff Johnson, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $4,000 to the Davidson pickup, $3,000 to the State van, and $3,000 to the Johnson car. Davidson was charged with DWI and leaving the scene of an accident. He ran from the scene on foot and was caught by an officer. He was also charged with disorderly conduct for kicking an officer.

On June 3 at 6:32 p.m. Gordon Peterson, Thief River Falls, reported someone damaged his mail box and post. An unknown female driving a vehicle struck the post when leaving the residence. Damage was estimated at $15 and is under investigation.

On June 3 at 8:46 p.m. Barb Noel, route 2, reported her car was struck while parked in the 300 block of East Third street. Damage to the left side of the car was estimated at $100. The other vehicle left the scene.

On June 4 at 11:45 a.m. a car owned by State Farm insurance and driven by Ralph Matter, Jr. Thief River Falls, was travelling north on Main street in the 200 block and stopped for a red light. A car driven by James Rude, route two, Thief River Falls, was also traveling north. Rude apparently diverted his attention and hit the State Farm vehicle in the rear causing $100 damage to his car and $750 to the Rude vehicle.

On June 4 at 8:12 p.m. police received a report that a woman was hit by a car while riding her bike sometime during the morning. Natalie Kolberg, Thief River Falls, was riding a bicycle going south on Main and at the intersection with Fourth street she said a person driving a car signed her to proceed and then ran into her. Kolberg received a bruised knee. Damage to her bike was estimated at $20. The vehicle left the scene of the accident.

On June 5 at 12:11 p.m. a car driven by Vance Peters, route one, Viking, was going west on Third street. A car driven by Danelle Appel, St. Hilaire, was going north on Knight avenue when the two vehicles collided. Damage from the collision was estimated at $1,700 to the Peters' vehicle and $300 to the Appel vehicle.

report that some young boys were fighting in Lion's park. An investigation followed and five youths, age 13, 14, and 15, are being charged with disorderly conduct and will appear in juvenile court.

On May 28 Jeff Klow, Thief River Falls, reported the theft of a battery from his car which was parked by an apartment. The cables were cut to remove the battery. The loss was estimated at $50.

On May 28 Troy Forsberg, route five, 18, has been charged with trespassing at Lincoln high school after having been previously warned on more than one occasion for the same behavior.

On June 8 John Sorenson, Thief River Falls, reported a bike taken from a yard sometime in the last two weeks. The bike was described at a Huffy, grey-silver in color. The bike was valued at $50.

Pennington county sheriff's department responded to a variety of reports during the past week. One of those incidents included a collision with a moose. Another incident report included a three-wheeler accident in which two people were injured.

On June 6 Elaine Kay Andreen of Goodridge was traveling west on county road 6 when her three-wheeler lost control and rolled into the ditch. Passenger Cynthia Andreen, age 8, received neck and upper back pains and Elaine reported bruises to her head.

On June 6 at 4 a.m. Korylon Charles Chervestad was traveling east on county road two when she hit a moose. Damage to her car in the collision was estimated at $1,200.

On June 7 William Dicken of Thief River Falls was traveling east on county road 80 when he hit a deer. Damage to his car was estimated at $900.

Thefts were also recorded in the past week. On June 2 a resident of Thief River Falls in Rocksbury township reported a theft of some money from a vehicle. The loss was estimated at $110.

On June 7 a resident of Thief River Falls in Rocksbury township reported some concrete blocks stolen. Approximately 50 blocks were taken. The value of the loss was set at $45.

Incidents of vandalism including someone tearing up a field was reported during the past week also. On May 19 a resident of Thief River Falls in Rocksbury township reported that someone was driving around and tearing up his field. The damage loss was valued at about $100.

On June 7 a resident of Thief River Falls in Smiley township reported that some damage had been done to his walk-in side door on his garage. Damages were estimated at $100.

JUNIOR SHOWMANSHIP champion at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday was won by Cory Billberg, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Billberg of Roseau. Cory was in her fourth year of showing at Northwest Dairy Day. Reserve champion junior showman was Darren Carlson of Angus.

graduate of Sebeka high school. Five feet, five inches tall with brown hair, green eyes and a fierce pride in her Irish ancestry, she is the middle child in a family that includes five brothers and three sisters. The family milks 45 head of grade Holsteins. Charlotte likes to sew (including her own contest formal gown), play piano and volleyball and will attend the University of Minnesota-Morris where she will major in either nursing or music.

The princess coronation banquet featured talks by Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Yvonne Moerke, and Region One Dairy Princess, Kathleen Merkins of Ada. Awards for appreciation of service were presented to Kathleen by Norma Hanson of Goodridge, Region One ADA chairman, and to Albert Koop of Thief River Falls, one of the originators of dairy day 38 years ago, by Howard Person, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association. Koop is retiring from the association's board of directors and gave a brief talk on some of his memories from early days of the organization.

Joining Darren Carlson in the ranks of top award winners at the dairy show was Dea Billberg of Roseau, winner of the Stuart McLeod award as the outstanding dairy day participant. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Billberg, she had the reserve champion grade animal of the show, won the individual dairy herd competition, had the champion senior yearling in the Holstein division, earned two blue ribbons on a two-year-old and aged cow and finished fifth in senior showmanship competition.

Continuing the youth movement that was prevalent at the show this year, 12-year-old Stacie Mitchell of Detroit Lakes showed the grand champion grade animal of the show with an aged cow. Last year her sister Deanna won the same award as well as the overall show championship. Stacie, in her third year of showing and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell, will receive a purebred dairy calf at the 1988 Northwest Dairy Day.

Jason Johnston, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnston of Angus, was named the grand champion junior exhibitor of the show. Tracy Vesledahl, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Vesledahl of Winger, won the senior showmanship competition and the Guernsey breed championship. Reserve champion senior showman was Tony Mitchell of Detroit Lakes.

Cory Billberg, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Billberg of Roseau, won the junior showmanship competition. Reserve champion was Darren Carlson of Angus.

At the dairy demonstration competition conducted in the home economics department at Lincoln high school, Debbie Malone of Wadena county won the advanced division championship, Tammy Olson of Becker county won the junior division and Casey Schlauderaff of Becker county won the beginner division.

Winners of awards in the six dairy breeds entered were the following participants:

MACCI Provides Businessmen With Update

Christensen and DeWitt are part of an attempt by MCCI to conduct over 40 meetings in cities outside the Twin Cities to review the legislative session's effect on business.

Christensen prefaced the start of the legislative update by saying it was not a spectacular session as far as MCCI is concerned. Minnesota is a high spend, high tax state and MCCI tried to get the legislators to hold down spending and taxes but the message fell on deaf ears.

The only good news, Christensen said, happened when business asked the Governor not to use income tax windfalls, but return it to the taxpayer, which happened.

One of the legislative changes this year included the minimum wage law. Christensen said this is the first time ever that Minnesota has a higher minimum wage than the federal minimum wage. In addition, the new minimum wage is higher than any of the states around Minnesota.

The bill which reached the house floor contained provisions to raise the minimum wage by $1 over a three year period. The results produced a two-tiered increase which applies to federal-covered employers and state-covered employers. Generally federal-covered employers are employers who have interstate and intrastate business. State-covered employers are employers who primarily have business contacts only within the state, generally.

The first minimum wage increase will be on January 1, 1988, and then every year for the next three years thereafter. For federal-covered employers the first increase will be from $3.35 to $3.55. For state-covered employers the first increase will be from $3.35 to $3.50.

In another bill reviewed by Christensen, a bill which would have mandated six months unpaid leave for a parent, of either sex, of a newborn or adopted child reached the House floor. In the end, employers with 21 or more employees at a single site, allows employees who have worked one year for the same employer and who work 20 hours or more a week, to take a six week unpaid parental leave upon birth or adoption of a child.

Christensen pointed out that Minnesota is the first state to have a parental leave statute which applies to both parents.

While little good news came from this year's legislative session, Christensen said there is hope for a shorter session next year. She said if legislators get the message, as it appears they are, they will come back and pass legislation that will help Minnesota businesses.

But attempts at legislation which would require the employer to notify employees of plant closings before the plant closes, and legislation which would mandate employers to provide employees with health insurance, need careful monitoring.

Christensen also said a new organization should be monitored. She was referring to the Greater Minnesota Corporation, a new economic development organization proposed by the Governor. She said the Governor has proposed a council which will be composed of 11 members appointed by the Governor. These 11 members would be able to serve six terms and then appoint their own successor.

State To Raise Speed Limit On Rural Interstate

Minnesota will raise the speed limit for only 700 miles of rural interstate highways to 65 miles per hour on Wednesday, June 17. Governor Rudy Perpich signed an executive order May 21 directing the speed limit change.

Commissioner of Public Safety, Paul Tschida, has emphasized that the 55 mph speed limit will remain effect for most Minnesota hghways for the foreseeable future.

Minnesota department of public safety said the 65 mph limit will apply on just one-half of one per cent of the state's roadways. Interstates 35, 90 and 94 in southern, northern and central Minnesota are designated as 65 mph areas. Otherwise the present 55 mile per hour limit applies.

Four lane highways on such routes as 169, 61, 52, 14, 60, 10, 2 etc. will continue to be posted for 55 mph. Motorists should note that the speed limit will be posted on the affected rural interstates. When approaching the Twin Cities or other metro areas where the 55 mph limit will still be in effect, warning signs will be errected by the Minnesota department of transportation. These signs will advise the motorist to reduce speed from 65 to 55, if he or she has been travelling on rural interstates.

Tschida stresses that each five miles of additional speed adds more risk to the seriousness of any accident that may occur. "It is a fact," Tschida said, "that speed in addition to drunk driving and failure to wear seat belts contribute to a majority of traffic deaths in Minnesota each year."

Colonel Roger Ledding, state patrol chief, said the patrol will be more strict about enforcing the 65 mile speed limit on rural interstates. "If people are caught going over the limit, they are going to be ticketed," Ledding said. Meanwhile, the 55 speed limit on other state roadways will be enforced. Since 1974 when the state put the 55 limit into effect, traffic fatalities have been reduced from more than 1,000 annually to a low of 558 in 1983 and 572 in 1986.

Class Of 1932 Sets Reunion June 20 And 21

Lincoln high school class of 1932 will hold its 55th anniversary reunion June 20 and 21 with a dinner at the Elks club rooms at 7 p.m. Saturday, followed by a business and entertainment program. Friends of the class members are invited to come and visit beginning at 9 p.m.

Worship services will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. at the Asphult church in the Pennington Pioneer Village with Rev. Ray O. Hansen, a member of the 1932 class, delivering the sermon. Brunch will follow in the church basement at 12 noon, after which classmates may visit the village exhibits and visit with friends.

Those wishing to meet informally are invited to do so at the Heritage community center Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Yvonne Sannes Nurse Of Year In California

Yvonne R. Sannes

Yvonne R Sannes, a registered nurse at High Desert hospital, was one of 11 nurses honored by the Los Angeles county board of supervisors in California during nurse recognition week as nurse of the year.

Yvonne is the daughter of Mrs. Douglas (Agnes) Olson of Thief River Falls, a 1960 graduate of Lincoln high school and the LPN program at the Thief River Falls AVTI. She worked briefly at Northwestern hospital (now Northwest Medical center) and is married to Gene Sannes, son of Gil Sannes of Thief River Falls.

Yvonne graduated from Antelope Valley college in California in 1981 and will complete her bachelor's degree in nursing this August. She plans to continue her education to earn a master's degree.

Mrs. Sannes has worked on every floor of the county hospital and is remembered by staff and patients for her radiant smile, according to ta feature story in the Antelpoe Valley Press. "I try not to bring my problems to work," she said. "Then you start having this frown on your face. I think that a nurse should always have a smile."

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

Not long after we moved to Thief River Falls in the 1960's, we took an evening walk around our neighborhood on the east side of town. It was the first of the soft warm nights of late spring and just too nice an evening to stay in.

Every other block or so we would come upon a home where all the lights in the house were on. Because windows were open, sounds of the clink of silverware as well as snatches of voices and laughter would come drifting out to us. Sometimes people would be sitting outside on front steps, visiting quietly with each other.

It was Lincoln high school's graduation night, and as we walked about the town, we were passing by homes where parents were hosting family parties and open houses. It seemed, I recall, as if we were right in the middle of a wonderful play about small town life.

At the time our babies were asleep at home, and it seemed that for us, hosting such an evening was far off indeed.

Yet the years passed quickly by, and this year it was time for us to celebrate graduation with our third and youngest child.

To some, the annual ritual of graduation may seem commonplace, but to me it is a remarkable event in our town.

This year as always the numbers of people who took the time to honor our young people by attending the ceremonies was outstanding. It takes several thousand to almost fill the bleachers of the arena.

And then there were the many individuals who made the effort to wish a happy beginning to the new chapter in the lives of young graduates.

Transitions in life are never easy. That is why it is good to think about a variety of ways to ease into a new era. Each of the 154 Lincoln graduates received many different kinds of congratulations. Here are a few our 1987 graduates received:

Some of the wishes were cute. One advised, "Lift up your head and shout", . . . "I'm out! I'm out! I'm out!"

Another kidded, "Graduate, today you stand on the brink of adulthood. TURN AROUND! GO BACK! RUN! RUN!"

Some were silly. A card pictured Snoopy wearing a mortar board and said, "I thought that was a supper dish and a place mat on your head."

Others gave advice. "I think you have a right to be optimistic about the future, even if you're not sure about your own goals. I just had no idea what my future would hold when I graduated, and I wasn't sure what I wanted to do. But it came to me as time passed – as it will surely come to you as well."

Another said, "You, as an individual, can make a difference. Your contribution to the world will be as unique as your particular abilities, resourcefulness and determination make it."

Still others were helpful: A friend brought a gift of bath towels and also included laundry soap and a bag full of quarters. She wrote, "My 'mom' advice to you is never to wash this towel with whites. When you are at the laundromat remember to keep this little bag of quarters handy. Washers and dryers love to eat quarters. And here is candy for you to enjoy while you wait and wait for your laundry to finish drying. . ."

Some reflected on the immediate past. One of our daughter's coaches quoted M. Peterson's ideas on the value of sports. "Sport is realizing that someday the games will end but hopefully the values learned will carry on. Sport is a part of and a reflection of the American way of life."

A teacher shared a favorite quote from Shakespeare's Hamlet: "To thine own self be true. Thou canst not then be false to any man."

I have written before that children were not meant to be raised by just two people. It takes lots of people.

One thing that is sure in life, no matter what age we happen to be, is that there will be change. And it is good to have many people to cheer us on, to joke a bit, to help us on our way.

Three More LHS Grads Enroll In AVTI Programs

Following 1987 graduates of Lincoln high school have been accepted at the Thief River Falls technical institute. Scheduled to begin their training on September 8 are Kathryn Panek, secretarial with shorthand; Lori Harder, cosmetology; and Denise Counter, secretarial with word processing.

Three From TRF Recognized At St. Cloud State

Three Thief River Falls students are among 919 students at St. Cloud state university who were recognized for scholastic achievement during the spring quarter. Receiving certificates for grade point averages of 3.75 or higher were Carrie Budke, Debra Joppru and Paul Wysoski.

Jeanine Hammer In Nurse Program

Jeanine Hammer of Oklee is among students accepted for the summer nursing co-op program at the University of North Dakota's college of nursing in Grand Forks. The pilot program will give student nurses work experience and college credit as they earn college credit, money and work experience, easing their transition into the job market.

PUREBRED HOLSTEIN CALF was received by Deanna Mitchell of Detroit Lakes at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Deanna won the calf as showman of the grand champion grade animal at the 1986 Dairy Day. Mylo Carlson, whose daughter Deanna Larter of Grand Forks, ND, sold the calf to the Northwest Dairy Improvement association for the presentations, is shown congratulating the winner. At right is Yvonne Moerke, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, who assisted with the awards distribution following the dairy show.

AYSHIRE breed championship at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday was won by this grade senior yearling exhibited by Shannon Carlson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carlson of Salol. Reserve champion Ayrshire was shown by Brian Waller of Twin Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nelson and family attended the graduation open house honoring Jeff Wayne at St. Anne's Catholic church Friday evening as did Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wayne.

Participants Are Sought For Direct Dialogue Panel

Three participants are being sought to serve on a northwestern Minnesota consumer panel, comprised of citizens served by Northwestern Bell Telephone company, which will be analyzing several issues relating to telecommunications during the coming year.

The panel, one of several throughout the state, was formed last year. The Direct Dialogue process is patterned after a similar program in Iowa.

While sponsored by Northwestern Bell, the panel is free to explore issues it feels pertinent to its service area. A yearly report is presented to the chief executive officer, Eric Selberg. A staff person from the company is available to coordinate resource requests during the independent studies of the group. Expenses for speakers, participants' travel and meals, and compilation of panel findings are paid by U.S. West.

The Direct Dialogue panel in northwestern Minnesota plans to meet once a month in Detroit Lakes. There are already panel members from Bemidji, Park Rpaids, Wadens, Brainerd, Dilworth, Ada and Thief River Falls. Participants should be open-minded and willing to consider all sides of an issue being considered. An effort will be made to maintain a cross-section of ages, professions and geographic location.

Among the issues to be considered in 1987 are regulatory reform, economic development and customer communications. Those who would be willing to serve on the panel may send a letter with a brief history about themselves to Mrs. Peter Lavaller, Route 3, Box 144, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

3 Local Students Honor Graduates At Mankato State

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

Several important agriculture and farming bills were passed this session. I will give a brief overview of six of them.

First, the legislature sent a resolution to the President and Congress asking them to immediately direct the FmHA to participate in ad cooperate with Minnesota's farmer-lender mediation program. I carried this resolution through the Senate, and I feel it sends a clear message to the FmHA that Minnesota cares about its farmers.

The farmer-lender mediation program underwent several changes this year. The program has been extended until July 1, 1989. Most farm debts may now be mediated, with some exceptions. Mediation can only be requested once on the same debt, and the debtor should file a request, or he or she will lose the right to mediate that debt. A mediation notice may be sent only after default, but all of a debtor's creditors need not send notices. Notice is required under a foreclosure by advertisement, and we extended the eight week minimum notice for a foreclosure by advertisement to May 1, 1989.

I sat on the conference committee that drew up the language of the interest buy-down program. Funding $14 million, we extended for one year traditional loans and, with $1.5 million, we extended for two years loans guaranteed by the FmHA. We also funded $14 million to pay off the program's present deficit. The maximum interest paid by farmers will average seven per cent, with Minnesota paying 2.8 per cent above that and the lender absorbing an additional 1.7 per cent. The maximum operating loan eligible is $60,000.

Senator Roger Moe's (DFL-Erskine) Rural Development act will fund almost $39 million dollars to spark economic development in needy areas of the state. The Greater Minnesota corporation, a publicly owned venture capital corporation, will receive $12.5 million to fund agricultural research and development. It will provide grants to state colleges, universities and AVTI's and will give loans to private businesses.

The Higher Education Coordinating board will receive money to begin education and training programs for dislocated workers and farmers. Funds will also go to an agricultural product utilization research center to find new uses and markets for our farm products and to a challenge grant program to provide loans to new and expanding businesses in rural Minnesota.

The Conservation Reserve program was refunded, the Legislature recognizing its value and importance. Several changes were made, including: new language allowing land to be placed in the CRP if it is a drained wetland or land that, with a windbreak, would be beneficial to resource protection; all "limited duration" easements must now be for a minimum of 20 years (past easements were for a minimum of ten years); the Minnesota critical habitat private sector matching account, previously established in the state treasury, was transferred to the RIM resources fund; and by January 15th of each year the Commissioner of Agriculture must make available to the public a written progress report on the projects undertaken and money spent. The agriculture commissioner must also hold at least three public meetings on the CRP work plan, one of which must be in northern Minnesota. Further, we established a native prairie bank and a program to conserve wetlands.

Finally, there were changes to last year's agriculture bill. The Rural Finance administration changes its name to the Rural Finance authority. The authority charges an interest rate below full cost, and will establish a beginning farmer program. It also participates in the homestead redemption program to assist persons who have lost farms due to foreclosure.

Another change is that previous owners of agricultural land or farm homesteads have the right of first refusal, effective July 1st. This means that any agency or coproration can't sell or lease such land acquired by foreclosure or by ending a contract for deed until it first offers the land to the previous owner. Any agreement to waive a right of first refusal as a condition of any loan is voided unless expresaly provided for. This protects all landowners.

In a move to help bolster agricultural markets, the Legislature directed the department of agriculture to establish a program to promote diversification and directed the department of trade and economic development to establish programs to promote and develop trade. A major goal is to promote international markets. Lastly, the state will start a program of agricultural diversification to assist the horticultural industry, to help producers develop their farming operations and will coordinate state agency efforts. In this way, alternative uses for agricultural products can be found.

This year there was much activity in the legislature dealing with agricultural and farming issues. We changed some programs, began others. I believe that these can help lead us all back to economic recovery.

BROWN SWISS breed championship at Northwest Dairy Day Tuesday in Thief River Falls went to Nancy Geske, 14, Thief River Falls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Geske. Her grade two-year-old topped an entry by Lealand Vettleson of Gully which earned reserve champion honors.

TRF VFW Sweeps EGF In Baseball Season Opener

Thief River Falls VFW 16-year-olds opened their 1987 baseball season Monday with a 14-8, 6-2 doubleheader win at East Grand Forks.

It was a come-from-behind win in the opener as Thief River Falls spotted East Grand Forks a 4-0 head-start in the first inning. That deficit was quickly erased, however, by an eight-run second inning, with the winners tacking on single runs in the third, sixth and seventh to go along with a three-run fifth.

Thief River Falls out-hit East Grand Forks 11-5 in Game 1 as Rob Coltom and Hunter Boldt both went 3-for-4 while Dean DuChamp and David Roux were 2-for-4. Boldt was the starting and winning pitcher, but gave way to DuChamp in the fifth. Jared Erickson pitched the final two innings.

East Grand Forks had two of the game's three errors.

Coltom had another 3-for-4 plate performance in Game 2, while Sean Meyer, Casey Johnson and Roux collected two hits apiece as Thief River Falls duplicated its 11-5 base hit advantage of the first game. Johnson started on the mound and picked up the win. DuChamp came on in relief in the sixth.

Both sides scored a first inning run, but Thief River Falls broke the tie with another run in the second and opened up a 6-1 lead in the third.

Errors were even at two-apiece.

Scott McKeever served as coach of the Thief River Falls 16-year-olds.

Fast Pitch Team Is Tournament Winner

Second tournament outing of the 1987 season Sunday produced a championship finish for Schmidt Beer-American Legion as the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball team won the 16-team Grand Forks Invitational.

A four-division, round-robin schedule set the four-team senifinal field, followed by the third place and championsahip games.

Schmidt Beer-American Legion swept through its divisional schedule with wins over Grand Forks Air Force Base 4-0, Moose Lodge II of Fargo 2-0 and the Grand Forks Merchants 8-2. The Thief River Falls team whipped Roggensack Insulation of Fargo 11-1 in the semifinals, and handled Sabin 6-1 in the title game.

In going 5-0 for the day and 7-1 for the season, Schmidt Beer-American Legion out-scored the opposition 20-1 and committed only three errors — just one of them leading to a run.

Mike Drury pitched a three-hit shutout in the first game 4-0 win over the Grand Forks Air Force Base. He was backed by a fast-starting offense that included a first inning lead-off double by Kevin Sanders and an RBI single by Ron Ostby. Two walks and RBI singles by Mark Lundin and Bruce Johnson made it 3-0 in the third. Sanders, Johnson, Nick Drees and Howard Dalager all had two hits for the winners.

Drury added a four-hit shutout in the 2-0 Round 2 victory over Moose Lodge II of Fargo. It was a scoreless battle until the fifth when Reggie Harder collected a lead-off single, Tony Johnson came through with a sacrifice, then Roger Cota, Ostby and Lundin had base hits for the two runs. Sanders was 2-for-4 for the game. Marty Brown was the winning pitcher.

A four-run first inning powered Schmidt Beer-American Legion past the Grand Forks Merchants 8-2 for the first place finish in divisional play. Sanders, Ostby, Johnson and Cota all ahd base hits during the early uprising. Sanders was 3-for-4, while Drees, Ostby and Dalager all picked up two hits. Brown was the winner on the mound.

An easy 11-1 semifinal win over Roggensack Insulation of Fargo put Thief River Falls in the title game. Sanders, Cota and Johnson all had three hits. Lundin and Drees had two each. Brown was the winning pitcher.

Thief River Falls' 6-1 championship game win over Sabin started with a three-run first inning when Sanders singled, Cota had an RBI base hit and Lundin hit a two-run home run. Ostby had a solo homer in the third, with a walk and base hits by Harder and Sanders plating a pair of fith inning runs. Sanders and Cota were both 2-for-4, and Brown, who joins the team from Williams, won his third game of the day.

Schmidt Beer-American Legion will take this weekend off. The team will be in Detroit Lakes for a tournament Sunday, June 21.

Boys Earn Golf Letters

Twelve Thief River Falls boys were letter winners during the recently-completed 1987 boys high school golf season.

The group included seniors Jim Breiland, Bob Geatz, Steve Jung, Gene Leppala, and Jason Peterson; juniors Paul Antonenko and Jason Tangquist; sophomore Tony Kozojed; freshmen Roger Anderson, Geoff Antonenko and Wade Jorde; plus eighth grader Paul Borchert.

Although the 1987 season included five seniors who held down most of the varsity positions, a 12-meet schedule that included several back-to-back outings allowed second-year head coach Dick Tyler to give a number of underclassmen varsity starts on occasion, opening the door for improved performances next year.

"We had the opportunity for a lot of younger players to gain some varsity experience," acknowledged Tyler.

Thief River Falls' 1987 season included some strong individual performances, but no team honors.

"Individually we had kids who performed well at different meets," mentioned Tyler, "but we couldn't get four or five of them together at any one meet."

Thief River Falls' inconsistency surfaced at the 1987 Region 8AA meet in Park Rapids May 27 when the Prowlers finished 11th.

"I was generally satisfied with the regular season, but it was disappointing at the end," explained Tyler. "The kids shot really well in a practice round the day before the region, but they just couldn't put it together the day of the tournament. I thought we'd do a lot better than what we did."

Women's Slow Pitch

Angie Sinn hit a grand slam home run and a three-run homer Monday as VFW out-scored Wilson Brothers 12-10 in the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League. Cheryl Hendricks also homered for the winners.

Pepsi-Cola Bottling won twice, beating Rainbow Nursery 12-2 and then doubling Rusty Nail-KKAQ 14-7 as Connie Geatz hit a three-run home run and Kelly Olson tripled.

Ridge Runners dropped McDonald's 10-5 as Shannon Schafer and Vicki Hoverson went 3-for-4. Bobbi Thompson had a home run and two singles for the losers.

Brenda Russell, whose defense produced a second inning double play, hit a grand slam home run in the third inning to power Hair Dynamics past Narverud Cleaners 14-7. The winners also got a double play from Kari Hanson.

McDonald's winless at the start of the week, came up with three wins in two nights, beating the Thief River Falls Merchants 10-7 Monday, then taking both ends of a split doubleheader in a slate of make-up games Tuesday when Colleen Cullen tripled in a 13-11 McDonald's win over Narverud Cleaners, then homered in an 18-8 victory over Geno's Body Shop. Shari Larson tripled for the winners in Game 2.

Rainbow Nursery was also a doubleheader winner Tuesday. Barb Natvik was 4-for-4 with a home run and Marie Hvidsten also homered in a 15-3 win over Hair Dynamics that was followed by a 25-3 rout of Narverud Cleaners.

Pepsi-Cola Bottling handled Geno's Body Shop 13-3, while the Thief River Falls Merchants out-scored Hair Dynamics 2-9 as Patty Vaughn hit two home runs, one of them a grand slam, and Becky Sorteberg also homered. Cheri Bjorgaard and Brenda Russell homered for the losers.

Area Sports Briefs

Jewel Box Plays Metrodome Doubleheader

Jewel Box men's slow pitch softball team wound up with a doubleheader outing during the weekend Softball Marathon at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Immediately following Friday's Twins-Texas Rangers baseball game at the Dome, 15 straight hours of softball were staged for the benefit of the Minnesota Special Olympics and Softball Hall of Fame while saluting the sport in the state that featured over one million participants.

Jewel Box was one of 28 teams selected at random across the state invited to participate in the event if they met fund-raising figures set by the Twins. The Brett Brandon-managed team lost to Hasty of Monticello 13-2 in the event's final match-up Saturday at 1:40 p.m. but won a 13-8 game against Pink Diamond of Ogilvie in a midnight affair as a last-minute replacement for the Oklee A's, who didn't make the event.

Brandon said it was a great experience playing in the Metrodome. The players and fans enjoyed the opportunity to take part in the event, he said.

Lose State Tournament Games

Region 8AA and Region 8A champions Bemidji and Roseau were eliminated Tuesday in the opening round quarterfinals of the 1987 Minnesota State High School League state baseball tournaments.

Bemidji, 19-0 and the top-rated team in Class AA most of the year, lost a 5-4 game to Hopkins at St. Paul's Municipal Stadium.

Roseau, meanwhile, fell to St. Cloud Cathedral 6-4 in Class A action at St. Cloud's Municipal Stadium.

In the other Class AA games, Willmar edged Anoka 3-2, Apple Valley doubled Grand Rapids 8-4 and Park of Cottage Grove stopped Holy Angels Academy of Richfield 2-1.

In Class A, Greenway of Coleraine got by Long Prairie 3-2, Windom slipped past Cottonwood 3-2 and Waseca shut out Norwood-Young America 3-0.

Semifinals and finals of both classes will be played in the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

Class A games Friday will feature Willmar vs. Park at 12-noon and Hopkins vs. Apple Valley at 2:30 p.m. Third place game is at 6 p.m. and championship game will be played at 8:30.

Class A games Saturday will have Greenway vs. Windom at 12-noon and Waseca vs. St. Cloud Cathedral at 2:30. Third place game will be at 6 p.m. and championship game will be played at 8:30.

Volleyball Camp Scheduled In TRF

There are opening for 10 more girls for the first Thief River Falls volleyball day camp, scheduled to be held July 6-10 for students who will be in the fifth, sixth, seventh, or eighth grade during the 1987-88 school year. Thief River Falls head volleyball coach Helen Anderson will be the camp instructor. The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. sessions will be held in the Lincoln High School gym.

Cost of the program is $25 per student. The camp, which will run through the Community Ed program to help defray costs, will replace a planned Mobil Sports volleyball camp for that age group. Registration fee includes a camp T-shirt, awards and certificates of participation.

Registration fees, which must accompany the registration forms, are due July 1. Make checks payable to the Community Ed Department, Reh & LaBree, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Softball Tournaments Scheduled For TRF

Annual Lake Agassiz Invitational men's slow pitch softball tournament will be played Sunday, June 21.

It'll be a 14-team, round-robin affair guaranteeing teams six games.

Entry fee is $70. Tournament director is Brett Brandon, telephone 681-1330 or 681-2850.

Participants must have an ASA-MRSF membership card, and team rosters must be shown before their first game.

Plans have also been made for a 40-team Elks Invitational tournament August 8-9.

Entry fee is $75 for that one. Teams will be guaranteed four games. The event will include a Friday night mixer at the Elks Club and a Saturday night banquet at the Elks.

Ninth District Legion Play Underway

Early-season match-ups in Ninth District Class AA American Legion baseball action included a 7-6 Crookston victory over East Grand Forks Friday, followed by a East Grand Forks-Moorhead Blues doubleheader split Tuesday.

East Grand Forks, the only Ninth District Class AA team without a spring high school baseball program to get things going, surprised the perennially-strong Blues 6-5 in last night's doubleheader opener, but Moorhead took a one-sided 15-5 decision in the nightcap.

Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls round out the Ninth District Class AA line-up.

Golf Tournament Planned Here June 20

A four-man Texas scramble tournament will be held Saturday, June 20, at the Thief River Golf Club.

Teams of four golfers will compete in "Texas" style play, with golfers being organized by handicap that morning from all of the sign-ups.

Cost is $5 per person. To register contact the Thief River Golf Club Pro Shop at 681-2955. Play will start at 9 a.m.

TRF Is One Of 21 Sites For DNR Fishing Piers

Opportunities for angling in 21 Minnesota lakes and rivers will be greatly enhanced this summer with the installation of floating fishing piers and shore fishing areas by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The piers are designed to provide improved fishing opportunities for all anglers, especially the handicapped, senior citizens and youngsters. They will enhance fishing on lakes and rivers totalling more than 140,000 acres.

T-shaped wood and steel piers, which range in size from 64 to 104 feet long, were built by Minnesota Correctional Industries at the Stillwater State Correctional Facility.

DNR water access specialists said the floating piers have the advantage of being more stable than docks and, unlike docks, can be left in the water year around. "We've received a great deal of positive feedback from anglers about the popularity of these piers. They provide a means for getting people without boats out on the water to enjoy fishing opportunities," Alexander said.

In addition to the piers, shoreline improvements include a surfaced path and benches to improve fishing access on the Mississippi River at Palisade in Aitkin County, and a wooden deck to be installed on the river at Little Falls.

Piers and other shoreline improvements, are funded through the Reinvest In Minnesota (RIM) program and the Cooperative Opportunities For Resource Enhancement Program (CORE), paid for out of the fishing license surcharge. The piers are provided by the DNR through the CORE program and maintained by local units of government, through a cooperative agreement with the DNR Trails & Waterways Unit which manages the piers jointly with the Section of Fisheries.

Red Lake River in Thief River Falls will be the site of one of the piers. Delivery date is set for July 13.

Other pier locations will include Birch Lake, Hackensack; Lake Belle Tain, Nevis; Mora Lake, Mora; Mille Lacs Lake, Isle; Sisseton Lake, Fairmont; Second Fulda Lake, Fulda; South Lindstrom Lake, Lindstrom; Thole Lake, Scott County; Lion Lake, Mankato; Long Lake, Vergas; Rainy Lake, Tilson Bay; Whitewater Lake, Hoyt Lakes; Rice Lake, Brainerd; Serpent Lake, Crosby; Madison Lake, Madison Lake; Eastside Lake, Austin; Tanner's Lake, Oakdale; Lake Marion, Lakeville; Mississippi River, Palisade; and Mississippi River, Little Falls.

Maps will be made available through the DNR in early summer showing the pier locations.

TRF-Warroad Game Canceled

Warroad officials, unable to field a team, canceled a scheduled American Legion baseball doubleheader in Thief River Falls Tuesday. Post 117 regulars were to play in the opener; the Legion B team Bombers were to take the field in the nightcap.

Thief River Falls, 1-0 after opening the 1987 season last week with a 16-2 rout of Norman County West, is scheduled to be in Karlstad Thursday for a 7 p.m. game.

Men's Golf League

Twenty-nine teams that make up the Thief River Falls Men's Golf League have completed two weeks of the 1987 Wednesday competition.

Team point standings are determined by comparing scorecards of the competing teams each week during the head-to-head match-ups. Teams play for 16 points. Lowest to highest handicap golfers on each team compare scores for low net. Each player who wins the match-up collects two points, the loser goes scoreless and ties produce one point apiece. Six points are awarded to the team with the low net score. Ties produce three points for each side.

League rounds must be completed by closing on the Friday after the Men's Night schedule.

Season schedule will be broken into two halves. Qualifiers from each half season will compete in a one-night post-season tournament championship.

DNR NEWS

Americans Enjoy Wildlife

Preliminary results from a national survey show that 141 million Americans age 16 and older participated in wildlife-associated recreation in 1985, according to the Wildlife Management Institute. The participants spent more than $55 billion pursuing those activities.

The 1985 National Survey of Fishing, Hunting, and Wildlife - Associated Recreation found that 46.6 million Americans (one in four) fished in 1985, and 16.7 million (one in ten) hunted. About 109.7 million participated in non-consumptive activities such as bird watching and wildlife photography.

The 1985 survey is the seventh in a series conducted at five-year intervals by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The preliminary figures were released at the 52nd North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference in Quebec City. The survey suggests that the number of fishermen and non-consumptive users increased substantially between 1980 and 1985. The number of hunters declined slightly. Service researchers cautioned, however, that the significance of variations or trends between surveys cannot be determined until all of the data are available.

The Service says that the final report will be completed in late November of this year and available to the public.

Itasca Park Program

Bill Morrissey, newly appointed director of the State Park Division of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), will be master of ceremonies for a symbolic log drive commemorating the 50th anniversary of the last major river log drive in Minnesota. Main ceremonies will take place Sunday, June 14, at Itasca State Park beginning at 12-noon.

The event marks the 50th anniversary of the Littlefork River log drive which took place in the spring and summer of 1937. In that drive, 30,000 cords of pulpwood and 13,000,000 board feet of saw logs were driven down the Littlefork River to the Rainy River and on to Loman. There the logs were sorted and then transported by rail to the sawmill and paper mill in International Falls.

At Itasca State Park, a log boom will be floated from Lake Itasca to the Headwaters of the Mississippi River. Eventually, a pilot log or logs will be driven by river drivers from the headwaters, down the Mississippi, to Lake Bemidji.

The log drive will be held concurrently with Upper Mississippi River Revival annual canoeing events and is also part of Bemidji's Year of the Legend celebration. The Mississippi River Revival is a growing annual movement recognizing the importance of water quality as an economic, recreational, and cultural resource. The Year of the Legend celebrates the 50th anniversary of the placement of the statues of Paul Bunyan and Babe the Blue Ox on the shores of Lake Bemidji.

A movie entitled The Last Log Drive, made in 1937 as a documentary of the Littlfork drive, will be shown Friday and Saturday, June 12 and 13, at 3 and 7 p.m. at the Forest Inn at Itasca State Park.

Several lumberjacks who participated in the Littlefork drive and other log drives are expected to attend the ceremonies on June 14. Historians and naturalists will also be on hand to discuss the history and importance of logging in the region.

Representatives from the Minnesota Historical Society, the Minnesota Forestry Association, other officials from the DNR and from Hubbard, Clearwater, and Beltrami counties will also be on hand. The public is invited to view the film and take part in the ceremony. For more information, contact Paul Rundell at the DNR Regional Office in Bemidji, telephone 755-2869.

Walleye Rule Proposed

Anglers seeking walleyes on the Mississippi River could catch more and larger fish if they support new and proposed regulations. The regulations are based on computer studies showing that more walleyes of larger average size and more trophy-sized fish could result if new size and bag limits are implemented in the area that includes Lake Pepin, called Pool 4.

"Results of studies done with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources show that implementing a 15-inch minimum walleye size limit and setting a three walleye possession limit on the Mississippi River's Pool 4 would significantly increase the average size and weight of a walleye," said DNR regional fisheries manager Bill Johnson of Rochester.

"Total pounds of walleye taken from Pool 4 would remain the same after the regulation change, but the average size fish kept would weigh about 2.5 pounds, a fish no angler would be embarrassed to take home," Johnson said.

Because anglers would need to release fish under 15 inches, the total walleye population would increase, especially fish in the 12 to 15-inch range. Anglers would be able to catch and release more fish while they seek 15-inch and larger fish to take home. "That could cut down on time between bites," Johnson said.

Another regulation change would limit anglers to possession of only one walleye over 20 inches. "If anglers exercise moderate restraint and don't take big fish home over the short-term, they'll have even more fun later because their chances of hooking a trophy walleye will increase as that size increases in the population," Jophnson said.

He noted that Wisconsin agrees with the proposal and has initiated its rule-making process to implement the regulations in the boundary waters. "We are hopeful that Minnesota anglers will also approve the regulation changes so that two conflicting sets of rules are not in effect on the river," Johnson said.

Contacts will be made with concerned sportsmen's groups and a public input meeting will be held on the proposed regulation changes before a final decision is made.

Safe Boating Week

Are you a safe boater? Is your boat properly equipped for safe operation and are you confident of your knowledge of boating safety? If not, the National Safe Boating Week, June 7-13, was meant for you.

Since 1958, the week beginning with the first Sunday of June has been declared National Safe Boating Week. This year, both President Reagan and Governor Perpich have signed proclamations declaring the week of June 7-13 to be Safe Boating Week, urging all boat operators to familiarize themselves with the courtesies and basic principles of boating safety.

In Minnesota, more than 645,000 watercraft are registered with the Department of Natural Resources. The DNR Boat and Water Safety Section promotes safe boating and has made available free information about safe boating requirements in Minnesota. These items include a do-it-yourself safe-boating course, the Minnesota State Boating Guide, which explains state boating regulations, and a new brochure entitled "Hypothermia: The Cold Facts". The DNR estimates that hypothermia, the loss of core body temperature, is involved in about half the boating accident fatalities in the state.

DNR urges all Minnesota boat owners to prepare themselves and their boats for a season of safe recreational boating. To obtain free boat-safety information from the DNR call toll-free 1-800-652-9747 and ask for the DNR Information Center.

DNR Parks Director

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has named William Morrissey as Director of its Division of Parks and Recreation. Morrissey was serving as Regional Administrator for the DNR's Southeast Minnesota region, based in Rochester.

"Bill is a valuable addition to our management staff and will be an excellent leader for our Parks and Recreation Division. He is an excellent communicator who works well with people inside the DNR and with the public," DNR Commissioner Joe Alexander said in announcing the appointment.

Morrissey replaces Don Davidson, who retired in January after 38 years with the Department. His responsibilities will include overseeing the management and operations of Minnesota's 64 state parks.

"I intend to put special emphasis on educating the public to what we are doing in our parks and recreation areas and getting them more involved," Morrissey said. "I want us to continue our efforts to meet the needs of the public and do as much as we can to strengthen their participation with our excellent parks staff."

Morrissey, 43, has a Forestry and Outdoor Recreation degree from the University of Minnesota. He has been a Regional Administrator since 1984 and was Forest Planning Supervisor prior to that position. He also has worked in the Trails and Waterways Unit, the Office of Planning, and the Division of Parks since coming to the DNR in 1973.

He served in the U.S. Army in Germany from 1968-70 in the headquarters of a combat engineering group. Morrissey graduated from Cretin High School in St. Paul.

Repair Permits Available

Summer residents of northwest and west-central Minnesota who are just now returning to their lake homes and cabins may find that their shoreline has been rearranged by "ice-push" damage caused by ice expansion this past winter. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources made arrangements earlier this spring to help save many shoreland property owners both time and money in obtaining the necessary permits to repair ice-push shoreline damage.

Ordinarily, individual landowners seeking DNR permits to alter or restore shoreline property must have their permit applications reviewed by local officials in their county zoning office, local watershed district, and soil and water conservation district offices; and pay a $50 application fee. Local officials then have, by law, up to 30 days to review the application.

Last April, the DNR sought prior approval from officials in 13 counties in northwest and west-central Minnesota which the DNR had identified as having potential for large numbers of requests for shoreline repair permits. Under this one-time, emergency permit proposal, the DNR made general permit applications on behalf of all lakeshore property owners in each county; thereby saving individual landowners both the $50 application fee and the waiting period.

The 13 counties included in this plan include Otter Tail, Dooglas, Pope, Grant, Stevens, Becker, Mahnomen, Polk, Clay, Baltrami, Hubbard, Clearwater, and Lake of the Woods.

Individual landowners must still have their shoreline damage inspected and the repair project approved by the DNR area hydrologist. Once a site is inspected and approved, the DNR hydrologist will issue a permit on the spot at no cost to the landowner.

Both property owners and the contractors they hire to make the repairs must still comply with all the usual requirements for shoreline projects. The DNR also says that this special permit procedure only applies to ice-ridge repair and other minor, ice-related damge. Landowners wishing to make other shoreline alterations must make a regular permit application to the DNR.

For more information, lakeshore property owners should contact the DNR hyrdologist in their area. There are four hydrologists in the DNR Northwest Region: Brent Johnson in Thief River Falls, 681-7789; Kirk English in Bemidji, 755-3973; Bob Merritt in Detroit Lakes, 847-1579; and Terry Lejcher in Fergus Falls, 739-7576.

Entrance Fees Proposed For Selected Wildlife Refuges

In accordance with the Emergency Wetlands Resourses Act of 1986, entrance fees could be charged this year for the first time at some national wildlife refuges under a proposed rulemaking by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Unlike other federal land units where entrance fees are charged, national wildlife refuges were prohibited legislatively from the practice until Congressional passage of the Emergency Wetlands Resources Act of 1986. The measure calls for proceeds to remain with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to fund refuge operations and future land acquisition efforts. The Act also contains measures aimed at stemming the nation's continuing loss of wetland habitat vital to a diversity of fish and wildlife species.

In announcing fee plans, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Director Frank Dunkle said: "Money raised through these entrance fees would go toward refuge operations and the addition of new areas to the nation's refuge system. These funds would provide an important means of bolstering deposits in the Migratory Bird Conservation Account — the Service's primary account for acquisition of vital wetland habitat."

As part of the Act, Congress authorized a procedure whereby 30 per cent of the daily fees collected would be used for refuge operation and maintenance. The remaining 70 per cent would be deposited in the Migratory Bird conservation Account. Projected revenues when the program is fully operational are estimated to be approximately $8.3 million in Fiscal Year 1988.

Nominal entry fees would vary by refuge. Under the proposal, there would be no charge for children under 16 years of age, and admission fees may be waived or reduced for school and other groups visiting the refuge for the purpose of environmental education or similar activities.

In lieu of an entry fee, a valid, current Federal Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp, more commonly known as the Duck Stamp, could be used as a year-round pass by the purchaser and those accompanying him or her in a single, private vehicle.

Duck Stamps can be purchased at most post offices and a number of national wildlife refuges for $10 beginning July 1. Proceeds from the sale of these stamps also are deposited in the Migratory Bird Conservation Account.

Other passes that would admit visitors to refuges include the Golden Eagle Passport ($25 per year), and the free, life-time Golden Age Passport available to visitors who are 62 years of age or older, or the Golden Access Passport for those who are blind or disabled. Golden Passports also admit accompanying passengers and are valid at national parks and forests. They can be obtained at some national wildlife refuges and most national parks and forests.

In the United States Fish and Wildlife Service's North Central Region, plans are to charge entrance fees at five national wildlife refuges. Proposed to begin collecting entrance fees are: Muscatatuck National Wildlife Refuge near Seymour, Indiana; De Soto National Wildlife Refuge near Missouri Valley, Iowa; Seney National Wildlife Refuge near Seney, Michigan; Sherburne National Wildlife Refuge near Zimmerman, Minnesota; and Ottawa National Wildlife Refuge near Oak Harbor, Ohio. Plans are to begin collecting entrance fees at Seney National Wildlife Refuge on July 15, 1987. The other four refuges would begin collecting entrance fees on September 1 of this year.

Each of these refuges would collect an entrance fee of $2 per vehicle, and $1 per person for those arriving in a van or bus with 10 or more people.

Waterfowl Populations Examined . . .

U.S., Canada Release Findings Of Hunting Regulations Study

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Canadian Wildlife Service have released preliminary findings of a five-year study of the relationship between duck populations and duck hunting regulations.

The study, conducted jointly by the two federal wildlife agencies along with state and provincial agencies, sought to clarify this relationship by examining duck populations and harvests from 1979-85. During this time, duck hunting season lengths and bag limits were maintained at the level established for the 1979-80 hunting season. The progrm ended with the 1984-85 waterfowl hunting season.

The study was designed to provide a better understanding of duck breeding populations, availibility of breeding habitat, nesting success and production, hunter activity and success, and annual and seasonal survival rates. Previous to the study, duck hunting regulations were changed annually in response to changes in the yearly status of duck habitat and populations. These annual changes made it difficult for waterfowl managers to interpret the effects of these factors on duck populations.

Ultimate goal of this study was to evaluate the factors that appear to be most important in regulating duck populations and to determine management actions needed to ensure adequate duck populations in the future.

Much of the data need further analysis, and no major changes to this year's waterfowl hunting regulations will be proposed on the basis of these preliminary results. This year's regulations will be established through normal procedures, following analysis of annual surveys of breeding populations, habitat conditions, and duck production.

Investigations focused primarily on mallards breeding in the prairie-parkland region of central Canada and the north-central United States and wintering in the Mississippi Delta, but data also were examined for other duck species and other areas in North America. The study period coincided with a severe drought in major duck breeding areas of the United States and Canada and with record low numbers of important duck species such as mallards and pintails.

Among the findings of the study were the following:

+ Breeding populations of mallards, blue-winged teal, and pintails, declined dramatically during the stabilized regulations period. Drought on prairie-parkland breeding areas had a strong effect in limiting production in some years.

+ Traditional breeding areas, particularly in Prairie-Parkland Canada, have experienced lasting adverse changes in habitat quality, raising concerns that ducks will not be able to rebound as quickly as in the past following periods when their populations have dropped because of drought or othe adverse breeding conditions.

+ Number of ponds available in Prairie-Parkland Canada did not have the same influence on the distribution of duck breeding populations as in the past. Formely, waterfowl managers, assumed that when wet weather made more ponds available in key breeding areas, ducks would use them. During the stabilized regulations period, increased numbers of ponds were not alone sufficient to ensure increased duck use. While ducks still reproduce better in years when there are more ponds, recent evidence indicates that production potential in Prairie-Parkland Canada has been reduced. In many areas, lack of quality upland nesting cover is becoming a critical factor for duck production. In addition, for the first time in 1979 and 1983, good duck production was not followed by increases in the size of the breeding population the following year. The reason for this is not fully understood.

+ Destruction of nests and losses of hens to predators have an important and perhaps dominant influence on the ability of some duck populations to sustain themselves. Overall nesting success was low for mallards in the mid-continent areas studied, contributing to poor production during most of the stabilized regulationsperiod. Increasedlosses are associated with loss of nesting habitat, because remaining habitat tends to be preserved in broken-up sections or "islands" that concentrate predators.

+ Previous studies had failed to show a strong relationship between harvest and survival rates for mallards on a continent-wide basis. The results of the stabilized regulations study provide evidence that harvest rates may have adversely impacted survival of male mallards in recent years. Therefore, the present low population levels support a conservative view that recent harvest rates were high.

+ Special banding studies of seasonal survival rates for mallards revealed that death rates for males are higher during hunting season and much lower during breeding season than for females. Females are subjected to substantial mortality in both the breeding and hunting seasons. Female morality is due primarily to predation during spring and summer, whereas hunting was the major documented cause of death for hen mallards wintering in the Mississippi Delta.

+ Harvest in the U.S. remained relatively stable even when there were fewer ducks, supporting the need for conservative hunting regulations during years of low populatons.

Issue of whether stabilized duck hunting regulations should be adopted by the U.S. again in the future will be examined by the Fish and Wildlife Service as part of a new supplemental environmental impact statement on migratory bird hunting now in preparation. A draft of this document is expected to be available for public comment this month.

A paper summarizing management implications from the studies to date was presented jointly by the U.S. and Canadian wildlife agencies at the North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference in Quebec, Canada, on March 24. Copies of this paper and other information on the study results are available from the Office of Migratory Bird Management, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Room 536 Matomic Bldg., Department of the Interior, Washington, DC 20240.

Minnesota Masters Track Meet Set For Park Rapids

Minnesota Sub-Masters and Masters track and field championships meet for men and women ages 30-85 will be held Saturday, July 11, at Park Rapids.

Competition will be held in five-year age group categories in all track and field events: Participants must be members of The Athletic Congress of the United States. TAC cards will be available for sale at the meet for $6.

Entry fees will be $6 for one event, $9 for two events and $10 for unlimited event entries if received by July 7. Entry fees will be $8 per event after that date. Relay entry fee is $10.

Meet starting time is 9 a.m.

Entry forms are available by contacting Chuck Olson, Route 2, Box 158, Nevis, MN 56467. Meet director is Al Potter.

Applications For 1987 Moose Hunt Are Due Monday

Applications for Minnesota's 1987 moose hunting season must be postmarked no later than Monday, June 15, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Those who received moose hunting permits in any year after 1975 are not eligible to apply this year.

Applicants must provide their driver's license number or their Minnesota I.D. card number. The use of one of the numbers is necessary to enforce the regulation that excludes previous moose license holders from the drawing for a period of five seasons. A $4 fee must accompany each party application.

A total of 1,300 hunting parties, each comprising four persons, will be selected at random by computer. This will allow 5,200 hunters to take part in this season's hunt.

License fee is $200 per party.

Application blanks and instructions showing the various hunting zones can be obtained from county auditors and most license agents.

Hunters receiving permits for northeastern Minnesota moose zones are required to attend an orientation session this fall prior to the season. The three meeting locations are Ely, Isabella and Silver Bay.

Clearbrook Run Is Scheduled To Be Held June 27

Clearbrook Summerfest Run For Fun will be held Saturday, June 27, at 9 a.m.

The 2.1-mile, 5-mile, and 9-mile relay runs begin and end at the city park. All runners must be registered by 8:45 that morning at the park, either in person that day or previously by mail.

All participants finishing the course will receive a race T-shirt. Trophies will go to the top male and female finishers in various age categories.

The new 9-mile relay run involves three-member teams covering three miles each. There are no age or sex restrictions on the relay event.

Entry fee is $6 before June 24; $8 after that date, or $3 without a T-shirt. Relay entry fee is $15 per team. Registration forms are available from Glenn Rettmann, Route 1, Box 29, Gonvick, MN 56644; telephone 487-5817 or 776-3713.

Warroad Youth Honored

Minnesota students won a total of six prizes in the 10th annual National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest, including five of the top seven awards.

Erik Jones of Alexandria won the grand prize and will receive a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond from the National Shooting Sports Foundation.

Chris Thole of Wayzata won first prize in the Senior Division and will receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. Cory Meyer of Raymond won third prize in the Senior Division and will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond. Colleen Haws of St. Cloud won first prize in the Junior Division and will receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. Scott Jurek of Proctor won second prize in the Junior Division and will receive a $250 U.S. Savings Bond. Earl Burress of Warroad won a Merit Award and will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Entries by Erik, Chris, Cory, Colleen, and Scott were sponsored by the Minnesota Conservation Federation. Earl's entry was sponsored by Boy Scout Troop 151 in Warroad.

Their posters were among thousands entered by students in local NHF Day Poster Contests sponsored by schools, youth groups, sportsmen's clubs, and civic and conservation organizations across the country.

Entries were judged on how well the students illustrated the contest theme, "The Pittman-Robertson Act — 50 Years of Sportsmen Helping Wildlife," and on their artistic merit and originality.

In addition to prizes awarded in local contests, there were nearly 100 national awards totaling over $7,500 in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Purpose of the National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest is to encourage students to learn more about conservation and to foster an increased awareness of the role that sportsmen play in this country's conservation efforts. The contest is open to all students in grades 5-12.

Hunters and fishermen have played a major role in conservation since before the turn of the century and they have contributed more than $6 billion to fund conservation programs. Through special taxes and license fees and private contributions, they have paid for fish and wildlife management programs and the acquisition of millions of acres of vital habitat that benefit all wildlife.

Sportsmen were also instrumental in establishing the state fish and wildlife agencies that play a key role in America's conservation efforts. These agencies now control and manage nearly 42 million acres of prime wildlife habitat. These areas support hundreds of non-game as well as game species, and they provide recreational opportunities for everyone — from birdwatchers to hikers to hunters and fishermen.

Much of the money to support these agencies and their programs comes from hunters and fishermen.

Information on how to sponsor or enter the 1988 National Hunting and Fishing Day Poster Contest is available free from NHF Day Headquarters, P.O. Box 1075, Riverside, CT 06878.

Grouse Program Is Featured Saturday At Hayes Lake Park

Grouse Country will be the featured movie Saturday, June 13, at 8 p.m. at Hayes Lake State Park.

"Thought by many to be dull in appearance, shy and retiring, ruffed grouse are in fact birds of surprising beauty and are capable of incredible behavior," explained park officials.

In Loving Memory

In Memory of Kristi Dyrdal.
No further away than a picture,
A smile or remembered phrase,
Our loved one lives in memory —
So close in so many ways.
For how often does a sunset
Bring nostalgic thoughts to mind
Of moments that our loved one shared
In days now left behind!
How often has a flower
Or the brilliance of summer sky
Brought golden recollections
Of happy days gone by!
Yes, memory has a magic way
Of keeping our loved one near —
Ever close in mind and heart
Are the ones we hold most dear.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for the sympathy and kindness shown us in our recent tragedy, the death of our beloved Sean.

Thanks to the highway patrol, ambulance crew, Dr. Mestery, Dr. Bray, the ICU nurses and Green Funeral Home.

Special thanks to Pastors Paul Coen, and D. Josh Nelson for their words of comfort. Jan Peterson and Dorothy Larson for music. To the pallbearers; to the ladies who served lunch at church. Also thanks to all of you who brought food to our homes and to everyone who sent cards and memorials or expressed sympathy in any way. May God bless each and every one.

Flag Day Program Sunday Sponsored By Elks Lodge

In observance of Flag Day on Sunday, June 14, the Elks Lodge of Thief River Falls will once again hold its flag tribute and history program. The program is scheduled for 5 p.m. on Flag Day in Elks park (south of the third street bridge). In the event of rain, the program will be held in the city auditorium.

Speaker this year will be Irvin Wilson of Thief River Falls. Wilson is a past exalted ruler of the local Elks lodge, former president of the Minnesota State Elks association, and currently serves on the Americanism committee for the Elks Grand Lodge of the United States. Soloists for the program will be Jodi Anderson and Dave Carlson.

Also participating will be units from the local American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars Posts. Local Cub scouts will assist with the flag history portion of the program which will be presented by members of Elks Lodge 1308.

The public is encouraged to attend this program honoring our nation's flag. The Elks would also like to remind citizens to fly their flags in observance of the day.

Cwikla Receives UND Scholarship

Brian Cwikla of Middle River has earned the Ormiston Kermott scholarship at the University of North Dakota school of engineering and mines. The award is based on academic ability and performance.

I'll Take Charge Is Topic Of New 4H Club Program

Minnesota 4-H will receive a $106,000 grant from the Pillsbury company to create a new program for career development education in rural Minnesota called "I'll Take Charge."

The program's aim is to guide rural youth in defining both career and lifestyle goals. It is expected to reach more than 8,000 4-H club members within three years.

Changes in the state's rural communities and economy have created a real need for such a program, according to Joyce Walker, an extension specialist in 4-H youth development who is coordinating the program. "The farm crisis has eliminated many of the traditional employment and lifestyle choices that young people and their parents used to take for granted," Walker says.

"In addition, changes in curriculum emphasis and the growing range of responsibilities counselors bear make it increasingly difficult for our schools to spend helping rural youth explore career choices. We hope that "I'll Take Charge" can help respond to this tremendous need in rural Minnesota."

A two-year "I'll Take Charge" pilot program will be launched in the next year in six to 10 Minnesota counties, Walker says. Among its goals are the following:

+ To cooperate with schools in reviewing curricula and anlayzing the best learning materials available;

+ To create informal learning materials especially suited to a decentralized rural population; and

+ To design a consumer-oriented curriculum that encourages mentoring, role-playing and volunteerism.

A group of local and national experts in career development will advise the pilot program. Dr. Diane Hedin, of the University of Minnesota's center for youth development and research, will serve as advisor for the project.

Ag Computer Use Workshop Set At Public Library

Thief River Falls public library will host a two-hour ag software workshop using its new IBM personal computer on Tuesday, June 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the library.

This workshop will use of the computer for farmers, introduce new materials for farmers in the library and available through the Northwest regional library system, and focus on how to use the farm software packet entitled "Farm". "Farm" is a computerized accounting system designed specifically for farmers and is considered the easiest to run of the farm accounting systems on the market today.

This workshop is provided free of charge and the general public is invited to attend. However, the library asks that those attending preregister at the library by June 19. Workshops at which five or more people have pre-registered will be conducted by Al Dalen, agriculture instructor and agriculture computer consultant from the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute, who will be assisted by computer consultant Matthew Havumaki. Workshops at which less than five people are pre-registered will be conducted by Havumaki.

These workshops are provided by the Northwest regional library system through a grant from the Northwest Minnesota initiative fund. The full workshop schedule for the regional system is as follows:

June 23 — 2 to 4 p.m., Greenbush public library and 7 to 9 p.m. Thief River Falls public library;

June 24 — 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Roseau public library and 2 to 4 p.m., Warroad public library;

June 25 — 9 to 11 a.m., Godel memorial library (Warren), 2 to 4 p.m., Hallock public library and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Red Lake Falls public library.

Old Mill State Park Celebrates Its 50th Anniversary Year

ABANDONED. This bike was abandoned by its owner last Sunday for cool waters of the swimming hole at Old Mill State park. Last week's celebration at the park drew a large number of people, many of whom enjoyed the cool water of the swimming hole.

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Sunday marked the 50th anniversary of Old Mill state park. A large number of people young and old showed up to enjoy the day, start up the mill and help celebrate the 50th anniversary of the park.

Established in 1937, Old Mill State park serves as an example of local initiative. Throughout its history local initiative has played an important and powerful influence.

Several awards were presented at the park Sunday. All of those awards were examples of local initiative and resolve to see the park grow. The Marshall county historical society received the meritorious service award. In a letter signed by Joe Alexander, commissioner of Natural resources, Alexander cited the exceptional working partnership the park has had with the historical society.

Alexander's letter, which was read by Merle DeBoer, regional manager for state parks, noted that the society had served 2,500 or more hours of voluntary time during the last seven years. DeBoer added that it would be impossible for the department to provide the kind of historical interpretership provided by members of the historical society.

Minnesota Volunteers in Parks, VIP, in a cooperative effort with the Marshall county historical society bring to life the 100 year old mill stones at the Old Mill State park each year. During the times when the steam engine operates, the society arranges for a qualified steam engineer to run the 1878 Case A-359 eight horse power stationary engine as well as a miller and helpers. Fresh ground flour can be purchased in souvenir five pound bags on the porch of the old cabin.

Oliver LaBine, representing the Marshall county historical society, received the award on behalf of all members in the society. He said there has always existed a close bond between Old Mill State park and the historical society, and continued cooperation is assured.

Two Lutheran churches received awards Sunday also. The Association of American Lutheran Churches, branch 1515, Immanuel Lutheran church in Radium, provided the funds to purchase and build new playground equipment at the park. Branch 6397, the Zion Lutheran church in Warren, provided funds for new electrical sites.

Park manager Leonard Anderson said it is just this sort of initiative he needs to help the park survive expected budget cuts. Anderson said he expects budget cuts which were announced by DeBoer Sunday to effect Old Mill State park, but he did not know how yet. DeBoer announced that budget cuts, due to a shortfall of $400,000 in funds to effect state parks across the state. DeBoer said Old Mill State park was in a vulnerable position.

Anderson and DeBoer said anyone interested in helping the park or participating in discussions on budget cuts and needs of the park, could contact Anderson at rural route 1, Argyle

Budget cuts are not the only concerns at Old Mill State park. Because of strict new safety guidelines, this may be the last year the steam engine is fired up to mill flour. Anderson said he wasn't sure of the details of the new regulations but said Tuesday may be the last day the park is able to fire up the steam engine.

Despite the bad news, the park staff and visitors went on about their business in the relaxing atmosphere of the park and celebrated the 50 year celebration. Several people chose to swim in the swimming hole, many chose a walk along one of the many nature trails around the 287 acre park, while still others chose to cook on an open grill or see the old steam engine mill flour.

Sunday found many of the visitors just visiting about memorable days of their youth in which they went skinny dipping at the park or took their girl friends to the park, or went to the park for picnics. Perhaps the large number of people enjoying themselves at the park encouraged discussing those memories.

Anderson said park visitation has been phenomenal this year. Through May the number of visitors to the park is up by more than 50 per cent

Boys State Held June 14 To 20 At Collegeville

Boys State, an intensive one-week learning experience in how our government operates and makes laws, will be held June 14-20 at St. John's university at Collegeville, according to Eugene Shiek, Moorhead, state director.

Boys State is sponsored by the American Legion, department of Minnesota and designed to inspire high school boys entering their senior year in taking an active role in government.

This year, nearly 500 youngsters will participate in Boys State, a record high. The boys involved organize and operate their own city, county and state governments. They introduce and argue their won bills in their own legislature. Justice is administered by their own law enforcement agancies and courts and they choose their own government officials in accordance with regular election procedures.

The Boys Staters also form a band and chorus, publish a newspaper and participate in team sports as part of their week-long activity. They elect their delegates to county political party conventions at a caucus and file for county office. They form two political parties ... one called "Nationalist" and one "Federalist," each holding its own county and state conventions.

Gregory Orman of Mankato, 1986 Boys Nation president and 1986 Legion Boys State governor in Minnesota, will extend official greetings to the 1987 Boys Staters. Department Commander Bud Redepenning of Anoka also will extend greetings.

Edwin A. Martini Jr., administrator, Masonic Home in Bloomington, will address the group. He is former Boys State Lieutenant Governor from Minnesota.

Boys State is celebrating its 52nd year nationally, the 39th in Minnesota. It began in Illinois in 1935 and Minnesota in 1948. Boys State has now spread to 49 states and the District of Columbia. "Boys State should be thought of as an imaginary 51st state constructed by its citizens to govern themselves," Shiek said.

Summer Library Program Starts Wed., June 17th

The 1987 Thief River Falls summer library program entitled, "Paws at Your Library," will begin Wednesday, June 17, at 1:30 p.m. for kindergarten through sixth grade children. The opening program features entertainer Dean Hedlund. Registration, games, treats and a film will follow his performance.

Cats abound in this summer's program and children are invited to attend special programs every Wednesday at 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. from June 17 through July 29.

The summer reading program for toddlers (1-3 years) and preschool (3-5 years) will be held June 2 to July 28. Toddler and preschool groups meet on alternating Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. For more information call 681-4325.

FLORENCE KUZNIA was one of the many volunteers to help make the open house at Old Mill State park a success last Sunday. Florence was selling flour and bran. She set up her table in front of the log cabin at the park, which is located near the old mill, and saw a steady flow of traffic.

NW Counties Get $810,377 For Title 11-A Program

Minnesota will receive federal grants totaling $35.3 million to provide job training for adults and youths, representing a slight increase from the previous year's allocation of $34.7 million, Gov. Rudy Perpich announced today.

Job training services are made available through districts within the state called service delivery areas.

In the northwest counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau, $810,377 will be made available for basic job training services, a 15.4 per cent increase from the 1986-87 program year.

Funds will be provided for the 12-month period beginning July 1, 1987, under the provisions of the federal job training Partnership act (JTPA). A total of $2.6 billion has been allocated nationally, down $9 million from a year ago.

The grants fund the JTPA basic program, which provides job trainig to Minnesota's low-income and unemployed adults and youths, the summer youth employment, an training program and dislocated workers programs.

Private industry councils and local governments plan local job training activities. The groups served are economically disadvantaged workers and workers displaced by plant or business closings or technological changes.

Among the job training activities provided are: remedial education, classroom instruction, vocational counseling, school-to-work transition assistance, on-the-job training, job upgrading, retraining, job search assistance and job placement. Services vary among local job training offices.

Services to employers include: referral of prescreened, qualified job applications, customized training and reimbursement for up to half the wages paid during on-the-job training. No fees are charged for services.

Former Resident Of T.R. Falls Gives Museum $1 Million

Miles Fiterman, a former Thief River Falls resident who made a financial success of Miles Homes in Minneapolis, has given $1 million to the Norton Gallery and School of Art in Palm Beach, FL. Fiterman and his wife Shirley divide their time between Minneapolis and Palm Beach and Shirley is president of the Norton museum.

Fiterman's father had a business in Thief River Falls several years and his brother Edward had a tire and auto business here in the 1920's.

Board Of ICCC Meets June 17

Board of directors of Inter-County Community council, Inc. will meet in regular session on Wednesday, June 17, at 5 p.m. at the senior meals site in Oklee.

All board members are encouraged to attend.

AFLC To Hold Church Conference In TRF Next Week

Upwards of 500 delegates are expected in Thief River Falls next week when the annual conference of the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations is held at Lincoln high school auditorium, June 17-21. While the majority of delegates will be from Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin, they will be coming from about 15 states coast to coast and Saskatchewan in Canada.

The conference is the association's 25th. The organizational conference was held at Our Saviour's Lutheran church of Thief River Falls and the nearby Knox elementary school, Oct. 25-28, 1962. At that time almost 300 people gathered, many of them interested in perpetuating the ideals of the Lutheran Free church apart from the American Lutheran church, with which the LFC was soon to merge (Feb. 1, 1963). The AFLC came into being at that time, although the name was assumed a little later. From about 40 congregations at the beginning, the Association has quadrupled in size.

Conferences were also held in Thief River Falls in 1966 and 1974.

The AFLC is conservative in its approach to the Scriptures, emphasizes spiritual unity rather than organizational union, believes in the freedom of the local congregation, does not belong to the World or National councils of churches and stresses Christian conduct as evidence of life in Christ. Further, the church's overriding mission is to proclaim the Gospel of salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.

The opening conference service on Wednesday at 8 p.m. will hear the keynote address by Rev. John P. Strand, Remer, who headed the AFLC for its first 16 years. He will speak on the conference theme and text: "His Kingdom is Forever" (Psalm 145:13).

Perhaps the most interesting item of business before the delegates will be the election of president on Thursday afternoon. What makes this year's election different is that under church law the incumbent, Rev. Richard Snipstead, who once was pastor at Greenbush, having served three consecutive three-year terms must receive a three-fourths majority on the first ballot in order to continue in office. Nominations are from the floor and there must be at least two. Pastor Snipstead, 59, lives in New Hope, a suburb of Minneapolis.

The one-year terms of vice-president (Rev. Robert Lee, Minneapolis) and secretary (Rev. Ronald Knutson, Canton, SD.) will also be voted upon.

The conference will consider resolutions dealing with the church's seminary and two-year Bible school in Minneapolis, mission fields in Brazil and Mexico, home missions, evangelism, publications, parish education, stewardship, youth work and pensions.

Participants with local connections include Rev. Amos Dyrud, Minneapolis, raised at Newfolden, who will lead the prayer hours Thursday-Saturday at 11:30 a.m.; Rev. Raynard Huglen, Newfolden, who will speak at the service of Holy Communion Sunday morning at 8 a.m.; and Rev. David Molstre, Fargo, ND., who served Our Saviour's Lutheran here from 1971-75 and will preach at the 10:30 a.m. divine worship service.

On Sunday afternoon there will be an ordination service at 2 p.m. with Pastor Snipstead officiating and bringing the message. It is the concluding service of the conference.

The Women's Missionary Federation will hold its annual convention 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday the 17th at Our Saviour's. Bible study leader in the morning will be Dr. Mary Lindquist of the faculty of the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, writer of the 1987 Bible studies for AFLC women. The WMF will also sponsor a festival service on Thursday evening. At that time Rev. George Knapp, missionary to Brazil, will speak.

The public is invited to attend all evening and Sunday services and to observe any or all daytime sessions 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. as well, all at Lincoln high school auditorium. Additional information about the conference may be secured from Pastor Leslie Galland of Our Saviour's Lutheran, 401 St. Paul Ave. So., or call 681-4643.

AMBASSADORS of the Association Free Lutheran Bible school will present a program of sacred music 7:30 p.m. June 14 at Our Saviour's Lutheran church. The Association Free Lutheran Bible school of Minneapolis, offers a two year study of the Bible and other related subjects. The public is cordially invited to attend this program. The members of the team are from left: (back row) Graig Kveen of Roseau, Mark Johnson of Stacy and Earl Korhonen Cloquet; (front row) Patricia Swanson of Canton, SD, and Shannon Olson of Thief River Falls.

To Be Involved...

That's tidal water, and he's sitting "awfully" close to the edge of it. Soon he's going to get his feet wet, and his tackle and other paraphernalia will be drenched!

It's foolishly optimistic to imagine that the tides, or life itself will stand still for you. It's more comfortable to just bask there thinking that fish are going to bite, and that you won't have to move. But it's not realistic!

Nor is this living. We tend to forget that the idea of life is to get into the mainstream, not to cuddle up on the shore. The church today is running with the current. Won't you discover it for yourself?

TRF Special Olympians Share Joys Of Winning

Tuesday, June 2, 15 Thief River Falls special education students traveled to Moorhead to participate in Minnesota's 17th annual Special Olympics chapter games. Special Olympics provides a unique opportunity for our students to achieve success and experience joy in athletic competition.

The trip this year was made possible by donations from the Knights of Columbus, Goodridge Jaycees, Goodridge Lions, the Elks, Wilson Brothers, the Eagles, the VFW, the Kiwanis and the American Legion. The Office Education Association of the AVTI also provided funds by holding a Bowl-a-thon.

Thief River Falls participants were among 1,800 athletes competing in track and field events. The goal is not to win, but to try. Winning doesn't happen only at the finish line, it happens in the heart.

Wednesday was an action-packed day for all athletes. Athletes, events and medals or ribbons were received by:

Betty Bustrack, first in 100 meter dash and third in softball throw; Brent Fuller, first in 100 meter dash and first in softball throw; Mark Fuller, first in 200 meter run and second in softball throw; Shane Geray, second in softball throw and third in 50 meter dash; Chad Green, first in standing long jump and fourth in softball throw; Chris Green, first in 50 meter dash and first in running long jump; David Hanson, first in softball throw and second in shotput; Everett Hoddy, sixth in 200 meter run and sixth in standing long jump; Steven Kiesow, second in softball throw and sixth in 50 meter dash; Tina Kostrzewski, sixth in softball throw and sixth in 50 meter dash; Geri Nelson, third in softball throw and fourth in 50 meter dash; Richard Nelson, first in softball throw and fourth in shotput; Carol Olson, first in standing long jump and third in softball throw; Paul Rysavy, second in 200 meter run and fifth in softball throw; and Amy Sisler, first in standing long jump and second in 200 meter run.

The athletic competition concluded on Thursday with the fourth place finish of the relay team of Richard Nelson, Carol Olson, Betty Bustrack, and David Hanson.

When not competing the athletes spent time in the Wild West Olympic town, where they received free food, and souvenirs, watched live entertainment, tried various games, and could ride on a stagecoach. There was also a dance.

The athletes were chaperoned by Sheila Dargus, Arlette Defreece, Eleanore Erickson, Ken Fletcher, Ray Fuller, Julie Pederson, and Polly Reed.

Old Mill State Park Celebrates 50th Anniversary

He said the park has sold more permits to date than all of last year. Camping, probably due in part to the new electrical hook ups, is up by 30 to 40 per cent. Anderson said he is very pleased so many people have taken advantage of what the park can offer.

Of course one of the main attractions at the park is the old mill. The building which houses the steam engine and mill still bears the name of the Larson family. Fifty years ago land for the park was purchased from the Larson family.

Many changes have taken place since that time. Originally, a water-powered mill produced the flour. But after a severe flood, the mill was rebuilt upstream in 1889; and then moved in 1898 next to the steam-powered mill.

The steam-powered old mill was built in 1896 and restored in 1958. The eight horsepower engine built in 1878 is a Case steam engine number A359 and resembles the famous "old number one," Case steam engine made in 1869.

Many of the buildings now at the park, were built by the Works Progress administration. A plaque at the site of the dam testifies to the efforts of those who participated in the WPA.

Sunday at the park, others who have been instrumental in keeping the park from being more than a memory were also recognized. Besides the award of the plaques, certificates of appreciation were presented to Boy Scouts in Thief River Falls.

In presenting certificates of appreciation Sunday, park manager Leonard Anderson said he was appreciative of the assistance Boy Scouts of Thief River Falls provided last fall. Anderson was injured in a hunting accident. The Boy Scouts helped get the park ready for winter. Receiving certificates were Troop and Pack 199 of St. John's of Thief River Falls under the leadership of Jim Fisher, troop leader, and Roger Golby, pack leader, Zion lutheran church troop 59 under leadership of Jim Giles, troop leader, and Al Rux, pack leader; and St. Bernard's pack 57 under the leadership of Bill Fogarty.

State Riverways Book Published By DNR Division

To assist Minnesotans as they prepare for summer canoe trips, a book from the state of Minnesota is now available that features maps and other helpful information about the state's most popular riverways.

"A Gathering of Waters" was produced by the department of natural resources (DNR) division of parks and recreation and is available from the Minnesota documents division in St. Paul. The book features detailed information on 17 popular rivers including Crow Wing, Minnesota, Mississippi, Rum, St. Croix and Zumbro. The book also features canoe safety tips as well as pointers in river safety and fishing.

"A Gathering of Waters" sells for $9 and is available by mail or telephone order. To order the book, indicate code number 9-50r and send $9 plus six per cent sales tax and $1.50 postage and handling to Minnesota Documents Division, 117 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Checks should be made payable to the State of Minnesota. Telephone orders can be charged to Visa or Mastercard by calling 1-800-652-9747 toll-free (ask for "Documents").

Minnesota documents division — part of the state department of administration — publishes and sells a variety of state, federal and privately produced publications as well as maps, guides, flags and novelty items.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Legislative Reform (?)

Following editorial is from the Pope County Tribune:

The 1987 Legislature has a self-proclaimed title of being one which started the tide of great reform. This is a pretty generous description and possibly deceiving as well.

It is true that the legislature did adopt a new income tax plan which guarantees that the savings from federal tax reform won't entirely be stolen by the state. The legislature calls this "reform." We kind of think that it is more appropriately called common sense.

But buried in the legislation of 1987 are some really interesting truths, not all of which are worth bragging about.

Take, for example, the rainy day fund use. Ever since Governor Al Quie got in a fiscal bind the legislature has budgeted a "rainy day" fund to be used in case tax revenues fall short. Since we are heavily dependent upon the sales tax, this hasn't been all bad; we do need protection from volatile revenue swings.

Two years ago the legislature budgeted $500 million. This year they budgeted $250 million with a catch . . . and a big catch at that. First of all, the rainy day fund can be spent if the legislature wants to spend it. Second of all, if the fund is depleted through decreased revenues or deliberate spending of the fund, an automatic 10 percent income tax surcharge will be activated. This is from the same legislature that is proudly strutting and talking about how it reduced income tax rates.

In other words, in addition to $850 million in new taxes we will pay this year, the legislature has reserved the right to spend another $250 million and automatically receives revenues to cover it.

If that sounds a little strange to you, so be it.

It sure seems strange to us. Unfortunately, it is now law.

Cargo Reference Laws

Following editorial comments were written by Russell Schwandt, former Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, board member of the Seaway Port Authority of Duluth and president of the Minnesota Agri-Growth council:

As regular readers of these columns know, there are few things that rankle me and many of my friends and colleagues in the Minnesota agriculture industry as much as the federal cargo preference laws. For those that don't know, the cargo preference laws require the American taxpayers to pay the extra costs to ship up to 75 per cent of all U.S. subsidized food cargoes in U.S. flag bottoms. Those are the ships that are manned by members of the powerful U.S. maritime unions.

The cargo preference laws have been passed to make sure that the taxpayers subsidize these high-paying, non-competitively priced unionized jobs. These laws get passed following heavy lobbying and large political campaign contributions to key members of congress by the maritime unions.

The bottom line on these cargo preference laws works against Minnesota farmers and agribusiness interests. First of all, being forced to use U.S. ships raises the cost of foreign grain shipments enormously. Whatever raises the cost of a bushel of grain lowers the price that is being paid to the U.S. farmer.

Secondly, Minnesota suffers on a second front from cargo preference. We are blessed with a marvelous inland port at Duluth. It is an opportunity to ship our production at competitive prices to the world markets. However, there are virtually no ships of U.S. registry sailing the Great Lakes. With the percentage of required cargo preference shipments approaching 75 per cent, it means that Minnesota loses out of three-fourths of the potential foreign aid food shipments that might otherwise be made from the Port of Duluth.

Thankfully, this incredible unfairness has not gone unnoticed by Minnesota's U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

Boschwitz, in a blistering letter to Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng, repeatedly questioned the USDA actions under the cargo preference law that harm ports in the Great Lakes, particularly the Port of Duluth.

In his letter, Boschwitz stated, ". . . it appears that cargo preference is being applied in an inconsistent way, favoring some aspects of the cargo preference law over others. I have reports that such administration of the law is doing serious damage to Great Lakes ports such as Duluth, notwithstanding that they are supposed to be protected by the same law."

Drinking & Driving

Continuing problem of the drinking driver who causes death or injury to himself or herself and innocent victims in other vehicles is an unfortunate fact in today's society. A society that accepts use and abuse of the dangerous drug alcohol must live—and die—with the results.

There are too many irresponsible drinkers in our nation today—too many who allow themselves to drink to excess and then take to the streets and highways in an impared condition where they are hazards to themselves and others. For those who drink and prefer to do so responsibly, the following charts and information should be of assistance.

The examples below show the approximate average amount of 80 proof liquor a 150 pound person would have to consume in a one-hour period to reach 0.10 per cent, the percentage-weight of alcohol in the bloodstream that is presumptive of intoxication.

To determine the approximate average number of ounces of 80 proof liquor needed in a one-hour period to reach 0.10 per cent, draw a line from Body weight to 0.10 per cent. The line will intersect the average number of ounces needed to produce 0.10 per cent. Follow the same procedure to determine the amount of liquor needed to reach blood-alcohol concentrations, such as 0.05 percent, 0.15 percent, etc.

Charts show rough averages only. Many factors affect the rate of alcohol absorption into the bloodstream. Amount of food consumed, kind of food and drink consumed, and percentage of fatty tissue in the body, for examples, can vary blood-alcohol concentration values.

The rate of elimination of alcohol from the bloodstream is approximately 0.015 per cent per hour. Therefore, subtract 0.015 per cent from blood-alcohol concentration indicated on the charts for each hour after the start of drinking.

Fun In the Sun Time

— Tindolph park bathing beach will officially open next Sunday with a fresh sand beach, diving board platform, twenty-foot high diving tower, and new lifeguard stand. B.W. Gabrielson, Lincoln high school physical education instructor, will be waterfront director, assisted by two lifeguards. Mr. Gabrielson will also give swimming instructions.

In 1937, Cars Cost . . .

— Ever since my youngest son asked me how much a car cost in 1937, I've been watching the car ads to catch a price. Finally Ford has put a full price on its advertisement for a Ford V-8, 60 horsepower coupe, equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, sun visor, glove compartment and ash tray. The price is . . . hold onto your hats . . . $529.00! And the ad also said the car averaged 22 to 27 miles per gallon with speeds up to 70 miles per hour. Eat your heart out!

50 Golden Years

— Mr. and Mrs. Peder E. Stengelsen of New Solum township celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their farm home near Viking Sunday. The Stengelsens were among the early pioneers of Marshall county, settling on a homestead there in 1889, where they have lived since. Mr. Stengelsen, who is 78 years old, was born in Alten, Norway, in 1859. Mrs. Carrie Stengelsen, age 72, was born in Hol Parish, Hallingdal, Norway. The couple has nine children, six of whom are still living, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

For A Hot Summer's Night —

— Ah yes, specials from the soda fountain at the Thief River Pharmacy were fresh strawberry sundaes, ten cents; banana splits, fifteen cents; giant ice cream sodas, ten cents; Little Dicks (ice cream, chocolate, peanuts — remember those?), five cents; fresh lime freezes, ten cents; and Sunday ice cream specials, take home a quart for a quarter. And weren't they the gold old days!

Area Banks Offer Fix-Up Fund Loans

Since April, more than 70 banks, savings banks and credit unions have been newly authorized as lenders for the home improvement loan program of the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency (MHFA), according to Executive Director James J. Solem.

Known as The Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund, the loans are now offered by lenders at more than 370 offices throughout Minnesota. "This is exciting news, because it means that the program is available in more locations statewide than ever before," Solem said.

The Minnesota housing finance agency is a state agency dedicated to improving conditions throughout Minnesota. The Great Minnesota Fix-up fund provides below-market-interest-rate loans to low — to moderate-income home owners, and is available through banks, savings banks, credit unions and public agencies.

Current participating lenders in this area are: First Federal Savings and Loan of Thief River Falls, Northern State Bank of Thief River Falls, Northwest Minnesota Multi-County HRA, Red Lake County State bank.

"When homeowners contact the agency or a lender, they have usually decided what work they want to do, and are exploring financing options," said Solem. "For people with an annual adjusted income of $27,000 or less, our interest rates range from three per cent to nine per cent and are fixed for the life of the loan."

The three percent rate is for families with annual adjusted incomes of up to $7,000; the five per cent rate is for incomes of $7,001 to $12,000; the seven per cent rate applies to adjusted incomes of $12,001 to $17,000, and the nine percent is for incomes of $17,001 to $27,000. Annual adjusted income is total household income, minus $1,000 per resident.

"These loans have other appealing features, such as the fact that they are available in amounts up to $15,000," Solem stated. "Perhaps the most reassuring feature is the fixed rate. Homeowners know their payments will never change," said Solem.

James A. Cegla, director of The Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund, explained that homeowners use the loans for a wide range of improvements. "We find that more and more people are choosing to stay where they are and fix up their homes the way they've always wanted," said Cegla.

"A popular project today is kitchens, where homeowners replace everything from wallpaper to cabinets, and even flooring," he continued. "A large number of people also use their funds for the basics, such as new plumbing, wiring, roofs and siding." Eligible work includes most improvements, expansion and repairs, according to Cegla.

"Another popular feature of The Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund is that homeowners are not restricted as to how they do the work," Cegla stated. Borrowers can do-it-themselves, hire contractors, or combine both methods, he explained.

"One measure of the popularity of the Fix-up fund is that loan volume is well ahead of last year," said Cegla. "Although there are currently ample dollars in The Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund, home improvements specialists tend to 'book up' pretty fast for the season. We are recommending to callers that sooner is better for making home improvement decisions," said Cegla.

Minnesota homeowners can receive more information on The Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund by contacting a participating lender directly, or by calling 1-800-652-9747, and asking for 'Fix-up Fund." In the Twin Cities metropolitan area, the number is 296-7615.

Court Of Trade Dismisses Appeal On Canadian Hogs

United States Court of International Trade has informed the National Pork Producers council (NPPC) that it has dismissed NPPC's appeal that would have extended the countervailing duty on Canadian hogs to include Canadian imports of fresh, chilled or frozen pork.

The court ruled that the International Trade commission (ITC) did not exceed its discretion in determining that there was insufficient economic integration between domestic pork production and the pork packing industry. The court said the test used by the ITC in determining the lack of sufficient economic integration of the two segments of the industry is supported by substantial evidence and is in accordance with law.

Tom Miller, president of the National Pork Producers council, expressed his disappointment at the court ruling and made it clear that the council will accelerate its activities in support of an amendment to the 1930 tariff act that would establish "a more realistic definition of when producers and packers should be combined within the same industry."

The legislation has already passed the House of Representatives and recently passed the Senate Finance committee. It is expected to be considered by the full Senate by the end of summer.

The Court of International Trade has not yet issued a ruling on an appeal by the Canadian Pork council that the current countervailing duty on Canadian hogs entering the U.S. be lifted. It is not known when a ruling on that appeal will be made.

The latest ruling by the court will have no impact on the duty presently being imposed on hogs entering the U.S. from Canada.

Keep Hail From Hitting You Where It Hurts.

To minimize your financial risk from hail, it's essential to have the right risk management tools. Crop hail insurance through Farm Credit is one of them.

Think of hail insurance as cash flow insurance. Should your crop be damaged by hail, you'll still be guaranteed an income.

Crop hail insurance through Farm Credit Services is flexible; it can be structured to fit your unique needs. It's also very affordable.

In the event of crop damage, Farm Credit makes fast and expedient adjustments. To assure this, Farm Credit Services personnel maintain an active role in the entire process from start to finish.

Put a valuable risk management tool in your hands—crop hail insurance through Farm Credit. Call or stop by the nearest Farm Credit Services office.

In the Thief River Falls area, see Loan Officers Roger Philipp, Van Swanson and Tom Harlow for crop hail insurance from Farm Credit.

FRESHWATER FOCUS

Information And Opinion From The Freshwater Foundation
2500 Shadywood Road — Box 90
Navarre, Minnesota 55392

Water has traditionally been viewed as an unlimited resource, available to everyone everywhere, always usable and always free. That traditional perception has been reflected in society's use — and abuse — of water.

Society's perception of water is beginning to change. Public concern is growing stronger: slowly, but noticeably.

It sounds like good news, and it is. Public concern can evolve into attitude change, which can positively affect patterns of water use.

But there is a complication. The present water management structure may not be designed to respond quickly to changes in public attitude.

"Present federal policy gives to the individual states the responsibility for managing and maintaining water resources. That mandate is not, however, as clearcut as it might seem. The states may have the responsibility, but organizations which have some control over the management of water resources exist at every level above and below the state level.

Consider Minnesota, for example. Management of Minnesota's water resources is shared by the following groups: Eight federal executive agencies, four federal independent agencies, the Executive Office of the President, an unknown number of special federal boards and committees, six interstate associations and commissions, 18 intrastate commissions and boards, 15 state agencies and boards, two lake conservation districts, three drainage and conservancy districts, three lake improvement districts and five rural water user districts;

Also five port authorities, seven sanitary districts, 37 watershed districts, 63 Farmers Home Administration county committees, 90 Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county committees, 92 Soil and Water Conservation districts, 87 counties, 855 municipalities and 1,795 townships for a total of 3,096.

Under the present system, more than 3,000 groups have some say in the management of Minnesota's water resources. According to William E. Cox, associate professor of civil engineering at Virginia Tech, "One of the major obstacles to effective water resource management is the present system of multiple, uncoordinated governmental controls. These controls aren't necessarily wrong, but they are certainly overlapping. The system as it exists today is one vast maze."

How does the existence of this "vast maze" affect each of us? For more information on the implications of our present — and changing — water management structure, contact the Freshwater Foundation for a copy of "Supplying the Demand: The Water Management Challenge." Copies are available for $3.00 (includes postage and handling). To receive this 32-page report, write or call the Freshwater Foundation, 2500 Shadywood Road, Box 90, Navarre, MN 55392, phone (612) 471-8407.

MAVIE . . .

St. Clement's Guild President Pauline Warne called a special meeting to discuss having a baby shower for Jody Ireland on June 7 at 2:30 p.m. On June 14 at 3 p.m. the parish members are invited to attend a discussion about the topic Male and Female — God Created Them written by Bishop Balke. Anyone who would like a copy to read before the discussion may have one by calling Ann Hoffert.

A parish painting bee has been set for Sunday, June 14 after the 8:30 a.m. Mass. It is advised that everyone who takes part in the painting job should wear work clothes for the morning church services and bring painting equipment. A potluck dinner will be served. Those who served breakfast for the months of April and May were Irene Kiesow, Marie Ann Verbout, Susan Sundberg, and Jackie Dobmeier.

PAINTING playground equipment can be messy. These Silverton 4-H club members had fun last Thursday painting the playground equipment at Hartz park in Thief River Falls. The Silverton 4-H club conducted the painting session as part of a community pride project. Paint was donated by the city and refreshments by Hardees. After painting the equipment — and themselves — they planted flowers in Indian Village park. Pictured are Kara LeMoine, Sara Anderson and Stephanie Vigen.

Precautions Can Keep Fishing Fun, Avoid Accidents

Fishing can quickly turn from fun to serious trouble if you don't take the proper precautions. Being careful begins from the moment you get into your boat, suggests the Minnesota Medical association.

Drowning is the greatest cause of death in fishing accidents. Even if you only have a limited vacation or are excited to get fishing, pay attention to the weather. Many accidents happen when over enthusiastic fishermen go out in inclement weather or don't pay attention to the weather at all. Keep an ear to weather forecasts before you go and an eye on the sky while you are fishing.

Don't overload your boat with too much equipment and too many people; if a strong wind does come up, overloaded boats easily capsize. Don't stand in a boat. If you need to, remember to stay in the center of the boat for the best balance. If you fall in the water, you can die of hypothermia even if it's 80 degrees outdoors. Your body heat loss is much more rapid in the water than in the air. In the spring and early summer inland lake temperatures may only be in the 50s with Lake Superior temperatures probably still in the 30s.

Fishing rods should be handled like loaded guns. The rod should be disassembled when going to and from fishing sites. When changing locations be sure to secure the hooks with a hook keeper or cork cover and carry the rod with the reel and handle first. Point the rod tip toward the water when you are fishing. When you cast, never cast over someone's head and make sure there's plenty of room. If you are in a boat use overhead casting as it gives the most effective control.

If a fishhook gets embedded in your flesh, don't try to pull it out. The barb will rip the flesh. To lessen the pain numb the area with ice. Then there are two ways you can take the hook out. You can push the hook all the way through, cut the barb off, then back the hook out or you can back the hook out like you would from a fish.

If the hook is embedded in an area where you can't push the hook all the way through, you may want to try another technique. Remove the spoon or lure from the hook, separating the two. Tie a string around the hook while pushing down on the hook. Then very quickly and firmly flick the hook out of the skin by pulling on the string. If the hook is near the eye or lip be sure to locate a physician or travel to the nearest emergency treatment facility immediately.

After removing the fish hook, cleanse the wound and apply an infection-fighting ointment. If the wound does not appear to be healing in several days see your doctor; it may be infected.

Finally, when you get back to camp and are cleaning the fish or building campfires, be sure to handle knives and axes carefully.

Care In Swimming And Diving Make Safer Summer

Summer wouldn't be summer without swimming and diving. You can have fun and still take the proper safety precautions if you pay attention to basic rules that prevent severe tragedies from happening, according to the Minnesota Medical association.

Before you go swimming make sure there is a lifeguard on duty; even the best swimmers can get in trouble. Never swim alone, and don't swim when the only other people in the water are nonswimmers. It may seem comforting, but these people may be more problem then help in an emergency.

If you have children, don't leave them unattended even if there is a lifeguard on duty. It only takes a few minutes to drown. Make sure you know your limitations and don't forget you have less strength when you are tired or overheated. Don't drink and swim. It's estimated that 80 per cent of those who drown had high alcohol content in their bloodstream. Alcohol can make you overestimate your swimming abilities. If you've been drinking your body will lose heat more quickly and you can suffer from hypothermia.

Don't dive into unfamiliar water. Be sure to check water levels each time by jumping feet first into the water before diving. Remember lakes, rivers and swimming holes can change from time to time. Don't dive into cloudy water; it may be hiding dangerous objects. A raft can also be dangerous to dive from because it can drift and the anchor and the cable holding the raft may be in the diving area.

June Skies Have Much To Offer For Starwatchers

Mars and Mercury perform a flyby in the June sky as they fall toward oblivion in the west. Meanwhile, the moon brushes past Antares, the heart of Scorpio, and the Pleiades in the east. The month also heralds the coming of summer June 21.

The morning sky is alight with the bright planets Venus and Jupiter. Jupiter is higher and to the right of Venus in the east. In the evening, Saturn rises in the east to the left of Antares. On June 8, Saturn will be directly opposite the sun, visible all night. Its rings are still tilted toward Earth, making it one of the best bets for telescope viewers.

Mars is fainter even than tiny Mercury as it sinks into the western twilight. On the 10th it appears six-tenths of a degree above Mercury, very low above the horizon. Both planets will be lost in the sunset by the end of the month. Mercury will reappear as a morning star in July, but Mars remains imprisoned in the sun's glare until October.

The moon in June starts out as a crescent in the west. As it fattens and moves eastward, it passes by the bright star in Leo, Regulus, between the 2nd and 3rd, past Spica in Virgo between the 6th and 7th and just below Antares on the 9th. A full "strawberry" moon arrives on the 11th. The moon's waning crescent appears just below the Pleiades star cluster the morning of the 24th, a sight that should be breathtaking through binoculars.

The new moon arrives on the 26th and a very young moon may be visible in the evening twilight below the Gemini twins. The next night the moon appears left of Pollux on its way to another close encounter with Regulus on the 30th.

The summer solstice occurs at 5:11 p.m. CDT, when the sun reaches its most northerly point. Sunlight is most intense on this date, but the hottest time of the year is a few weeks later because it takes time for heat to build up in land and water.

On a clear evening, the Milky Way can be seen just over the eastern horizon. In the midst of the Milky Way is Cygnus, the swan, also known as the Northern Cross. Above and to the right of Cygnus is Lyra, the lyre, marked by the bright star Vega. Overhead is Bootes, with the very bright star Arcturus.

Bootes, the herdsman, is a kite-shaped constellation with Arcturus anchoring the small "tail" of the kite. Next to Bootes on its southeast side is a beautiful semicircle of stars known as Corona Borealis, or the Northern Crown. All these constellations and the Milky Way will be up for the whole summer.

THERE'S PLENTY OF WATER for tubing in the Red Lake river following rains which hit northwestern Minnesota a couple of weeks ago. Dick Brumwell of Voyageur's View in Red Lake Falls said the river level is about average and expectations are for a good increase in the tubing business from a year ago. Organization of the Red Lake Riverland association has provided funds to permit additional promotion at travel shows and introduce the attraction into new territory, Brumwell said. He estimated the four tubing operations on the Red Lake river served about 12,000 to 15,000 tubing enthusiasts last year and will have 20,000 to 25,000 customers this year. The best promoters are those who have tubed the river and come back with their friends who they want to share in the fun, he said. Dry weather and low water levels had caused some concern early in the year, but flows are back to normal and Red Lake, which provides water to the river during the summer, is also reported to be at normal level and releasing about 3,000 cubic feet per second at the outlet.

Diving Accidents Can Be Prevented By Common Sense

Summertime means swimming time, as lakes, rivers and pools teem with people out to have fun and beat the heat. Inevitably, however, tragedy strikes every summer when a dive into the water results in a broken neck and paralysis.

The accident takes only a second yet results in a lifetime of living with a handicap. But, it can be easily prevented, according to Steven Fisher, M.D., specialist in physical medicine and rehabilitation at a St. Paul medical center.

"Divers can prevent these accidents by following two rules," Dr. Fisher said. "First, always check the depth where you plan to dive by going into the water feet first. Second, never drink and dive."

The diving accident victim is almost always an athletic male in his late teens or early 20s who could be characterized as a risk taker, Dr. Fisher said. The majority of the accidents in this part of the country occur when the swimmer dives off a dock or a boat into a lake or river.

"Rivers in this part of the country are especially dangerous," Dr. Fisher added.

"People think they know the river, but they may not know where a log or a sandbar is. Even if you are in a boat which is anchored, the boat can shift positions. You may have dived off one side of the boat two or three times, but the wind could shift the boat. So you could dive off the same place on the boat but hit a sandbar or a log."

While river and lake accidents are the most common, Fisher said they also occur in swimming pools and on water slides.

According to the national spinal cord injury data research center, 10 per cent of all spinal cord injuries are caused by diving. Quadraplegia (partial or complete paralysis of the arms and legs) is the result when the neck is broken in a dive.

Each summer the medical center staff treats an average of four patients with spinal cord injuries caused by diving. The typical diving accident victim at Ramsey is hospitalized an average of two to three months, followed by up to a year of outpatient therapy. In that time, the patient learns to adapt to the new lifestyle, beginning with relearning how to do the most fundamental things such as bathing, dressing and eating, Dr. Fisher said.

License Needed On Boats Not Only For Pleasure

Boaters on waters under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Coast Guard now need a license for some boating activities where none was previously required. A license is traditionally needed to carry passengers for hire. Now that license is also necessary when use of the boat is not "only for pleasure."

The required "Operator of an Uninspected Passenger Vessel" license is commonly called a "six-pack" license because it permits the boater to carry up to six passengers.

According to Stanley Spurgeon, commander of the Coast Guard marine safety office in Duluth, non-pleasure use of a boat includes the following kinds of activities: carrying reporters or ferrying friends from point A to B (thus providing transportation); taking politicians fishing during a "Governor's Fishing Opener" (lobbying); or entertaining customers on a boat (anticipating gain). In each of these cases, the license is required.

Although the Cost Guard has jurisdiction over about 4,000 lakes in Minnesota, most enforcement activity has been on Lake Superior, the border lakes, Cass and Leech Lakes and Lake Winnibigoshish. The new requirement that a boater be licensed for non-pleasure use of a boat has so far been applied only on Lake Superior, but Spurgeon said the Coast Guard is beginning to enforce it on more of the waters that fall under Coast Guard jurisdiction.

Sea grant fisheries agent Jeff Gunderson discusses the rule change and its implications in a new fact sheet. Free copies are available from Minnesota Sea Grant Extension, 208 Washburn Hall, UMD, Duluth, MN 55812.

Ripley Alliance Starts New Program Emphasis

Ripley Alliance for battered women, commonly called the Ripley shelter, has vacated the house it has occupied in Thief River Falls for the past several years.

The alliance has already moved into new offices at 111 East Second street in Thief River Falls and is in the process of selecting safe homes throughout Northwestern Minnesota.

Since the alliance began its operation in Thief River Falls seven years ago it has sheltered 346 women and 550 children. More than 1,650 crisis calls have been answered and — since advocacy counseling has been available in 1983 — 686 women have been assisted with community advocacy. Alliance staff members note that the advocacy and persons sheltered statistics are non-duplicated.

For the alliance, the move reflects a change in program emphasis as much as it does a shrinking budget. Modahl said the program will continue to exist in full force but not in the building formerly known as the Ripley shelter. Instead, a network of non-shelter services and rotating support groups will be set up.

Volunteers will be the key to its success, said Deb Modahl, acting director. The alliance is seeking volunteers to provide a variety of services as well as their homes to the women who are in need of shelter.

The alliance covers a large region in northwestern Minnesota and Modahl said many volunteers are needed to provide safe homes and advocacy counseling. The region includes Pennington, Polk, Roseau, Kittson, Norman, Red Lake and Marshall counties.

If everything proceeds on schedule Modahl expects the network of volunteers and safe homes to be completely operational within a year.

As the program has developed, it has expanded its services and recognized needed changes. Sheltering women is only one facet of an advocacy program.

The four full-time personnel and nine active volunteers at the alliance, put on siminars to educate law enforcement personnel, medical personnel and social service workers who deal with battered women and domestic abuse. The alliance is currently working with Northland community college in providing a workshop on domestic violence.

Education has become increasingly important to our way of thinking, said Modahl. People need the kind of education that teaches prevention as much as the kind of education that shows them when to find help.

Modahl said the alliance is branching out to reach more people. The alliance will continue to work more toward preventative education and continue providing shelter and advocacy.

A shrinking budget due in part to more competitive organizations providing similar services, has caused some of the change. The alliance gets approximately $96,000 from the department of corrections and $10,000 from agencies such as the United Way and other fundraising events.

Modahl said volunteers are still needed and anyone interested can contact the Ripley Alliance at 681-5557.

Enplanements For Mesaba Airlines Show Increases

Mesaba Aviation, Inc., operating as Northwest Airlink, announced that passenger enplanements in May increased 70 per cent to 32,081 compared to 18,853 passengers carried in May 1986. The Minneapolis-based regional airline said that its system-wide load factor for May was 58 per cent up from 37 per cent experienced during the same period of time last year.

Limited 65 MPH Zones In Minn. Begin June 17

Minnesota drivers can speed along at 65 miles per hour beginning June 17. However, the new speed limit only applies to 700 miles of the rural interstate system. Interstates 35, 90 and 94 are the only highways where the 65 mph limit applies.

Rundell Reports Plans Complete For 4th Quarter CRP

Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) plans for the fourth CRP sign-up have been completed, according to Ralph E. Rundell, soil conservation technician.

Rundell reports over 17,000 acres entered into the CRP program during the February sign-up. Some are for 1987 and some for 1988.

The acres entered into CRP have various grass-legume mixtures planned for cover. According to Rundell, most farmers are doing a good job of field preparation and seeding.

Rundell noted some problems with some fields however, because of possible deep planting depth and weed competition. Rundell says it would be a good idea to do as good a job as possible because re-seeding will cost the owner another $25 to $50 per acre.

Plant CRP acres for a 10-year stand and have a good yield instead of a poor stand that may need to be re-seeded, Rundell says. Remember, spring seeding period ends June 15. If seeding has not been completed by then, requests for extensions can be made through the soil conservation district office.

The next CRP sign-up period is July 20 through July 31.

Rain Won't Fall On M.R. Play,

Middle River community theatre will present "Let It Rain", a full-length comedy by David W. Christner.

In less than 10 days, it will be "raining with laughter" in Middle River, as the cast of 13 directed by Rev. Mark E. Gehrke, perform the full-length comedy "Let It Rain", by David W. Christner.

The Middle River community theatre was organized October of $86 when they presented Thorton Wilder's, "Our Town". The purpose of the community theatre is to build community and provide quality, but inexpensive entertainment as we expose all to the dramatic arts. This production is no different, advance tickest are $2, students $1.50 and at the door sales $3. Tickets may be bought in Middle River at the Rex, Youngs, Co-op, and at Larson's Music in Thief River Falls.

The story plot will be familar to most, and yet like no other. God is not pleased with the 'arms-race', or the self-destruction attitude of humanity. So, He's going to 'start over,' and what a better way than to literally "wash the slate clean". God's water works are better known as the flood. God gets His head angel, Gabe, to

Lawsuit Against Falls DAC Director Oakes Dropped

Doreen Sigerud, a former instructor and Lynae Johnson, an instructor at the Falls Day Activity Center in Thief River Falls, have dropped a lawsuit against the center's director Charlie Oakes.

Oakes said Sigerud resigned on June 2 and was replaced by Eleanor Mattson, LPN, who has worked with developmentally disabled and mentally ill in Iowa. Sigerud has worked at the DAC since August of last year.

Oakes said the lawsuit against him personally was dropped at about the same time he received Sigerud's resignation. He said he had no idea if the two indidents were related.

Oakes said he was pleased and hopes that things will settle down at the center which has been in the news regularly since last fall.

Regarding the first lawsuit which was filed in November, Oakes said he wasn't sure where in the legal process it was. In a pre-trial conference in May the plaintiffs, Johnson, Sigerud and James Rooker, were told to notify the court by June 1 as to whether they wanted a jury trial.

The court was not notified and the case was put on the court docket for the week of September 9 as a non-jury trial case.

In that case the three plaintiffs allege their pay period was changed and their access to the center restricted because they told Pennington county welfare workers about physical and verbal abuse of center clients by former Director Evan Armstrong.

Oakes said he believes Lynae Johnson plans to stay on at the center.

Sigerud is now operating an adult foster care home. She has four participants, none of which attended the DAC, according to Oakes. Her clients are higher functioning adults who work at the Occupational Development Center in Thief River Falls.

Adult foster care homes do not have to be licensed but are solely at the discretion of county welfare social workers. The legal limit however, is four. Oakes said adult foster care homes are becoming more popular as a way of deinstitutionalizing mentally and developmentally handicapped individuals.

Class Of 1932 To Hold 55 Year Reunion

Members of the class of 1932 will hold their 55 year class reunion June 20 and 21 in Thief River Falls. According to Gordon Ballingrud, 55 have registered for the reunion.

Classmates from as far as California and Texas as well as nearby states plan to attend the event. There were 105 students in the class of 1932. Two who taught some of those students, Mrs. Blanche Larson and Mrs. Gunder Legvold, will also be in attendance.

Saturday a dinner will be served for the class at the Elks club beginning at 7 p.m. Friends are invited to visit after the dinner hour.

On Sunday, a service will be held in the Asphult church in the Pennington County Pioneer village. Rev. Roy Hanson, a classmate, will deliver the sermon. Brunch will be served in the church basement following the services. After brunch, friends are invited to visit.

Penn. County Fair To Open July 17

Country singer Charley Pride, who was one of the first major entertainers to be booked at the Pennington county fair will again perform at the Pennington county fair July 15-19.

Pride who thrilled audiences at the fair at his first performance, will be the grandstand attraction July 17 at 7 and 9 p.m. He made a double hit with the crowd during his first appearance here. The first hit was his program which included virtually all familiar country hits, and the second was his willingness to sit amidst swarms of mosquitoes and sign autographs for fans late into the night after the second show until all requests had been met.

Pride's vocal artistry has resulted in sales of more than 20 million albums and five million singles thus far in the course of his career. Twelve of his LP's have gone gold in the U.S. market and worldwide he has earned 31 gold and four platinum LP's — including one quadruple platinum.

Some of his top songs include "Kiss An Angel Good Morning," "Is Anybody Goin' to San Antone?", "I'm So Afraid Of Losing You," "When I Stop Leaving I'll Be Gone," "Mountain of Love" and "Your're So Good When You're Bad."

Charley Pride is the main attraction to this year's fair, but there are many promising events planned. Grandstand attractions include a horse pull beginning 7:30 p.m. July 15, an amateur talent show beginning 7:30 p.m. July 16, Charley Pride at 7 and 9 p.m. July 17, an antique tractor pull beginning 1 p.m. July 18, a Teen dance beginning 9 p.m. July 18, and on the final day, the annual Jaycee demolition derby will be held beginning at 5:30 p.m.

The fair will open Wednesday, July 15. At noon the midway will open. Carnival ride bracelets can be purchased, which will provide unlimited number of rides between noon and 6 p.m. or 6 p.m. to the 12 p.m. closing time. The cost of the bracelet is $8 at the fair or $7 pre-sale at all grocery and convenience stores.

Admission to the horse pull 7:30 p.m. Wednesday is $3.50 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under.

Thursday is entry day. All flower exhibits must be entered by 4:30 p.m. and 4-H exhibits entered and conference judging will be held between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Admission to the amateur talent show 7:30 p.m. Thursday is $2 per person or $5 per family.

AVTI Program Gives Local Mothers A New Start

JODI DUNARSKI is a divorced mother of two who has been attending Northland community college for the past two years and the Thief River Falls AVTI for the past year in an effort to become employable at a wage that will support a family. A welfare mother by necessity when work at or near the minimum wage wouldn't pay the bills, she hopes to find employment in her chosen field soon. She is pictured with her son Ricky, 8 and daughter Amy Jo, 3, who she credits with allowing her to attend classes by doing without activities to accommodate her schedule.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For the 126 persons who took part in the program at the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute last year, Project New Start is most appropriately named. With very limited funding and local staffing, the program is providing a new start for displaced homemakers and rural homemakers who need further education to become employable and support themselves and their families. (New START is an abbreviation for Single Parent Training and Rural Transition.)

"Ninety-eight per cent of the participants are women," stated New START director Arlette Abrahamson. "Most are single parents, a few are married rural homemakers who qualify under financial guidelines, and three are men who have custody of children as single parents and who qualify for assistance as rural homemakers."

The grant request was written by James Framstad of the AVTI student services staff who is a counselor at the institute. Funding of $30,000 was received for the 1986-87 school year and a $27,000 continuation grant has been received for the 1987-88 school year. These will be some carry-over of students from this year to next, but about 86 new participants are expected for the coming year.

Funds are received under the Carl Perkins act which is administered by the state board of vocational education, Abrahamson said. She works with the participants on a one-to-one basis in an advocacy role, referring participants to other agencies or facilities in the area where they can find assistance.

She can also expand just over $11,000 a year in direct assistance to the students, helping pay for such things as child care, transportation to and from classes and expenses for travel and lodging to interview for job placement. For those participants willing to relocate, placement in the work force has been quite good.

Abrahamson said that career assessment and testing is done with each of the program participants to determine their interests and aptitudes.

This testing is conducted by Linda Jaakola, director of the Region 1 career education center and is used to explore interests which may be geared toward a "high tech, high pay" type of career upon completion of their education. These options for educational placement are utilized by Abrahamson to answer questions and provide assistance with any type of problem in order to contribute to the success of the program.

"While the overall dropout rate for persons starting vocational training

SHIRLEY WEBER is an unmarried mother of two children who tired of the stigma of being a welfare mother and sitting home watching soap operas. Through assistance of Project New Start at the Thief River Falls AVTI, she has enrolled in the accounting program and completed the first year of a two-year course. She said that being a student has helped her self-esteem and she is a member of the AVTI student senate. She drives 44 miles round trip each day to attend class. Shirley is shown with her daughter April, 6 and son Nicholas, 3, during a New Start picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Fisher Wed April 4 at Cherry Point, NC.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Fisher were married April 4 at Cherry Point, NC, where he is a sergeant and she a lance corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps. The groom is the son of Albert and Lorraine Fisher of Plummer.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Fisher home in Plummer May 16, hosted by the parents of the groom and his brothers, Russ and Shannon. The afternoon was spent visiting and meeting the bride, with a barbecued turkey supper served to over 100 guests that evening.

Madonna Lallier served punch and Reinette Walter poured. The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated in blue and white and topped with blue velvet doves, was cut and served by Edna Hyde and Connie Hughes.

That evening the couple opened their cards and gifts. The following weekend the bride returned to duties at Cherry Point and the groom left for Okinawa May 26 for a one-year tour.

Campanula Garden Club Met At Koglin Home

The Campanula Garden club met recently at the home of Viola Koglin. Marie Fischer presented a talk on "Can Flowers Tell Time?" She mentioned the four o'clocks that open at 4 p.m. and gave a list of various species that open or close by the sun or moonlight, even when light is hidden. Moonflowers open at night and close before noon, portulacas do not open unless there is sunlight, and the nicotiana has colorful flowers and is fragant at night but closed in cloudy weather.

Guest at the meeting was Carol Lee Tvedten, who spoke about dried wild flowers and plants and displayed flowers in a wicker basket and a large vase in unusual arrangements.

Next meeting will be at the Heritage center at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge with Shelly Harbott in charge.

David Yonke Honored At Graduation Party

LONDON BROIL

1 pound flank steak
1 clove garlic, sliced
¼ cup oil
½ cup vinegar
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 to 1½ teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce dash cayenne
few drops hot pepper sauce

Remove excess fat and membrane from meat. Score both sides with a diamond pattern of diagonal lines about ⅛ inch deep and ½ inch apart.

Combine all remaining ingredients in shallow baking pan, stirring until blended. Place meat in pan and spoon marinade over it. Cover and refrigerate at least three hours, turning steak two or three times.

Remove meat from marinade and broil two to three inches from heat source for three or four minutes on each side. Adjust time to thickness of meat and desired degree of doneness.

To serve, slice diagonally across the grain and into thin slices.

Seasonings in the marinade can be adjusted to suit personal preferences. Try substituting thyme, tarragon or another herb for the mustard and omitting the pepper sauce.

BAKED POTATOES AND BROCCOLI WITH WITH CHEESE SAUCE

4 large baking potatoes
½ cup cottage cheese
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons whole wheat flour
1 cup milk
1 small onion, chopped
8 ounces sliced mushrooms
½ pound broccoli, cleaned, chopped and cooked, or 1 package frozen chopped broccoli dash pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
dash paprika

Bake potatoes as usual. When potatoes have about 20 minutes left to cook, saute onion and mushrooms in butter until tender. Add flour and stir until bubbly. Stir in ¼ cup milk until smooth. Add cottage cheese and stir until melted. Add rest of milk, stirring constantly, and bring just to boil. Add pepper, garlic powder and paprika; stir. Mix in broccoli and keep warm.

When potatoes are done, slice in half lengthwise. Serve topped with broccoli-cheese sauce.

Inverted Jar Not Safe Method

New jam and jelly making instructions included in one manufacturer's fruit pectin products don't conform with safe canning techniques endorsed by the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) or the Minnesota extension service.

William Schafer, food technologist with the University of Minnesota's extension service and Pennington county agent Deborah Zak caution home jam and jelly makers that the "inverted jar method" of sealing jars may allow the growth of yeast and mold in home-canned products. Processing jam and jelly jars in a boiling water bath is the only method recommended by USDA.

The inverted jar method involves filling the jars with hot liquid jelly, screwing on the lids and resting the jars on their lids for at least five minutes. The heat from the liquid inside acts on the lid and completes the seal.

Problems arise when the jam or jelly is not hot enough to promote a complete seal and to kill yeasts and molds present in the product. This can allow the microorganisms to grow in the jam or jelly, producing off-flavors and the potential for illness among those who eat it.

Only processing in a boiling water bath for times recommended by the USDA and the Minnesota extension service assures a safe home-canned jam or jelly. The once-popular method of sealing jam or jelly with a layer of paraffin is also considered inadequate and potentially unsafe.

According to Schafer and Zak, the pectin products whose package instructions include the inverted jar method also give water bath directions as an alternative. They urge jam and jelly makers to follow the recommendations of the Minnesota extension service, which are outlined in publications that are available at the Pennington county extension office.

Nominations For Outstanding Senior Citizens Sought

Pennington county senior citizens selection committee, Mrs. Ernest Swanson, Goodridge, chairwoman, are now asking Pennington county residents to submit nominations for two outstanding senior citizens to be honored at the county fair 2 p.m. July 17 in Thief River Falls.

The county selection committee will choose both a man and a woman over age 70. The community achievements of these two seniors will earn them the title of Pennington county's Outstanding Senior Citizens for 1987.

The man and woman selected, will receive special certificates of commendation from the Governor of Minnesota and their names will be placed in nomination for honors as the state's outstanding senior citizens at the state fair on September 3.

Selection of Minnesota's outstanding senior citizens is a joint effort of the Minnesota board on aging, the state fair board, and the Minnesota federation of county fair officers.

Persons wishing to make nominations for the county awards can obtain official nomination blanks by writing or calling Mrs. Ernest Swanson, Goodridge, 378-4262. Entry forms can also be picked up at the Heritage community center in Thief River Falls or the senior center in Goodridge.

Nominees must be residents of Minnesota and over 70 years of age by county fair time. Previous winners are not eligible, but persons previously nominated may be renominated.

Judging will be based largely on the number and variety of contributions nominees have made to their communities after age 65.

Deadline for acceptance of nominations is June 29, 1987 to the chairwoman of the committee.

New AVTI Program Gives Local Moms A New Start

at AVTIs throughout the state in 1986 was approximately 30 per cent," Abrahamson said, "the dropout rate in the New START program this year was only 13 per cent. I think that says a lot for the determination of the participants as well as their abilities. When one considers the stresses and obstacles most of these people have, that rate is all the more remarkable."

New START provides other assistance in the form of workshops and informational sessions on such things as budgeting, coping with stress, preparation for the holidays on an extremely limited budget, family living techniques and others. Pennington county extension service has cooperated in some of the workshop sponsorship.

Taxpayers should be particularly pleased with the program and supportive of its success. Through education and motivation the program is helping a number of recipients of public assistance have an opportunity to become gainfully employed and earn an income on their own.

"For about six years I mostly just sat at home and watched the 'soaps', doing a little farm help for some of the relatives once in awhile," state Shirley Weber of rural Goodridge, one of the participants in the program. An unmarried woman with a six-year-old daughter and three-year-old son, she lived on AFDC payments from the county welfare department, child support from the oldest child's father, medical assistance payments and food stamps.

"I don't like the stigma attached to the term 'welfare mother'," she said. "I decided in the spring of 1986 to go back to school, and I selected the AVTI because it could give me a specified field and a concentrated course of instruction. She selected accounting because she believes it can provide her with a living wage and an opportunity to advance in a profession.

A graduate of Goodridge high school in 1979, she completed the AVTI cosmetology program in 1981. Then she had her first child and went on public assistance. She will be the first to admit that there is not a lot of incentive to get off the welfare rolls if simply existing in a certain degree of security is satisfactory.

"If you do work part time and try to take care of the kids the money you make only reduces your welfare payment," Shirley said. "The basic AFDC payment is $532 a month, and because I was receiving child support of $300 a month, the welfare department kept that and gave me a $50 bonus."

In effect, the welfare department paid a net of $282 a month and Shirley received $582. Shirley and her two children were also eligible for about $80 to $90 a month in food stamps, and she said she was able to buy all the food needed for a month with that amount. In addition, mother and children were automatically eligible for medical assistance which covered all hospital, clinic and dental costs.

Although mathematics was not a good subject for her in high school, she received primarily Bs and Cs in her Accounting I course this year and even pulled one A. She received special tutoring help through a student support services program several times during the year and is employed in the AVTI work study program this summer for about six hours a day at minimum wage.

She says going to school and planning to become a contributing member of the work force has helped her self-esteem a great deal. She is a member of the student senate at the AVTI and is being encouraged to run for an office. The 44 miles of travel per day round-trip from the house she rents near Highlanding has been one of the hurdles she had to cross. The assistance of her mother, Mrs. Russell (Anne Marie) Heden, with child care while she attended classes has been a major help. Mrs. Heden is even thinking of going back to school herself.

To Get her accounting education, Shirley has been able to get a $600 Pell grant, $180 state grant and $1,560 in guaranteed student loans. She will continue to be eligible for assistance during the next school year.

When Shirley completes the Accounting II program next year, she knows the odds are that she will have to relocate to find employment. She isn't fond of the idea because she feels confortable in this area, but she is willing to do it to earn a living. "I don't want to be a waitress all my life," she explained.

Jodi Donarski is another participant in the New START program and could be considered a model of an enthusiastic student. A divorced mother with an eight-year-old son and three-year-old daughter, Jodi went on public assistance in September of 1985 when she enrolled in the legal assistant program at Northland community college. She had been working at a local discount store and found that she was slipping further and further behind financially each month.

"I really didn't have any choice," she says about her decision to seek public assistance. "I was caught in between but I couldn't get help because my gross salary income was too high. I didn't qualify for HUD housing when I was working, but when I went on AFDC all of the programs became available. In my opinion, the system is in need of some changes to allow provision of a little help when needed."

Jodi was in the first legal assistant class to open at Northland community college, having read about the course offering in a story in the Times. She checked into it, applied and was accepted. Although not an exceptional student in high school, she carried about a B average in the legal assistant program.

Then a year later, in September of 1986, she enrolled in the legal secretary program at the AVTI while continuing her legal assistant studies at NCC. Because she could not receive financial assistance to attend both schools, she used her grants at the AVTI and borrowed money to continue at NCC. Having now completed both programs, with the exception of a 180-hour internship at the Pennington county court administrator's office, she estimates she has about $3,000 in total debt for school.

Jodi said her kids made it possible for her to handle a schedule which for the last year included 52 hours of class time a week. "They have given up activities that other kids enjoy to accommodate my schedule," she said, "and Ricky has helped take care of Amy Jo so I could study."

On a typical school day Jodi would go to AVTI class at 8 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. She would then go home, study for a couple of hours, make a quick supper, and four nights a week attend classes at NCC from 6 to 9 p or 6 to 10 p.m. She would then go home and study until 1 or 2 a.m. While at the AVTI she gained the director's list for academic achievement. She said the extra effort to squeeze three years of training into two years was done to get her into the job market sooner and make her more employable.

Jodi has lived in Thief River Falls all her life to date and making a move won't be easy, she said. She feels Thief River Falls would be a great place to raise her children, but recognizes that employment is not likely to await her in this area. When her internship is completed, she expects to head to a different area of the state in quest of employment.

Jodi and Shirley both praise Arlette Abrahamson for her role in their educations, noting that she has been helpful and understanding, probably because she has been through some of the same frustrations and situations as they have. "Someone who has never had to struggle to make ends meet and found the ends getting further and further apart would never understand what we are going through," Jodi said.

Rain Won't Fall On M.R. Play "Let It Rain"

select the best man for the job, Doctor Harry Adams, a psychiatrist. The last time humanity faced the floods, everyone thought Noah was crazy, this time God seeks out a psychiatrist. But who will be saved? Doc was selected for his goodness, and so is his heart to the very end. So where's the humor?

Imagine, telling others that God has selected you to build an ark, and that a psychiatrist are to proclaim the end times? Meanwhile, some of his clients aren't the most ordinary of folk; there's Yoder who is a prophet of doom, then there's Tomasi a leader in the underworld, and Mrs. Lee who has an unfulfilled marriage as the wife of a psychiatrist. He tells his family that God has visited him today, and has turned a pitcher water into Bloody Mary's, and has forwarded you 25 million dollars to by an ark? Still wondering about the humor?

Imagine, the voice of KTRF's D.J. Brett Carter as God! Yes, he may be short, but Brett has a lot in common with God. Can't imagine what? Bingo, for one.

Kenny Beito, from Strathcona, is back on stage as Doctor Harry Adams. He's hoping that God will do more than just 'float him a loan'.

Gabreilla, Lorrie Sorter, a senior at Middle River high school is God's right hand 'person'. Fashion is not her strong suit, but she beats a mean drum.

Pat Hanson, Middle River, is Mrs. Lee. Pat may be new to the stage, but she is a very friendly natural woman.

Yoder, is an appropriate name for Bryce Nelson a graduate of Middle River high school. What is a "Yoder" is anyone's guess? But he's calling everyone to repent.

Mickey Nelson, new to the stage, portrays Tomasi, an underworld leader who is trying to understand why his family is disappearing under his hands? His two hoods, Tony Gullikson and Nathan Gade keep everyone in line or in the river.

Doc's family is created by Judy Kaml, who is his wife Winnie, and children Kristen Kaml, and Sheldon Ruud all new stars of the stage.

Ms. James, a secretary's secretary, is played by Karen Dahl, a graduate of Middle River high school. Will she be needed in the new world? Why not.

And operating the "hot-lines" is Operator Bonnie Wagner. Even God doesn't cause difficulty for Ma' Bell.

However, the ship may not get built nor the stage without the Master Carpenter, Jerome Henning, who is fast becoming a seasoned veteran of the theatre.

Performances will be Friday, June 19 at 8 p.m., Saturday, June 20, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, June 21 at 3 p.m. at the old Hardware Hank building of Middle River. Our slogan is, the Middle River Community Theatre is Something to honk about.

This play is sponsored in part by Northwest Regional Development Commission.

Goodridge Student Wins Secondary Education Award

Sandy Johnson of Goodridge has been named an academic all-American by the National secondary education council.

The NSEC has established the academic all-American scholar award program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines.

The academic all-American scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Johnson, who attends Goodridge high school, was nominated for this National award by Mr. Rahn, a basketball coach at the school. Johnson's name will appear in the academic all-American scholar directory, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the academic all-American awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the national secondary education council.

Sandy is the daughter of LeRoy and Jeanne Johnson. Her grandparents are Vernon and Viola Wikstrom of Grygla and Elmer and Alice Johnson of Goodridge.

Summerthing Celebration In G.F. June 20-21

"Music In The Park", will feature a variety of music including bluegrass, jazz, folk, a cappella and swing.

Hours for this two-day music festival are 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 20, and from 1-9 p.m., Sunday, June 21. Also on Sunday there will be free Bridgeman dairy treats beginning at 2 p.m. and $.75 pony rides beginning at 1 p.m.

Accident Near Greenbush Early Monday Reported

Brian Blawat, Greenbush, was injured in an accident Monday morning 10 miles west of Greenbush. Blawat was treated and released from the hospital.

Minnesota state patrol received a report of an accident at 3 a.m. Monday morning. Blawat who was driving a 1984 Oldsmobile, was east bound on highway 11 when he hit the guradrail. He got past the bridge and then the car rolled on the highway. The car was totaled in the accident.

On Friday the state patrol reported an accident near Donaldson at the junction of highway 11 and 75. B Sterling Ambrose, Owensboro, KY, driving a 1987 Chrysler, was met in the junction by Virginia Olson, Lake Bronson, in a 1975 Ford. Ambrose was west bound on highway 11 and Olson was north bound on highway 75.

Ambrose was taken to Karlstad hospital where he was treated for broken ribs. Olson was treated and released from Karlstad hospital. The accident is still under investigation.

Friday noon, Jeff Asp of Thief River Falls drove his pickup off the west side of highway 92, according to the Minnesota state patrol. Asp was west bound on highway 92 when he drove off the west side of the road at about noon. Asp was not injured in the accident, but damage to his pickup was estimated at $500.

MN Farm Bureau Members To Meet

Farm Bureau members from throughout Minnesota will gather June 16 and 17 for a Mid-Year Leadership conference at the Sunwood Inn, St. Cloud.

The conference will focus on leadership training for county presidents, vice-presidents and committee chairmen, as well as a comprehensive review of the 1987 Minnesota legislative session and its impact on agriculture.

CATARACT FACTS

Many people think that a cataract is a film growing over the eye. Actually, a cataract is a clouding of the normal human lens inside our eye, behind the pupil.

Cataracts seem to be part of the aging process, although they can occur in young persons. Cataracts are more common in parts of the world that receive a great deal of sunshine, such as India. We think that ultraviolet light from the sun may tend to cause cataracts.

There is no proven way to prevent cataracts, although some studies have been done to see if long-term use of aspirin will prevent cataract formation.

The cataract is removed through an incision on the eye which is less than half an inch long. After the clouded human lens is removed, a plastic lens, called a lens implant, measuring less that 1/4 inch, is placed in the eye.

Nowdays lens implants are not "sewn" into the eye. They have flexible plastic "legs" which hold them permanently in place.

Some eye surgeons are using lens implants with an ultraviolet absorbing tint in them, to protect the eye from the harmful rays of the sun.

Deaths And Funerals

Morris Moen, 75

Newfolden — Morris Moen died at his home in New Maine township Thursday morning at the age of 75. Funeral services for Morris Moen were held today (Monday) at 10 a.m. at Bethlehem Lutheran church, Newfolden, with Rev. Stephen Estrem officiating.

Mrs. Alton Carlson served as organist at the service, with Mrs. Dale Rokke singing "The Old Rugged Cross" and "I Know Who Holds the Future." Congregational hymns were "Beautiful Savior" and "How Great Thou Art."

All friends in attendance were considered honorary pallbearers, and active bearers were the five sons of the deceased and grandson, Lance Moen. Interment was in Spruce Valley cemetery in Marshall county, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Morris Nathaniel Moen was born Feb. 29, 1912, in Spruce Valley township, Marshall county, to Clarence and Elida Peterson Moen. He attended rural school in Spruce Valley and grew to adulthood there. For some time he worked on road construction in the area.

Mar. 30, 1935, he married Hanna Nelson in Newfolden. The couple has made their home in the Newfolden area their entire married life. He operated a blacksmith shop, gas station and restaurant, and farmed. He was a member of Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden.

Morris Moen is survived by his wife, Hanna; five sons and daughters-in-law, Marvin and Betty, Thief River Falls, Dale and Linda, Orlando, FL, Gerald and Elona, Newfolden, Richard and Pat, Newfolden, and Dennis and Beverly, Oklee; four daughters and sons-in-law, Gwendeline and Kenneth Hjelle, Karlstad, Kathryn and Cameron Harstad, Grand Forks, ND, Sharon and Ken Braaten, Bagley, and Diane and Gerald Nelson, Newfolden; 25 grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Margaret Peterson, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Oscar (Evelyn) Paulson, Newfolden.

Preceding him in death were his parents; one granddaughter, Janelle; brothers, George and Raymond; and sisters, Florence and Eunice.

Magnus (Mannie) Moen, 63

Middle River — Magnus (Mannie) Moen, 63, died Thursday evening at the Fargo Veterans' hospital. Funeral services for Mannie Moen will be Tuesday at First Lutheran church in Middle River with military honors accorded by the Middle River American Legion.

Visitation for Mannie Moen will be today (Monday) after 4 p.m. at the Collins Funeral home in Middle River and for one hour prior to the service Tuesday. A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

Olga Granum Hendricks, 87

Minneapolis — Olga B. Granum Hendricks, 87, died Thursday in Minneapolis. Funeral services for Olga Hendricks were held today (Monday) at 1:30 p.m. at Lakewood cemetery chapel in Minneapolis. Interment was there.

Olga Granum was born Sept. 10, 1899, in Thief River Falls, the daughter of Gilbert and Barbara Granum. She grew up here, where her father was a partner in Oen's Mercantile store. She married Adolph Hendricks and has lived in Minneapolis for a number of years. She was owner and operator of several apartment buildings in the Minneapolis area, a member of Central Lutheran church and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Olga Hendricks is survived by brothers Ernest, Oscar and Gilbert Granum; sisters Esther Evans, Bernice Wiener and Margarette Kleifgren; and several nieces and nephews.

Sandra Lofberg, 19

Waubeka, WI—Funeral services were held Wednesday in St. Paul's Community church in Waubeka, WI, for Sandra Lofberg, 19. She died June 7 in a motorcycle accident a few hours after her graduation from Ozaukee high school.

Rev. David Jerger officiated at the service, with interment in Union cemetery in Waubeka. Pallbearers were three brothers-in-law and three uncles of the deceased.

Sandra Lofberg was born June 27, 1967 in Port Washington, WI, the daughter of Rodney and Elaine Flint Lofberg. She was a member of the Ozaukee high school choir and of the school's food service class.

She is survived by her parents, Rodney and Elaine Lofberg, Waubeka; four sisters, Cindy Pletcher, Cecil, WI, Darlene Casper, Jacksonville, FL, Debbie Wagner, Saukville, WI, and Julie Staton, Random Lake, WI; two brothers, Darnell, Fredonia, WI, and Doren, of Random Lake, WI; grandparents, Eileen Lofberg, Thief River Falls, and Leonard and Elsie Flint, Saukville, WI; aunts and uncles, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lofberg and Mr. and Mrs. Frances (Marlys) Anderson, all of Thief River Falls; and her fiance, Robert Turenne, Waubeka, WI.

Harold Knadle, 81

Hayward, CA — Howard K. Knadle of Hayward, CA, died May 26 at the age of 81. Harold Knadle was born in Pierre, SD, and he and his family lived in Thief River Falls for many years. He moved to California in 1940.

Survivors include his wife, Ann Dernedde Knadle; two daughters, Marilyn Sharp, Fremont, CA, and Joan Hoggarth, Manteca, CA; one son, Dennis, Livermore, CA; stepson, Robert L. Dernedde, Portland, OR; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and one sister, Bette Suter, Cashmere, WA.

He was preceded in death by a son, Robert Knadle.

GOODRIDGE . . .

Saturday evening Ruth Kotrba visited at the Neil Liedberg home.

Engolf Bakken visited at the Palmer Lovly home Thursday morning.

Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Lovly went to Fertile to the Sundahl Lutheran church and enjoyed lunch there and also visited with Manda and Walter Carlson and other friends. They also went to the Norman Lutheran church and attended Memorial services and had dinner there. They visited with relatives and friends. They were also callers at the Froberg Lutheran church at Rindahl later in the afternoon. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lovly visited at the Sig Massel home with his family at Winger.

Dear Readers,
A death in the family could create problems for survivors which may be alleviated by discussion and preplanning. Funeral and burial arrangements are important, and should be discussed openly and frankly. Prearranging and perhaps prefinancing a funeral, may be decided upon to assist survivors after death occurs.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
LARRY B. BELMONT

NWSA Alumni To Hold Reunion At UMC On June 27

Nearly 400 Northwest School of Agriculture alumni are expected to attend the annual reunion on Saturday June 27, at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

Reunion registration begins at 10 a.m. in the food service building and continues all day. The buffet banquet and program honoring the 1987 Top Aggies will be at 5:30 p.m. followed by "memory lane" reminiscing, refreshments, and an all-alumni dance featuring Hersch Lysaker and the Ninth District American Legion band.

Other reunion events include an estate planning seminar and update on the new tax laws at 1 p.m., class meetings and pictures, and tours of the campus and White House alumni center.

"This will be a time to remember — a full day of festivities designed to renew acquaintances. We are asking NWSA alumni and faculty to bring their memories with them to the all-school reunion," said Berneil Nelson, reunion coordinator.

Two NWSA alumni will receive Top Aggie awards recognizing their outstanding community, family and career contributions: Marshall Evans '37, from LeSueur, and Harris Peterson '42 from Grand Forks, ND.

The class of '37 will celebrate its 50th anniversary. Committee members for this special reunion include Lucille Heldund Kildal, Bagley; Elaine Johnston Maruska, Angus; Alton Arness, Fisher; and Marshall Evans, LeSueur.

Celebrating its 25th anniversary will be the class of '62. Class leaders are Richard Gatheridge, Humboldt; Dale Charais, Fisher; Gloria Nelson Holte, Grygla, and George Proulx, Red Lake Falls.

Other classes making special plans for the reunion include 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1942, 1952, 1957 and 1967.

For registration information contact Berneil Nelson at UMC, 218-281-6510, extension 397.

Bookmobile Plans And Activities Are Now Available

Northwest Regional Library bookmobile summer schedules are available at post offices and various business places in communities the bookmobile stops in and at all NWRL branch libraries.

Summer programs are scheduled for July 7th through August 13th. Location, days, and times for the bookmobile summer children's programs are listed on the summer schedule.

The NWRL summer reading program theme is "Paws at your library." A variety of activities have been planned for the 4-year-old to third grade age group including a game, craft, films, reading club and contests with prizes. Special entertainment will feature members of the Happy Acres 4-H club and the "Tales Two Tell" storytelling troup. Patrons of all ages are welcome to attend the programs. We ask that 3-year-olds be accompanied by a parent. Patrons in grade four and older enjoy attending programs also. They often assist the younger patrons with craft projects.

Kerri Jenson will be checking our books and writing up patrons' book requests on the bookmobile this summer while Margaret Moeglein conducts activities at community centers scheduled for programs. Kerri is a student at Northland community college.

Roseau Library To Hold Discussion On "Staggerford"

Bob Thacker will lead a discussion of Jon Hassler's novel "Staggerford" 12 noon June 26 at the Roseau public library. Adults interested in participating should read the book which is of special interest to Minnesotans because of its setting in central Minnesota. Copies are available at the Roseau public library. Participants may bring bag lunches. Coffee will be provided.

The noontime "Let's Talk About Books," a program extension of the evening series, is based on the Minnesota sampler theme. Bob Thacker, leader of the current series, is an avid reader and an experienced discussion leader. Anyone who has read the book or is considering reading Hassler's books will find the discussion interesting.

The titles for the fall Let's Talk About Books series, which will begin in mid-September, have been chosen. This series will also feature Minnesota authors, but will emphasize children's books and will include "Growing Pains," a book based on the early diaries of Wanda Gag, artist and author of "Millions Of Cats." These two books by Gag and one by Nancy Carlson will begin the fall series. Other titles are posted at the library for patrons who wish to do some light summertime reading in preparation for fall discussions.

Beginning in January Let's Talk About Books program will feature American short stories and will include short films.

People with impaired vision should not rule out participation in book discussions at the library. Many of the selections are available on cassette tapes, on records or in braille. Librarians can explain the borrowing process for special materials.

County Extension Day Camp Planned In Oakland Park

Day camp centering around the theme of "You're Someone Special" will be held Thursday, June 18, for youth ages 9-11. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. at Oakland park in Thief River Falls and conclude at 3:15 p.m. In case of rain it will be held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

The day camp will include the following four sessions: "Decisions-Decisions"; "Look Sharp-Feel Sharp"; "Nature and You"; and "I'm a Thumbuddy." There will be plenty of fun and recreation for everyone.

Cost for the camp is $1 per person. Youth attending should bring a bag lunch for dinner. A beverage will be provided.

To register, call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116. Space is limited, so sign-up today.

This event is sponsored by the Minnesota extension service and the Northwest district 4-H home economics committee.

NCC To Host First Teleconference On Adult Illiteracy

Northland Community College is the community host for the first national video teleconference on adult illiteracy and its impact on the workforce. The teleconference will be held on Tuesday, June 23, 1987, at 6:30 p.m. in room A-16 at the college.

"The American Seminar: Literacy, Your Community And Its Workforce" is sponsored by the American association of community and junior colleges (AACJC) and will originate live from the BizNet studio of the U.S. chamber of commerce in Washington, D.C., as a one-way video, two-way audio national-local "town hall" meeting discussion.

The purpose of this important and unprecedented event is to bring together, in each of 1,000 communities, leaders of literacy action programs with other leaders from industry, government, labor and community groups to develop a coordinated, comprehensive literacy education action program for their locale. All community members that are concerned with reducing the number of youth and adult illiterates here and across our country are invited to participate.

There are no fees for participation in this workshop. All interested persons are urged to participate in this serious effort to attack the problem of illiteracy in our community and Northwestern Minnesota. For more information on this unprecedented nationwide event, please contact Dr. James Haviland, Vice Provost, at 681-2181.

Telephone Pioneers To Hold A Teddy Bear Fund Raiser

Telephone Pioneers of America will be holding a fund raiser and purchase "Teddy-Bears" to be carried in all Thief River Falls law enforcement cars. These bears will be given to children that are in a traumatic situation by the law enforcement officer on the scene.

Jerry Moyer, incoming president of the Lakes Council reminds the public of an outdoor rummage sale to be held Wednesday and Thursday, June 16th and 17th, next to the Northwestern Bell building at 403 LaBree Ave. North. Contributions will be accepted. A nice turnout would be appreciated by the pioneers and the kids this project will help. The sale will be rescheduled in case of rain.

Community Ed. Offers Elementary Day Camp In TRF

Community Education office in Thief River Falls is offering an elementary day camp for students kindergarten through grade 5.

Day camp, a seven week program, will explore a variety of topics geared for young children. The camp is from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday each week at Washington elementary school in Thief River Falls. Each week of the seven week program is carefully planned. Games, stories, arts, crafts, special events, and even a surprise field trip are all part of the elementary day camp.

Week one, June 15 through 19, is entitled "Me And My Family Tree." Participants will learn about themselves and their families, and others in the program and why everyone is special. Week one is just one example of what to except.

Registration for the day camp can be obtained at the community education office. Each week will cost the participant $15. Students should bring a sack lunch.

Programs for the remaining six weeks are: "A One An A Two An A...," June 22 - 26; "More Like Me Than Different," June 29 - July 3; "Color My World," July 13 - 17; "When I Grow Up I Want To Be -," July 20 - 24; "Our Wonderful World," July 27 - 31; and "The Olympics," August 3 - 7.

to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am hoping that someone in the Thief River Falls area can help me with a matter relating to research I am doing.

I am originally from near Moose Lake, MN, and am doing a history on an area there known as the "west side." I am gathering pictures and information about the old families that have lived there through the years. There was a John and Johanna Mathilda Freeman who lived in that area for a number of years and lived later in the town of Moose Lake.

I understand that Mrs. Freeman had two nephews who lived in or near Thief River Falls. They were George and John Swanson (or Swenson?). I am wondering if either of them are living or if they still have family in the area. I would like to hear from someone who knows of them or from someone who is related to them.

I am hoping that someone of that Swanson family would have a picture of Johanna Mathilda Freeman (aunt to George and John) that I could borrow. Perhaps someone in the family would have picture of both Mr. and Mrs. Freeman. I would appreciate borrowing such a picture and will return it safely as soon as possible.

Mrs. Freeman had a sister, Anna Nilson, and a niece, Olga Sandstrom, both of Minneapolis.

Please write to me if you can help me with this matter. Thank you!

TIMES Around The Region

by Sharon LaCoursiere

What A Way To Start The Day

Oklee — A 1983 Chevrolet Silverado was damaged June 3 in the amount of $651 when the driver, Frankie Cyr, backed out of his driveway and struck a 1980 GMC one-ton truck driven by Donald Berry. Berry had pulled into the driveway in an attempt to turn his truck around. (Oklee Herald)

Way To Go

Baudette — City employees in Baudette will get four per cent increases in pay across the board in July. Four women will also receive special comparable worth increases in pay along with their four per cent increases. Total cost of all the raises will be $27,976. (Baudette Region)

Shear Pleasure

Greenbush — Winners in the Greenbush Sheep Days shearing contest were Gary Reinhardt of Fargo, ND, first place; Gary Baumgartner, Slayton, second; and Fritz Craig, Park Rapids, third. (Greenbush Tribune)

Just A Little Ride

Baudette — The Baudette elevator reported $500 in property damage when vandals started a tractor that was parked in the lumber yard and ran it into a pile of lumber. The incident is under investigation. (Northern Light)

Another One Bites The Dust

Greenbush — Another historical landmark has been demolished. "Nick's Blacksmith Shop" in Greenbush was torn down into a pile of rubble and then burned by the Greenbush Fire department at the request of its owner, Sandy McFarlane. Nick Pulczinski opened the blacksmith shop in Greenbush in April of 1934. He did all types of blacksmith work in the shop and built a garage and gas station expansion in 1945. His wife, Sophie, also ran a coffee shop there. Nick retired in 1979 after 45 years in the business. (Greenbush Tribune)

Weekend Affair

Karlstad — The Karlstad June Fest will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 26, 27 and 29, with special bean feed, rummage sales and the Miss Karlstad Pageant Saturday evening. Sunday all churches in the community will gather for a unified service at the Karlstad school auditorium at 10:30 a.m. (North Star News)

Collision

Oklee — A two-vehicle accident June 6 in Oklee damaged a 1977 Chevrolet pickup in the amount of $400, and a 1983 Chevrolet Camaro in the amount of $1,000. Eric Jensen, driving the pickup, was traveling north on Main Street, and the Camaro, driven by Jason Magnell, was making a left turn from an alley onto Main Street when the two vehicles collided. There were no injuries in the incident. (Oklee Herald)

"My Fair Lady" Cast

Red Lake Falls — Casting is completed for the Two Rivers theater selection "My Fair Lady" to be presented July 9 through 12 in the Red Lake Falls community hall. Heidy Fladeland has been cast in the leading role of Eliza Doolittle and Don Johanneck will play Henry Higgins. Other cast members are Sharon Kabes, Dean Tongen, Bill Jackson, Jon Weiss, Randy Kabes, Keith Pearson, Jon Flatland, Alan Walker, Jim Scott, Lynette Flage, Wendy Kabes, Terry Weiss, Lynelle Bjorgan, Bobbi Guillemette, Melanie Waldoch, Sara Steuart, Patti Hofius, Della Boice, Bob Schurr, Mary Jo Majeres, Traci Czech, Sonja Meiers, Bill Meiers, Jon Weiss, Randy Kabes, Stephanie Perreault, Sara Olson, Stephanie Sorensen, Missi Guillemette, Steve Olson and Marguerite Cartier. There are still several roles to be filled and anyone interested is asked to contact Karen Seeger at 253-4290, Sharon Kabes at 253-2686, or Michele Van Emmerik at 253-2053.

Rollover

Williams — A one-vehicle accident at 12:14 p.m. June 6, two miles east of Williams injured the driver and five passengers, while one passenger escaped injury. Nancy Ann Merry of Maplewood was driving a 1979 Pontiac station wagon west of Williams on highway 11 when the vehicle went out of control and rolled in the ditch. Names of the passengers were not released and the case is under investigation. (Northern Light)

Free To All

Grygla — The city council recently set a policy for the use of meeting rooms in the Grygla civic building. Rooms in the building will be open to all non-profit or charity organizations for regular meetings and will not be used for any fund-raising activity, annual meetings or private use. The city voted they don't wish to charge rent for the public use of the building. (Grygla Eagle)

Two Missed Misses

Greenbush — There are five candidates for the title of Miss Greenbush this year. Martina Johnson, daughter of Martin and Barbara Johnson of Badger and LaNelle Knutson, daughter of Berdean and Louise Knutson of Greenbush, are also vying for the title, along with Tanya Hasson, Amy Dalager and Lynette Berge, who were mentioned in a previous story in Times Around the Region. (Greenbush Tribune)

Got A Float? Use It!

Greenbush — The Greenbush Town and Country club is looking for parade entrants for their annual Fourth of July parade. Anyone interested is asked to call Don Wicklund at 782-2110. (Greenbush Tribune)

Sewer Story

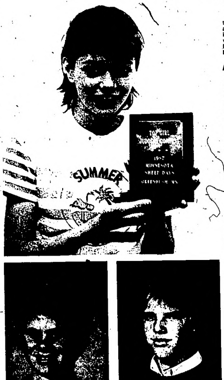
Williams — The Williams sewer may soon be improved to the tune of $295,000. There will be a special town meeting June 17 to discuss the matter with representatives from the city's consulting engineers and Joe Dvork of Midwest Assistance Programs. John Wynn of Northwest Multi-County, a semi-private grantswriting firm from Mentor, has been hired to write grant applications for the project and it is hoped that 55 per cent of the cost can be covered with grants and loans from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, the Environmental Protection Agency, Minnesota Small Cities Funds and the Farmers Home Administration. It is anticipated that Williams' taxpayers' shares will run between $30,000 and $50,000 in special assessments to property owners. (Williams Northern Light)



FIVE Pennington county 4-Hers competed in the sheep judging contest that was part of the Greenbush sheep days activities on June 4. The 4-H team placed second out of ten teams. The contest included four classes of sheep and one questions class. Team members were: Paul Johnson, Troy Carlson and Beth Ntvik. Troy tied for 7th place individual and Beth placed 5th individually and was also awarded a plaque for being the top girl judge. Kelly Natvik and Lisa Reierson also competed in the judging contest.

"WHERE? HERE!!"

Hallock — Hallock community theater will present "WHERE? HERE!!" June 18 and 19 at the Hallock city hall at 7 and 9 p.m. to kick off Hallock's fourth annual Back Home Days. The cast includes Lisa and Shannon Berg, Elmore Bergh, Dean and Karen Bergeron, Val Blomquist, Gordon Carlson, Dan Carriere, Dick Clay, Ken Eukel, Rick Gail, Patti Gustafson, Pam Hunt, Todd Johnson, Julie Lindegard, Andy Malm, Betty and Dan Money, Lorraine Nelson, Brett and Suzanne Niles, Hank Noel, Les Nordling, Noel Peterson, Kim Sjostrand, Byron Stokke, Jody Sugden, Jim and Mike Tureson and Phyllis Westerson. (North Star News)

Ole the Owl

Fertile — A Fertile man has carved an owl from a dead elm tree using a chain saw and wood chisels. Ole the Owl is patterned after a great horned owl that often visited the Norris Johnson yard about 15 years ago. Johnson started chain saw woodcarving about five years ago after taking a class and he now gives demonstrations and conducts classes in the art in the Fertile area. He is a retired businessman who says he does the carvings as a hobby and not for sales. (Fertile Journal)

4-H Fun Exchange

Clearbrook — Ten 4-Hers and their adult volunteer leader from Buchanan county in northeast Iowa spent a week with host families in Clearwater county last week in an exchange program visit. Planned activities for the visitors included a tour of Itasca State Park, swimming, hayride at the John Phillips farm near Leonard, tour of rice paddy farming in Clearbrook, and visits to Pine Lake, the Wildlife Museum, Clearwater County Historical Society and Bagley's "Farm By the Lake." Next year Clearwater county 4-Hers will make an exchange visit to Iowa. (Leader-Record)

Check It Out

Bagley — Two sisters-in-law have opened a store to sell selective consignment items from local talented craftsmen and women. "County Crafts" will feature unique and quality items such as Minnesota nightgowns (l-o-n-g and cozy), rosemaling, painted china plates, Norwegian baskets, quilts, handmade china dolls, saw blade paintings, ceramics, oak baby cradles, pottery, wind chimes, carved loons and ducks, machine knit items, sweatshirts, baby quilts and wooden and folk art. Dee Strandlien and Doris Holm plan a grand opening of their store in the near future. It is located six and one-half miles east of Bagley on highway 2. (Farmers Independent)

Go Try It Out

McIntosh — The McIntosh Men's Organization has recently completed work on a new bridge in Roholt Park and recently installed several pieces of playground equipment there for the kiddies. (McIntosh Times)

Deer Me!

Grygla — Carlye, Jill and Abby Schuler are spending their summer vacation caring for a baby deer. One of the Schuler's swathers struck the deer in an alfalfa field near their home and they brought it home with a broken leg and cuts. After getting the proper release from the Department of Natural Resources, the Schulers got a veterinarian to set the leg and treat the cuts. The fawn, named "Felica," is being fed lamb replacer in a baby bottle and is doing very well, thank you. (Grygla Eagle)

Plan To Get Pretty

Red Lake Falls — The city of Red Lake Falls has been accepted into the Governor's Design Team program and will have a visit from the team in September. The team is composed of architects, landscapers, artists and urban planners who will furnish the city with new ideas on downtown revitalization, town image, beautification, parks, new development potential and other issues relating to community improvement and problem-solving. The team's visit will coincide with the completion of the Star City program date. (RLF Gazette)

Easy Riding

Baudette — Blacktop and paving are planned for Baudette and Lake of the Woods county this summer. Residents along two main county roads will have dust-free fall after new blacktop goes on this summer, and plans are being made to pave all north-south streets in southeast Baudette. Several other streets elsewhere in town are also under consideration for blacktopping. (Baudette Region)

Dinner Theater

Kennedy — The 42nd Street Song and Dance Company will present "A Musical Salute to Hollywood," June 26, 27 and 29. Lavish production numbers will be choreographed by Debi Elhard and Mary Juhl, and the production was written and is directed by Bob Ryden. Tickets for the dinner theater production are available from Farmers State Bank in Kennedy, Kennedy Farmers Elevator and Northwestern State Bank in Hallock, or by calling Jim Petersburg at 674-4250. (North Star News)

Argyle Celebration

Argyle — Final plans are being made for "Meet Your Neighbor Day" June 26, 27 and 28 in Argyle. So far, events include a lip sync contest, teen dance at the community center, turkey shoot and drawing for an elk hunting trip, rummage sale, prize drawings on Main Street, kids' nickel scramble, egg tossing contest, and more. (Argyle Messenger)

Rev. Melvyn Budke Accepts Assignment In Lake Harriet

Each year at the Minnesota annual conference of the United Methodist church, the Bishop of the area makes the pastoral appointments to local United Methodist churches official. This year, at the conference in St. Peter, Bishop Emerson Colaw made the appointments that will directly affect the United Methodist church of Thief River Falls.

The following changes in pastoral appointment will take place during the week of June 22, 1987, as per the Bishop's assignment:

Rev. Tony Fink, the associate pastor from Thief River Falls, will be going to Evangel United Methodist church in Rochester to assume the duties of associate pastor there; Rev. Melvyn Budke and his family will be moving to southwest Minneapolis. Rev. Melvyn Budke has been assigned to take the position of Senior Minister at Lake Harriet United Methodist church.

The pastor replacing Rev. Budke is Rev. Elliot George. Rev. Elliot George and his wife Carol, will be moving to Thief River Falls some time during the week of June 22nd Rev. George will be preaching his first sermon in the United Methodist church of Thief River Falls on Sunday, June 28, 1987, at 9:45 a.m.

Women Of Today Members Attend Training Session

Recently elected State program manager, Pat Mannie and district director, Inez Klamar of the Thief River Falls Women of Today, attended a state leadership training seminar June 6-7 at Cragun's Resort near Brainerd.

Mannie has been a member of the Thief River Falls Women of Today since 1983 and Klamar has been a member since 1984. Pat has held the offices of vice president, president, district director and currently serves as treasurer. Inez has held the office of president and district secretary. They both have participated in many local projects.

Highlights of the leadership training weekend at Cragun's Resort included discussion of state policies and procedures, program planning and implementation of goals for the upcoming year, and an opportunity to get acquainted with other state program managers and executive officers, as well as recreational events.

Women of Today is a leadership, service organization for young adults between the ages of 18 and 40. For more information about the Thief River Falls Women of Today, contact Arlene Novak, President, at 964-5346.

Onkka Golfs In NJCAA Meet

Northland's David Onkka and Deb Jacobson were easy to spot at the 1987 National Junior College Athletic Association national golf tournament completed Friday in Odessa, Texas. Onkka, a 6-8 freshman from Thief River Falls, was the tournament's tallest golfer, and Jacobson was the only woman coach on hand for the four-day event at the Odessa County Club and the Mission Dorado Country Club courses.

Onkka, though, did not make the 36-hole cut. He had rounds of 87-80 for a 167. The cut was made at 150, one of the tournament's lowest figures in years, a figure that eliminated all of the Region 13 qualifiers.

"David did all right," explained Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "He had two bad holes per round that really hurt, but then he did fine. The Mission Dorado course, where he had the 87, was very long (7,000 yeards), and David's game is not a long game. The course was long with water, roughs and lots of sand. It was very challenging."

Brevard Community College of Cocoa, FL, won the NJCAA team title with a four-day 1,141-stroke total, 11 strokes below par and 13 strokes ahead of second place Florida Community College of Jacksonville. New Mexico Military Institute of Rosewell finished third at 1,160, followed by Alexander City of Alabama with 1,165 and Paris Junior College of Texas with 1,175.

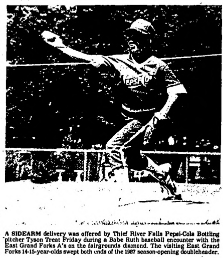
Fred Lindgren, a native of Sweden playing at Florida Community College, was the individual winner in the field of 216 golfers with a 15-under par 273. He had four subpar rounds in the 72-hole tournament of 71, 68, 66 and 68.

Jon Worrell of Abraham Baldwin Agriculture College of Tifton, GA and Dennis Postlewait of Brevard each finished with a 280 to tie for second.

Top score by a Region 13 qualifier was a 152 by Greg Johnson of Brainerd, whose rounds of 76-76 missed the midway cut by just two strokes.

"It was a fantastic experience for David," pointed out Jacobson. "He's a very fine young gentleman who represented Northland very well."

The experience, said Jacobson, has Onkka already thinking ahead to the 1988 NJCAA tournament in Scottsdale, AZ.



A SIDEARM delivery was offered by Thief River Falls Pepsi-Cola Bottling pitcher Tyson Treat Friday during a Babe Ruth baseball encounter with the East Grand Forks A's on the fairgrounds diamond. The visiting East Grand Forks 14-15-year-olds swept both ends of the 1987 season-opening doubleheader.

Legion Shades Karlstad 4-3

Corey Olson's single with runners on first and second in the top of the ninth inning plated the winning run Thursday as Thief River Falls posted a 4-3 extra-inning American Legion baseball win at Karlstad.

Kory Joppru went the full nine innings for the pitching win, giving up just two hits while striking out 13.

Joppru also produced the game's first run with an RBI single in the top of the first inning.

Thief River Falls snapped a 1-1 tie on a two-run single by Hunter Boldt in the fourth inning, but Joppru paid for a couple of walks he issued in the sixth when Karlstad scored twice and tied the game at 3-all.

Thief River Falls' offense was limited to five hits. Karlstad collected four of the game's six errors.

It was the second win in two starts for Post 117, playing under the direction of Scott McKeever, the Thief River Falls VFW coach who was filling in for vacationing Legion head coach Mark Lundin.

Thief River Falls will have doubleheader assignments Tuesday vs. the Grand Forks Royals (5 and 7 p.m.) and Saturday vs. the Moorhead Blues (12-noon and 2 p.m.) at the fairgrounds diamond. Those two teams met Thursday in Grand Forks and the Blues won twice, 4-3 and 14-8.

TRF Statistics Are Listed

Athletic letters were presented to 15 Thief River Falls players by head coach Tracey Wensloff following the recently-completed 1987 high school baseball season.

Letter winners included seniors Kory Joppru, Tom Knoff and Rick Rosetta; juniors Mike Bendickson, Chris Bjorgaard, Kurt Dupree, Jason Lane, Chris Nelson, Joel Swanson, and Scott Vedbraaten; plus sophomores John Azure, Hunter Boldt, Todd Brandon, Dean DuChamp, and Jared Erickson.

Thief River Falls started the 1987 high school baseball season with a promising 4-1 record, including a 4-2 victory over long-time nemesis Moorhead. But the Prowlers finished with a less-than-hoped-for 9-6 mark, including a season-ending 15-3 drubbing at the hands of the Spuds in the North Sub-Region 8AA tournament semifinals.

It was the Prowlers' inconsistency that created a frustrating season for Wensloff, a Roseau native and a Bemidji State University graduate.

"Frustrating is a good word for it," acknowledged Wensloff, who admitted his own lack of experience played a part in the disappointing finish. "There were things I wanted to get done, but I didn't know how to do it."

Thief River Falls was also under a rookie head coach in 1986 when the Prowlers were 10-6 with Mark Lundin, who left for a position in the Warren school system. "I was hoping to improve on last year's record — say about 11-4," said Wensloff, "so it was a little disappointing to go 9-6. We were capable of playing exceptionally good baseball, but we were also capable of playing very poorly."

That was shown graphically at the May 2 Moorhead Invitational when one of the Prowlers' best efforts of the year produced the 4-2 first round win over the host Spuds, but one of their poorer showings later that same day wound up as a 13-3 second round loss to Minot, ND.

The season started with three wins over area Class A competition as the Prowlers hammered Ada 17-1 and Kennedy-Hallock 14-1 before outscoring Marshall County Central-Middle River 11-10.

After the Moorhead Invitational appearance Thief River Falls lost a 10-0 game to Class AA state power Bemidji and dropped a disappointing 4-3 decision to Tri-County. The three-game losing streak was stopped with a 3-1 victory over International Falls, but Bemidji showed up on the schedule again and was a 21-8 winner.

Down the stretch the Prowlers edged Crookston 10-7, shut out eventual Region 8A champion Roseau 9-0, lost to Crookston 5-4, beat Roseau again 8-4 and ripped Lake of the Woods 13-0 before the season-ending tournament loss to Moorhead.

Knoff led the Thief River Falls regulars in hitting with a .476 batting average (20-for-42). Other starters who fared well at the plate included Joppru with a .391 average, Lane .325, Bendickson .316, and Swanson .308.

Pitching-wise, DuChamp proved to be the team's most effective hurler with a 3-1 record and an impressive 1.09 earned-run-average over 25.2 innings. He walked just 10 and struck out 28. Nelson was the busiest pitcher, going 4-3 over 37 innings as he walked 31 and struck out 40 while carrying a 6.04 ERA.

Legion Team Faces Tough Schedule

Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team faces what may be its most challenging back-to-back assignment of the 1987 season this week when Post 117 takes on the Grand Forks Royals and the Moorhead Blues in doubleheader action at the fairgrounds diamond here.

Grand Forks Royals expect to be a North Dakota state tournament challenger this summer. They'll be in Thief River Falls Tuesday for a 5 p.m. twinbill.

Moorhead Blues have been the dominate team in Minnesota Ninth District play over the years. They'll be in town Saturday for a pair of games starting at 12-noon.

Both the Royals and Blues have classy programs. It'll be a good test for a Thief River Falls team that hopes to be able to challenge for the Ninth District title this year.

Thief River Falls will be without head coach Mark Lundin Tuesday. He is out of town on a fishing trip. Scott McKeever, whose summer assignment deals mostly with the VFW 16-year-olds, handles the Legion team in Lundin's absence.

It'll be another busy season for the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond, home of the American Legion and VFW teams, in addition to three Babe Ruth teams — the 14-15-year-olds on TG Sporting Goods and Pepsi-Cola Bottling, plus the 13-year-olds on the Prep squad. Howard Dalager and Rich Bendickson serve as Babe Ruth coaches.

Through the efforts of people like Nick Drees and Dalager, along with the Thief River Falls Youth Baseball Association and the Park and Recreation Department, the city's baseball program has really blossomed in recent years, opening the way for a large group of Thief River Falls youngsters to play the game.

Additional work has been done this year on the fairgrounds diamond to make it a more attractive playing site.

Miscellaneous

+ Lon Aune, a senior from Thief River Falls, was awarded the Sioux Pride Award, given to the athletes most exemplifying the all-around student-athlete, as University of North Dakota men's track coach Mike Grandall announced the team awards for the recently-colmpleted 1987 season. Aune was a part of the UND recordsetting 1600 meter relay team during the indoor season and holds the UND 1500 meter outdoor record with a time of 3:57.7.

+ A reunion of former Bemidji High School basketball players and coaches from 1948 through the 1970 season is scheduled August 7 in Bemidji. The reunion will honor the teams of former coach Bun Fortier, who posted a 424-92 record during 20 years as head coach of the Lumberjacks. He took 16 teams to the state tournament during that time. In honor of Fortier, an annual scholarship for a Bemidji High School graduate will be started in his name. For information about the gathering, write to Fortier Reunion, Box 634, Moorhead, MN 56560, or call Tom Tolman at 235-0473, or Jack Louma at 243-2604.

+ With former Crookston head coach Mike Lundby leaving a post as an assistant coach in Owatonna to succeed Tony Palmisceno as head high school coach in East Grand Forks, only two Section 8 hockey head coaching positions remain open — in Thief River Falls, where Wendell Grand resigned after 11 years at the post, and in Brainerd, where former Northland Community College player John Barger left to become head coach at Austin.

Forest Pests

June is a month characterized by heavy insect activity. A wide variety of caterpillars, beetles and weevils will be attacking shade and forest trees in the area. The early spring and summer may give rise to early pest problems, warns Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry officials.

Yellow-headed spruce sawfly is one of the more common pest encountered on ornamentals, windbreaks and forest plantations. The spruce sawfly has been a serious problem on white spruce for many landowners. Open growth spruce trees in grassy areas suffer the most severe damage. Damage generally is noticeable during the first week of June on trees less than 20 feet in height. The sawfly larvae is the culprit that does the damage. This insect larvae feeds on the spruce needles. Succulent new needles are preferred but the insect will also feed on old foliage, stripping the tree in severe outbreaks.

Adult female sawflies emerge from the soil about the time the bud sclaes fall from the buds. Eggs are laid on

TRF, Warroad Split Games

A schedule mix-up created a makeshift Thief River Falls line-up for an impromptu Babe Ruth baseball encounter with Warroad at the fairgrounds diamond Thursday.

Thief River Falls' two 14-15-year-old teams — TG Sporting Goods and Pepsi-Cola Bottling — were at the diamond Wednesday awaiting the Warroad squad for a split doubleheader. But Warroad was a no-show; they had Roseau on their schedule for the same day.

Instead, Warroad made an unexpected Thief River Falls appearance the next day. TG Sporting Goods and Pepsi-Cola Bottling players had already completed two morning practice sessions under coach Rich Bendickson, who quickly tried to round up some players and umpires for a pair of games.

What he wound up with was a mixture of white-shirted TG Sporting Goods and blue-shirted Pepsi-Cola Bottling players, plus a couple of 16-year-olds (Hunter Boldt and Dean DuChamp) who volunteered to work as umpires — for the first time.

They wound up with a doubleheader split that, under the circumstances, won't be counted for or against either Thief River Falls team's regular season record since Warroad is a Lake Agassiz North Sub-District member while TG Sporting Goods and Pepsi-Cola Bottling both belong to the Lake Agassiz South Sub-District.

Warroad won the first game 15-4 on the strength of a nine-run fourth inning that broke open a 6-3 contest. The winners had a 12-5 base hit advantage and the losers were charged with eight of the game's nine errors. Corey Poole took the pitching loss.

Thief River Falls rebounded for a 15-13 second game victory. Warroad came back from a 14-4 fifth inning deficit to pull within 14-13 in the top of the sixth and still had the bases loaded with two outs before the inning closed in unusual, and maybe, game-saving fashion — a hidden ball pick-off play.

An inside-the-park solo home run with two out in the bottom of the inning by Steve Sabo provided a Thief River Falls insurance run.

Dave Stengrim had three hits as the winners posted an 11-10 base hit edge. Troy Coltom and Kyle Evenson both had two hits. The errors were even at three-apiece. Evenson was the winning pitcher.

TG Sporting Goods swept the East Grand Forks Blue Jays 15-7, 16-15 on the road, while Pepsi-Cola Bottling lost to the East Grand Forks A's 12-5 and 34-8 at home Friday in a pair of Friday doubleheaders that served as the official 1987 season openers for the Thief River Falls Babe Ruth teams.

No details were made available on Friday's games.

TRF 13-Year-Olds Open Season

Thief River Falls Babe Ruth Prep 13-year-olds opened their 1987 baseball season Thursday with a 12-4, 11-0 doubleheader sweep at Crookston.

Russell Bjorgaard and Pete Antonenko both had two hits in the 12-4 first-game win. Antonenko also scored three runs. Barry Dowers was the starting and winning pitcher. Pete Balmer pitched the final three innings of the seven-inning contest. The hits were even at eight-apiece. Thief River Falls had four errors.

There were just two hits for both teams in Game 2, but six Crookston errors and a bundle of walks led to the 11-0 Thief River Falls win. Cory Offerdahl pitched the shutout. He was backed by an errorless defensive performance by his teammates. Dowers, Bjorgaard and Balmer scored two runs each. Balmer contributed a two-run, bases-loaded double.

LHS Graduate Honored At Milaca

Herb Claffy, a Thief River Falls native, was honored earlier this spring with a "roast" and dinner by his friends and former players after he retired from his Milaca High School coaching and athletic director duties he held for 35 years.

Claffy was a 1945 Lincoln High School graduate, where he played football, basketball and track for the Prowlers, serving as the football captain as a senior. He was also a letter winner in football and track at the University of North Dakota. He was the Sioux football team co-captain as a senior in 1950, playing as a runningback and defensive back.

His high school coaching career started at Milaca after Claffy's graduation from UND. He coached the Indians' football teams for 23 years (posting a 132-59-5 career won-lost record), was head track coach for 19 years and coached the baseball team two years. He also served as athletic director during his entire 35 years at the school. The Milaca football field has been named Claffy Field in his honor.

In an interview with the Mille Lacs County Times, Claffy told Gary Larson that there was more than just winning to be gained from athletic competition. "I was proud of my teams when they won some games, and I was extremely proud of their effort in many of the games we lost," he said. "As long as they have a scoreboard, winning is something you strive for. But losing doesn't mean you've failed. I think sometimes fans take the wins and losses too seriously. A team shouldn't cheat to win, or try to hurt an opposing player to win. I've always felt teams should be cheered when they take the field before the game, and when they leave the field after the game — win or lose."

Claffy said his teams "didn't care what the score was, and never quit or gave up. You might run out of time, but never out of effort. We may have lacked the skills sometimes, but that didn't make us quit. The teams never stopped trying to improve. We wouldn't use alibis. Anyone can get beat, and that's part of the game. We stressed winning and losing with class."

Sportsmen's Club meets Wednesday

Pennington County Sportsmen's Club will meet Wednesday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Warroad Lakers Will Host Olympic Team

Warroad Lakers officials announced this week that plans have been finalized for a Lakers game against the United States Olympic hockey team Sunday, January 10, in Warroad.

The Olympic team will have some 45 games under its belt before arriving in Warroad. The 1988 Winter Olympics will be played shortly thereafter in Calgary. The Olympians will play the United States Canada Cup team in Lake Placid, NY August 15 to start their schedule, then travel to Finland, Sweden and Scotland for games before taking on NHL and college teams across the country.

A series of Lakers vs. Olympic team games dates back to 1950, it was pointed out by Warroad officials.

Women's Slow Pitch

Grouse, Snowshoe Hare Report Given

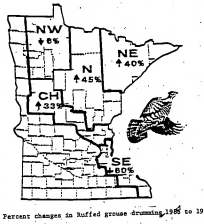
Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Wildlife Populations and Research Group recently released its ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse, and snowshoe hare report for 1987.

Data gathered on 112 drumming routes showed an increase of ruffed grouse in the northern and central Minnesota zones and a decrease, from 1986 figures, in the southeast. Drum counts were up 40 per cent in the Northeast Zone, up 45 per cent in the North Zone, up 33 per cent in the Central Hardwood Zone, down six per cent from 1986 in the Northwest Zone (the Northwest Zone has increased 122 per cent from 1985 to 1986), and down 60 per cent in the Southeast Zone (which is less cyclic than other zones). Dumming increased range-wide by 20 per cent, following an 11 per cent increase from 1985 to 1986.

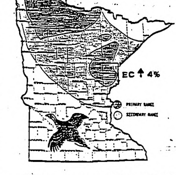
The 1987 report showed slight increases in sharp-tailed grouse. This year the survey crews put some emphasis on locating new grounds, rather than censusing only those grounds checked in previous years. In the East-central range, 75 dancing grounds were checked; 290 male sharp-tail were counted on 45 active grounds. The data showed an increase of four per cent on grounds that had also been checked in 1986. In the Northwest, 87 grounds were checked; 44 active grounds contained 416 males. Of the Northwest grounds also checked in 1986, the 1987 figures showed an eight per cent increase.

Increased survey and census figures must also be considered with other factors, especially weather. Populations can vary greatly from year to year and even from spring to fall. Fall populations can be negatively affected by a cold, wet summer.

Data from the snowshoe hare index was also gathered on ruffed grouse drumming routes in the northern zones. From 1987, this index increased 200 per cent to 0.51 hare seen per 100 km of route. Although hares appear to be increasing, this index is considerably below the 14.1 hare per 100 km seen in 1980.



Percent changes in Ruffed grouse drumming 1986 to 1987



Percent changes in sharp-tailed grouse populations in Northwest and East-Central Survey Zones, 1986 to 1967.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Area Group Honored

Merle DeBoer, Regional Parks Manager for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), presented the Marshall County Historical Society with the DNR's Natural Resources Meritorious Service Award in ceremonies at Old Mill State Park on Sunday, June 7.

The award was presented to several members of the society including its president, Oliver LaBine, in recognition of more than 2,500 hours of volunteer service work at Old Mill State Park, contributed over the past seven years. The park is located northeast of Warren in Marshall County.

According to DeBoer, "Rarely, perhaps never before, in state park history have so many local people served so many park visitors over so many years. Their efforts have provided unexcelled, live interpretation of real local history to over 14,000 park visitors. This is an exceptional contribution to the public and we hope this irreplaceable service will continue."

Marshall County Historical Society had donated an antique steam engine to provide power to run the old flour mill from which the park derives its name. About seven years ago, the society paid for an extensive refurbishing of the engine and began operating the mill on three or four special occasions every summer. Prior to the Society's volunteer work park personnel were only able to operate the mill one weekend each year.

DNR Meritorious Service Award ceremony was held in conjunction with Minnesota State Parks Open House Day and the 50th Anniversary celebration of Old Mill State Park. More than 800 people attended the celebration.

Archery Donation

Minnesota State Archery Association has donated two portable water pumper slip-on units to the Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Management Division. The combined purchase price of the units was $3,000. The units consist of a 150-gallon tank, a gas-powered high-pressure pump, hose, hose reel, and specialized nozzles. They can be transported on a pickup truck or a large, tracked, all-terrain vehicle.

One unit will be stationed at the Baudette Area Wildlife Headquarters, the other will be at the Red Lake Wildlife Management Area near Roosevelt. The units will be used primarily to provide control during prescribed burning of forest wildlife openings and brushlands. This habitat-improvement practice benefits deer, moose, sharptailed grouse, sandhill cranes, and many other wildlife species. The pumper units can also be used to fight forest and grassland fires during the spring and fall fire seasons.

"The slip-on units will enable the two work stations to increase the amount of wildlife habitat improvement work which can be accomplished in a season and also provide more forest fire protection for the area," said Jeff Dittrich, DNR Area Wildlife Manager at Baudette. "The Minnesota State Archery Association continues to be outstanding in its support of DNR wildlife programs. Once again, the department gratefully acknowledges this support."

Minnesota State Archery Association has 1,600 members in 65 clubs throughout the state. Over the past several years, the association has contributed over $80,000 to various conservation groups and projects within the state. For more information contact Raymond Fay, Minnesota State Archery Association, 620 North Washington, St. Peter, MN 56082.

Conservation Reserve

Federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is taking hold in Minnesota in a big way. Simply put, this program pays farmers annual fees over a 10-year period for taking their highly erodable lands out of production.

Farmers must bid on the annual per-acre fee they are willing to accept during specified sign-up periods at their County Agricultural Stablization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices. If the bid is accepted, the land must be taken out of production for ten years.

All lands under CRP are planted to grass, trees or shrubs. During the first three sign-up periods, 5,049 farms had 662,000 acres of erodable ground taken out of production.

Fourth sign-up period (which ended February 27) saw an additional 889,849 acres approved for CRP, and Minnesota ranked second behind Texas in total acres under CRP last year.

CRP participants will receive cost-sharing payments of up to 50 per cent of eligible costs to establish required conservation practices on cropland taken out of production.

Minnesota's tentatively accepted acreage for the fourth sign-up period represents $51.9 million ($51,900,000) in annual payments for each of the next 10 years.

Next CRP sign-up will be July 20-July 31.

Fish, Wildlife Aid

Three Minnesota businesses have become corporate sponsors of the Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance. They are: Federal Cartridge Company, Miller Brewing Company, and Minnesota Forest Industries, Inc.

"The Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance offers Minnesota sportsmen the opportunity to have their views heard at the State Legislature," said David Lentz of Federal Cartridge. "The FWLA makes a valuable contribution to conservation in Minnesota. We're excited to be part of the organization."

"The FWLA is committed to improving hunting, fishing and trapping opportunities for Minnesota's sportsmen," said Robert Tyley, Miller High Life brand manager. "Miller is equally committed to these activities, and we are proud to support FWLA."

Fish and Wildlife Legislative Alliance was formed in 1985 to serve as the legislative affairs arm of Minnesota's hunting, fishing and trapping community. The Alliance represents Minnesota sportsmen at the State Legislature, Department of Natural Resources and the federal government.

Top legislative priority for Minnesota sportsmen is to obtain adequate, long term funding for RIM.

"RIM represents a commitment to managing and protecting Minnesota's forest resources for the long term benefit and use of all Minnesotans," said Russ Allen, Executive Vice President of Minnesota Forestry Industries, Inc. "The FWLA supports RIM and we support the FWLA."

"The conservation ethic is strong in Minnesota, particularly among sportsmen," Allen added. "We share that ethic. FWLA is in the forefront of conservation in Minnesota."

New Licenses Available

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Fisheries Section announced recently that, as a result of 1987 legislative action, two new fishing licenses have been created.

One of the new licenses is an individual, 24-hour angling license for residents or non-residents. It costs $7 plus a 75-cent issuing fee. The license is good for 24 hours and permits an angler to fish in trout waters without needing a trout stamp.

Also, a new 14-day husband and wife, non-resident license is available for $25 plus the 75 cent issuing fee.

Due to a printing delay, both of the new licenses were not available for purchase through county auditors or licensing agents until June 10 a fisheries spokesman said.

Twins Schedule Try-Out Camp At Dome June 17-18

Minnesota Twins' 27th annual try-out camp is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, June 17 and 18, at the Metrodome in Minneapolis. Registration for the first day will be at 8:30 a.m., with the actual session to begin at 9 a.m. sharp.

Anyone is invited to participate in the camp, provided the individual is eligible to be signed to a professional contract. This requirement includes players graduated from high school who haven't previously been drafted, who do not come under restrictions of baseball's college agreement, and who have not yet reached their 23rd birthday.

Registration Wednesday morning will take place at the ticket booths off Fourth Street and Chicago Avenue, with players entering the Metrodome through Gate H, located directly behind the yellow ticket booths. All participants should come dressed to play and bring their own equipment, except for bats and balls. At the conclusion of Wednesday's workout, a selected group of players will be invited back for a more concentrated session on Thursday.

Twins' Minor League Director Jim Rantz and Scouting Director Terry Ryan will oversee the try-out camp, with assistant Bill Smith aiding in its administration. A number of Twins' scouts will also be on hand.

In most of the previous 26 try-out camps, the Twins have signed one or more players to minor league contracts.

Prep Team Plays Three One-Run Games At EGF

Thief River Falls Prep Babe Ruth baseball team for 13-year-olds was involved in three one-run games at the East Grand Forks Optimist Club Invitational Saturday and Sunday, losing to Crookston 7-6, falling to Warroad 12-11 and beating Roseau 10-9.

Crookston scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning for the 7-6 first round win. Pete Balmer had a two-run triple for the losers, who were out-hit 7-3. They were also guilty of five errors. Crookston had one error. Russell Bjorgaard was the losing pitcher.

Thief River Falls scored six runs in the top of the seventh for an 11-7 lead against Warroad, but then surrendered five runs in the bottom of the inning for the 12-11 loss. Bjorgaard, Corey Offerdahl and Jason Clark had three hits apiece as Thief River Falls built a 12-1 base hit edge. Warroad had five of the game's errors.

Balmer and Pete Antonenko up two hits apiece, with getting a two-run double, as River Falls got by Roseau 10-9 tournament's fifth place Roseau out-hit Thief River Falls. The errors were even at Offerdahl was the winning pitcher.

Tournament results River Falls with a 1-2 record. Prep team has just one outing week — a 1 p.m. Friday doubleheader at home against East Grand

Oak Knolls Golf Tournaments

Oak Knolls Golf Club in Red Lake Falls has announced plans for several upcoming tournaments.

Activity starts with a junior tournament Tuesday, June 30. Tee-off time is 9 a.m. Entry fee, which includes lunch, is $5. Competition for boys includes 9-hole medal play for 10-under and 18-hole medal play for 11-12, 13-14, and 15-17 age groups. Competition for girls includes 9-hole medal play for 12-under and 18-hole medal play for ages 13-17.

Midnight tournament will be played Friday, July 10. The three-person Texas scramble will be an 18-hole medal play format with an 8 p.m. shotgun start. Entry fee is $36 per team, which includes three Nitelite golf balls (required for the tournament) and three Lightsticks.

Couples tournament will be played Saturday, July 18. Entry fee is $20 per couple for the 18 holes of medal play. All couples will tee-off on every hole, and after selecting the ball to be played, alternating shots will be played through the green. There will be a 12:30 p.m. shotgun start.

Men's shortstop tournament will be played Sunday, July 19. It'll be an 8:30 a. m. tee-off. The last flight tees off first, with the championship flight and $12 for the three match play flights. There will be per cent prize payback.

new growth in May or early June. The hungry larvae hatch a feed on spruce needles in early June.

Sawfly larvae are about three-fourths of an inch long, have a brown or reddish yellow head, body yellowish green above, lighter beneath, with a double row broad, brown to olive green stripe along the back and a broad stripe the sides. Upon maturing, the drop to the ground and spin a cocoon in the soil in late July or early where they spend the winter.

Most spruce trees can survive complete defoliation. However, repeated defoliation retards growth and vigor. There fore, chemical control is often recommended to eliminate a serious sawfly problem. The chemicals malathion, sevin and methoxychlor been used effectively to control sawfly.

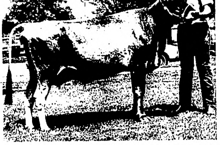
DURING WASH-UP TIME prior to the opening of Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls Tuesday, the Times camera caught Stacie Mitchell of Detroit Lakes giving a rinse to her cow's well-soaped tail switch. She accomplished the task without getting her own ponytail wet, then went on to win the grade championship of the show later in the day.



JERSEY breed championship was won at Northwest Dairy Day Tuesday in Thief River Falls by Ron Visser, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Visser of Ada. He also won the championship in the Jersey breed a year ago and this year showed the registered cow pictured above. Reserve championship went to Steve Waller of Twin Valley.

Public Notices

CONSTRUCTION OF RED LAKE WATERSHED DITCH PROJECT NO. 59
BIDS CLOSE July 9, 1987
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Board of Managers of Red Lake Watershed District will receive bids at the office of the Red Lake Watershed District, 102 North Main, P.O. Box 803, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, until 11:00 a.m. on July 9, 1987, for the Construction of Red Lake Watershed Ditch Project No. 59, Improvement of Outlet Polk County Ditch No. 30 in Polk County.

The job is located ten miles southeast of East Grand Forks, Minnesota. The approximate quantities are excavation and fill 3,434 cubic yards, two lines 44 L.F. of 60 inch concrete pipe with end sections and one 7½ degree Pipe Bend, 60 cubic yards of riprap, 20 cubic yards bedding and 2 acres of seeding. CMP with sheet pile apron anchors will be a bid alternate.

Bids will be received for the entire work as one job. The estimated cost is $19,790 and no bid will be entertained which exceeds the estimated cost by more than 30 per cent. Bid forms are furnished with the specifications and all bids will be submitted in a sealed envelope marked: Bids for construction of Watershed Ditch Project No. 59; and accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond for not less than 10 per cent of the amount of the bid as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into a contract and furnish bond as required by law.

At the time and place specified, the bids will be opened and read. The job will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, subject to the requirements that he furnish surety bond to the District in the amount of 100 per cent of the contract price. The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to make the award in the best interests of the District. Plans and specifications are on file and can be obtained at the Watershed District office at Thief River Falls, address above. Plans are $15.00 per set.

NCC Reports First Student To Enroll In Service Program

As the first student to officially enroll in Northland Community College's Human Services program, Barb Jorgenson is both nervous and excited about her future.

Barb, a native of Middle River, graduated from high school in 1974 but didn't enroll in college due to financial limitations. Barb said, "I thought you had to work to save enough money to attend college. I wasn't aware of the financial assistance that was available for student use."

Barb, now a single parent, has been employed in a variety of part-time positions in order to support herself and eleven year old daughter, Shana. She found that the demands of swing shift work made it impossible for her to have any quality time with her daughter; therefore, she began to pursue continuing her education.

A call to Northland Community College resulted in a meeting with Geri Howe, adult continuing education coordinator. Ms. Howe counsels what has been defined as non-traditional students; however, this label is somewhat misleading now that non-traditional students comprise a large percentage of Northland community college's enrollment.

When Barb was asked why she chose to pursue the human services curriculum focusing on the chemical dependency concentration, she indicated that number one, she likes to work with people and number two, she feels that she can make a significant contribution. She feels a sincere empathy toward youth in particular who feel trapped in undesirable situations as a result of peer pressure and resort to chemical usage and abuse. She perceives that youth don't know what other options or lifestyles are available. Barb looks forward to the educational challenge that will allow her to respond effectively to the dilemma she perceives.

Barb indicated her daughter, Shana, is excited about her mother's return to school and looks forward to the opportunity of doing homework together. Barb is excited because she views the chemical dependency track within the human services program as a course of study in which she is sincerely interested.

Chemical depenedency, child care and therapeutic recreation are the three tracks within the human services program. Upon completion of the program an associate of arts degree or an associate of applied science degree will be awarded. Individuals who would like additional information or would like to enroll in the first classes relating to the human services are encouraged to call the Northland community college registrar at 681-2181.

MN Safety Council Advises Caution When Driving 65

Minnesota drivers should be aware of certain limitations and necessary changes in driving behavior when the 65 miles per hour speed limit goes into effect on June 17, according to the Minnesota safety council.

The higher speed limit only applies to 700 miles of the rural interstate system. Interstates 35, 90 and 94 are the only highways where the 65 mph limit applies. The portions of these highways in the Twin Cities and other metro areas remain at 55 mph and will be posted.

Motorists should realize that higher speeds increase the likelihood and severity of accidents. A driver crashing at 65 mph is twice as likely to be killed as one crashing at 55 mph. Fatalities in Denmark increased when their speed limit was raised in 1974 and decreased when the limit was lowered.

In returning to driving at higher speeds on rural interstate highways, the Minnesota Safety Council recommends that drivers review their driving behavior:

Just because the sign says 65 mph, you don't have to drive at that speed. Adjust your speed to road conditions in rain or snow. Skids are more dangerous at higher speeds.

Double-check your mirror before you change lanes. The car behind you will be travelling faster than in the past, and you may not have enough room. Naturally, be sure to signal.

Avoid sudden turns and quick movements. Look down the road and plan ahead. Roll-overs happen quicker at higher speeds..

Give yourself enough space to stop safely. On good road conditions the approximate stopping distance at 65 mph is 300 feet. That's 100 feet further than compared with stopping from 55 mph.

The same thinking applies to the distance you leave between yourself and the car ahead. Make this check to see if you are following at a safe distance. When the car ahead passes a sign or a post, you count one thousand and one, one thousand two, one thousand three. If you pass the post as you are counting one thousand three, you have enough space.

Many cars can't stop within the range of their headlights at 65 mph. When you are driving at night, reduce your speed.

Minnesota had the best traffic safety record in the nation last year. The Minnesota safety council urges Minnesota drivers to keep it that way.

United Methodists Hold Conference In Twin Cities

More than 1,000 Minnesota United Methodists met June 2-5 at Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, for the annual business meeting of the Minnesota conference, United Methodist church. Bishop Emrson S. Colaw presided.

Conference speaker was Bishop C.P. Minnick, Jr., bishop of the Raleigh area, North Carolina Conference, leading in Bible study.

In "A Celebration of Our People" fifteen retirees were honored. Bishop Colaw preached on "Sculptors of the Soul" at the Service of Ordination June 4 in Christ Chapel where six deacons (five women, one man) and nine elders (six men, three women) were ordained.

Statistician Clarence Nicholas reported that, while the total number of Minnesota United Methodists at the close of 1986 was 114,743, a loss of 1,505, about one-third of the 430 United Methodist churches in the state had an increase in membership.

The conference debated at length the presentation of the 1988 budget with a 2.6 per cent increase but finally, after amendments and additions, approved a budget of over $4 million with a 3.6 per cent increase from 1987. The budget reflected a 9.6 per cent decrease in those items which boards and agencies identified as administrative. The minimum salary for clergy was increased to $15,200 with an increment of $300 per year for the first through 15th years of full time service.

An implementation plan was approved for a conference development office to raise necessary funds for mission and ministry. It was reported that the special campaign effort, approved and implemented by the 1985 and 1986 annual conferences, has raised over $5 million.

Special Campaign monies have already been used to help the Hmong community United Methodist church purchase the former St. Paul's UMC building in St. Paul. The remaining funds will be used for pension funding and congregational development.

The conference elected 12 clergy and lay delegates to their denomination's general conference, scheduled for May 1988 in St. Louis, MO, and 14, delegates (plus four alternates) to the July 1988 jurisdictional conference in DeKalb, IL.

Jean Dowell, a laywoman and the conference council director, will head the delegation. The Rev. Delton Krueger, Bloomington Portland avenue United Methodist church was the first clergyperson elected.

Other laypersons elected to general conference are: JoAnn Benjamin, Park Rapids; Gloria Kauls, Roseville; Flora Hendrickson, Crosby; Mark Biederman, Worthington; and Maynard Miller, Slayton.

Other clergypersons elected to general conference are: Patricia Martin Toschak, Alexandria; Stanley Hanks, Duluth; Charles Dundas, Rosemount, Ted G. Colescott, Northfield; and Kathi Austin Mahle, Minneapolis.

Laypersons elected to jurisdictional conference are: David Roberson, Zumbro Falls; Lee Ball, Duluth; David Hallett, St. Paul; Kathleen Haining, Alexandria; Mildred Paulsen, Steen; John Herath, Bemidji; and Roger Tanquist, Fairmont. Alternate lay delegates are: Marjorie Thompson, Albert Lea and James Soule, Excelsior.

Clergypersons elected to jurisdictional conference are: Duane Sarazin, Hastings; Marva Jean Hutchens, Bemidji; Clemmet Peterson, Rochester; H. Thomas Walker, Minneapolis; James Gaughan, Excelsior; Mary Ellen Renstrom, White Bear Lake; and Jeanne Audrey Powers, New York. Alternate cleregy delegates are: David Scoates, Minneapolis and Loren Grage, North Mankato.

A recommendation was defeated for a boycott of General Electric Company. It stated that General Electric makes parts to more nuclear weapons systems than any other corporation, including parts for the MX Missile, Trident Submarine and B-1B bomber, as well as other products that are needed for a nuclear war.

One of the agruments against the recommendation was the diversity of products made by the company and the resulting difficulty of an effective boycott. A similar proposal will be sent to the denomination's General Conference next spring, though not endorsed by the Minnesota conference. The Minnesota conference did not have time to discuss or debate any of the general conference proposals. Local churches and individuals can submit proposals and recommendations, however, without conference endorsement.

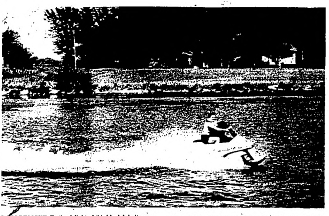
A task force to develop program on spiritual formation was assigned to the board of discipleship. Funding was approved. An evangelism program urging churches to participate in five specific events and to report at the church's annual meeting was also approved.

The six district superintendents reported that from every corner of the conference has come unmistakable data that the church is breathing, dreaming and moving with power into the future.

They reported new church buildings being built, new congregations being formed, extensive remodeling and expansion projects, new and rebuilt pipe organs, parsonage improvements as well as new parsonages, elevators installed and accessibility ramps added to church buildings.

They also reported the church in mission. Groups from local churches sent work teams to other parts of the country, as well as to other countries. And congregations are at work in their communities, feeding the poor, working in hospice programs, etc.

Their report concluded: "We give thanks for each of you, for the leadership of Bishop Colaw and for all in the churches who labor diligently and joyfully in the cause of Christ.



DOGS DELIGHT. To the delight of this black lab, its owner gave it a ride on a jet ski Sunday afternoon. The dog and owner sped along enjoying the cool spray on a hot Sunday afternoon. Many other people found the waters off LaFave park Saturday and Sunday just right.

Blood Drive In Grygla Planned For June 23

Grygla-Gatzke-Skime's next blood drive will be held 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. June 23 at the Grygla community center. This drive is especially important because it's being held during the summer. The goal is to have 74 donors signed up with appointments two days before the drive.

United Blood services collected 35,184 units of blood in 1986, and anticipates a need for 37,800 units (730 each week) in 1987. Many communities will not sponsor a summer blood drive, because of people going on vacation and farmers being in the fields. If the patient need for blood also decreased in the summer, everything would be fine. But those needs don't decrease at all — patients continue to need blood right through the summer, regardless of vacations or school holidays. That is why the Grygla Lions and Lionesses are sponsoring a second blood drive for area residents.

The demand for blood products is constantly increasing, and you can help meet this demand by donating blood on June 23. Anyone interested in donating can contact Ralph Rundell at 294-6177, Hazel Aune at 459-3415, Mildred Klamar at 459-3436, Karol Byklum at 294-6352, and Loren Lusignen at 294-6155.

Federal Spending Noted In Pennington, Marshall

Direct federal spending has increased in Marshall county and declined in Pennington county. Direct payments to individuals accounted for the largest single item in Marshall county. It is clear that federal spending provided a major source of revenue to both counties.

Direct federal spending in Marshall county increased by 5.4 per cent from $51,103,000 in fiscal 1985 to $53,866,000 during fiscal 1986, according to a report recently released by the Department of Commerce.

During this same period, however, direct federal spending in Pennington county declined by 5.6 per cent from $39,785,000 during fiscal 1985 to $37,559,000 during fiscal 1986.

Direct federal spending includes all expenditures made by the federal government except for federal loans and federally guaranteed loans, interest payments on the national debt, foreign assistance programs, and expenditures by the postal service, the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Security Agency.

The federal government's fiscal 1986 began on October 1, 1985, and ended on September 30, 1986. Direct federal spending nationally increased from $788.9 billion dollars in fiscal 1985 to $830.1 billion dollars during fiscal 1986 or by 5.2 per cent while direct federal spending in Minnesota increased by 9.5 per cent.

Per capita (per person) direct federal expenditures in Marshall county were $4,278 during fiscal 1986 having increased from $4,058 since fiscal 1985. Direct per capita federal expenditures in Minnesota during fiscal 1986 were $2,975. National per capita federal expenditures in fiscal 1986 amounted to $3,461. Per capita expenditures in Pennington county were $2,672 during fiscal 1986 having fallen from $2,830 in fiscal 1985.

Direct payments to individuals were a major source of federal spending in Marshall county during fiscal 1986. These amounted to $19,829,000 during that year. Of this total, $12,706,000 consisted of retirement and disability benefits for individuals.

These include social security retirement and disability pension payments, retired civil service and military pensions, veteran's benefits and allowances and expenditures for medicare. The remaining $6,123,000 in direct payments to individuals were mostly those other forms of federal assistance for individuals which are usually termed transfer payments or entitlements. These include food stamp assistance and aid to dependent children. Direct payments to individuals in Pennington county were $22,563,000 during fiscal 1986 of which $15,764,000 of these were in the form of retirement and disability benefits while $6,799,000 were in the form of transfer payments.

Direct payments to individuals have been the largest single item in the federal budget since 1971. These accounted for 43.9 per cent of all direct federal spending during fiscal 1986. Direct payments to individuals were 44.2 per cent of federal expenditures in Minnesota during fiscal 1986 and 36.8 per cent of direct federal spending in Marshall county during that period. Direct payments to individuals were 60.1 per cent of direct federal expenditures in Pennington county.

There has been and continues to be considerable controversy regarding increases in defense spending by the federal government. Actual disbursements by the defense department did not increase from fiscal 1985 to fiscal 1986. Total federal defense expenditures were $229.8 billion during fiscal 1986 or 0.4 per cent less than those of fiscal 1985. Defense spending in Minnesota had increased by 0.8 per cent from $2.575 billion in fiscal 1985 to $2.595 during fiscal 1986. Defense spending in Marshall county amounted to $297,000 in fiscal 1986, a decline of 8.6 per cent, while defense spending in Pennington county was $552,000 during the fiscal year which was a decline of 0.5 per cent.

Not including grant funds which account for a substantial portion of total federal spending, other departments and agencies of the federal government including the departments of agriculture, commerce, housing and urban development, interior, and transportation and the environmental protection agency disbursed $27,077,000 in Marshall county during fiscal 1986. These departments spent $5,652,000 in Pennington county during the period. The federal government does not provide a breakdown of these figures on a local basis.

Other federal spending in Marshall county during the fiscal year included $4,457,000 in grant awards. The total of grant awards in Pennington county was $6,630,000 during fiscal 1986. Specific details on all local grants were not provided. However, the largest sources for grant funds in most counties are the departments of agriculture, education, health and human services, housing and urban development, labor and transportation.

While the total of direct federal spending in Marshall and Pennington counties is substantial, as noted, it does not include another important source of federal money in the county: federal loans and federally guaranteed loans. These are not included in direct federal spending figures because, as loans, it is presumed that these funds will eventually be repaid to the federal govern-

Alderman Murphy Elected To Board Of League Of Cities

Ken Murphy, second ward alderman in Thief River Falls, has been elected to the board of directors of the League of Minnesota cities.

Murphy accepted his position on the board of directors which sets policy and lobbies for cities belonging to the organization, at a state-wide meeting held last week in Rochester.

Murphy said he was pleased that he was elected to such a position and will strive to serve the best interests of all new Minnesota cities belonging to the organization. The League of Minnesota Cities is composed of approximately 780 cities in Minnesota.

Murphy will now serve on a board of directors composed of 10 representatives, half of which represent non-metro cities and half of which represent the metro area cities. The board of directors principally sets policies which help guide participant cities to achieve economic goals, define codification procedures and in general serve as a resource clearinghouse.

Murphy said the board also serves as a clearinghouse of information for legislators by collecting information about cities and their problems and passing them on to legislators.

Fiddler's Jamboree Part Of Colonial Fair In Goodridge

Fiddlers Jamboree will be held on July 3, 7 p.m. in the Goodridge school as part of the Bicentennial Colonial fair to be held in Goodridge on July 3 and 4.

The Bicentennial committee is seeking participates for the event and may contact Orlin Hanson, chairman at 378-4252 for more information.

Admission to the Jamboree is $2.00 and $1.00 if you are wearing a Bicentennial button.

RICK NORDHAGEN is confident that once tests are completed, the fiber fuel pellet produced by Future Fuel will be salable to anyone — anywhere. Emission tests are being conducted at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls this week. The facility burns pellets produced by Future Fuel and is cooperating with testing requirements made by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. Nordhagen doesn't believe the tests are necessary but welcomes them anyway.

Council Begins Policy Making On Part-Timers

Members of the Thief River Falls city council part-time committee met Tuesday noon to discuss a proposed policy as it relates to the hiring of part-time employees as well as to any benefits to be provided.

The committee members agreed that a decision on part-time workers and temporary or temporary permanent employees was necessary as it was confusing to administrators and employees.

The committee was able to reach an agreement as the proposed policy would relate to temporary employees. As it stands at this time, two distinct classes of part time employees is emerging. One class of employee would be temporary or seasonal and without any benefits and the second, an employee who works more on a permanent basis with the city and because of status, qualifications, hours and possibly a variety of other reasons, may be eligible for some fringe benefits.

A decision on the status of employment will have an effect on approximately 20 city employees currently considered part-time employees. It was noted that while many are seasonal workers, some perform duties and hours closer to that of full-time employees.

Establishing policies for the employees and administrators will mean discussing many issues. Tuesday's meeting established only a need for more meetings. A large number of issues will need to be resolved before a recommendation can be adopted by the city council.

Alderman Kenneth Murphy said he like the direction the committee was taking and that it was a long time in coming.

A policy on temporary and part-time employees could be a good budgeting tool, according to many individuals on the committee, which consists of mainly city aldermen. For example, the hours a part-time employee could receive could be strictly limited, forcing the department manager to seek approval of the council before allowing the employee to have more hours.

Other issues include whether employees who work over 30 hours should be eligible for some benefits (if any and what kind), whether the city can draw personnel from its pool of part-time and temporary employees to fill full-time positions as they become available, and many other issues.

It was clear that a number of issues need to be decided before the council can act on a recommendation. According to Murphy, several committee meetings are expected and then the plans made by the committee will be brought before department managers, revised, disucssed again with department managers and then brought before the city council.

In the meantime the committee will draw information about defining temporary and part-time employees from a variety of sources to include area cities, Pennington county and other counties.

The committee did reach an agreement on defining temporary employees. Temporary employees, while recognized as performing important duties beneficial to the city and employee, will not receive fringe benefits. Temporary employees will be at will employees. Their employment may be terminated with or without cause, at any time.

Pellet Testing Begins At NW Medical Center

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Testing of fuel pellets produced at Future Fuel Inc., in Thief River Falls is likely to take months if lab analysis of results from those tests at Northwest Medical center are taken into account.

Tuesday afternoon technical aspects of an emissions test on the fiber fuel, to be conducted at Northwest Medical center, were being ironed out. Actual testing — which includes about 15 different tests on ash and eight different types of tests on emissions — commenced this morning.

Tests on the fiber fuel were ordered by the Minnesota Pollution Control agency earlier this spring. The agency is requiring each operator which proposes to burn the fuel to undergo extensive testing before permits to burn the pellets are granted. The agency contends that each facility operates under different conditions, with different equipment, using a fuel which is composed of many different materials. The agency is also trying to comply with tougher federal pollution control regulations.

Rick Nordhagen of Future Fuel believes the regulations and standards were composed too late in the process and are so technical and expensive as to have eliminated a market for the pellets. Nevertheless, Nordhagen welcomes the tests. Earlier this spring tests on bottom ash and fly ash were conducted. The results indicated that ash was well within strict federal guidelines.

Nordhagen still doesn't believe the tests are necessary, expecially of every facility which proposes to burn the fuel. Nordhagen believes Future Fuel has beorn singled out by the MPCA because the same tests are not required of any other facility which burns fuel and has emissions.

However, Nordhagen is confident these tests will conclude that the pellet is marketable to anyone, anywhere. In that sense, Nordhagen said, the tests are crucial.

Last week, Pennington county commissioners decided to request a meeting among Future Fuel, Minnesota Pollution Control agency, a representative of the governor, area legislative representatives and county commissioners. At the time, however, Nordhagen had asked if the county would like to join Future Fuel in a lawsuit against the MPCA. Nordhagen told the commissioners he had two lawyers looking into the issues involved in the dispute.

Job Fair In TRF Brings Students, Employers Together

Thief River Falls AVTI, now known as the Thief River Falls Technical Institute, will be holding a job fair for graduates of the airframe and powerplant program and students from Dakota Aerotech, Fargo, ND, and the Lake Area VoTech today and Thursday morning.

Continental Airline representatives, who plan to hire 2,000 aviation maintenance people this year, and representatives of Mesaba Airlines will be at the job fair today from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Expected representatives from Continental Airlines include Dale Darcy, Phil Herod and Ann Marie Harding. The representatives from Mesaba were not identified.

The airframe and powerplant program at the technical institute in Thief River Falls graduated approximately 80 students this year, about 45 of whom already have jobs.

The program at the technical institute is expected to be greatly expanded next fall. A waiting list for the 225 spots at he school is being compiled. Anyone interested in participating in the program should contact the school as soon as possible. The school does expect to fill all vacancies.

Students who participate in the program can receive an airframe nd powerplant mechanics certificate, but students can also continue studies at Northland community college and receive an associate of applied science degree. Technical Institute students also have the added advantage of being able to complete an engineering degree at the University of North Dakota.

Aaseby Nominated For Excellence In Education Award

In its first year as a statewide program, the Minnesota Chamber Foundation Excellence in Education Awards received 145 nominations, representing 41 counties. From those nominations up to 12 teachers will be selected for $4,000 cash awards from the business community to be presented October 20 in St. Paul.

Allen Aaseby, industrial arts instructor at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, has been nominated by Dr. Leo Ruberto, Superintendent of schools.

The program was initiated in 1981 in two Twin Cities metro counties. Forty-five per cent of this year's nominations came from outside the seven-county metro area.

A panel of selectors from the education, business and public service sectors will now begin the comprehensive judging process of choosing the most outstanding of those nominated.

ODC Receives Its Second Three-Year Accreditation

Occupational development center in Thief River Falls, Crookston and Bemidji successfully met high standards of performance and has been accredited for a period of three years in vocational evaluation, work adjustment, job placement, work services and activity services.

Alan H. Toppel, executive director of the Commission of Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF), noted the accreditation in a letter dated June 10.

The Occupational development center serves 256 vocationally handicapped adult individuals. From its headquarters in Thief River Falls, it has been serving vocationally handicapped adults in northwestern Minnesota since 1971. The recent accreditation is the second successive three-year accreditation for the ODC.

The public is invited to tour any of the three facilities or make inquiries by contacting Peter Lavalier, executive director, at 681-6830.

Joni Hanson And Brian Yox United In Marriage May 16

Joni Hanson and Brian Yox, both of Mesa, AZ, exchanged wedding vows May 16 at Redeemer Lutheran church in Willmar. Parents of the couple are Don and Ardith Hanson, Willmar, and Paul Yox, East Amherst, NY, and Joanne Yox, West Seneca, NY.

Rev. Paul Beigner officiated at the double ring ceremony, with Lori Hanson, sister of the bride, as acolyte. Organist was Chris Jackson, with Tracie Hanson as pianist and soloist. Musical selections were "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer." The congregation joined in singing "Beautiful Savior."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, wearing an ivory satin gown with beaded re-embroidered lace, Queen Anne neckline and cathedral-length train. To compliment her gown, she wore a tea hat with beaded re-embroidered lace and fingertip veil. Her bouquet was composed of ivory, pink, aqua and lavender tiger lilies.

Merry Vennes Moncus, Harlingen, TX, friend of the bride, served as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Juli Hanson, Willmar, sister of the bride, and Sandy Miller, Goodridge, cousin of the bride. All wore tea-length gowns of pink, aqua and lavender, and carried matching tiger lily bouquets.

The groom was attired in dark gray tails with matching tie and cummerbund, and ivory tiger lily boutonniere.

Best man was Craig Yox, East Amherst, NY, brother of the groom. Other gentlemen attendants were Michael Hoffarth, Glendale, AZ, cousin of the groom and Brandon Yox, East Amherst, NY, brother of the groom. They wore gray tuxedos with ties and cummerbunds matching the gowns of the bridesmaids in pink, aqua and lavender.

Ushering the guests was Brian Culkins, Fargo, ND, cousin of the bride. He and the fathers of the couple wore grey tuxedos with matching cummerbunds and ties.

Honored guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Arne Nelson, Grygla, and Mrs. Mildred Messelt, Fertile, grandparents of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Willmar golf club. Host and hostess were aunt and uncle of the bride, Russ and Thelma Culkins. Adella Mortenson, New Hope, aunt of the bride, and Marilyn Hoffarth, Glendale, AZ, aunt of the groom, cut and served the wedding cake. Lori Hanson registered the guests and Shirley Olson, Hamilton, MT, aunt of the bride, was flower hostess.

The couple will make their home in Mesa, AZ.

Police Dept. To Enforce Strong Bike Regulations

In light of several recent accidents involving bicycles in the city, Chief Ken Froschheiser stated that "bicycles are the biggest concern to public safety in the city at this time," and the police department will meet today to discuss implementation of stronger enforcement of bicycle regulations in Thief River Falls. Plans include not only getting all officers involved in enforcement of bicycle regulations, but getting parents involved as well.

Froschheiser said the most frequent violations he has noted are bicyclists not stopping at stop signs, riding on the wrong side of the street, darting out of alleyways and not using signals. And he also noted that the violators are not only children, but adults.

At the meeting this afternoon, an enforcement policy will be set to include a letter to parents following first-time violation warning tickets. The first warnings will be kept on file, and second violation tickets will include a court visit. Violators 16 and over will be heard in the adult court, and children under 16 will appear in juvenile court.

Froschheiser said the police department plans to follow a good, hard line of consistent enforcement of bicycle regulations in the future, not to punish offenders, but to prevent further accidents involving bicycles.

Federal Spending Up In Marshall And Pennington

Federal loans and federally guaranteed loans encompass a variety of programs. These include emergency farm disaster loans, rural electric loans and loan guarantees, Small business administration loans, student loans for higher education, community development loans, many of the various housing loan programs, as well as others.

Direct federal loans in Marshall county were $57,635,000 during fiscal 1986 while federally guaranteed loans in the county amounted to $31,861,000. The level of federal loans in Marshall county was 154.0 per cent greater in fiscal 1986 than during 1985. Nationally, the total of federal loans also increased sharply by 74.7 per cent during the period in spite of the administration's efforts to reduce or limit federal lending activity.

Direct federal loans in Pennington county were $14,754,000 during this period while federally guaranteed loans in the county amounted ot $7,115,000. The level of federal loans in Pennington county had also increased very sharply and was 108.8 per cent greater in fiscal 1986 than during fiscal 1985.

The total of direct and indirect federal spending in Marshall county was $143,362,000 during fiscal 1986 while the total for Pennington county was $59,428,000. It is apparent that federal spending provided a major source of funds for the economies of both Marshall county and Pennington county during that time.

GULLY . . .

Richard Berg, Stephen and Scott drove up from Elk River to spend a long weekend with his parents, the Floyd Bergs. On Sunday Betty Berg of East Grand Forks also visited at the Berg home.

For a first attempt at a flea market at Gully, last Saturday was quite successful. We are thankful to all who came to take part in the day's activities and also to the members of the community club who spent much time to plan and get ready for the day. It's good to see so much creative talent around the area.

Elaine Haugen of Brainerd spent from Sunday until Tuesday with her mother, Emma Erickson. Luncheon guests with Emma on Sunday were Mabel Gunvaldson and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gunvaldson of Bemidji and Marian and Morris Smith of Nielsville.

Halvor Rikje, mayor of Gully, has been notified by Gertrude Jordon, Regional Administrator for the Regional Housing Commissioner under Secretary Samuel R. Pierce Jr. of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, that Gully will receive a certificate of national merit.

A meeting has been scheduled for 7 o'clock p.m. on June 22 at the Gully cafe. At that time Housing and Urban Development officials will be present to officially present the certificate. The Gully Redevelopment project had been chosen as one project to be recognized for community development. The public is invited and encouraged to atend.

The Lund Ladies Aid met in the church basement last Wednesday. The hostesses for the day gave the program. A report was given about the bake sale at the flea market. Luverne Fore and Florence Berg were in charge of the bake sale. Thank you to all the visitors who came to make it a fun and successful day. Rev. Bob Kelly led Bible study before the meeting. Hostesses were Luverne Fore, Grace Nyland, Chr., Alice Forsberg, Natalie Haugen and Grace Brekke.

Kenneth and Alice Forsberg drove to Fargo on Thursday afternoon to meet Alice's two sisters, Evelyn Tesmer from Campbell, CA, and Doris Terril from Bon Carbo, CO. They came here to be with their mother, Elin Bergman of Clearbrook, who is a patient at the Bemidji hospital. We wish for you a complete recovery, Elin!

Deaths And Funerals

May Gieseke, 76

Greenbush — May Gieseke, 76, Greenbush, died Sunday at United hospital in Grand Forks, ND. Funeral services will be Friday at 11 a.m. at Zoar Lutheran church in rural Marietta. Rev. Bradley L. Danielson will officiate and interment will be at Zoar church cemetery.

Visitation for May Gieseke will be from 4 to 9 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the Gieseke-Eeg chapel in Greenbush.

May Christine Gieseke was born June 11, 1945, in rural Marietta, the daughter of John P. and Oline Slind Eidem. She attended elementary school there and graduated from West Central school of agriculture at Morris.

May 7, 1945, she married Herbert Gieseke in Marietta. After their marriage, the couple lived in Mankato and Billings, MT. They farmed near Marietta for many years and owned and operated the Marietta Laundry and Y-Go Lunchroom. Herbert Gieseke died Sept. 13, 1967.

In 1971, she moved to Montevideo and worked at Lanes Superette until retiring in 1981. She moved to Detroit Lakes in 1982, and to Greenbush in 1984, where she was a resident of the Greenbush nursing home.

May Gieseke is survived by one son, Ernest, Greenbush; one daughter, Captain Betty Gieseke, U.S. Army, Hampton, VA; two grandchildren, Christine and Andrew Gieseke, Greenbush; three brothers, Palmer Eidem, South Pasadena, CA, Peder Eidem, Montevideo, and John A. Eidem, Marietta; and one sister, Barbara Kyllo, Lacrosse, WA.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents and three sisters, Clara Jornlin, Olga Lerseth and Cora Peterson.

Culver "Cal" Bottem, 51

Superior, WI — Culver D. "Cal" Bottem, 51, died Wednesday in Superior, WI. Funeral services were held at the Lenroot-Maetzold Funeral home with Rev. Gerard Willger officiating. Interment was in Soldier's Square in Greenwood cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Bob Ghyselinck, Butch Leggate, Butch and Scott Clark, Bob Prevost and Dick Raymond. Honorary bearers were Brian Olson, Todd and Chad Bottem and Reil Prevost.

Culver Bottem was born Mar. 15, 1936, in Thief River Falls, and lived in Superior for a number of years. He has been employed by the McLean Construction company and was a bartender in Superior for several years before retiring in 1975. He served three years in the U.S. Army.

Survivors include his wife, Barbara; one daughter, Mrs. James (Tina) Heg, Toledo, OH; a stepdaughter, Linda Aspdal, Nebraska; four grandchildren; and his parents, Mildred and Melvin Bottem, brother, Curtis, and sister, Corrine Olson, all of Thief River Falls, as well as several nieces and nephews.

Pellet Test At Medical Center Now Underway

This morning, actual testing at Northwest Medical center began and will be completed Thursday or Friday, said Ted Troolin, waste management planner for the Minnesota Waste Management board. However, lab results from the tests may take months.

Troolin said the waste management board is acting as a facilitator and the testing is being funded by three organizations. The waste management board will pay $8,000, the Minnesota Pollution Control agency will pay $8,000 and the Department of Public Safety will pay $7,000.

Pennington county will pay any cost overruns and standby costs, Future Fuel will provide the pellets and Northwest Medical center the facility. Interpol Inc. of Circle Pines will conduct the actual testing. Northwest Iron Fireman, which constructed the boiler which burns the pellet fuel, is also supplying three individuals from its firm to oversee the testing and make any modifications deemed necessary.

Troolin said the waste management board does not just stop once it has provided some financial assistance. It continues ongoing technical assistance and funds as much as possible. Assisting Future Fuel to complete these tests is just part of a continuing process.

Troolin said many governmental agencies and enterpreneurs are considering what to do with waste being generated throughout the United States. In Minnesota, he said, there are approximately 130 landfills and 47 are on superfund. Waste management is becoming an increasingly difficult problem, he said.

There are no easy answers, Troolin added, citing a Duluth facility which is separating garbage and creating a fluff. With some densifying it could create pellets similar to what Future Fuel produces. In Reuter, Minnesota, another operation is attempting to solve some of its problems by densifying and composting garbage.

As workmen, reporters and advisors scurried around the equipment used in burning the fiber pellets and viewed the installation of testing equipment — which caused eight capped holes to be drilled into the exhaust stack at the hospital — chief executive officer at Northwest Medical center, Dick Spyhalski, and Les Vigness, maintenance engineer, said they were confident it was a worthwhile project.

"When Northwest Medical center put in the equipment to burn the refuse-derived fuel, they chose a versatile system," Spyhalski said. "Of course, the assumption was that the hospital would burn the Future Fuel product."

Spyhalski said he would like to see Future Fuel continue to produce the pellets. From a community standpoint, Future Fuel creates a number of jobs, and brings money into the community, Spyhalski said. He said Northwest Medical center has also realized a cost saving because it is using the fuel. He said he would like to see Future Fuel products continue to be used at the hospital.

In a related matter at Future Fuel, Lundell Manufacturing company is nearing completion of an experimental testing period. Lundell Manufacturing, the company which designed and constructed the equipment used at Future Fuel, agreed a month ago to operate the plant for a period of time at its own expense.

Nordhagen said county commissioners don't appear satisfied with the success of the tests which have been touted as proof that the plant can operate on tipping fees. Nordhagen said equipment problems have been minimal since Lundell took over and he is confident everything will work out fine. He said he would like to see more in the line of production, but he also realizes that during summer months there is more garbage to be processed.

JULIE AANENSON, Faith Rud, and Sherilyn Swanson helped dish up ice cream for the ice cream social held at Heritage Community center June 9. The ice cream was furnished and served by the Retired Senior Volunteer program. Banana splits or cones were enjoyed by all the participants. This was held in conjunction with National dairy month. Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls, was on hand to entertain with a piano selection. Joe Vallet also played several musical selections on the piano and the event was enjoyed by all.

Norwegian Moments

Committees are busy getting the show for the program ready. The lefse and rommegrot queens are busy baking and stirring the Norwegian food. Crafts are in the making for the table displays by our talented folks. What for: for the annual Setesdals Lag fun day June 20th in Oklee.

Wilhelm and Naomie Petersen of Mankato visited with their daughter Ruth in Grand Forks last week. They spent the weekend as houseguests at the Juel and Annbelle Chervestad home and attended confirmation services for Ryan Nelson, son of Brad and Lana and Allison Lundeen, daughter of Connie and Kelly held at the Oak Park church by Pastor Tom Rank. Wilhelm "Bill" was a former pastor from 1953 to 1960. Bill is president of Bethany Lutheran Theological seminary in Mankato. A number of our high school graduates from here have attended Bethany Lutheran college at Mankato.

Art and Rosella (Mandt) Tweet of Salem, OR were coffee guests at Juell Chervestad Monday. They were overnight guests at the Lyle Mandt home.

Brad and Lana Nelson entertained last Sunday in honor of son, Ryan's confirmation held at Oak Park church. The many guests, relatives and friends enjoyed an afternoon of visiting, games, luncheon, punch and tasty and nicely decorated cake made by Delores Jensen of Highlanding. Special guests were grandparents, Richard and Marge Nelson, Orlando and Helen Chervestad. Baptism sponsors Korydon and Carol Chervestad and Valerie Brekke and Lee Nelson, Pastor Tom and Mrs. Rank and family, Pastor Roger and Mrs. Fehr and family.

Kelly and Connie Lundeen hosted a party last Sunday following their daughter Alison's confirmation held at the Oak Park church by Pastor Tom Rank. The many relatives and friends attended the event at their home. A luncheon, punch and special decorated cake made by Delores Jensen centered the table. Honored guests were the baptism sponsors Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Vettleson, grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Darrow Lundeen, great-grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundeen, Otto Magnell, Edna Nelson.

Visitors From Oregon

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tweet (Rosella Mandt) of Salem, Oregon have been house guests at the Ferdie Mandt home of Thief River Falls and at the Maynard Mandt and Lyle Mandt homes the past weekend.

Otelia Mandt of Marshall, Wis. has been visiting at the Lyle Mandt home the past week also.

Art and Rosella Tweet of Salem, Oregon, Ferdie and Mary Jane Mandt of Thief River Falls, Otelia Mandt of Marshall, Wis. and Lyle and Muriel Mandt were supper guests at the Maynard Mandt home in Oklee on Monday.

Otelia Mandt of Wisconsin and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lundeen of Crystal were visitors at Fred Lundeen home Sunday evening.

Fred and Evelyn Lundeen were noon luncheon guests at the Lyle Mandt home Friday. Fred and Evelyn and Otelia visited at the Olaf Stolaas home Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Juell Chervestad visited with Alice Gunderson at the Red Lake Falls nursing home recently. Alice plans on moving back home to Thief River Falls.

Korydon Chervestad celebrated his birthday, June 1st. How old, yes, 42, I guess. Friends and relatives came over to have birthday luncheon including two cakes. The friends and his family presented Kory with a beautiful outdoor flag and pole built by Tim Lundeen and Johnnie Hanks. It was a big surprise too. Happy birthday Kory.

Otelia Mandt visited with Thelma Bendickson and Luella Lundeen at Thief River Falls Thursday.

MN Wheat Council Elects Officers At Annual Meeting

Minnesota Wheat research and promotion council, at its annual reorganization meeting held in Detroit Lakes on June 4, elected its slate of officers for the 1987-88 year.

John Oberg, Ulen wheat producer, was re-elected to serve as the Minnesota Wheat council's chairman. Oberg, who has been a member of the council since 1983, was first elected to serve as chairman in 1986.

Francis "(Butch)" Buschette, of Renville, was elected to his frist term as vice chairman of the council. Buschette has served as a member of the council since 1985.

Charles Swanson of Hallock, was re-elected to his second term as wheat council secretary. Swanson has been a member of the council since 1985.

Don Stensrud of Clarkfield was elected by the council to serve his first term as treasurer. Stensrud has been a member of the council since 1984.

The Minnesota wheat council also elected three representatives to serve on the board of directors of U.S. wheat associates for the 1987-88 year. These members include Chairman John Oberg; Vice Chairman Francis Buschette; and Council member Don Loeslie of Warren. The fourth representative on the U.S. wheat board of directors from Minnesota is the president of the Minnesota association of wheat growers, Gordon Sonstelie of Winger.

Minnesota is one of 16 states affiliated with U.S. wheat associates, the regional organization formed to promote the sale and utilization of U.S. wheat through 13 foreign regional offices located world-wide.

Other Minnesota wheat council members include, Kenneth "K.C." Kuznia of Stephen; Robert Starr of Redwood Falls; Don Frederickson of Murdock; and Jerry Kruger of Warren.

The Minnesota wheat council is the governing board elected by wheat producers in the state to administer the penny check-off used to promote research and market development activities for Minnesota wheat.

Area Instructors Attend Farm And Business Conference

Several area teachers attended the 15th annual National farm business management conference in Worthington June 8 - 11. The theme of the conference was "Educating For Successful Farm Mangement." The purpose was to help farm management instructors strengthen their local program through information and teaching techniques shared by other instructors throughout the country.

Instructors participating in the conference from the Thief River Falls area included: Verne Spengler, area coordinator and Area Technical Institute instructor, Don Johnson, ATI instructor, Al Dalen, ATI instructor, Danie Packard, ATI instructor, Wayne Dittmer, Goodridge high school farm management instructor, and Mark Berg, Red Lake Falls farm management instructor.

The conference keynote address was presented by Mr. Joe Graba, director of the state board of vocational technical education in Minnesota. Graba said now is the time to look at the broad scene and see what is going on around us in agriculture and in the vocational technical education system.

He called attention to several important factors that are affecting agriculture. Among these are population changes resulting from a shrinking number of persons graduating from high school. This, he pointed out, has had a tremendous political and economic impact since this caused a shift in political voting power. Also, technological changes have occurred that may alter "our world" more than anything we have experienced to date. Economics have changed to the extent that Americans are actually earning less now than in 1964 if we eliminate the effect of inflation.

These factors lead to instability and more and more we are looking to education to restore that stability:

He pointed out that the economic factors present us with two alternatives. We can lower our standard of living or we can raise our level of productivity. One of the strengths of farm management programs is that they focus on increasing productivity.

These programs help farmers by providing the information and training needed to meet the developing technology. Marketing skill can be improved and assistance in developing better decision making abilities can be provided. In some cases, farm management instructors can help unsuccessful farmers make the transition into other walks of life and to realize that there are other opportunities.

Mr. Graba stated that the farm management programs' reputation for quality has helped in working with state legislatures to gain strong financial support for program operation and expansion.

Mr. F.B. Daniel from the Minnesota Farmers Union also spoke to the group. He stated that farmers have never been at greater risk than now. The future of rural America, he said, has never been more in doubt. As six family farms disappear, one rural business also disappears. He further suggested that each of us must make a commitment to be a part of the solution, and that America — collectively — must focus on the whole problem and its solution. According to Daniel, the real crisis is not just a farm problem, it is a total America problem.

Ideas and suggestions were shared by various instructors on practices and procedures that worked for them in classroom instruction, individual-on-farm instruction, office and administrative tasks, recruitment, and other farm management instructional duties.

Several computerized farm accounting systems that are in use were explained. Many instructors are utilizing computerized and various non-computerized record systems for recording the farm business records and the value of these various systems was explained and demonstrated.

The present analysis and business summary program has been completely revised and this new program was explained by Dr. Edgar Persons from the University of Minnesota.

Members of a farmer-banker panel explained how they used and benefitted from their local farm management programs. Several crop and livestock farms were toured. On these tours, the farmers involved explained their enterprise improvement results and the operational practices used by them.

The final session addressed the topics "Ideas That Worked In 1986" and "Positive Thinking In Farming And Farm Management In The Years Ahead."

164 instructors from 13 states were in attendance at this conference.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

"Where The Hell Is The French Navy?"

That's the punch line on an editorial cartoon I saw the other day. The cartoon shows a warship — obviously intended to represent the U.S.S. Stark — with a missile bearing down on it.

The four line caption reads:
"The airplane is French."
"The missile is French."
"The French get the oil."
"Where the hell is the French Navy?"

Or, for that matter, the Japanese navy or the Dutch navy.

America has lost 37 of her sons, along with a quarter-billion dollar warship because our leaders placed them in harm's way in order to protect somebody else's oil. Sixty per cent of Persian Gulf oil goes to Japan. About 40 per cent of it goes to Western Europe. Less than five per cent of it comes to us. And there is a war going on over there; a war that has been going on since 1980; a war between crazy people. And now, it seems, a war we are about to get into so that the Japanese and Western Europe can have oil.

Eleven Kuwaiti tankers are now flying the Stars and Stripes and they are being escorted by American warships through narrow waters. They must be tempting targets.

In the meantime, the Japanese and Western Europeans continue to build their economies and become more 'competitive' in world markets. Oil, of course, is important to those efforts. So we spend hundreds of billions of dollars on an arms build-up and run an enormous national debt and wind up protecting their oil supplies. It doesn't make a lot of sense! I can just hear the First Lords of the British Admiralty laughing up their sleeves about Uncle Sam going on a weekend "toot" and really getting "took" to the cleaners!

I spent three years in England during WWII, serving in the American 8th AAF blasting German military power flying almost daily missions on prime targets. British humor was amusing — they never admitted 'weakness.'

It also makes me wonder what we are getting for our money patrolling in the Persian Gulf. A ship like the U.S.S. Stark is heralded as state-of-the-navy-art. It's loaded with the latest electronic gear and high-powered weapons and it's manned by the finest young Americans in the world.

It cost somewhere around $250 million. It was knocked out by a missile that cost about $50,000 and is available "off the shelf" to any third-rate country that wants to buy it. The French are really 'competitive' selling weapons to the world. And they don't appear to care who uses them — as long as they aren't young Frenchmen.

It's about time our world-wide 'competitors,' the Japanese, South Koreans, Europeans — all the folks who are taking our markets and our jobs — started footing their share of the bill protecting those world-wide markets. If our young men are going to be their bodyguards, then they should at least start paying them. Maybe the Japanese should buy a couple of aircraft carriers instead of our stocks, bonds and real estate. Americans would be shocked to learn the high percentage of American business corporations and companies owned by the Japanese.

My 18-year-old nephew just entered the Navy. He was inducted on the same day the U.S.S. Stark was attacked. He's a healthy, strong lad who will benefit from the discipline. I'm sure he will be a good sailor.

If, God forbid, he should ever face combat, I'm confident he will do his duty and demonstrate the courage we expect from every American son. If he is called upon to lay down his life to defend his country, I expect him to do so. But, I'll be darned if I expect him to die defending somebody else's oil.

-s- O.H. Halland

To The Editor:

Where, oh where, is the osprey nest?

Since 1980, my husband and I have watched a summering osprey fly over our land or fishing at the junction of the Red Lake and Thief River. And every year we have the same question: Where is the bird's nest? We know they are upstream from us since we see them carrying fish upstream. (We live out on Johnson Drive one mile east of the Thief River Falls city limits).

The nest itself is likely to be large for ospreys tend to reuse them year after year. The nest is probably high in a tree that is right next to the river. Just to confuse the issue, however, ospreys might nest right on the ground or on a tall structure like a utility pole.

If one came near the nest it would probably be quite obvious since the birds will fiercely defend them.

I hesitate in writing this because I do not wish to cause harm to these magnificant fish-catchers. I'm sure if their diet was structly analyzed one would see they are catching the slower-moving fish like the drums or suckers rather than the northerns or the walleyes.

Osprey numbers are now just recovering from the DDT contamination of their food supply, so we find it exciting to think they might be nesting in Pennington county.

If anyone might have a clue where these brown bodied, white breasted raptors might nest, you could give me a call at 681-5289. It would certainly answer one of nature's small questions.

Sincerely,
-s- Shelley Steva

To The Editor:

This letter is intended for all you people who are considering HMO, and for all you people who are already on HMO.

My father went into the emergency room after hours, because his arthritis was paining him so bad he couldn't stand it. The doctor on call wasn't there so the hospital paged him. He (the doctor) refused to come to the hospital because HMO wouldn't cover the visit because arthritis wasn't considered an emergency. The doctor also stated that if my father was willing to pay for the visit himself, he would be glad to come. Now is this fair?? I don't believe so, especially after my father had driven 40 miles so that he could get some help for his pain.

In my book HMO is a bunch of BULL!!! The insurance agents sure make it sound good, but they always get you with the fine print. Sure you as the patient never get another bill, but do you get to see the doctor when you want to and need to?

So all you people considering HMO, don't do it. For you people already on HMO, ask yourself this question: "Am I getting the best medical attention, or am I getting robbed of it because HMO doesn't pay for a lot of things?"

Think about it!!!

Sincerely,
Judy Kirkeide

AFLC Conference Opens Here Today

"His Kingdom Is Forever" will be the topic used by Rev. John Strand of Remer at the opening service of the 25th annual conference of the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations (AFLC) tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

Rev. Strand was president of the conference formed in Thief River Falls in October of 1962 for the first 16 years of its existence. Biblical text for the conference — the third held here since the association was formed — is Psalm 146, verse 13.

Approximately 500 delegates are expected for the conference which will continue through Sunday at the Lincoln high school auditorium. While the majority of the association's approximately 150 congregations are located in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, delegates will be from about 15 states and the Canadian province of Saskatchewan.

Election of a president for the conference will take place Thursday afternoon. There must be at least two nominations and incumbent president Rev. Richard Snipstead of New Hope, who has served three terms of three years each, must receive a three-fourths majority vote on the first ballot to be reelected. Nominations will be received from the floor.

Also elected will be a vice president and secretary for one-year terms. Incumbents in those offices, respectively, are Rev. Robert Lee of Minneapolis and Rev. Ronald Knutson of Canton, SD.

Rev. Amos Dyrud, Minneapolis, formerly of the Newfolden area and a previous missionary to Madagascar, will lead prayer time at the conference at 11:30 a.m. Thursday through Saturday.

Missionary and Mrs. George Knapp shared in the Women's Missionary federation meeting this morning at Our Saviour's Lutheran church and Rev. Knapp will speak at the missionary festival service Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Bernard Nelson of Portland, ND, will deliver the message at the laymen's service Friday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

Rev. Raynard Huglen of Newfolden, editor of the Lutheran Ambassador, will speak at the communion service Sunday at 8 a.m. at Our Saviour's Lutheran church.

Rev. David Molstre, Fargo, ND, will bring the message at the Sunday morning worship service at 10:30 a.m. at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Rev. Molstre served Our Saviour's Lutheran congregation in Thief River Falls from 1971 to 1975. The service is open to the public.

Rev. Snipstead, as president of the association, will lead the conference business sessions at the Lincoln auditorium. He will also speak at the ordination service on Sunday at 2 p.m., when a mass choir under the direction of Tom Olson will sing several selections.

Rev. Raynard Huglen

Rev. Amos Dyrud

Rev. David Molstre

Rev. Richard Snipstead

Bernard Nelson

Rev. John Strand

At the Women's Missionary federation convention session this morning at Our Saviour's, Dr. Mary Lindquist of the University of North Dakota faculty in Grand Forks was the Bible study leader. The WMF will sponsor the mission festival service on Thursday evening at which Rev. Knapp, missionary to Brazil, will speak.

All evening and Sunday services are open to the public for worship and any of the conference sessions at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Lincoln auditorium are also open to persons who would like to observe. Rev. Leslie Galland of Our Saviour's Lutheran is the host pastor.

Disapprove Use Of Insecticide On Malting Barley

American Malting Barley association's brewing and malting members will not buy malting barley or malt that has been treated with the insecticide chlorypyrifos-methyl (Reldan R).

The American Maling Barley association's board of directors, citing concerns expressed by the organization's technical committee for potential chlorpyrifos-methyl residues in malt made from treated barley, has voted to disapprove the use of this insecticide on malting barley. This decision is in keeping with the Industry's long standing policy that prohibits the use of additives.

Conservation Forum Planned June 24 At Best Western

American State Bank of Grygla is one of the co-sponsors of a special conservation forum to be held on Wednesday, June 24, 1987, at 1 p.m. at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls.

The 45 minute presentation will cover basic soil and water conservation ideas as well as suggestions for improvement. These issues are important concerns for everyone's future and will be of interest to anyone who wants to preserve their community's quality of life.

The forum will feature a video presentation along with a panel discussion by conservation experts. The program will be sponsored in conjunction with the Minnesota Bankers association and the regional district of the Minnesota association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Up to 40 forums will be conducted throughout Minnesota. Bankers in specified urban centers will host the forums, with a team of SWCD supervisors and employees presenting the programs. The purpose of the forums is to heighten public awareness of the costs of soil erosion and water contamination and to provide an opportunity for public discussion of methods to preserve these resources for the future. The forum is free and open to the public.

Support for the elderly generally is shared by the family, particularly adult children, and society. The family provides social and psychological support and services, and the community largely provides economic support, through social security, but also increasingly through other services, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the women's bureau of the U.S Department of Labor.

Goodridge School Selects Students Of The Month

Leah Kenner

Shannon Henrickson

Bridget Sjulestad

Goodridge school has chosen Leah Kenner, Bridget Sjulestad and Shannon Henrickson as its students of the month for the month of May. This is the final installation in a series designed among other things, to create a sense of awareness among teachers and students.

Leah Kenner, a kindergarten student and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kenner, loves to go horseback riding and bike riding.

Her favorite subject is physical education and her special achievement was to receive first place in the 1987 play days.

She is involved in adventure club and Sunday school. Leah likes Goodridge school because of the teachers and the opportunity to go for walks with her class in the out-of-doors.

Bridget Sjulestad is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sjulestad. She has two sisters, Mandy and Lori, and a brother, Rick.

Bridget is a member of the senior class and is among the busiest students at the school. Her favorite subjects are math and English.

Her hobbies include reading, fishing and swimming. Her extracurricular activities include basketball and chorus, treasurer of Luther league, co-captain of the girls basketball team, class president, student council vice president, annual staff member, honor society member and letterperson's club vice president.

Her special achievements include being chosen as Sno Fest queen, best defense in basketball and most valuable chorus member.

Shannon Henrickson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henrickson, is a ninth grade student at the Goodridge school. He has selected science, shop and physical education as his favorite subjects in school.

Shannon's hobbies include hunting, fishing and skiing. He is also a member of the Mavie 4-H club and participates in band and basketball.

Shannon likes being part of the Goodridge school because of its size. In a school the size of Goodridge, any student who wants to be a part of an activity can participate. Shannon also believes the teachers are very helpful and have time to work with individual students.

Dedication Of New UMC Dairy Facility Set For July 15

Dedication of the dairy research and teaching center at the Northwest experiment station, University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC), will be Wednesday, July 15, at 1:15 p.m.

The new dairy research and teaching center will be used to continue the applied research in nutrition, breeding, and management and to test and demonstrate high technology in the environmental area, record management, data collection, milking procedures, feeding, and labor saving systems.

Minnesota State Senate Majority Leader Roger Moe and Representative Bernard Lieder will speak for the legislators at the dedication. Others speaking at the ceremony include: University Vice President for Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics Richard Sauer; University of Minnesota Board of Regents Member Stanley D. Sahlstrom; Dairy Industry Representative Roger Odegaard; UMC Chancellor Donald Sargeant; and NWES Superintendent Larry Smith.

"The Northwest Experiment Station has always served as a center for those interested in agriculture. Tour groups from elementary school students to international trade representatives are typical," said Smith.

"Nearly 1,000 people annually visit the NWES. The new Dairy Research and Teaching Center is planned to demonstrate and promote dairy production methods to these groups," added Smith.

The new dairy center is a combination of remodeling plus demolition of an 80-year-old structure and a new section to house dairy research and teaching activity at the UMC campus. Funds for the basic new and remodeled structures were provided by the Minnesota legislature. Specific technical equipment and final internal completion of the structure funding came from the Northwest dairy support committee, a dairy farmers' fund-raising group.

Advance Structures, Inc. of Fargo, North Dakota, was the prime contractor. Major subcontractors included: Adkins Equipment of Detroit Lakes; Bertils Excavating and Crane Plumbing of Crookston; Dairy Farm Automation of Detroit Lakes; and Moorhead Electric of Moorhead.

Architects for the project are Young, Hoskins and Associates of St. Paul and Richard Larsen and Associates of Detroit Lakes.

The public is invited to dedication ceremonies. Refreshments and tours of the center will follow the program.

Colonial Fair In Goodridge Will Include Parade

A Bicentennial parade is being held in Goodridge as part of its July 3-4 celebration of the bicentennial of the U.S. constitution. The parade starts at 1:00 p.m. on July 4 with line-up at 12:00 noon.

The theme for the parade is "A Time In History" and the two categories are either patriotic or historical.

A kiddies parade is part of the entire parade and that group will follow the Color guard and the rest of the entries will follow.

Each group will be judged separately and prize money will be awarded to both groups with first, second and third placings.

Deadline for entries is June 26. Monte and Avis Marquis are chairmen of the event and can be reached at Goodridge by calling 378-4555.

Blood Drive In TRF Scheduled For July 1, 2

Thief River Falls area blood drive, sponsored by the Northwest Medical auxiliary, will be held noon to 5 p.m. July 1 and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. July 2 in the chapel of Northwest Medical center.

Blood drives held around holidays are especially important. Because United Blood Services will be closed for July 4, an additional supply of blood is needed to meet patient demand.

While many people take advantage of the 4th of July to go to the lake, hospital patients can't go to the lake — they need blood every day, even holidays.

Donors are needed to fill the gap. To make an appointment contact Marcia Padilla at 681-6102 or Mary Evans at 681-4229.

Dual Heat Rebate Checks Going To TRF Participants

Rebate checks for people participating in the dual heat program in Thief River Falls are being mailed.

John T. Anderson, superintendent of utilities in Thief River Falls, said checks are expected to average around $70. However, the check amounts vary considerably because participants include residential homes and business.

A total of more than $35,000 will be sent out to participants on the dual heat program.

This is the second year rebate checks have been sent. Anderson said the rebates are for the 1986-87 heating season and equate to one-half cent per kilowatt hour over 1,000 kilowatts per month for the six high heating months.

"Although we have experienced increased costs in 1987, we will not have a rate increase in the 1987-88 season," Anderson added. "This is due in large part to our dual heat sales. Without the dual heat sales a rate increase may have been necessary."

TDD Service Is Added To Legal Services Phone

A telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) has recently been installed at the office of Northwest Minnesota Legal Services (NMLS) in Moorhead. Hearing impaired persons who have a TDD in their homes can now place a call to NMLS for legal assistance.

A TDD resembles a typewriter and sends written messages over the telephone lines to another TDD. The telephone numbers at NMLS to TDD users are 218-233-8585 and 1-800-452-3625.

NMLS is a non-profit corporation which receives federal, state and private funding to provide legal help to low-income and senior citizens of 23 counties in northwestern Minnesota. NMLS handles civil cases and is prohibited from doing criminal or fee-generating cases.

For further information write or call the Upper Northwest Regional Service Center for Hearing Impaired Persons at the Hillview Offices, Hwy 75 and Minnesota Street in Crookston, MN 56716, telephone 218-281-1946, Voice-TDD.

Gregory Ewing, of Viking, graduated recently with a bachelor's degree in social studies from Hamline university. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wing of Viking.

David Beito

Beito Gets MBA, Is Named As VP At Northern State

David Beito recently received his masters degree in business administration (MBA) from the Columbia University graduate school of business located in New York City. The Columbia MBA is a two year degree with required courses in economics, accounting, statistics, business ethics, and operations research. In addition to the required curriculum students must choose a field of specialty in which they do additional coursework. Beito's specialty fields were finance and banking. During the summer of 1986 Beito competed an internship with the management consulting group of Touche Ross & Co., the nation's eighth largest accounting firm.

Upon completion of his degree Beito has rejoined the Northern State bank of Thief River Falls as a vice president. Prior to his studies at Columbia Beito received his B.A. from St. Olaf college in Northfield and was employed for two years as the computer operations officer of Northern State bank. Beito is a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school. His parents are Gene and Gretchen Beito of this city.

Fish Fry At Valley Home Was Just Fine

FISH FRY. The men at Valley Home in Thief River Falls were treated to a fish fry by the VFW Tuesday night. The Military Order of Cooties prepared and served the Walleye dinner with a portion of entertainment also. Hilary Stoltman on the violin, Harold Anderson at the microphone and Vi Moen (not pictured) on the accordian performed a variety of music. Naomi Rolf, Valley Home, served a meal and a little friendly discussion with Julius Sletten. And in the far picture, VFW Commander "Sonny" Bergdahl, Oliver Molstad, Vern Anenson, and Earl Efteland overlook the frying of fish.

Deer Park Garden Club

The Deer Park Garden Club's June business meeting is cancelled.

The club will have a tour of members' gardens as soon as the annual flowers bloom and vegetables grow, according to tour chairman Lois Swanson.

Recent club events have been a successful plant sale at the Goodridge Senior Citizens center; also pie and coffee served to the public.

The May meeting was a group trip to Honker Flats Nursery, Middle River, with Ethel Wiseth as driver.

A potluck dinner was served at the nursery with Lewis Wallace and relatives as guests. An uninvited guest was Lewis' 7-year-old talking pet crow.

Recently Goodridge Lions' Park Flower and Garden chairman, Marcella Hanson, and her committee met at the park and pruned and trimmed trees and planted flowers. Ernest Swanson assisted in planting a "Colett" apple tree in the Memorial Garden area.

The park, neatly mowed by Tim Kassa, is lovely this spring with three colors of peonies in bloom, several day lilies, clumps of yellow iris, red and yellow tulips, and creeping phlox. The Kim lilac is in bloom as is the bridal wreath bushes and deep red sweet williams.

Graduation Reception

Shelly Swanson, daughter of Lowell and Darlene Swanson graduated from Goodridge high school Friday, June 5th, and was an honored guest at a reception at her father's home following graduation. Lunch featured a blue and white decorated graduation cake baked by Olive Wiskow and served by her grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Swanson. Shelly's aunt, Mrs. John Pietila, served coffee. Another aunt, Mrs. Royal Knutson, served lunch assisted by Nancy Benedict.

The room and table decorations were in pink and burgundy roses, the Class of '87 class flower. Mrs. Jerry Hofstad, Shelly's sister, assisted Shelly as she opened her cards and gifts.

Other special guests were her grandmother, Irene Iverson of Thief River Falls, and grandparents, Ernest and Lois Swanson of rural Goodridge, and her mother, Darlene Swanson of Thief River Falls. Other guests were Kari and Aaron Swanson, Royal and Sharon Knutson, Chris and Chad of Ada, John and Anita Pietila, Karen, Kathy, Kim and John Robert of Lake Park, Sheri Hofstad of Minot, ND, Ronald and Ordella Haugen, Renoy and Grandpa Haugen and Clarice Haugen, John and Rolaine Lovly of Goodridge, Ole and Olive Wiskow, Richard and Donna Parnow, Roger and Colleen Hoffman, Frank Krbechek, Marlin and Joyce Sand of Goodridge, Rodney and Sylvia Hoffman and Alissa and Lacey, Clarence and Janice Peterson, Sherman and Jean Groven, Dr. Donald Langan of Thief River Falls, and Nancy Benedict of Thief River Falls.

Cards and gifts were received from relatives and neighbors unable to attend the reception.

On Monday, June 8th, Shelly left by car for Reno, NV, where she will intern on Zephyr Arabian Horse Ranch for eight weeks, a requirement for her degree in "Light Horse Management" at the U of M in Crookston where she is a registered student.

Corn, Grain Crops Ahead Of Average

"Knee-high by the 4th of July?" It's not the fourth yet, but that hasn't stopped the corn from growing. Minnesota's corn crop is significantly taller than normal for this date, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Reporters in Swift, Chippewa, Lyon, Watonwan and Goodhue counties report corn of 30-inch heights or more. The average unextended height of corn in the state is 16 inches, whereas last year corn averaged seven inches in height and on average it has only reached six inches by this same date. Field corn is 70 per cent cultivated compared with 32 per cent last year and 31 per cent for the five-year average. The corn crop condition is reported as one per cent very poor, one per cent poor, 28 per cent fair, 63 per cent good, and seven per cent excellent.

Soybeans are 98 per cent emerged versus 76 per cent last year and the 75 per cent average. Soybean acreage is 39 per cent cultivated compared with eight per cent last year and the 11 per cent average. Average unextended height of soybean plants is five inches whereas last year and on average, plants were only two inches high. The soybean crop condition is rated two per cent poor, 42 per cent fair, 54 per cent good and two per cent excellent.

Small grains also continue to progress ahead of normal although some farmers report spotty stands due to lack of moisture in May when most wheat, oat and barley crops were seeded. Spring wheat is 79 per cent jointing, compared with 24 per cent in 1986 and 39 per cent on average. The spring wheat crop is 24 per cent heading versus the two per cent level of last year and on average. The spring wheat crop condition is reported as being two per cent poor, 33 per cent fair, 61 per cent good and four per cent excellent. The oat crop is 95 per cent jointing compared with 43 per cent last year and the 46 per cent average. Oats are 48 per cent heading versus six per cent last year and on average. Barley is 78 per cent jointing compared with 19 per cent last year and 37 per cent on average. Seventeen per cent of the barley crop is heading versus the two per cent average and one per cent in 1986 on this same date.

Mostly dry weather across the state made for good haying. Seventy-three per cent of Minnesota's alfalfa acreage has been cut for first crop hay compared with 44 per cent on average and 57 per cent one year ago on this same date. Topsoil moisture is reported as 11 per cent very short, 29 per cent short, 59 per cent adequate and one per cent surplus. During the week, 5.4 days were suitable for fieldwork.

Warroad Summer Theater To Begin Seventh Season

Opening night is always filled with lots of feelings. The cast is excited about their lines and blocking on stage. The box office is on its toes keeping tickets straight for each night's performance. Directors and tech and make-up and wardrobe people are scurring about with last minute details, and the audience anticipates another great night of entertainment.

The number seven is the symbol of perfection, and although the Warroad summer theatre doesn't expect everything to be perfect, they are all hoping this seventh season will keep up the tradition of good drama they have provided for the past six years.

The summer season opener, "You Can't Take it With You" is a light hearted comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. Everyone in the Sycamore family does their own thing with joy, including work. (Thanks to Grandfather Martin Vanderhof played by Paul Wilcox). Lynda Myers plays his daughter Penny with Dave Mende as her husband Paul. Other members of the cast are Barb Larson as Essie, Liz Reishus as Alice Sycamore, Joe Olson as Mr. Kirby, Elliott Olson as the G-Man, Chris Kotlarz as Donald, Jess Myers as Ed, Kelly VanDeHey as The Grand Duchess Olga Katrina, Ursula Tillberg as Henderson, G-Man, Shane Sparks as Tony Kirby, Mike Hetteen as Boris Kolenkhov, Thomas Frolander as Mr. DePinna, Kate Rentfrow as Rheba and Jodi VanDeHey as Mrs. Kirby.

Directed by R. Steven Bennett with assistant director Chris Kotlarz and lighting and stage design by Jim Provance, the play is assured professional technique and presentation.

"You Can't Take it With You" opens on Friday, June 19 in an historic first time Warroad Summer Theatre use of the new mini theatre in the Warroad High School gym. Performances will also be given June 21, and 24-28. To celebrate the occasion, a gala after-show party will be held with decorated tables and refreshments for those who helped make opening night a great beginning for the Warroad summer theatre's 7th "Season of Promise."

For those wishing to make reservations, the box office number is 386-2237 and is staffed from 1 to 5 daily. Season tickets are also still available for $16.

Preparations For Crusade In Fargo Nearly Complete

Nearly one full year of intensive planning and preparation involving at least 10,000 North Dakota and Minnesota residents culminates this week with the Greater Red River Valley Billy Graham Crusade at Dacotah Field at North Dakota State University, June 19 - 21.

"Until a couple of monthhs ago, the most frequent question I got was whether Billy Graham would personally be preaching here," says Rick Marshall, resident crusade director for the Billy Graham Evangelistic association, who moved with his wife, Becki, and their four children to Fargo last August from Paris, France, where he had worked on a Graham Crusade last year.

"But as our colorful billboards have gone up . . . . as we've recruited 2,300 singers for our crusade choir and trained about 800 ushers and 1,000 counselors . . . . that question seldom comes up anymore. By contrast, I feel an air of intense excitement because folks realize this is their once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to personally participate in one of Dr. Graham's crusades after watching this well-known 68-year-old evangelist's television specials for so many years," he says.

Marshall emphasizes that all seats are free for the three services at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 5 p.m. on Sunday. "We really don't know how many to expect," he acknowledges, "but Dacotah field will seat more than 17,000 plus another 6,000 in the adjacent NDSU fieldhouse where people will view everything live on a mammoth screen which we are installing to accommodate the overflow."

"A full week before the crusade, our office had dispensed about 16,000 tickets to people who have notified us they will be coming to the crusade by bus," he reports.

Appearing with Dr. Graham at all three services will be such familiar team members as George Beverly Shea, Cliff Barrows, Tedd Smith and John Innes.

North Dakota Gov. George Sinner will welcome Dr. Graham to the Red River Valley on Friday night. Featured on Saturday (which has been designated as "Youth Night") is the musical trio, "Silverwind," as well as Stacy Robinson, wide receiver for the New York Giants.

Country-western singer Johnny Cash and his wife, June Carter Cash, longtime friends of Dr. and Mrs. Graham, are special guests for the Sunday evening service. The Cashes last appeared at a Graham Crusade at Columbia, SC, in March.

Rev. James Bjorge, senior pastor of First Lutheran church in Fargo, who is crusade chairman, heads the 47-member executive committee which includes representatives from 11 different denominations. Two Roman Catholic laymen appointed by Bishop James S. Sullivan represent the Fargo Catholic Diocese.

Altogether, more than 285 congregations of 26 different denominations stretching from Devils Lake, Jamestown and Grand Forks in North Dakota to Bemidji, Crookston and Wheaton in Minnesota have participated in crusade planning," Marshall points out. "Most of them will be represented in our massed choir or as counselors after attending the series of Christian Life and Witness classes we've conducted in several cities throughout the area since April."

Other involvements have been literally hundreds of prayer meetings in homes, rallies for men, women and youth, and the distribution of personal invitations and literature to 86,000 homes during the past two weeks, Marshall reports.

BUSINESS and Professional Women Organization won the traveling trophy and attendance trophy at the Spring Business and Professional Women conference in Crookston recently. There are 18 members in the local chapter. The organization won the trophies by having the largest percentage of members in attendance and also bringing the largest number of representatives. At the conference the Young Careerist competition and Individual Development competition winners were chosen. A Motivation workshop was also presented by Linda Laitala of Mora, MN. The organization's region includes the towns of Bemidji, Brainerd Lakes Area, Crookston, Detroit Lakes-Walker, Moorhead, Park Rapids, and Wadena. Pat Thompson won the Hats of Your Profession event and Edie Brandli, Thief River Falls, was the outgoing district officer. Pictured from left are: Sue Lillevold, Esther Johnson, Diane Josephson, Stacy Martin, Carol Forsberg and Pat Thompson.

It's true. When you qualify for a home improvement loan from the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency's Great Minnesota Fix-up Fund your interest rate is based on annual adjusted household income — the lower your income the lower your interest rate. You may be eligible for a loan if your total household income, after subtracting $1,000 for each resident, is $27,000 or less.
You may use the loan to pay for any eligible home improvements: repair, maintenance or expansion. And, you can do it your way. Choose your own subcontractors, buy your own materials, even do some of the work yourself. It's your loan; it's your project.

Old Photos Shed New Light On New Deal Days Of 1930's

by David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian News Service

Thousands of documentary photographs found in picture files at the Library of Congress and the National Archives by a Smithsonian Institution team researching a forthcoming book and exhibition present a newly detailed and diverse image of American life during the New Deal.

The federal government during the 1930s was a rich source of documentary photos taken throughout the Depression-wracked country to win national support for public programs initiated by the Roosevelt administration. The photos became the visual equivalent of FDR's fireside radio chats.

Taken by amateurs, anonymous professionals or such great names of photography as Dorothea Lange and Walker Evans —for either local or national use — the photos vary in terms of technical proficiency, artistic sensibility and political acumen. Yet they share on characteristic; The pictures usually captured the constituency and policy objectives of the agency they represented — an alphabet soup of organizations as varied as the CCC, FSA and USDA (Civilian Conservation Corps, Farm Security Administration and U.S. Department of Agriculture).

Of all the federal New Deal photos, these of the FSA are the best known. Now housed at the Library of Congress, the 75,000 prints are organized for easy use by the public. But the great drama of many of the images has long accounted for their popularity with picture editors. For many Americans, in fact, views of dust storms, migrant workers, sharecroppers and breadlines have come to be the mental images of the Great Depression. Photo icons, such as Lange's sorrowful, "Migrant Mother," rank in the history of the era alongside the novels of John Steinbeck and the songs of Woody Guthrie.

Although the Smithsonian team of photographic historians looked again at the FSA photos as a shared point of reference, research in other agency files often presented a picture of New Deal life that differed substantially from the dramatic FSA images.

In an earlier Ackerman photo, a well-dressed young Maryland man is shown leaving home. The caption material provides few details, and there is nothing in the picture itself to suggest that the man fits the mold of the desperate migrant. A third Ackerman image is a peaceful 1938 picture taken in Vermont of a roadside stand bountifully stocked with apples, pears and cider.

"In none of these photographs does any hint of the Depression emerge," says Pete Daniel, Smithsonian curator of agriculture and natural resources and a member of the research team. While FSA work showed the despair unleashed by dislocation, USDA photographs focused on more prosperous farmers who had benefited from government programs and had adapted mechanization and scientific methods to their land.

"By presenting a positive image that stressed recovery and stability," Daniel says, "the USDA avoided dealing with some of the serious problems set in motion by the Depression and by agency policies. What you don't see in the USDA photos is disruptive change."

These images uncovered by the Smithsonian team are helpful in piecing together a more representative picture of life during the New Deal. "Obviously, the FSA and USDA photos are going to show two different Americas," Daniel says, "but if you put the collections together, then you're going to get a more complete view of America."

In addition to the USDA, CCC and FSA photos, the team examined files of the National Youth Administration and the Federal Art Project. From the study comes a new book and a National Museum of American History exhibit to open July 1, both titled "Official Images: New Deal Photography." Daniel and the other members of the team feel they have just begun to explore the New Deal photo resources. Archives of the Tennessee Valley Authority, Army Corps of Engineers, Soil Conservation Service and the Social Security Act "seemed to us especially rich prospects for further work."

The use of documentary photos in the '30s came as Americans shifted their attention from books to a new world of sight and sound. Radio and the movies had won wide audiences in the '20s. Ten years later, Life and Look magazines transformed the public's "reading" priorities.

Paradoxically, in an era of sacrifices, "photographs tended to be treated as a necessity," another team member, Sally Stein, says. The reason could be that people, deprived of material goods, were attracted to those images that resembled things, she suggests. Or perhaps in an insecure world, they were comforted by a photo's apparent matter-of-factness. "Most likely," Stein says, "the appeal of photography contained contradictory impulses: to document and transform, to gain familiarity and distance."

Exceptional documentary photos, both commercial and government, often looked candid, intimate and non-intrusive. Yet they were usually skillfully crafted, and in the case of New Deal agencies, designed to promote unprecedented federal programs.

Dorothea Lange's "Migrant Mother," taken for the FSA, is a case in point. It often is held up as a model of spontaneity, free of manipulation. The fact is the photo was obtained after careful study and posing the subject, historian James C. Curtis points out in a study of Lange's work in Winterthur Portfolio (Spring 1986). Lange and other photographers, he notes, "had to produce images of technical distinction and aesthetic merit in order to communicate effectively with their audience."

That audience included the press, Congress and a public often uninformed of the suffering of other Americans during the Depression. The FSA's Roy Stryker masterminded scores of photo projects that made the agency's images of the displaced and the destitute so famous, according to the team's Maren Stange. By 1938, FSA photos had appeared in Look and Life, a dozen or so books and the museum of Modern Art.

Photos of migrant camps in the West were matched by images from other areas showing how farmers were funneled into the hearts of large cities or scattered in outlying shantytowns, lured to the hot noisy rooms of textile mills, to oil field camps and eventually to wartime boomtowns.

Stryker insisted on a strong central photo operation. In 1935, he called in all professional cameras on loan to area offices by Washington. He demanded "dramatic picture coverage" from his staff and by other agencies as well. Regional offices at first complained that Stryker had lost touch with small-town operations and that local newspapers were "inclined to ignore artistic value." The FSA operation became a success, Daniel says, because Stryker "had a great vision" in his work.

Though most USDA photos presented "idyllic images" of rural life before and during the New Deal, there is the occasional image made of stronger stuff. One photograph found by Daniel at the National Archives shows a black farmer in Pulaski County, Ark., casting a vote in a 1938 cotton referendum on the question of limiting crop production. As a result of planting cuts — which seemed preferable at the time to the vagaries of supply and demand — Agricultural Adjustment Act policies tended to reduce the number of sharecroppers and tenants working the land.

But "by voting in AAA referendums, blacks got their first taste of democractic participation," Daniel comments. "By insisting on the participation of black farmers, the AAA subtly challenged Southern disenfranchisement laws."

New Deal agencies often faced a choice between a good "candid" shot of existing race relations or an idealized image of harmonious race relations. From Stein's research, it appears that Mary McLeod Bethune, head of the National Youth Administration Division of Negro Affairs, decided that candor was a luxury that could not yet be afforded. Numerous file photos show Bethune in stately command on one regional NYA stage or another — often flanked by two NYA participants, one black, one white.

Berenice Abbott, the noted photographer and a Federal Art Project participant, commented in 1937 on the significance of photography. Her words seem tailored to the new findings of the documentary team. Photography has a double range of communication, Abbott said, "speaking to the present, but speaking also to the future and telling what sort of world it was."

A COOPERATIVE PROJECT FOR DEER & DEER HUNT
THIEF RIVER CHAPTER

DEER HUNTERS chapter in Thief River Falls recently purchased an audio visual system. The system is intended for use by various state agencies including the department of natural resources. The system can be used to feature hunting, habitat, education and legislation issues. Al Gehrls and Gordon Forester were looking at the equipment and new signs designating projects completed with the help of the local chapter of Minnesota Deer Hunters association. The Deer Hunter's association has provided funds for a foot bridge, planted acres for deer, and a fire break. Gehrls said a picnic for Deer Hunter club members will be held tonight at Oakland park in Thief River Falls at 6 p.m.

MN Motorcycle Training Course Info. Available

Minnesotans interested in information regarding safety training for motorized bicycles in Minnesota may call (612) 296-3966 or check with their local motorized bicycle dealer. The first group of instructors has been trained and is ready to start providing safety course classes.

Changes in the motorized bicycle law require them to have a piston capacity of no more than 50 cubic centimeters and a maximum of two horsepower. Operator's permits can be issued to any person who is at least 15 years of age and who has successfully completed an approved safety class.

All persons operating motorized bicycles on a permit are subject to restrictions relating to operation of a motorcycle under a two-wheel instruction permit. The new law also removes the requirement that motorized bicycles have fully operable pedals. Motorized bicycles require liability insurance similar to that required for motorcycles.

No one ever lost weight permanently through willpower alone. No one.
If willpower were all it took to lose weight, your first diet would have been your last. But, with few exceptions, even the most determined dieters regain the weight they lost.
Now, you can lose weight and keep it off with The OPTIFAST® Program. The OPTIFAST Program is a hospital-based supplemented fasting program that combines a nutritionally complete diet supplement, diet counseling, behaviour modification and group support.
Most important of all, The OPTIFAST Program involves the close, on-going attention of physicians, nurses and other medical professionals, 200,000 people have participated in The OPTIFAST Program of weight loss. Studies have shown that up to 80% of OPTIFAST® treated patients may lose a minimum of 40 pounds. In patients who lose more than this amount, the average loss is 85 pounds.'
But even more encouraging is the fact that in some people, long-term weight maintenance—the most important part of obesity treatment—is accomplished in The OPTIFAST Program.
If you're more than 30% or 50 pounds overweight, please call (218) 681-4240, Ext. 357 and receive complete details about The OPTIFAST Program. You supply the willpower you've always had. We supply the medical support you've always missed.

Strandquist

Mrs. Irene Larson, Strandquist, 436-2690

Ann Bernhardson attended the 60th class reunion at the Landmark at Warren Saturday with a potluck noon meal and spent the afternoon visiting. Dinner was held at a restaurant in the evening.

On Anne's way back home from Warren she stopped off at the Oscar Backlin home to visit the guests there: Archie Erskine, Jackie Berggren and son Paul, Art and Ella Vansickle and Norman Berget.

Sunday at the Florian park with a potluck lunch, the following helped Steve Chwialkowski celebrate his birthday: Joan and Dean Kaushagen and Chad, Wayne and Shirley Kilen and Scott, Myrna Johnson and Dustan, Terry and Rita Sollund and girls, Darwin and Susan Nelson and Aaron, Carol Hugg and boys, Gary, Chris and Gladys Chwialkowski, Nels and Eva Nelson.

Recent visitors at the Marlin Nelson home have been Tim Storeby, Gabe, Dana, Sylvestor and Clara Kasprowicz, Elmer Eskildsen, Amy Hultgren, Brad, David and Dean Nelson, Leroy and Dave Syverson, Gayhard Nelson, Harold, Jeff, Jamie and Brent Donaldson.

Steve and Gladys Chwialkowski were Friday dinner guests at Terry Sollund's at Karlstad.

Thursday Steve and Gladys Chwialkowski, Joan Kaushagen, Michael and Jonathan Hugg were visitors at the Wayne Kilen home near Holt.

A week ago Friday Earl and Ebba Sihlberg and Joyce Bothum were among other relatives at the Ben Elseth home in Newfolden to visit with their guests, Halbert Elseth and daughter, Viola and Hazel Granfor of Perley. Halbert had his 103rd birthday earlier but now that he was here, the relatives came to help him celebrate.

Edward and Janice Carlson, Buddy and LaVoi Thun visited on Wednesday evening at the Arnold Larson home at rural Newfolden.

Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Thun attended a funeral at Grand Forks for LaVoi's cousin. Later the Thuns drove to Fargo to meet Richard and Dawn Higdon and Christina who flew in from Phoenix, AZ, and will spend a week at the Thun home.

Recent visitors at the Henrickson-Johnson home have been Elmer and Donny Henrickson, Art Wayne of Greeley, CO, John Henrickson of Warren, Leanore Henrickson, Josh and Brandy, Brian and Julie Nelson and children, Karen Skadsem, Dona Rehm, Leonard Borsvold and Delores Donaldson.

Oscar Hageland was a Thursday evening visitor at the Alfred Setten home.

Earl and Ebba Sihlberg accompanied Kelfie Donarski and Donny to the Cities Sunday where they went to visit their son, Boyd, who had just undergone two major surgeries. We hope they find him much improved. Last minute visitors at Earl and Ebba's were Myrna Meader, Viola Fredricks and Palmer Rud.

Bertha Fredrickson visited Irene Larson on Saturday forenoon.

Irene Larson was pleasantly surprised when she returned home from a check-up with Dr. Herber at Thief River Falls Friday forenoon when she found out a deceased pen pal's sister and husband from Bismarck, ND, had called at her house. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fromm went calling at Mildred Nelson's home to inquire about Irene and enjoyed a visit there with Mildred and her guests, Bertha Fredrickson and Eulalie Stallock.

Irene had never met the Fromms but had at one time years ago, after her pen pal had passed away in 1942, corresponded with Ardis Fromm. So Irene was waiting for their return to visit with them later in the afternoon.

In the meantime the Fromms had been to visit the museum at Lake Bronson and had enjoyed the visit there. This they mentioned to Irene and her daughter, Janice Nelson and daughter Jill who had taken Irene to Thief River Falls and were also waiting to meet the Fromms.

They visited a while and then Janice Nelson treated the guests, Irene and Jill, to supper at a cafe in town. Later they visited at Earl Haugard's invitation to view his hobby farm at the edge of town. Earl had met the Fromms earlier in the day when they had stopped at the post office to inquire where Irene lived. Earl discovered in talking to the Fromms that they knew his cousin, Rose Sanderson Brien of Fort Yates, ND.

After visiting at Irene's home until 11 p.m. the Fromms headed for a motel at Karlstad where they had reserved a room. Saturday at 10 a.m. Ardis and Bert came again to bid Irene a farewell and set off to return to their home in Bismarck.

Some years ago, while living on the farm, Mr. and Mrs. Giese and daughter Gladys and two children from Bismarck had visited Irene and had afternoon lunch before leaving for there home. The Gieses were Ardis Fromm's parents and although Irene had never met Ardis or Bert before, the visit was enjoyed as they were so easy to get acquainted with and the best part of all was that they had made the trip just to meet Irene. This meant a lot to Irene. It was a great visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walz of Minneapolis, Delores Erickson of Karlstad, Vance and Adrienne and Margaret Lefrooth visited at Earl Sihlberg's Saturday evening a week ago.

There will be a Nelson reunion at the community center at Strandquist Sunday, June 21st, with a potluck meal at noon.

Many ladies attended the party for Doreen Nelson and baby Tara Saturday at Bethesda. So many lovely gifts were received.

Kim Kleinwachter and Anthony of Stephen were Wednesday visitors at Art and Selma Kleinwachter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Paetznick of Middle River were Sunday visitors at the Rueben and Gula Stromgren home.

Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom were to Bemidji on Wednesday visiting at the Hoff home and helping their grandson Danny celebrate his first birthday.

Irene Larson visited and enjoyed lunch with Mary and Donan Renstrom Tuesday afternoon.

Carol and Bill Dick of Minneapolis visited with Clarence and Mabel Borsvold Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Engen of Newfolden visited and were supper guests Sunday afternoon at Wayne Stromgren's. Chester and Alpah Sander of Halma visited at Stromgren's Sunday evening.

Marie Forslund of Warren was a Sunday afternoon visitor at the Elphie Adlis home.

Peter and Antoinette Kasprowicz visited at the Larry and Leona Kruscinski home at Greenbush Sunday. Helen Kruscinski, Peter's sister, also visited there with the Kasprowiczes.

SUMMER TRACK MEETS. Summer twilight track meets will once again be held this year. Donations to conduct three races, June 23, July 27 and August 25, were collected recently from three sponsors. Sponsoring the races are Northwest Medical center, Pepsi Cola Bottling of Thief River Falls, and Falls Clinic-Dakota Clinic. The track meets are open to children and adults of all ages. Events will include a 1,600 meter run, 50 meter run, 400 meter run, 100 meter run, 800 meter run, 200 meter run, 3,200 meter run, softball throw, shot put and long jump. Ribbons with time or distance indicated on them will be given to all participants in each event. A $1 entry fee covers all events. Pictured with Lynn Dyer (center), cross country coach in Thief River Falls and event organizer, are representatives of the sponsoring organizations: Kent Johnson of Pepsi (left) and Dr. Jim Langland, Northwest Medical center, Falls Clinic-Dakota Clinic.

Cindy and Christie Wetterlund of East Grand Forks spent Monday and Tuesday at the Morris Anderson home.

Visitors this past week at the Gayhard Nelson home have been Edna and Bennie Swanson, Kenneth Boen, Sherrie Hildeman, DeDe Adamski, Brian and Julie Nelson and children, Carl and Bruce Blatner, Chad and Kristie, Randy Nelson and Melissa, Donald, Dean, Myron and Brenda Nelson, Ione and Leroy Syverson, Marlin, David, Dion and Christopher Nelson, Paul Berggren, Doug Henrickson, Sandy Johnson, Chris and Daniel.

History of Strandquist Community Cafe

Toward the end of April of this year, the Lumberjack cafe was closed and Strandquist was going to be without a cafe.

In early May, the mayor of Strandquist, Earl Haugard, approached Arleen Reese about running the cafe. Arleen had just moved to Strandquist from Nevada to be closer to her son and family who live in Grand Forks. Arleen felt honored to be offered the job and took the offer. The Strandquist community then formed a committee to reopen the cafe by recruiting volunteer help and donations. There were extensive renovations and expenses involved and the committee is still actively raising funds for it.

On May 29th the cafe, although not completely equipped and stocked, was opened to serve the community. The cafe has been well received by everyone and we hope it will continue to serve the needs of the community.

Arleen plans to continue expanding her menu and may even serve Chinese food occasionally. She also plans to stock a small line of groceries as soon as funds permit for the convenience of the community.

Wednesday has be designated potato dumpling day. She plans to keep the cafe open after hours on weekends in the very near future. Her normal hours are 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Arleen would like to take this opportunity to thank the committee and everyone that has been instrumental in the reopening of the cafe.

Wednesday Patti Woinarowicz, Marcy Nelson, Nicole and Jennifer Carlson drove to the bus depot at Grand Forks to meet Susan McCullough who arrived from Pennsylvania.

Sunday a birthday party was held at Marcy Nelson's home honoring granddaughter Nicole on her 12th birthday. Guests were Ernie and Patti Woinarowicz, Nicholas and Lance, Mr. and Mrs. Nels X. Nelson, Frances and Jessie Engen all of Newfolden, Esther and Connie Storeby and Brittany, Grandma Norma Carlson of Kennedy, Lois Carrico, Susan McCullough, Jennifer and Nicole Carlson.

Lyle and Barb Braff, Jessica and Jeremy, Virgil and Delphine Braff drove in company to Hurley, WI, early Wednesday morning to visit Ronald and Marla Bengtson and children. Saturday morning they all left for their homes, returning home Saturday evening. Virgil and Delphine Braff stopped off briefly to visit Virgil's sister and husband, Louis and Ardell Lausche at Blackduck.

Susan McCullough, Nicole and Jennifer Carlson, Marcy Nelson, Patti Woinarowicz and Lance, Denise Nelson, Jason and Jamie visited Nels X. Nelson and also with Eva's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Willard of Shelby, MT.

WOOD DUCKS. Tuesday afternoon, Hilary Stoltman called the Times about some Wood Ducks hatching in his back yard near Long's bridge. He has six huts for Wood Ducks in his back yard, but when he saw between 20 and 25 eggs in the nest hatching, he decided to give the Times a call. It is not unusual for Wood Ducks to hatch many eggs, but it was interesting to see the hatchlings. Even though the eggs are dropped into the nest on different days they generally hatch together as long as they are packed together. One day after they hatch they climb out of the deep box and fall to the ground because they are not fed in the nest. Stoltman said anyone can build a Wood Duck box. The ducks are not territorial and generally are not too fussy, but the boxes should be made of wood, be two feet deep with a hole four inches wide by three inches high and should have about three inches of sawdust on the bottom.

Goodridge School Board Proceedings

June 17, 1987

Members present: Norma Hanson, Larry Vigen, Rodney Wayne, Harold Nething, Marlin Kotrba. Also present: Superintendent Langan and Principal Henrickson.

Joint Board meeting was called to order by Jim Holte, ISD No. 447 Board Chairman, at 8:00 P.M., May 28, 1987, Grygla school.

Vocational courses and funding were discussed. Grygla reported they offer four vocational programs: Metals, woods construction, model office, and occupational foods. Goodridge reported that 18 programs and 27 courses were offered through Vocational Center school. The possibility of Goodridge students attending Grygla for vocational courses was discussed.

Superintendent Langan recommended that joint study committees be established to assess programs, facilities, and finances in both districts prior to any decision for vocational as well as academic pairing.

The need for counseling services in both districts were discussed for 1987-1988. Both Boards will consider cooperative hiring of a counselor at their regular June Board meeting.

Current pairing in athletics, art, and German was reviewed by Superintendent Hoffert. Further sharing of teaching staff was discussed. Similarity in school year, daily schedule, and master contracts were areas in need of joint board attention. Sharing superintendent and other office services was presented as a consideration. Bus mechanic services and adult farm management program were reviewed as possible cooperative alternatives.

Interactive television through Garden Valley Fibreoptic system was discussed as a method for delivering programs to both school sites.

Meeting adjourned at 10:00 P.M.

TRF, Grand Forks Split Legion Doubleheader Games

A six-run fifth inning outburst, followed by some clutch relief pitching by Dean DuChamp, sparked Thief River Falls to a 12-9 win over the Grand Forks Royals Tuesday in the second half of an American Legion baseball doubleheader played at the fairgrounds diamond.

The Royals won the first game 14-6.

Post 117, 3-1 with the split, has another tough doubleheader assignment Saturday when Thief River Falls entertains the Moorhead Blues in a 12-noon Class AA Ninth District match-up.

Grand Forks . . . . . . . . . . . . . 14
TRF . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 6

A variety of numbers added up to a 14-6 Grand Forks victory in Game 1 as the Royals combined 11 base hits, six walks, six stolen bases, and six Thief River Falls errors for their two-touchdown run total.

The tempo was set in the top of the first inning when the Royals used two base hits, a walk, a stolen base, and three Thief River Falls errors for a 3-0 headstart.

Thief River Falls had a similar at-bat in the bottom of the inning for a 3-3 tie, though, as Tom Knoff drew a lead-off walk, advanced on a sacrifice by DuChamp and scored on a single to left by Casey Johnson. Errors on back-to-back balls hit by Kory Joppru and Chris Nelson made it 3-2, and a single to left by Hunter Boldt tied it.

A one-out single to right by No. 9 batter Doug Gillen and a two-out walk issued to Steve Erhardt set the stage for a towering three-run second inning home run over the left field fence by Scott Whetter that quickly doubled the Royals' run total.

Thief River Falls got one of those runs back in the bottom of the second when DuChamp walked with one out, stole second and wound up at third on an error on the play, and scored on a ground-out by Johnson.

But Post 117 lost ground in a hurry when Grand Forks came up with a four-run fourth that included a high-top RBI single into left by Nathan Mitchell, a run-scoring drive to left by Whetter and a two-run double into the right field corner by Bryce Crawford.

Erhardt had a two-run ground ball single into left field in the fifth for a 12-4 cushion, and both sides scored twice in the seventh for the 14-6 final. A bad-hop single by Brad Bakke, a walk and an error produced the first Grand Forks seventh inning run, and Erhardt picked up his third RBI of the game with a two-out single.

Thief River Falls loaded the bases in the bottom of the inning on walks to Johnson and Nelson that were sandwiched around a single by Joppru. A double play ball allowed one run to cross the plate, and an error plated the final runner.

Whetter finished with a 3-for-4 game at the plate, driving in five runs. Erhardt was 2-for-2 and Crawford, the winning pitcher, was 2-for-4 with a pair of RBI. Bill Dicken led a seven-hit Thief River Falls offense with a 3-for-4 game. Joppru was 2-for-4. Crawford walked five and struck out five, allowing just one earned run. Nelson went five innings in a starting role and was the losing pitcher, giving up 12 runs and eight hits while walking five and striking out four. Jason Lane gave up two runs and two hits while walking one and striking out one over the final two innings.

TRF . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 12
Grand Forks . . . . . . . . . . . . . 9

Thief River Falls spotted Grand Forks an early 5-1 lead, then broke open a 6-6 game with the six-run fifth inning that stood up for a 12-9 victory in the second half of the 4½-hour doubleheader.

It started in the same fashion as Game 1 as Grand Forks used a lead-off walk issued to Mitchell, a stolen base and an infield hit by Erhardt for a quick 1-0 lead, with another stolen base, a wild pitch, and an error, making it 2-0.

Thief River Falls put its first three batters on base in the bottom of the inning and got one run out of it as Johnson, who walked and stole second, scored on a single to left-center by Chris Bjorgaard.

Grand Forks got just one ball out of the infield in the second inning, but still wound up with a 5-1 lead because of an error, two walks, a couple of stolen bases and a wild pitch, along with run-producing singles by Erhardt — his second RBI infield hit of the game — and Crawford.

But Thief River Falls tied it 5-5 in the bottom of the second when walks to Boldt and Jared Erickson, along with a single by Dicken, loaded the bases. Runs then scored on an error on a ball hit by Nelson, on a fielder's choice on a ball hit by Knoff, on a sacrifice bunt by Johnson, and on a double to left by Bjorgaard.

Both sides scored sigle fourth inning runs. Three walks and a successful suicide squeeze bunt laid down by Rob Koppenhaver gave the Royals a brief 6-5 lead. A lead-off single by Bjorgaard was followed by a one-out single to left by Lane that had an error tacked onto it for the 6-6 tie.

Thief River Falls sent 10 batters to the plate in the fifth inning outburst that won it for Post 117. There wer four runs, two walks, a wild pitch and a Grand Forks error that figured into the six-run surge that was highlighted by a three-run home run over the left field fence by Nelson. Joppru picked up an RBI on a sacrifice fly *and Boldt came through with a two-*run double to left.

That 12-6 lead didn't look so secure, though, when the Royals' first four batters reached base in the top of the sixth, and three of them scored. But DuChamp came on in relief of Joppru to end the threat, striking out all three batters he faced and prompting the ejection of the Grand Forks coach, who didn't agree with some of the strike calls by plate umpire Nick Drees.

DuChamp stretched his string of consecutive strike-outs to four when he fanned the lead-off batter in the seventh, and went on to retire the side in order for the save.

The 11 Thief River Falls base hits included a perfect 4-for-4 performance by Bjorgaard, who had two doubles and two RBI, and a 2-for-3 effort by Boldt, who also had two RBI. Erhardt was 2-for-2 for the second straight game to lead the Royals, who had only five hits, but picked up nine walks off Joppru, who struck out two. Koppenhaver was the Royals' starting and losing pitcher. He gave way to Matt Klug in the fifth, and the first batter he faced was Nelson, who greeted him with his three-run home run. Koppenhaver gave up eight runs and eight hits, walking five and striking out one. Klug surrendered three hits, walked three and did not strike out a batter.

Grand Forks went home 3-7.

Weekend Tournaments Planned At Golf Club

Second annual Coca-Cola Pro-Am golf tournament will be held Friday at the Thief River Golf Club, followed by a four-man Texas Scramble tournament Saturday at the same site.

Twelve of the area's top club professionals will team up with amateurs to compete for prizes Friday.

Pro-Am event starts with a long drive contest at 11:30 a.m. for both pros and amateurs. The tournament itself is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

The tournament is open to the first 48 golfers who contact the Thief River Golf Club Pro-Shop, telephone 681-2955.

Lunch will be available prior to the start of the tournament, and participants are invited to stay for the awards dinner at the clubhouse following the completion of the tournament.

Teams of four golfers will compete in "Texas" style of play Saturday. Players will be organized by handicap that morning from the list of sign-ups.

Entry fee is $5 per sons. Play starts at 9 a.m. Call the Pro Shop to register.

Lake Agassiz Softball Tournament Is Sunday

A 14-team, round-robin Lake Agassiz Invitational men's slow pitch softball tournament will be played in Thief River Falls Sunday.

Teams are guaranteed six games. Entry fee is $70. Tournament director is Brett Brandon, telephone 681-1330 or 681-2850.

Summer Track Series Starts Tuesday

First of the three-meet Thief River Falls summer Twilight Track Series will be held Tuesday, June 23. The Northwest Medical Center Meet will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Prowler Field track.

Children and adults of all ages are welcome to participate in the event, which will include 100, 200, 400, 800, 1600 and 3200 meter races, plus competition in the shot put and long jump. There will also be a 50 meter race and a softball throw for ages 2-6.

Entry fee of $1 covers all events. Proceeds will go to the Thief River Falls track and cross country teams. Free Pepsi-Cola products will be available to all participants.

The series' other two dates include the Pepsi Summerfest Meet July 27 and the Falls Clinic-Dakota Clinic Meet August 25.

TRF Runners Have Weekend Races

Thief River Falls distance runners will be going in opposite directions this weekend for two major running events of the summer.

Saturday, an anticipated 6,000 runners will leave Two Harbors for Duluth in the 11th running of Grandma's Marathon. The entry list includes Kristy Forsberg-Aune, the former Lincoln High School and University of North Dakota track and cross country standout who will be running Grandma's for the third consecutive year.

Sunday, five Thief River Falls runners will be in Winnipeg for the annual Manitoba Marathon and Half-Marathon. The group includes Jeff and Donna Garske, Mark and Betty Sugden, and Tom Ronchetti, who will all be running the 13.1-mile Half Marathon.

The Duluth race begins atr 9 a.m. and follows the scenic North Shore Drive. The Winnipeg race begins at 7 a.m. and winds its way through the city of Winnipeg.

Free Basketball Instructions Grades 1-4

Free instruction sessions will be offered each day from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. for boys and girls in grades 1-4 during the Pacesetter Basketball Camp that will be staged in the Lincoln High School gym next week, June 22-26.

Youngsters are invited to stop by each day for the free clinic sessions offered by camp officials.

There are still openings remaining in the boys' portion of the regularly-scheduled camp. Interested participants from throughout northwestern Minnesota can register during the first camp session. Girls in grades 5-12 will meet from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. each day. Boys in grades 5-8 will meet from 12:15 to 3 p.m. and boys in grades 9-12 will meet from 3-5:45 p.m.

Camp cost is $40.

BMX Bike Races Start Monday

Season-opening bike race at the Thief River Falls BMX track is scheduled Monday. The weekly Monday races will continue through August 10.

Racers should be at the track by 6:30 p.m. for registration. Entry fee is $2.

A work night is scheduled at the track Thursday at 6:30 p.m. Race organizers are hoping for a good turn-out of volunteers who are needed to prepare the track for the 1987 opener.

Questions concerning the BMX program can be directed to Clarice Torgerson, telephone 681-8470 after 5 p.m.

Weather-related race cancellations will be aired over KTRF and KKAQ during the summer race season.

Fast Pitch Softball Game Planned Tonight

Thief River Falls Schmidt Beer-American Legion men's fast pitch softball team will play an exhibition game against Melvies tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the fairgrounds fast pitch diamond.

Schmidt Beer-American Legion is the lone survivor of the disbanded Thief River Falls Fast Pitch Softball League that operated for so many years before lack of numbers forced the league to fold this summer. The team's 1987 season consists of weekend tournament appearances. They won the Grand Forks Invitational June 6, but wer idle last weekend.

Melvies was a Thief River Falls League member. The Erv Melvie-led team is getting together for tonight's game to give the 7-1 Schmidt Beer-American Legion squad a scrimmage session before entering the Detroit Lakes Invitational Sunday.

TRF Trap League Hosts Crookston

Thief River Falls Trap League played host to the first of the home-and-home summer matches against its Crookston counterpart Wednesday.

Wet weather held down the number of participants who made the trip from Crookston, so no team score was kept.

Top shooter in the 49-bird event was Thief River Falls' Dennis Zulawski with a 25-24, 49.

A rematch will be held in Crookston July 15.

TRF Shooters

Dennis Zulawski 25-24, 49; Howard Thorson 25-23, 48; Stan Wilson 23-25, 48; Phil Kreuter 24-24, 48; Bruce Mattson 24-24, 48; Pat Fischer 22-25, 47; Al Boughton 25-21, 46; Mert Wilson 24-21, 45; Dave Dupree 23-21, 44; Warren Hanestad 23-21, 44; Sandy Wilson 21-23, 44; Steve Narverud 24-19, 43; Brad Johnson 23-19, 42; Brent Johnson 22-20, 42; Wes Skibicki 21-20, 41; Ray Thyren 21-20, 41; Dan Narverud 21-19, 40; George Hanestad 21-19, 40; Orren Bendickson 18-22, 40; Marion Myers 21-18, 39; Duane Holland 19-20, 39; Lynn Skibicki 15-23, 38; Harry Myers 20-18, 38; Kurt Dupree 15-23, 38; Bob Bollesen 19-18, 37; Fred Hartmann 18-16, 34; Russ Bollesen 16-17, 33; Cory Thorson 9-15, 24.

GRAND FORKS runner Nathan Mitchell was thrown out by Thief River Falls pitcher Chris Nelson (right), who fielded a ball hit back to the mound and threw to first baseman Bill Dicken for the first out in Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls. The visiting Royals won the first game 14-6, but Thief River Falls rebounded to win the second game 12-9. Post 117 carries a 3-1 season record.

TG Sporting Goods Sweeps EGF A's

TG Sporting Goods scored 14 runs in both ends of a Tuesday Babe Ruth baseball doubleheader against the East Grand Forks A's, but the sweep was accomplished in contrasting style as the Thief River Falls 14-15-year-olds won the first game 14-13 on a two-out bases-loaded drive to the out-field fence in the bottom of the seventh inning by Kyle Evenson, then coasted to a 14-0 five-inning second game rout that included a no-hit pitching effort by Jared Erickson.

It was a match-up of two of the top teams in the Lake Agassiz South Sub-District, and the sweep provided the 5-0 TG Sporting Goods team with an early edge in the race for post-season seeding positions.

East Grand Forks carried a 13-9 lead into the bottom of the seventh inning of the opener. TG Sporting Goods made it 13-10 and had the bases loaded with two out when Evenson cleared the bases with his blow to tie the game, then scored himself on an error on the play.

Dale Martell was the winning pitcher. East Grand Forks had a 13-9 base hit advantage, and Thief River Falls was charged with five of the game's seven errors.

Erickson's no-hit, no-run pitching performance in Game 2 was backed by a 15-hit TG Sporting Goods attack that included three hits by Erickson himself, and three more by Jamie Harder. Both sides had three errors.

TG Sporting Goods will be idle until Tuesday when the Thief River Falls team will host Crookston Blue in a 10 a.m. doubleheader at the fairgrounds diamond.

Sports Editor

Thief River Falls will offer both the participant and the spectator a variety of sporting activity this weekend.

The schedule starts Friday with the annual Coca-Cola Pro-Am tournament at the Thief River Falls Golf Club. Tee-off time is 1 p.m. The course will also be the site of a Texas Scramble tournament Saturday.

Saturday will also feature a Class AA Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader at the fairgrounds diamond when Thief River Falls Post 117 entertains the strong Moorhead Blues. Games are scheduled for 12-noon and 2 p.m.

Sunday's schedule offers the annual Lake Agassiz Invitational men's slow pitch softball tournament. Games will be played throughout the day at the Thief River Falls softball complex on Highway 1, east of the AVTI.

Miscellaneous

+ Former Bemidji High School and University of Minnesota standout pitcher Bryan Hickerson, traded earlier this year by the Minnesota Twins, has been promoted by the San Francisco Giants from Clinton, IA in the Class A Midwest League to Shreveport, LA in the Class AA Texas League. Giants minor league officials had indicated the move was imminent following Hickerson's performance against the parent club last week in an exhibition game with Phoenix. He was called in to work five innings against the Giants that night, yielding two earned runs and nine hits while striking out one and walking one. The lefthander dominated the Midwest League with an 8-0 record and an 0.64 earned run average.

+ Brainerd's Willie Severson, who led the Warriors' boys for 13 season and girls for nine years, has resigned from his duties as swimming coach. He was voted as the sectional Coach of the Year three times as he watched 32 of his swimmers gain state meet berths.

+ Only area performer selected to the 1987 All-State high school baseball team was pitcher-third baseman Tim Knudson of Bemidji. He will appear in the annual all-star series for high school seniors this weekend.

+ Brainerd officials have installed a new $72,000 lighting system on its Don Adamson baseball field. Cost of the project was shared by donations from the local American Legion, VFW, Moose, Eagles, and Sports Booster Club. The lights figure to rate as the brightest in the state, ranking above those at St. Cloud's Municipal Stadium, long held as the state's best. Cost for using the lights was set at $50 per game compared to $180 at St. Cloud.

Women's Slow Pitch

In a game usually more noted for its offense, Julie Halvorson stood out as a pitcher Monday in Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League as she tossed a pair of four-hitters to lead the Musherettes past McDonald's 11-4 and Hair Dynamics 9-3.

Kari Skoglund was 3-for-3 and Arlette Abrahamson was 2-for-3, and both of them drove in two runs in the Musherettes' 11-4 first game win over McDonald's. Sue Olson and Kristi Lee were both 4-for-4 in the Musherettes' 9-3 second game victory over Hair Dynamics. Olson homered and had three RBI in the game. Wendy Carriere, Pam Schenkey and Skoglund all went 3-for-4, with Carriere collecting a pair of doubles, while Schenkey and Skoglund both had two RBI.

Ridge Runners also won twice, beating Hair Dynamics 18-3 as Tracey Nelson went 4-for-5 and Marilyn Helgeland was 3-for-4, then adding a 10-2 second game win over Narverud Cleaners.

Debbie Torgerson was a perfect 4-for-4 as Rainbow Nursery out-scored KKAQ-Rusty Nail 17-12.

A home run by Angie Sinn and a triple by Dorene Larson powered VFW past the Thief River Falls Merchants 15-4.

Northwest Medical Center outlasted the Thief River Falls Merchants 20-16 as De Larson hit a grand slam home run to offset the Merchants' attack that included 3-for-4 games from Sandy Comstock, Patty Vaughn, Sharon Baker, Diane Graham, and Becky Sorteberg. Vaughn and Sorteberg homered.

THIEF RIVER FALLS second baseman Casey Johnson was forced to dive for an errant throw from catcher Tom Knoff as Grand Forks' Brad Bakke did a head-first slide into second on a fourth inning stolen base attempt during the first game of Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader at the fairgrounds diamond. Bakke wound up at third on the play as the ball went into the outfield. The two teams split, with Grand Forks winning the opener 14-6, and Thief River Falls taking the nightcap 12-9. Post 117 hosts the Moorhead Blues Saturday in a 12-noon twinbill.

State Park News

Minnesota's prairie ducks will be the topic of the Naturalist Program Saturday, June 20, at Hayes Lake State Park headquarters.

The program starts at 8 p.m., featuring a movie, followed by a discussion on ducks and duck habitat.

Edible wild plants will be the topic of a Naturalist Program at the park Sunday, June 21.

Visitors are invited to join the park officials for a walk beginning at the dam at 1 p.m. to learn about the plants of the park.

Deer Hunters Meet Tonight

Minnesota Deer Hunter's association, Thief River Falls chapter, will hold a meeting tonight in Oakland park 6 p.m.

Noxious Weed Hurts Waterfowl

More ducks, geese and waterfowl in Minnesota's wetlands may be the result of an order recently signed by Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Nichols listing purple loosestrife as a noxious weed in Minnesota.

Over the past five years purple loosestrife has increased significantly in the state. The order adds the plant, Latin name Lythrum Salicaria, to the state's primary noxious weed list.

State departments have been working with a number of citizen groups the past few years to draw up a plan for weed control and present it to the Legislature.

Purple loosestrife is designated a primary noxious weed. All governments and landowners are responsible for its control.

The weed is an aquatic plant found on wet soils to shallow standing water, wet meadows, pasture wetlands, cattail marshes, stream and river banks, lake shores and drainage ditches. The plant crowds out vegetation required by wildlife, while having no value to the wildlife itself.

"It spreads quickly, especially in dry years," said Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture Rollin Dennistoun. "It soon takes over completely and grows so thick that wildlife cannot use the area."

There are several species of the weed; Lythrum Salicaria is the only one affected. As an ornamental plant it grows in many gardens, Dennistoun said. Researchers are able to distinguish between the species, but even so elimination of this species can be quite costly in wetlands, he added.

The plant's magenta flowers are stikingly evident throughout July and August. But this beautiful plant has the potential for doing much damage to state and federal efforts to sustain waterfowl production, Dennistoun said.
